Split 2nd grade creates uproar

by Bert Seaman

Nearly 100 distressed parents descended on the board of education office in Columbiana Monday to complain about the loss of a teacher.

And even though they waited for more than two hours for Superintendent Ellie Glasscox, who was out in the county, they were still fuming when he arrived.

The parents insisted they were being treated unfairly because their children will be in split classes.

Thirteen second graders will be divided between the first and third grade classrooms.

John Keenum, whose twin girls are being separated, related that the twin placed in the first grade room feels that she has been demoted.

"I want you to explain it to her," he told Glasscox.

The superintendent tried to make the angry group understand that the reason second grade teacher Dorothy Cope had been transferred was due to numbers.

"We had hoped the numbers would come up and we could leave the teacher there," Glasscox explained.

Trying to make the point that Shelby wasn't being treated unfairly, Glasscox said, "We're not punishing your children - three other schools are also having split classes."

He named Montevallo, Chelsea, and Helena as the three other schools to lose a teacher.

Some parents thought the problem could be solved by changing the zone lines to increase the student population in the Shelby area.

Another solution suggested was to bus the necessary number of students from Elvin Hill to get enough for a second grade.

Michael Hunt insisted that moving the students would be cheaper than moving the mobile classroom unit from Shelby to Elvin Hill.

By splitting the second grade at Shelby Elementary, 30 children will be in the first grade room - 29 in the third grade room.

Drought means crop loss

"If it doesn't rain soon, the loss in agricultural production in the state could easily exceed $100 million," reports Alabama Farm Bureau Federation President, Goodwin L. Myrick.

Although it has rained in parts of Shelby County since Myrick made that statement last Thursday, Extension Agent Grant Gober says, "It will help some, but it won't do a whole lot of good."

"The drought has been as bad as I've ever seen it," Harpersville cotton farmer Harold McCranie told the Reporter.

Noting that the spotted areas of rainfall that have occurred generally miss his fields, McCranie agrees that any precipitation now won't do much good.

"It's really hurt me," he declared.

Sammy Florey of Vincent, who also raises cotton, agrees that any rain now would come "a little bit too late."

He had expected to make two bales per acre at the beginning of the season. "Now, I'll be lucky to get half a bale," he lamented.

Wayne Blankenship is another county farmer who has suffered crop loss from the drought.

"I've lost half my cotton crop and I've taken an insurance adjustment on my soybeans," the Columbiana farmer said.

He reported that fields planted in soybeans would normally yield approximately 20 bushels, but the adjustment he received was for a yield of 3.8 bushels.

According to Myrick, virtually every agricultural crop has been affected by the hot, dry weather.

Jury reaches verdict of guilty in robbery

A Shelby County Circuit Court jury composed of 11 men and one woman took ten minutes to find Willie Aaron Johnson guilty of robbery 1st degree.

The trial for the 20 year old Florida man was held last week before Judge Robert Armstrong. Sentencing was set for Sept. 19.

Johnson was convicted of robbing the U-Tote-M at the intersection of Caldwell Mill and Valleydale Road in March, 1981.

The prosecution conducted by Assistant District Attorneys Bob McGregor and Jim Fuhrmeister showed that the defendant had let the clerk see a gun tucked in his belt before robbing the store of $74.

A Moody policeman who had stopped Johnson and two companions earlier in the day for suspicious actions, spotted the car again after a witness to a second holdup in Leeds got the license number.

Officers found a motel key in the driver's pocket which led them to an Irondale motel and Johnson.

According to the testimony, he made an oral confession to Shelby County Sheriff's department investigator Sgt. John Pratt that night and signed a written confession the following morning.

Three guilty pleas were taken in circuit court last week in welfare fraud cases. All of those pleading guilty were given 12 month sentences suspended for two years if they repaid the money.

Those pleading guilty were: Alice K. Gibson, to repay $1,859; Billy Wayne Allen, $476; Melma Jane Patterson, $342.

Billy Glenn Edmond was sentenced to three years after pleading guilty to sexual abuse of a child.

Other defendants entering guilty pleas who will be sentenced Sept. 19 are: Robert Manley, violation of the Alabama Uniform Controlled Substances Act; Sam M. Bosacke and Karen Frost, burglary; Timothy Rooks, Peggy Dearman and Grayling Waylon Dearman, VAUCSA.

Suspected robbers nabbed by police

Two Montevallo men and one woman, charged with first degree robbery, were arrested Monday.

Police officers in the arrest began at approximately 8:30 p.m. Monday. One of the men allegedly entered the store and threatened the clerk with a gun. The other man was seen running away from the store.

The store owner, Clinton Edwards, contacted police and the three suspects were arrested.

The three suspects are charged with first degree robbery. They are: Randy Barnett, 27, and Raymond Dean Thomas, 25.

SMC debates tax givebacks

by Marcia M. Sears

Shelby Medical Center's board approved a budget of more than $35 million for the next fiscal year.

The action came at the August 23 meeting of the board. The fiscal year begins on October 1.

Among the items in the budget is a new boiler to replace one of the original heating boilers. "We could get by without it," Administrator Roland Bradford said, but he indicated the engineer advised the replacement.

A hydraulic lift, a jackhammer and bandsaw were included for the maintenance department, which Bradford said would save money on hiring outside contractors.

Board members Tom Lloyd and Herman Moore raised several questions about items in the budget, but voted with the majority in approving it.

The largest part of the meeting was devoted to discussing newspaper reports that the county commission might ask the SMC board to return its tax millage again this year.

Chairman C. E. "Bull" Carter said, "I hate to be notified through the press that they're going to send us a letter asking for the money again." I led the charge before, but I can't do it this time."

Other members expressed similar sentiments.

E. E. "Pete" Raughley commented, "With medicare and medicaid cutbacks, with the new clinics on highway 280 and in Montevallo, and the new ambulance service, I for one want to use any surplus money we have for patients and to serve their medical needs."

Eloise Underwood was in favor of voting on the spot that the money not be returned this year.

The hospital currently receives four mills from ad valorem taxes as backing for bonded indebtedness.

The board decided not to vote on the question until a formal request is made by the commission.

A plan for Shelby Medical Center to provide student health nursing services at the University of Montevallo was also discussed.

Under the proposal, SMC would hire nurses for the UM infirmary, and would use the building. SMC would renovate the building on the inside, and UM would renovate the outside of the building. Offices would be built inside for the private use of a physician.

The proposal will now go to the University of Montevallo trustees for approval.

On another matter, financial vice president, Gene Taylor, stated that the hospital provided close to $3 million last year in indigent care.

Teacher transfer

The allocation from the state is based on a 28-1 pupil teacher ratio, the superintendent reported.

He said that at Elvin Hill, three first grade teachers taught 101 students, making the ratio 34-1.

That number will be reduced by the transfer of Cope to teach a first grade unit.

"Combined classes are nothing new," Elvin Hill Principal Ann Head told the Reporter Tuesday.

She reported that Elvin Hill has had a combined classes for years. Achievement test scores, Head pointed out, show that students in the combined class do as well as those in a regular class.

One of the points made by Shelby parents was the fact that two classes together would be too distracting for any learning to take place.

Admitting that split classes aren't the ideal situation, the superintendent noted however, that the instruction provided by the teacher is the most important factor.

But his arguments didn't sway the half dozen parents he spoke with in his office Monday afternoon.

He didn't persuade anyone at an evening meeting at Shelby School either, that he had made the correct decision.

Parents were adamant in their demand to have their second grade teacher returned.

"We deserve to have one teacher for every grade," Alma Higgins declared. "We pay taxes, but we're being cheated and our children are being cheated."

In his view, Hunt said, there is inequity between Shelby and other elementary schools in the county.

"They're trying to kill Shelby by building something bigger," he noted, adding that it seemed to him that Shelby is the "sacrificial lamb."

Hunt, who pastors the South Columbiana Church of Christ, was elected PTO president for the 1983-84 school year.

Glasscox said he would meet with the three school trustees and Principal Katie Griffith in an effort to come up with a feasible solution to the problem.

Parents also wanted representation at the meeting, since only one trustee has a child at Shelby, but Glasscox refused.

The evening meeting at Shelby School was held so parents who couldn't talk to Glasscox earlier in the day would have a chance to voice their concerns.

The superintendent had been unaware that the group planned to meet with him at 1 p.m. and was attending to school business in the north end of the county at the time.

He met with a few of the parents after his arrival at the board of fice to "lay the groundwork" for meeting with the whole group.

Local money comes through School textbooks aren't free

by Bert Seaman

When their child doesn't have all the necessary school books, some parents wonder why.

Noting that the general public assumes the state provides all of the necessary texts, Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox points out that "In essence, we don't have a free textbook program."

Glasscox made that observation at last Tuesday's board of education meeting after a request from Evan Major for $23,763.75 to purchase new books. Major is director of instructional services.

During the fiscal year which ends in October, the superintendent said the state allotment for books was $120,000.

However, with proration, the Shelby County system ended up with $115,000.

In order to provide even the bare minimum number of books, Glasscox noted that local support is needed.

The superintendent explained that the books needed each year are bought for the lower grades first, going as far as the money allows.

This past year, he reported, state money ran out at the 8th grade level. "We try to catch up," Glasscox told the board, "but we're usually two years behind."

In making the request for the textbooks, Major reported $5,026 would be spent at the elementary level; $6,836.55 on books for middle schools and $11,900 for high school textbooks.

"We tried to come up with the ones that are essential, and put the others on the back burner," the superintendent said.

The books ordered are fill-ins and newly adopted texts.

Major said he believed the order could be delivered within two weeks.

The reason it could not have been placed sooner, Major explained, was to allow the transfer of texts from schools with a surplus to those that came up short.

So it was necessary to wait until school had opened to determine the student enrollment at each school.

a shortage of hay, and notes that farmers are already having to buy it to feed their animals.

The Farm Bureau president says dairymen across the state report that milk production is down 20% because cows won't eat in such hot weather.

The poultry industry has been hard hit too, with broilers dying by the hundreds of thousands due to heat stress.

Jones is also worried about the invasion of insects as a result of the drought.

"The army worms were real bad after the last bad drought we had in 1977," the extension agent noted.

Jones said conditions won't improve until a good rain cools the atmosphere.

Houston County agent Allen Mathews agrees, saying "There's a lot of difference between the effect of 100 degree weather compared to 90 degree weather on crops."

"Being a farmer," Jones remarked, "is the biggest gamble in the world!"

ment. The dispatcher on duty alerted Wilton Police Chief J. O. Page and Montevallo officer Billy Gray.

In less than ten minutes Chief Page spotted the disabled getaway car. When he stopped to investigate, one of the occupants fled into the night. Page arrested the other occupant and with the help of Gray, took him to the Montevallo city jail.

Early on Tuesday, the other participant in the incident turned himself in to Montevallo police.

Shelby County Deputy Sheriff Bill Davenport and Montevallo Police Chief Allen Needham helped to investigate the robbery.

Montevallo organizes new PTO

A new Parent Teacher Organization is underway in Montevallo using the theme, "All Together for our Children" the organizers are launching a membership drive this week.

The PTO will combine the parents and teachers of all three Montevallo schools into one organization, according to Susan Carter.

The first full meeting is scheduled for next Thursday, Sept. 8 at the Middle School, with an open house at 7 p.m.

Panel discussion programs are planned for several of the meetings during the school year.

The executive committee consists of: Sue Wilder, president; Jerri Harris, first vice president; Willie Bolling, 2nd vice president; Betty Carter, recording secretary; Sharon Anderson, corresponding secretary; and Bonnie Alexander, treasurer.

UM theatre seeks actors

Auditions for two upcoming productions by the University of Montevallo lyric theatre have been set for Tuesday, Sept. 6 at 4 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Auditions for "The Tender Land" and "Amahl and the Night Visitors" will be held in the LeBaron Recital Hall in the music building on the UM campus.

Adults of various ages are needed for both productions, and a young boy approximately 10 yrs. old is needed for the "Tender Land" and the part of Amahl may be played by a young boy or girl.

Those auditioning for roles should bring one prepared vocal selection. The "Tender Land" will run Oct. 27 and 28, and "Amahl and the Night Visitors" will play Dec. 3.

For more information call 665-2521, ext. 383.

Roads to get new surfaces

Two highway projects in Shelby County were included in last Friday's bid opening at the state highway department.

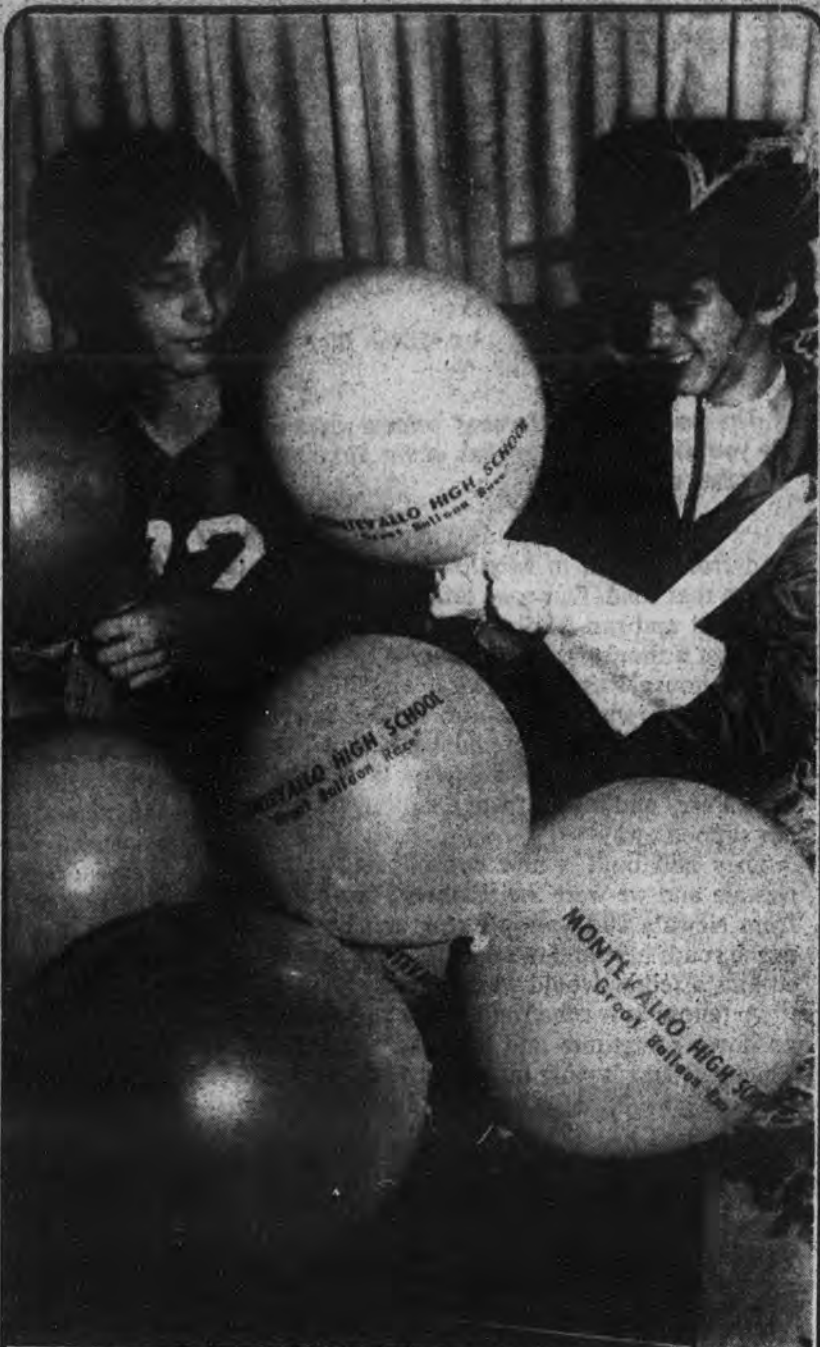

County road 61 will be resurfaced and striped from Alabama highway 145 south of Columbiana to Alabama 25 in Wilsonville. The distance is 2.68 miles and Central Alabama Paving of Calera was the apparent low bidder at $57,137. The work is to be finished in 30 working days.

The other project covers resurfacing and striping on various county roads for a total distance of 21.7 miles.

Butts & Billingsley of Childersburg was low bidder at $343,747. The work is to take 45 days.

NOTICE

All persons interested in matters concerning The Old Rock Springs Community Cemetery in North Chilton County are encouraged to attend a business meeting at Shiloh United Methodist Church, Sunday, September 11 at 3 p.m. Items to be considered are possible incorporation, election of officers, establishment of perpetual care and setting of policies. Every family with loved ones buried in this cemetery should be represented. For more information call 688-0669 or 688-2490.

Up in the air

Bob Peete (l) and John McMillan get ready for the Great Balloon Race in Montevallo by tying tickets to the balloons that will be released at the Bulldogs' homecoming game.

Montevallo HS plans novel fundraiser

by Bert Seaman

The Great Balloon Race will be held on the Montevallo High School football field next month. And participants don't even have to leave the ground.

One dollar is all that's needed to enter. That buys the ticket that will be attached to a helium filled balloon which will be released during the Bulldogs' homecoming game October 21.

Whoever has the ticket on the balloon that goes the greatest distance will get $100. The person who returns the balloon will receive $25.

Proceeds from the project will be used to support the Montevallo band and athletic programs.

Sponsors are hoping that 2,000 balloons will fill the sky when the race gets underway.

Tickets may be purchased at home football games or at the Labor Day event at Orr Park September 5.

For further information, call 665-2714 or 665-7039.

Governor okays funds for UM equipment

Governor George C. Wallace has authorized the payment of $3,500 from revenue sharing funds to the University of Montevallo to be used for purchase of audio equipment.

The funds had been requested by the university and the area's local legislative delegation.

"I am pleased that this money can be released at this time, and I hope it will enable the citizens of this area to meet these special needs," Governor Wallace said in making the announcement.

Sunrise Cove votes

by Fred Guarino

On Tuesday, September 6, the Town of Wilsonville could see its boundaries extended and its population increased.

Residents of Sunrise Cove, off Highway 61 and Old Lokey Ferry Road, will be given the opportunity to vote for or against the annexation of their area.

Although the actual polling site has not been determined, the election is being held largely as the result of efforts by Wilsonville Councilwoman Frances Phelps.

Phelps' involvement goes deeper than the fact her father's old homestead is at the end of Lokey Ferry Road.

"Before I went on the council, there were people in Sunrise Cove who wanted to come into Wilsonville," Phelps explained, "Once I went on the council I started actively pushing it in 1980."

Phelps said that she persisted for several reasons.

"They wanted to be a part of the city because they were a community attached to no one."

"They wanted to come in to reduce their fire rates."

"They also wanted to have a say about things that take place in Wilsonville," she said.

The councilwoman further explained that although volunteer firemen in Wilsonville will respond to fires in Sunrise Cove, the insurance rate for people living outside a municipality is higher than those who live inside one.

But the push struck a barrier one year ago.

A letter from the Wilsonville Town Council to residents of Sunrise Cove, failed to produce a unanimous yes or no response to annexation.

If the answer had been a unanimous yes, the community could have come into Wilsonville without a special election.

But because the response was not unanimous, it was required that an election, approved by the state legislature, be held.

At that point, the Wilsonville Town Council left all efforts toward annexation of Sunrise Cove in Phelps' hands.

Phelps persisted toward that end with State Representatives Don Murphy and Sonny Moore and received approval for the election during the last legislative session.

If the vote should go in favor of annexation, Wilsonville will not only see its population increased, but also its tax base.

"I certainly do feel proud that I have been able to carry through on something the people have requested of me," Phelps said of her efforts toward annexation and the upcoming vote.

Schools struggle to beat heat

How can you beat the heat?

With temperatures hovering near the 100 degree mark when school opened last week, principals in schools without air conditioning have been asking that question.

One way has been to relax the dress code so students can wear shorts.

Fans have also been brought to classrooms without air conditioning to at least stir up a breeze as students try to concentrate on their lessons.

The schools where students and teachers are suffering from the heat were built prior to 1966. Since that time, cooling systems have been included in all school construction.

One of the schools where sweltering conditions exist is Thompson High School. Only isolated areas are air conditioned.

Another school without air conditioning is Shelby Elementary School.

About half of Chelsea School and Shelby County High School is air conditioned.

In the older schools, it has been the PTOs and PTAs that have put the air conditioners in the classrooms, reported Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox.

Explaining why he decided to stick to the regular school schedule rather than dismiss classes early as some systems have done, the superintendent said he believed that would have put a hardship on a number of parents.

And one central staff member observed that if students were at home, they would probably be outside playing anyway.

"There's really not much we can do about the situation but just sweat through it," Glasscox remarked.

In order to cut down on any exertion, the superintendent has had schools cut back on physical education periods.

However, Shelby Principal Katie Griffith reported that one student became overheated during the brief time her class spent outdoors and had to go home.

There have not been any other reports of adverse effects from the heat though.

But students have said they find it difficult to concentrate when classrooms become too hot.

The reason school starts as early as it does, is to finish the first semester before Christmas vacation.

That requires getting in 80 days.

On opening day this year, the enrollment was 11,970, which includes the 140 additional kindergarten students that were able to attend because of the increase in state funding.

The enrollment figure last year was 11,712.

Hospital wants advice on handling tax funds

Should the Shelby Medical Center board turn back some of its tax revenue to the Shelby County Commission again this year?

The question is coming up again as the commission fights to write a balanced budget, and needs more money to make it balance. The commission is caught with many expenditures beyond its control, that have been mandated by the state legislature. The county cannot raise funds on its own.

The hospital board, on the other hand, looks back on the $850,000 it has turned back to the commission in the last two years and thinks the commission should have its house in order by now.

At the heart of the matter is a four-mill ad valorem tax designated for "health" purposes. Legal points on that have been debated by lawyers, and have ended in disagreement. To avoid court action the hospital directors have 'voluntarily' turned back some of the money the last two years, and the commission has used it for health purposes, including mosquito control and the county health department.

Now, another showdown is approaching, and the hospital directors want to know how the people feel about the issue. One of them suggested that the Reporter make an appeal to the public to write letters to the Board of Directors, Shelby Medical Center, P.O. Box 488, Alabaster, AL 35007, and we are glad to do so.

He promised that all letters would be read and answered, and was genuinely interested in finding out how people really want their tax money spent on health in Shelby County.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member of the FDIC.

It's the telephone again: They had paved the road from Calera to Montevallo, but we didn't live on that road. Our road left the main road two miles out and ran its dusty way over many miles and past a thousand houses maybe.

One house was where Mrs. and Mrs. Henry Wood lived, with Launa and Kavanaugh and a prissy little girl named Leila. I boarded there. Wilbur and Lessie Riley boarded there also, and Dora Perry and a lady from Clanton whose name has slipped away.

They had built a new consolidated school at Newala and we were the teachers. The kids came from Newala and Spring Creek and Enon and a dozen roads here and there. Maybe the best behaved kids a fellow would want to know.

A fellow down the road had a radio and we'd go down sometimes and listen to a band out o' Chicago. Or a boxing match or a ball game, that some guy would describe to us the best he knew how.

But we didn't go often. Most of the time we'd sit around a log fire and talk until bedtime. One night I told Mrs. Wood about some chickens I saw on the high coal banks around Colonna. They had on holding-back-strings and were scratching up a storm. Mrs. Wood, a plump jolly lady almost fell out of her chair, laughing fit to kill.

Once in a while she'd make peach pies. We'd take some to school the next day and eat 'em' cold and wash 'em down with well water.

We had a boy's basketball team and a girl's team. Later on, when Clyde Hurt was principal, our girls won the county tournament in Calera. Clyde and I borrowed two derby hats from Mr. P. Baerand paraded up the main street in Clyde's roadster. Somebody threw an egg and hit Clyde on the side of the head. That ended the parade.

But that was 55 years ago. Time enough to leave middle-age and head for old age lickety-split. Or to grow an oak tree to sit under and dream about a yesteryear that hatched a million memories. The school is gone and most of the folks have left with many of them sleeping in graveyards here and there.

Today Leila called. She wondered if I still wrote prissy verses for pretty girls to read. No, Leila, I don't. And I can't remember a one of them now. But if I start over, you'll be one of the first to know.

Fan demand slow despite heat

Even though the county is in the grip of a heat wave, the Department of Pensions and Security has yet to hear from anyone who needs a fan.

"We're amazed," DPS Director Susan Treadwell told the Reporter Tuesday.

Although the department helped one family where they knew the need existed, no one has made a request for a fan.

Treadwell reported that the department had not actually intended giving out fans, but had planned to give eligible individuals the money to buy one.

She explained that money left over from the energy program would be used.

The department received $22,000 to help low income families pay heating bills. There is $1,700 left in that fund.

Trying to figure out why no one seems to need a cooling device, Treadwell reasons that everyone who needed a fan received one in 1980.

During a spell of intense heat that year, she said that police and fire departments had given out fans.

In October, Treadwell reported, the energy program will be taken over by Community Action.

Public Opinions

Pupils heated unnecessarily

Letter to the Editor:

Our children by law must be in school and our criminals by law must be in jail. The criminals of Shelby County are sentenced to a cool, carpeted country club atmosphere while the children of Thompson High School are sentenced to a hot, dilapidated, and unhealthy school facility. For all of my life it has always been hotter the last of August than it is the first of June.

Some where we have turned our priorities completely around. We give our convicted criminals more rights than we do our children, and we are so eager to go on an early vacation in June that we are willing to submit our children to extremely hot unhealthy conditions during the worst of the summer.

We should not be satisfied until all schools in the county (not just a few) are safe, sound, and healthy. We should be willing to postpone that early June vacation and demand that the school term return to a starting date of the first Monday after Labor Day in September, as it was before air conditioning in the more affluent schools. We need a solution now, not 2 years from now. It is a proven fact that heat can and does kill. Let us not wait until our children or our teachers are transferred to Shelby Memorial Hospital. It has been running 95 to 100 degrees in the Thompson classrooms and we are the only high school without any air conditioning.

We shut down for snow and ice, why not for excessive heat? If you agree make yourself heard, don't leave it up to some one else! Start at the bottom and work all the way up to the State Capital—ask for an emergency shutdown, ask for a change in school start time, and ask for more money but be willing to give more yourself — If You Care!

Montevallo stores are small

Letter to the Editor:

It is indeed unfortunate when there seems to be so little communication and understanding between community members who are working toward the common goal of making their town a better place in which to live. Perhaps a better rapport could be established between the "store owners" of Montevallo and the professional community of the University if the following information was made available:

1. The yearly sales volume of most "store owners" in Montevallo exempts them from payment of the minimum wage scale to their employees. Some few are not exempt because of variance in the code unrelated to sales volume.

2. The yearly sales volume of most "store owners" in Montevallo prevents them from becoming more than a "mom and pop," or family type operation.

3. The yearly sales volume of most "store owners" in Montevallo provides them with a very narrow profit margin.

4. The yearly sales volume of most "store owners" in Montevallo does not qualify them to even be classified as a small business by the federal government.

These economic "facts of life" bring about the following situations for Montevallo "store owners" and their employees:

1. Qualified potential employees are not attracted to employment in Montevallo.

2. Store employees may not be covered by unemployment compensation, hospital insurance, retirement plans (other than Social Security), and related benefits.

3. Many new stores have been opened but only a few have survived for any length of time. Most stores that are still in operation are the same ones, or offshoots of those, that were in existence 40 years ago.

4. Small profits provide owners with a minimum standard of living, no paid vacations, little time off, no hospital insurance, no dental riders, no tenure, and no retirement plans except Social Security.

5. Small sales volume and profits prevent store owners from hiring extra employees to extend their business hours.

No "store owner" with normal intelligence would deliberately "terribly inconvenience" their customers and fail to "serve the economic interest of the town." Few, if any, "store owners" would disagree that there is a great need to "broaden, diversify and strengthen the economic base of Montevallo" and fail to fully co-operate with efforts to bring it to realization. They, too, are deeply interested in making Montevallo a better place to live.

Montevallo's "store owners" are permanent residents because they love the town and its people and want to live there, not because of any great economic gain.

Yours sincerely
for a better Montevallo,

Foul weather football irks writer

Letter to the Editor:

I am writing to tell you how upset I was that the football game last Thursday evening at Montevallo High School was allowed to be played. The lightning created an extremely dangerous situation for the football team down on the field and the students and parents in the stands. The danger was obvious before the game started.

Lightning is a killer. OSHA requirements, all corporate safety rules and common sense indicate when lightning is present, you stop whatever you are doing and head for shelter.

I realize this doesn't happen very often, but in the future if it does, I sincerely hope a swift decision will be made to cancel the game.

Scrambled Eggs

by Bert Seaman

Have you ever had a week when you would have accomplished just as much by staying home as you did rushing frantically from place to place?

If such has been your experience, you'll appreciate what happened to me last week.

Let's see now, where shall I begin?

Thankfully, my memory of what all happened is beginning to dim, but I believe my first inkling that all was not well came at a dinner meeting.

When the time came to shoot my subjects, they informed me my flash wasn't going off. That was nice of them, because most of the time people don't bother to mention it.

Remembering my editor's parting words of the day, "Be sure and get fresh batteries," I cringed.

After giving the flash a little longer to warm up, however, it finally came through.

Since the next stop on my schedule was a football game, I knew I had better follow my editor's advice.

Before going into the store though, I saw a policeman friend who told me the game had been called off because of the storm.

Smart folks I thought, so I didn't bother to buy any batteries.

Before turning in my driveway (the game was in the town where I live), I decided to play it safe and drive by the field to be absolutely sure nothing was going on.

To my horror, I found that there was indeed a contest in progress despite the rain and lightning.

What to do? I raced for a nearby convenience store, bought some batteries and hurried back to the field where I tried to balance a short handled umbrella and shoot pictures.

I was afraid the umbrella might have dipped down in front of the lens on some of the shots—but that would have better than what actually happened.

But I'll come to that.

They called the game at the half and I headed happily for home, only to learn the next day that I had to return to the same place again that evening.

With my fresh batteries, I had no warning of disaster until I went to take a picture of an elderly lady late in the afternoon.

The flash would not go off. "Maybe you need new batteries," the helpful people told me.

"Not this time," I said.

Well, I took the batteries out, rearranged them, put them back in, shook the gadget, took them out again and poked at the terminals.

In short, I did everything I could think of and still the thing wouldn't work.

There was nothing to do but ask the folks if they would mind helping this dear soul out to the porch where I wouldn't have to use a flash.

Unfortunately, the porch was narrow and about ten feet off the ground.

As someone held her against the wall, I stood on the edge to get the picture.

As I drove off, I wondered what I was going to do about the game.

And then it came to me like a flash. (Now why did I say that?)

Maybe my problem was in the cord. Anyway, when I took it off, the flash seemed to work fine on the hotshoe.

This was a borrowed camera, and on mine, you need a cord.

I'm not sure that solved the problem though, since I haven't seen the developed pictures.

But I have seen the negatives of the first half of the game and the dinner meeting.

What I saw, tragically, was a near nothing.

I have a feeling that even then, the cord was not completely making the connection.

So all my effort was for naught. And now you see why I say I would have accomplished just as much by staying home.

You might say I was just plain blanked out.

The Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

MONTGOMERY—Over the past few years the Public Service Commission has had more than its share of image problems, most of them caused by employees who were called "confidential assistants." A better job title would have been "political hacks."

There was the young man hired in such a position who sought to make his credentials (or lack of same) more impressive by including in his bio that he had a degree from Auburn. Apparently he figured nobody would check to see if he had a degree. Somebody did. He didn't.

Later there was the publicized trip two "confidential assistants" made to Atlanta to attend some sort of convention. They subsequently filed and collected big expense checks for the trip, including several meals that they didn't eat. One of them even claimed expenses for a night's lodging in a plush hotel even though he was not in Atlanta at the time.

In all of those instances the people involved were gently slapped on the wrist. The reaction from their bosses was something like "Boys will be boys."

Against that background it was a refreshing change of pace to see the hard-nosed posture taken by PSC President Jim Sullivan last week. One of his assistants, David Russell, had done an incredible thing. Russell distributed handbills to delegates attending the Alabama Democratic Conference convention urging them to use a Montgomery limousine service while they were in the city. To make it worse, the handbills included the names of the PSC members. And to make it worse than that, the limousine service—like utilities, railroads and buslines—is regulated by the PSC.

When Sullivan learned of this indiscretion by Russell he gave him two alternatives—resign or be fired. Russell resigned.

Odds and Ends—Macon has become the third Alabama county to legalize greyhound racing and parimutuel betting. By an overwhelming margin, the voters of the county approved the track. The facility will be located on an undetermined site just off I-85, making it easily reachable from the population centers of Montgomery, Auburn, Opelika and Columbus, Ga...Death has claimed Henry Burns, who earned a footnote in Alabama history by being the father of Alabama's only woman governor—the late Lurleen Burns Wallace...The cook who baked Gov. Wallace's birthday cake (he was 64 on Aug. 25) obviously needed a lesson in geography. The cake was supposed to be in the shape of the state of Alabama, but the baker had the Baldwin County peninsula due south of Covington County...Sources close to the Auburn Presidential Search Committee say it will be months before a new president is named. One high-placed Auburnite said the committee and trustees may not reach a final decision until the beginning of the 1984 school year.

Wildcats change to winning ways for '83

by Fred Guarino

"They have scrapped all the way up from the ninth grade. They've been beaten and beaten and they are about to get tired of it..."

Those were the delightedly surprised sideline comments of Don Piazza as Ricky Seale's Shelby County Wildcats demolished Vincent 26-7, Friday night.

Piazza is the head basketball coach for SCHS but his assessment of the situation which stunned happy hometown folk in Columbiana couldn't have been more accurate.

The Wildcats, who won only one game in 1982 and who lost to 4-6 Vincent 16-0, turned the tables with an aerial attack, a powerful ground force and, a determined defense.

But not only did they surprise their loyal supporters and the opposition... they also surprised themselves.

"We are really kicking... ain't we?" asked one Wildcat in excited disbelief.

"This game is going down in history," said another.

Even head man Seale was taken aback.

"We really didn't know how good our bunch would be," he said.

"Our defense played real well. They (Vincent) scored on a kick off return, not on our defense. Our offense had some neat plays," he stated, holding back emotion.

The coach who would not make any pre-season predictions clung tightly, however, to earlier words of caution.

"Our offensive line is much improved over last year but we are still young. Our offense is still making a few mistakes."

But Vincent Coach Harold Garrett held nothing back.

"They had the discipline. Give all the credit where it belongs... They did a better job than we did and they outplayed us," Garrett said.

Shelby County drew first blood in the cross county match when Kenneth Jones hit Gerald Lawson on a 48 yard TD strike.

Jeff Denny was unable to get the point after and with 2:52 left in the first quarter, SCHS led 6-0.

But before SCHS fans could celebrate, Vincent's Yellow Jackets showed a little of their explosive ability.

On the following kickoff, Cedric Riggins ripped all the way down field for a touchdown.

Eddie Reynolds booted the point after with 2:40 remaining in the first period and Vincent led 7-6.

But disaster struck Vincent late in the first half. An attempted quick kick struck a Yellow Jacket in the rear and went out of bounds.

Shelby County took over first and goal at the Vincent five yard line and with second down and goal, Pat Wallace scored.

A two point conversion attempt by Kenneth Jones was good and with 50 seconds left in the half, Shelby County led 14-7.

If Vincent was looking for better treatment in the third quarter, they didn't get it.

One of Seale's neat plays was a halfback pass from Ambrose Wood to Kevin Jones for a 40 yard TD strike. The point after failed, but SCHS led 20-7 with 11:20 remaining in the period.

Vincent was stunned again only moments later. A fumble was recovered by Shelby County on the Yellow Jacket 36 yard line.

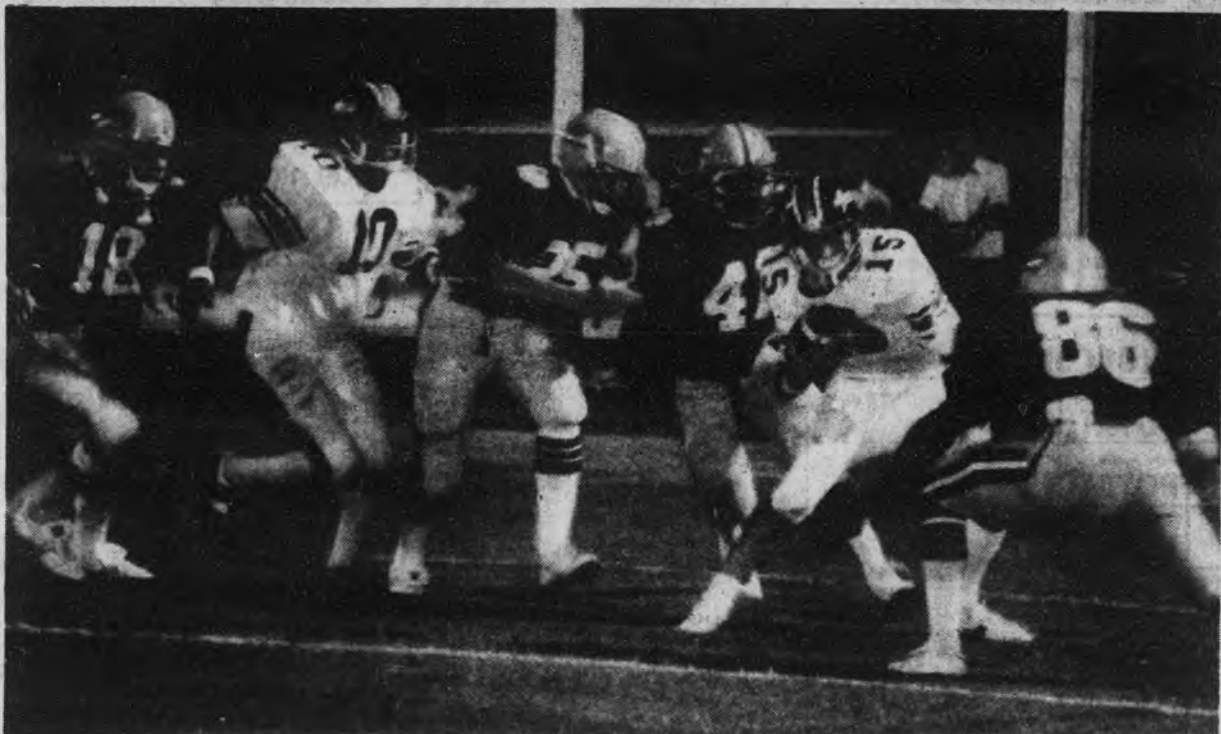

With 7:49 remaining in the third quarter, Kenneth Jones followed Kerry Horton into the endzone for a score.

The point after failed but victory belonged to the now 1-0 Shelby County Wildcats.

The Wildcats will travel to play

Pelham, Thursday night, while Vincent will travel to take on Lincoln in a Friday night encounter.

Pelham pays price for adding game

It was just supposed to be one of those extra games to earn a little money for the football program...

At least that's what Pelham's Billy Tohill had in mind when he added Munford to his schedule as the season opening contest.

But things did not turn out quite right for Pelham. Two important players were lost to injuries in a contest that saw the Panthers go down 27-13 on an enemy field.

"The main thing was just to get through the contest without injury and to be ready for Shelby County," Tohill said.

He indicated that although he wanted to win, a victory by his squad which went 3-7 last season over Munford, which was 8-2, was not the overriding issue.

The injuries put starting tailback Mark Brashier out for at least two or three weeks and weak side linebacker Ronnie Tate out for an indefinite period of time.

That means when the Panthers play Shelby County, fresh from a victory over Vincent, tonight (Thursday), Pelham will have a tough task.

As far as the actual game with Munford went, Pelham did not do too badly. The Panthers put together 284 yards total offense to just 252 yards total offense for Munford.

Pelham was able to hold the ball on its opening drive for eight minutes and to score a touchdown on a pass from Ricky Hayes to Jackie Johnson.

Pelham scored again late in the contest on a six yard run by Gary Howard.

The difference between winning and losing came in Pelham's kicking game and in a Munford runner named Tyrone Dye.

Dye returned a kickoff and a punt for a touchdown.

"We'd get spread out and he would run through us with his speed," Tohill said.

Apart from the injuries suffered, and the lackluster game kicking, Tohill said he was pleased with both his team's offense and defense, and he considered the contest a good showing for his squad.

The Pelham Panthers will be playing at home for the first time against Shelby County tonight(Thursday) at 7:30 p.m.

Unknown

If the Thompson Warriors were an unknown factor among football powers, prior to Friday night (having won a state championship and having graduated four major college signees)... they are a known and powerful factor now. Football takes rest

Due to an extreme heat wave, the Alabama High school Athletic Association will require two-minute longer timeouts between quarters and an official timeout in the middle of each quarter during football games this fall.

According to Executive Director Herman L. "Bubba" Scott the three minutes between the first and second and the third and fourth quarters along with the mid-quarter timeouts will be used for water breaks for all players on the field at the time and for extra rest periods.

"During these timeouts, each team will bring fluid on the field for its players," said Scott. "This will really help the players who are going both ways (offense and defense). This provision will be in effect until temperatures return to a more normal level."

The halftime will take care of itself, he said.

Injuries hurt CVA

If you ask Coosa Valley Academy Coach Breland, there are no excuses for Thursday's 42-0 loss to Edgewood.

"Even though we were inexperienced, Edgewood lined up and physically dominated us. We acted like we were hitting tenth graders instead of a varsity football team," Breland reported.

But a look at the Rebel roster shows that CVA had some obvious strikes against it.

From a roster of 23 players, Jeff Higginbotham and Mike Payne were injured before the season ever got underway.

In Thursday night's action, starting fullback John Limbaugh was lost to a broken leg, starting tailback Bret Strickland hyperventilated and had to leave the game and starter Jeff Martin suffered a hip injury.

Breland would only say that Edgewood, which beat his squad (then under Gary Franks) by 25-0 last season, was not 42 points better in 1983.

Coosa Valley Academy went 3-7 last year. The Rebels will try to get on the winning side of things in 1983 when they take on Chambers away, Friday night.

Game statistics are not available from this contest.

Chelsea's Hornets prove they can win

by Fred Guarino

Opposition football teams don't have the Chelsea Hornets to kick around any more!

Last year the boys from Chelsea broke a mold that cast them as losers by ending a 17 game losing streak.

Under head coach Roger Hibbs, they won three contests and closed the '82 season with a 14-10 upset win over Vincent.

Friday night, under new head coach Gene Hulsey, the Hornets continued to show themselves as winners by beating Billingsley 12-6.

But the season opening win at home was more than an ego booster.

It proved that not only can Chelsea have a victory every now and then but that they have the guts, the desire and the determination to be winners.

You see Chelsea was the only team to lose to Billingsley last year... and the score was 16-6. Friday night, the Hornets trailed that same team 6-0 at the half.

"We had a chance to lay down... down 0-6 at the half and me being a new coach and all... but they (the Chelsea players) sucked it up," Hulsey stated.

He explained that even though his Hornet team made a lot of mistakes, the come from behind showed him that the squad is willing to put forth effort it takes to overcome them.

The willingness to put forth an effort was proved in the third quarter when Chelsea took the opening kick off and drove from its 40 yard line to the Billingsley three.

A three yard pass from Jason Wiggins to Johnny Sands tied the score.

The Hornets took the lead when Mike Gragg scampered 40 yards for a touchdown.

"I think it was real important (the win) for our program," said Hulsey. "I don't feel like, and our kids don't feel like, they executed that well, but we still won and that's the main thing."

According to Hulsey, the Hornets had three more scoring opportunities foiled by fumbles.

Warriors put 'goose egg' on Pell City

by Fred Guarino

If first impressions mean anything, the 1982 3A state champion Thompson Warriors are on the warpath again!

That's right, the team which lost enough all-star talent from last season to logically prohibit another year of greatness, refused to roll over, Friday night.

Instead of leaving the winning to others, the Warriors opened 1983 with an unexpected 27-0 win over Pell City.

It was both an unwanted and ominous show of strength for opposition teams.

In fact, the 1983 Warrior defense did better than its undefeated 1982 counterpart which gave up 20 points to 6-4 Pell City in a 42-20 affair.

"We did have good effort from our kids as a team and as individuals," new head coach Doug Wheeler commented. "It's something that we can build on."

"There is no telling what we can do," he added, giving his opposition more reason for worry.

Realizing that the Warriors of '83 are young (44 sophomores and juniors from a field of 55 players) Wheeler called the first win a good one for confidence building.

"We have a lot of kids who have not played on the offensive and defensive fronts. For them to win... brings it (what they've learned) all together," he explained.

Thompson hit Pell City early when Gordon Kenny hit Scottie

Hawkins for a 13 yard TD strike on the Warriors opening drive.

Randy Littleton booted the PAT good.

A one yard, second quarter punch into the endzone by Max Brown upped the score to 13-0.

Brown proved a touchdown hero again in the fourth quarter when he struck pay dirt from one yard out. Kenny added a two point conversion to put the Warriors ahead 21-0.

Another Thompson runner, Luvelt Bivins drove the final nail in Pell City's coffin when he ran 56 yards for a score. The PAT was no good but the Warriors had notched their first win of '83 27-0. Thompson travels to play Bibb County, Friday night.

Bulldogs break dry spell with Calera

It took five years and two days to do, but Montevallo finally ended a string of gridiron losses to Calera.

In a season opening contest which was forced by bad weather to be played on both Thursday and Friday nights, Montevallo's Bulldogs defeated the Eagles 20-9 at home.

The Eagles had beaten the Bulldogs in four previous contests, the last being in 1982 when 10-3 Calera edged 6-4 Montevallo by a score of 3-0.

Thursday night's rain-soaked game saw Montevallo jump out front early in the second quarter when Calera punter Steve Ellison was tackled in his own endzone by Rick Dobson and Kevin Staffney.

The safety was quickly followed by a Bulldog touchdown.

Montevallo's Ricky Gaddis intercepted a Bobby Spence pass and put the Bulldogs in business at the Calera 27. The short drive was completed moments later when Keith Moore ran seven yards for pay dirt.

A two point conversion failed, but the Bulldogs led 8-0.

Montevallo, however, was not to get away Thursday night without suffering a Calera score.

With rain pelting the field, Calera took the ensuing kickoff and set up shop at its own 28 yard line.

Running back Mike West bolted for 18 yards around left end as time ran out on the second quarter.

But a penalty flag saved the scoring opportunity. As West was being pulled to the ground, a Bulldog defender grabbed his face mask, adding 15 yards to the gain.

Since a quarter cannot end on a penalty play, the Eagles had another shot to earn a touchdown.

With no time remaining in the half, substitute quarterback Mark Jones threw his first varsity pass to Todd Killingsworth.

Killingsworth carried the 39 yard play all the way into the endzone. A two point conversion attempt failed and the score stood Montevallo 8, Calera 6.

With the storm continuing as the night drug on, officials ruled that the contest should be suspended for 23 hours.

Following what had to rank as one of the longest halftimes in history, Richard Gilliam of Montevallo and Danny Alverson of Calera brought their teams to play again, Friday night.

This time, it looked as if Calera might steal the victory.

After a defensive struggle, Steve Ellison booted a 30 yard field goal to put Calera up 9-8 in the third quarter.

But a punt that was allowed to roll too far proved the undoing of the Eagles.

Mike West went back to take a kick from Montevallo and let the ball roll all the way to his own four yard line.

After one first down, the Eagles came up short and punted to the Bulldogs.

The Bulldogs wasted no time in taking advantage of excellent field position and driving 55 yards to score. Jeff Chism capped the drive with a one yard endzone plunge at the third period buzzer.

A two point try failed, but Montevallo led 14-9.

Calera was unable to move against the Bulldogs, who delivered the final blow with 7:39 remaining in the contest.

Keith Moore handling the bulk of the ground attack as he completed a 53 yard Montevallo push with a four yard touchdown run.

Again a two point conversion failed, but Montevallo led 20-9.

Montevallo Coach Richard Gilliam, who lives in Calera and who has children attending school there, had mixed feelings about the Bulldog-Eagle matchup.

"It's no fun in contributing to their demise," he said, "but it's no fun losing to them either."

Calera Coach Danny Alverson, a former pupil of Gilliam when he coached there in the late 60's and early 70's, had not lost to Gilliam since he took over the Eagle helm in 1979.

"We have a lot of pride and the game with Montevallo means a lot," he said after Friday's loss. "I know it's just a game but it still hurts to lose."

While Montevallo's Gilliam heaped praise on his Bulldogs for winning, Calera's Alverson found consolation in the loss.

"We had a lot of guys who were playing their first game and I think they did a super job. I think we learned a lot by playing a team that is as physical and experienced as Montevallo. This will help us down the road," Alverson concluded.

Montevallo faces Briarwood this Friday night at home while Calera hosts Holtville.

Golfers, businesses, pull to help Attention Home

Weather conditions weren't too bad; there was plenty of fun and food; and the children of Shelby Youth Services and Attention Home all benefited.

That is one way to describe the golf tournament played at Invernness Country Club Monday which raised $6,200 for Shelby Youth Services.

A group of 34 golfers paid $60 each to enter the tournament in which tee sponsorships went for $220.

But apart from giving their cash to play for a good cause, Attention Home Director Brenda Lee-Rice reports that everyone was concerned about where the money was going.

She proudly told the contestants that the funds would be used for groceries, to pay utility bills, medical bills, and gasoline costs for service to 300 outreach children (not housed at attention home).

Local golfer Jimbo Martin joined with Ralph H. Parker, Sr. and Robert W. Lloyd to claim first place.

Local boys Sherwood Florence, Hugh Johnson, Bob Bolton and Henry H. Payne took third.

Special guest Charlie Boswell joined with Shelby Countians Buddy Glasgow, Dick Chiles and Ellie Glasscox to take fourth.

And, John Medaris teamed with Charles Martin, Victor Nichol and Tom Davidson to take fifth.

Youth tells on Raiders

A youthful lack of experience told on the Shelby Academy Raiders in their opening football contest for 1983.

Playing on a field 165 miles from home against South Choctaw, Friday, the Raiders who are 50 percent sophomore in nature, came up on the short end of a 21-0 score.

South Choctaw did not manhandle the Raiders. They scored all of their points on just three big plays.

The first touchdown against Kervin's team came on a 56 yard run. The second was the result of a fumbled kickoff return and the third came late in the contest on a 35 yard run.

"Besides those big plays, it was not a bad ballgame," Kervin said. "I feel like as long as we continue to play hard we can get better."

The Raiders were 6-4-1 last season.

According to the coach, the Raiders played hard all night and with that kind of effort, improvements will come with experience gained throughout the season.

Kervin had other reasons to be pleased as well...

But head coach Dewayne Kervin is not crying over this one.

"We made a lot of mistakes, which I knew we would because of our inexperience and youth," Kervin said. "But my main concern was how much effort the kids would put into the game."

According to the coach, the Raiders played hard all night and with that kind of effort, improvements will come with experience gained throughout the season.

News from all around

by Iris F. Smitherman

Congratulations to Greg and Darlene Storey of Wilsonville, who are the parents of a new daughter.

Rebecah Leigh was born August 22 at Brookwood Medical Center and weighed 9 lbs. 9 oz.

Her older sister, Rachel, welcomed her home.

Grandparents are Bob and Marie Hartley of Columbiana, and Howard and June Storey of Wilsonville. Great-grandparents are Mrs. Nannie Niven, Dewey and Alma Bradley, all of Chelsea, Floyd and Willie Ireland of Hoover and Charles and Madoline Storey of Ohatchee.

L.H. and Florence Bradley of Chelsea are the new arrival's great-great grandparents.

Alpha Nu Chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society met August 15 at Elvin Hill Elementary School for a Summerfest Workshop.

With Tommie Harrison, president, presiding the committee reported their plans for the upcoming year. Lamont Franklin gave a resume of the program for the year.

Sixteen members of the Cahaba Valley Friendship Club met recently at Indian Springs First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Cecelia Clement presented special music, and Mrs. Maude Stephenson brought the devotional.

A covered dish lunch followed.

Now that the kids have gone back to school, are you having trouble keeping their lunches from being boring?

Well, if that's so, the Shelby Christian Womens' Club will hold a brunch on September 13 at Riverchase Country Club just for you.

Speaking on ideas for preparing attractive and nutritional brown-bag lunches will be nutritionist student Lisa Bonds.

Jane Vaughn will also be speaking at the event to be held from 9:30-11:30 a.m.

The reservation deadline is September 11. For information call Karen, 663-5127, or Jeanie, 663-0399.

Amy Louise is the name chosen for the newest edition of the Tim and Cindy Ross family of Pea Ridge.

She was born August 18 at Shelby Medical Center and weighed 9 lbs. 7 oz.

Her sisters, Debbie and Rene, welcomed her home.

Grandparents are Roy and Mary Ross, and Betty Smitherman, all of Pea Ridge and Bob Smitherman of Montevallo.

Her great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Barsam, and Myrtle Smitherman, all of Pea Ridge.

Mattie McGuire was honored on her 91st birthday, Sunday, August 21 at Indian Springs Baptist Church.

She was serenaded to the tune of 'Happy Birthday' by the entire congregation. Rev. Kenneth Clement recognized her as the oldest member of the church, having been baptized there in 1913.

A birthday dinner was held in the fellowship hall following church services. Attending the event from her immediate family were 4 sons, 3 daughters, 15 grandchildren, 25 great grandchildren, 3 great-great grandchildren, and many other relatives and friends.

The 11th annual Creamer family reunion was held August 21 at Tannehill State Park... in 102° heat!

Twenty-six family members attended.

Gregory Kyle is the new kid on the block in Alabaster. He was born August 16 at University Hospital and weighed 8 lbs. 4 oz. His parents are Charles A. and Barbara Fox of Alabaster. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Fox of Alabaster, and Mr. and Mrs. Adrain Benton of Maylene.

Kandi Hall celebrated her 10th birthday on August 20 at a Vestavia pizza parlor.

Attending the event were her parents, Rodney and Connie Hall of Wilton, her brother Rod, grandparents Johnnie and Claudus Tidwell, and Crystal Minor.

Her big surprise was the fact that her Uncle Don Tidwell and his two sons, Brandon and Taylor, of Pensacola arrived in time to help her celebrate.

Kenny and Julie Bearden of Montevallo are the parents of a new daughter. Anna Ruth was born August 20 at Shelby Medical Center and weighed 8 lbs. 13 oz.

She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodger Offet of Alabaster, and Mr. and Mrs. Allen J. Bearden of North Shelby.

Beginning clogging lessons will start Sept. 6 at the Recreation Building in Columbiana.

The class will last from 7-8:30 p.m. and will be followed by a club dance.

Both children and adults are welcome and families who participate will get a special rate.

Will and Pat Pate will teach the class.

For more information, call 853-0219.

Dara Smith, formerly of Pelham High School, was recently accepted as a member of the select United States Collegiate Wind Band. The band toured nine European countries during the summer.

Dara now lives in Katy, Texas.

Golf tourney benefits SCHS

The year 1983 is certainly shaping up to be a good one for Shelby County High School both physically and financially.

The Wildcats opened this year's football action with a 26-7 win over Vincent at home, Friday night.

In addition, the Fourth Annual Ross Mullins Golf Tournament, held at Buxahatchee Country Club, raised $2,200 for the school's athletic program.

Helping to raise the money while proving themselves on the golf course were:

First Flight A

David Minshew, first; J. W. McQueen, second; Mike Barashes, third; Jim Threat, fourth; and Hank Spires, fifth.

First Flight B

Milton White, first; Bill Davenport, second; Buddy Morrison, third; Don Bulger, fourth; and William Rasco, fifth.

Second Flight

Bob Bolton, first; B. Bardner, second; B. B. White, third;

Charles Tidwell, fourth and Oliver Head, fifth.

Third Flight

Mike Dodds, took first place; Don Piazza, claimed second; Russell Rasco, third; C. Dean, fourth; and Preston Hughes, fifth.

Fourth Flight

Jesse Horton, first; Sonny Davenport, second; Bruce Barnett, third; Reid Long, fourth; and Stan Ennis, fifth.

Fifth Flight

Buddy Glasgow took first place in the fifth flight from Carol Alston; Oliver Miltstead grabbed third; Kermit Roberson took fourth and Buck Clark claimed fifth.

Sixth Flight

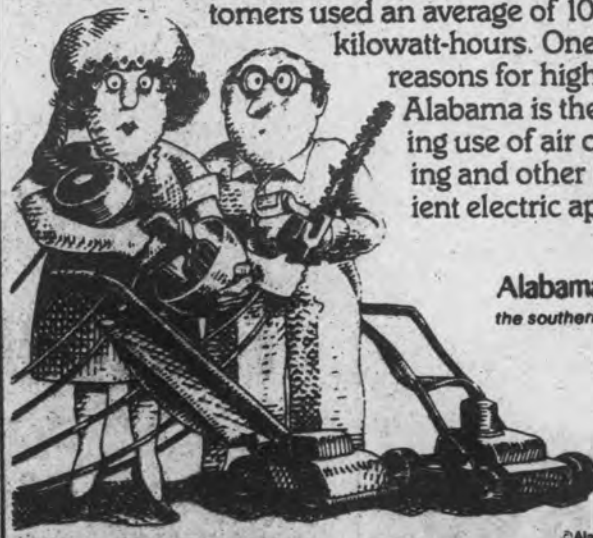

Wally Watson was the winner of the final flight and was followed by Dean Winterbottom, John Abbott, Terry Smith and L. C. Franks for honors.

The longest drive and at least one of the closest to the pin honors went to Buddy Glasgow while Rickey Seale and Stan Ennis also proved they could hit the green as well.

DID YOU KNOW?

Our residential customers use more electricity than the national average: 21% more.

In 1982 the average residence in the U.S. used 8,492 kilowatt-hours. But Alabama Power customers used an average of 10,446 kilowatt-hours. One of the reasons for higher use in Alabama is the increasing use of air conditioning and other convenient electric appliances.

County school board has new plan to avoid appointment snafus

In the last few years, school trustees have turned down three people selected by the Board of Education's Central Staff to fill administrative positions.

Now the board hopes it has come up with a solution to that problem.

At last week's board of education meeting, the board voted to join the Secondary School Assessment Center.

Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox explained that the center would serve as a tool to analyze prospective candidates. He said it would also enable the board to make a more objective evaluation.

Answering Dr. Bill Fancher's

question about the trustees rejection of candidates chosen by the board, the superintendent said, "Hopefully this will be another means to convince them we're basing our decision on sound judgment."

The cost of participation in the program depends on the number of assessors trained and the number of candidates who are put through it.

Glasscox said the maximum cost would be no more than $1,000-$1,200. The commitment would be for three years.

Assessors would be the first ones to go through the training. The superintendent reported that in all probability, three principals and three members of the central staff will get that assignment.

After that, the eight assistant principals in the county school system will be put through the center for evaluation.

Glasscox made it clear however, that the assessment is not going to be the sole basis for employing an administrator.

What the center does, he explained, is to show a person's strengths and areas where improvement is needed.

The center, which is located in Birmingham, is a consortium made up of schools in Jefferson County, Midfield, Guntersville, Pell City and several other school systems.

Warrior on the run

Kiwanis names annual scholarship winners

For 34 years, the Columbiana Kiwanis Club has been providing scholarships for Shelby County students.

The club derives its funds for the project from the Shelby County Fair which it sponsors each year in September.

Read the Shelby County Fair Catalog in this week's issue of the Shelby County Reporter.

Plan to attend the Fair!

Scholarship winners for 1983 joined the Kiwanians at their dinner meeting Thursday evening to be recognized and hear from Amy Barnes, President of the Circle K Club at the University of Montevallo.

Seven students from each of the county's high schools are selected for the annual scholarships by the University, which adds 50% to the Kiwanis awards.

This year's recipients are: Penelope Todd, Calera; Tim Rich, Chelsea; Terri Johnson, Montevallo; Jan Moody, Pelham; Patricia Jones, Columbiana; Beth Stall, Thompson; Angela Rounds, Vincent.

The scholarships will cover the cost of tuition and related expenses during their freshman year.

Learn a new skill...

Adult education classes will be offered at the Shelby County Area Vocational Center in Columbiana in the following areas: Welding, Graphic Arts, Beginning Typewriting, Intermediate Typewriting, Beginning Accounting, and Introduction to Micro-Computers and Word Processing.

Registration will be held Tuesday, September 6, and Thursday, September 8, from 6-8 p.m. Classes will begin Tuesday, September 13 and end Tuesday, November 22. A minimum enrollment per class is 15 students with a fee of $40. For more information call 669-6796.

William Fitts, Sr., pastor of the Emanuel Holiness Church in Alabaster, stopped by to see Dilcy Daniels last Friday and wish her a happy 93rd birthday. Sunday was proclaimed Dilcy Daniel's Day at the church she founded 36 years ago.

Church honors Dilcy Daniels

Dilcy Daniels doesn't get around quite as fast as she once did. However age hasn't prevented the 93 year old woman from attending the Alabaster church she founded.

Daniels' birthday was Friday. And to show their appreciation for the years of faithful service she has rendered to the Emanuel Holiness Church, members designated Sunday as Dilcy Daniels' Day.

Special guests on the program included Alabaster Mayor H.A. "Doc" Rubin.

"She's still very faithful in coming to church," pastor William Fitts Sr. told the Reporter. "Sometimes she even attends both services on Sunday," he added.

Daniels, who moved to Alabaster with her husband when their only child was a baby, founded the church in 1947.

She said that the first member saved was her husband David.

Both he and their daughter are now deceased.

The membership of the church has grown from six to 150.

Over the years, Daniels has worked in, and been head of, the Missionary Department and has served as treasurer of the Sunday School.

Even though she's in her nineties now, she still doesn't wear glasses and her hearing is good.

Asked what she likes to read, Daniels' immediate reply was, "the Bible."

Annual Montevallo Trade Day moves from spring to new date in October Montevallo's Central Garden Club is moving the annual Arts and Crafts Show and Trade Day from April to October.

The fall event will be held Saturday, October 8 on Montevallo's Main Street. On the same day, Montevallo's volunteer fire department is having its 'Fire Prevention Week' parade and the Chamber of Commerce has scheduled 'Welcome Back, University of Montevallo'

Day. The day is being called 'Montevallo Mania'.

Christmas decorations will be featured by many visiting and local craftsmen. Ideas for Christmas gifts will include pottery, ceramics, needlework, jewelry, and wooden items. Flea Market booths are also expected along with many other crafts.

According to Joan Pickett, co-chairman of Trade Day, the reason for moving Trade Day to October include better weather and the increased number of people in town. As many as 2,000 are expected in town during the day.

Central Garden Club uses the profits from the event in a variety of ways to benefit Montevallo. Besides hosting the open house for the new Parnell Library, the club also made a donation to the library.

Another donation was made to the Montevallo schools' computer fund. Magazine subscriptions were given to the three public schools, too. Susan Hardin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noland Hardin and a senior this year at Montevallo High School, was sponsored to Girls' State for a week in June.

Profits from the October show will be used, to help the local schools.

For information about Trade Day, call 665-7292 or 665-2964.

$1,000 Inverness mystery solved

The $1,000 Inverness Elementary School received from the Governor's Discretionary Funds last week was somewhat of a mystery.

When the Reporter asked Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox about a press release announcing the funding, he said he was not aware the board had requested funds from that source.

Inverness Principal Elizabeth Smith was also in the dark about who had asked for the money.

After several phone calls, the superintendent finally learned that the request had been made by Representative Don Murphy.

In the press release, from Governor George Wallace, he says, "I am pleased that this money can be released at this time, and I hope it will enable the citizens of this area to meet these special needs."

The "special needs," to which the governor refers are items any new school might need.

Smith says she has a three page typed list of items she needs.

However, the priority need is meeting the operational costs of the school, Smith told the Reporter.

That includes telephone and water bills, but the principal's main concern is the monthly sewer assessment charge.

The charge had been estimated at $348. With the increased enrollment however, the cost will be higher.

Opening day figures were 437 and by week's end the number had gone up to 440.

WELCOME THE COUNTY COURTHOUSE EXTENSION OFFICE TO PELHAM

Our sincerest congratulations go out to Commissioner John Ames and all the county commissioners who worked so hard to make the extension office a reality.

This office has been a long-time political promise to the people of North Shelby County and we applaud the commissioners who pursued this issue until it was resolved. Commissioner John Ames is to be commended for his diligent efforts serving the people he represents and awarding them with the county extension office. He is a sincere and dedicated public servant who did not shelve the project after the elections past. North Shelby County is fortunate to have a strong voice in county affairs through Commissioner Ames.

WEST FIRST AMERICAN BANK would like to take this opportunity to thank the many people who expressed their support and appreciation for when we moved the extension office space, building and remodeling of our building to the county commission for use as the extension office for the county. We feel that having so we played a role in making the extension office a reality and service to the people of the county, which was our foremost intention.

FIRST AMERICAN BANK pledges our future assistance to the county commission and the citizens of Shelby County. We have striven to make the extension office a reality and remain committed to the political promise.

Blood drive planned at shopping center

"This is going to be a great help... a shopping center during the Labor Day weekend when people are out shopping. That's what we had in mind."

That was the excited response Emily Rabren of the Shelby County Red Cross Chapter in Alabaster gave to the news of a K mart/Pelham blood drive, Friday.

The K mart bloodmobile drive, which will be held from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m., will coincide with a drive at the Alabaster Chapter House from noon to 6 p.m.

Blood collected will be used to help surgical and emergency personnel be prepared for the Labor Day holiday demand.

For K mart, their second blood drive this year was to be held in October. But when blood supplies recently fell short, store manager H. F. Kirk, decided that it was time to act.

"I'm trying to alert the public (about the need for blood during holidays) and to make it (giving) more convenient..." Kirk said.

"A lot of times people won't give because it is inconvenient," he added.

"This is something we needed real bad," Pepper Ezzelle, a Red Cross recruiter told the Reporter of the K mart effort.

Ezelle said that while the critical shortage has passed, blood supplies are now only at the minimum level.

"We are trying to stay ahead and don't want to get caught in a critical situation again," Ezelle added.

In addition to sponsoring blood drives, the Shelby County Red Cross Chapter is still participating in the emergency food and shelter program.

People who are unemployed with no income may be eligible for one monthly rent payment or one mortgage payment. They may also be eligible for an emergency food order.

According to Rabren money for this program runs out in September and the Red Cross wants to use every penny of it.

She stated that persons who are not in an emergency situation may be referred to the Riverchase Church of Christ or the United Methodist Church at Camp Branch for assistance.

Wow

When Auburn University sets out to improve the way things grow, it really improves them. J. D. (Red) Kennington of Wilsonville can attest to that. Cantaloupes normally weigh between two and five pounds. With seed from Auburn, Kennington raised one that weighs 16 3/4 lbs. How do they taste? "Real good," says Kennington.

UM signs six to Lady Falcons

The University of Montevallo has signed six players to Bud Childers' Lady Falcons basketball squad. Four of the coeds played for Childers last year before he transferred to UM from powerhouse Cumberland Junior College in Lebanon, Tennessee...

•Former Macon Academy MVP Pam Johnson averaged 28.5 points and a dozen rebounds as a senior guard. Childers says the 5'11" Union Springs signee will be an asset as an outside jumper.

•Childers says 5'5" Judy Perkins, a transfer from Cumberland, will run the offense. She helped lead Cumberland to 33-4 record, last year, and hails from Scottsville, Ky.

•Forward Karen Scott averaged 13.3 points and eight rebounds last year at Cumberland. The Chattanooga native is 5'9" but Childers says she plays above her head.

•Six-footer Sharon Douglas, also from Chattanooga, rounds out the transfers from Cumberland (who probably won't have much left for next year). As sophomore forward, she averaged 13 points and eight rebounds.

•Junior guard Mae Francis White will bring a lot of experience to the Lady Falcons, and "is the type of player who can take over a game," Childers says.

Thank You...

When you see all the cars at our drive in windows and see our customers going and coming to and from the bank, you know people have been using our facilities fully: in fact we are now in the process of expanding them at our main office so that we can serve you better.

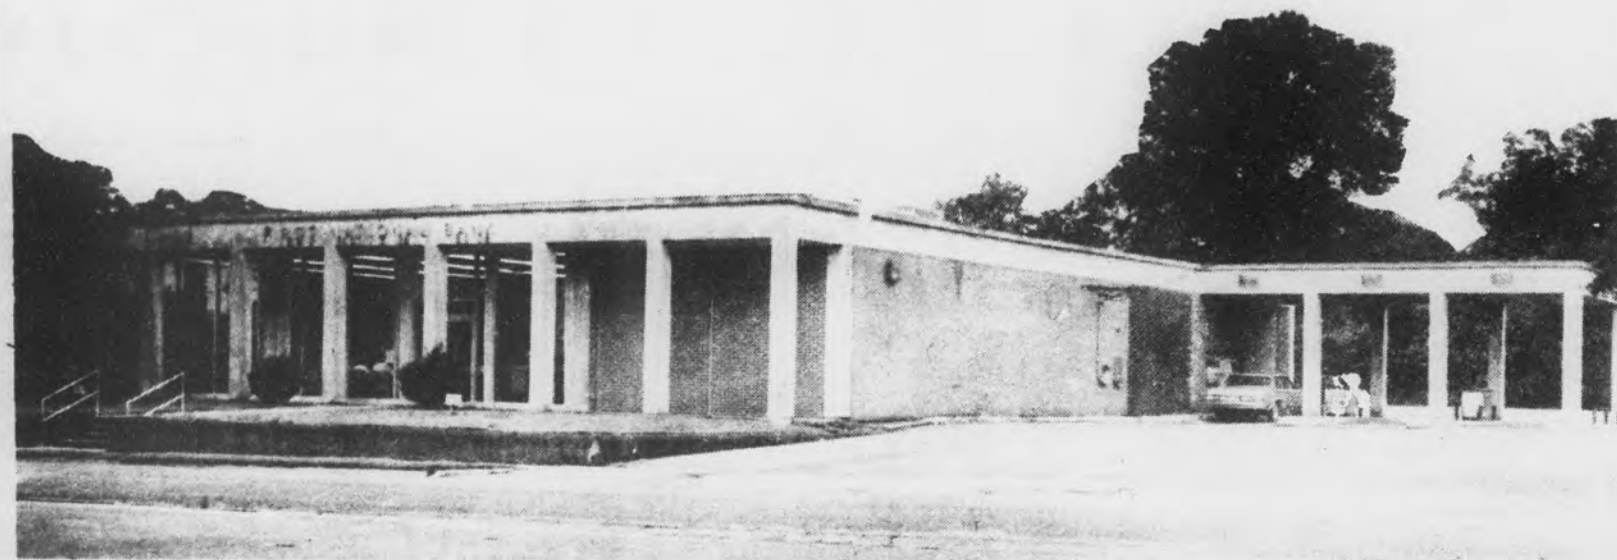

We recently installed new and additional drive in systems to help you transact your business more efficiently.

In the very near future we expect to make announcements of additions to better serve the people of North Shelby County.

Thank you for bearing with us during this construction.

IS QUALITY
THE SAME?

Absolutely! Every pharmacist is required by law to fill a prescription exactly as specified by the doctor. There can be no substitution of ingredients.

IS THE PHARMACIST
QUALIFIED?

Absolutely! Every pharmacist is now required by law to undergo 5 years of college and then pass exacting state exams, before he is permitted to fill your prescriptions.

THEN WHY DO PRICES VARY?

For the same reason they do in all business! Store policy, cost of overhead, volume purchasing.

We work hard at keeping prices down for you. In fact, our average prescription price is substantially lower than you'll find anywhere else around. That's true whether you compare our prices with discount store prices or with special senior citizen discount prices.

And our computer remembers every prescription we fill. That's a big help when you need facts for tax and insurance records.

We try to keep up with your needs.

KIWANIS CLUB OF COLUMBIANA SCHOLARSHIPS

ONE SCHOLARSHIP TO EACH PUBLIC HIGH SCHOOL IN SHELBY COUNTY

SUMMARY OF PROGRAM

Beginning with the 1975-76 school year, the Kiwanis Club of Columbiana scholarship program was expanded to even better accomplish its purpose of keeping outstanding Shelby County high school graduates in Shelby County. The new scholarship program consisted of awarding annually to a graduate from each public high school in Shelby County (then 6 in number) a full tuition and fees scholarship for the first two semesters at the University of Montevallo. These scholarships, known as the Kiwanis Club of Columbiana Scholarships, are awarded solely on the basis of merit and selection of the winner from each high school is made by the Principal of that school and the University's Scholarship Committee. The Kiwanis Club of Columbiana, Inc., sponsors these scholarships jointly with the University of Montevallo on a 2/3 to 1/3 basis. The funds for the Kiwanis Club's share comes from the profits of the annual Shelby County Fair presented by the Kiwanis Club through the Shelby County Fair Association, Inc., as a member of the Alabama Association of Fairs. Beginning with the 1980-81 school year, the Kiwanis Club of Columbiana Scholarship program was fixed at a total of $4,200.00 on this same 2/3 to 1/3 basis, with the Kiwanis Club's share being $2,800.00. This funding substantially covers all tuition and fees for the Freshman year at the University for the winning graduate from each of the 7 public high schools in Shelby County. For more information concerning these scholarships, please contact your local high school Principal, the University of Montevallo or the Kiwanis Club of Columbiana.

The Kiwanis Club of Columbiana is proud to sponsor such a worthwhile and meaningful project for the benefit of all of Shelby County. The youth of Shelby County are its most valuable resource.

FAIR DAYS

Exhibits and Premium List for 1983 SHELBY COUNTY FAIR

All entries for all Classes in the 1983 Shelby County Fair should be brought to the Recreation Building (Exhibit Building) in Columbiana on Saturday, September 10 from 10:00 A.M. to 4:00 P.M. or on Sunday, September 11 from 2:00 P.M. to 5:00 P.M. From September 6 through 9 Exhibitors may pick up from the County Extension Office at the Shelby County Courthouse to the Exhibitor Entry Form and Tags. This will allow the Exhibitors to complete the paperwork for their exhibits prior to arriving at the Exhibit Building for registration. No Exhibitor can have more than 1 entry on any Class. Only a First, Second and Third place ribbon will be awarded by the Judges in each Class. No exhibit that was awarded a ribbon in any prior Shelby County Fair will be eligible to again win any place. For more details, see separate page 18 under heading information and Rules for Exhibits and Exhibitors.

Dear Kiwanians:

The Shelby County School System is indeed fortunate to have a group of men such as you dedicated to service for young people and committed to excellence in education.

Although a newcomer to the office of school superintendent, I am well aware of your efforts in promoting education. I have observed for many years your Columbia club presenting each year to a senior student from each high school in the county a one year scholarship to the University of Montevallo. Your dollars have been invested wisely in young people and in Shelby County. The investment produces tremendous dividends. As we look around, we find recipients of your scholarships well established in professional and technical positions throughout the county. You are to be commended for the encouragement given to these young people.

As the date for your Annual County Fair approaches, it is my pleasure to express the gratitude of this Board of Education to your organization for all the hard work you experience in making it the successful and enjoyable event that it has always been for the entire county. You may be assured of our full cooperation.

Sincerely yours,
Ellie B. Glascock

Band plays on

The Chelsea Hornets found things not much to their liking last Friday as West Blocton whipped them 41-12 before a home crowd. But the disastrous game results did not stop the Hornet band from having a good time. So while the team was going down, the band played on. For all the football results, see Reporter Sports on pages 6-8. (Photo by Bert Seaman)

Budget hearings start; five deputies sought

by Fred Guarino

If Tuesday morning's hearings were any indication, Shelby County Commissioners could be in a for a rough time preparing a new budget.

County engineer Gary Ray let his shoulders hang when he told the Reporter that he asked for an increase of over $263,000 in his department.

Moments later Sheriff Buddy Glasgow called his requested increase of over $224,000 for his department and the jail "not much difference" from last year.

The two men and their nearly half million dollar wishes were among the first heard by commissioners as they tried to get an idea of how to budget each department for next fiscal year.

Last year the commission approved a total of $1,825,061.56 for both the sheriff's department and the county jail.

The amount included $1,048,718.42 for the sheriff's department, $646,343.14 for the jail, and an additional $130,000 for the state-mandated deputy pay increase.

This year the sheriff is asking for $1,458,522 for the department and $580,560 for the jail. That amounts to $2,049,082.

He wants five additional deputies, two more correctional officers, six more vehicles, four light bars, four protective shields with rollbars, and two radios.

Costs at the jail will be down, because the state has removed most of its prisoners, he said. The county engineer's increased request takes into account $105,000 for upgrading equipment, a $10,600 in matching money for federal funds, $10,000 maintenance for steel structures, $55,000 for herbicides and herbicide equipment, increases in insurance, and $20,000 for the hiring of a county engineer trainee.

Ray pointed out that half of the trainee's pay would be covered by the state while the county would receive the benefit of all his services.

Ray only requested an increase of $9.03 for the solid waste department budget.

During the long course of the morning, other department heads streamed through the courthouse, presenting budget requests.

As budgets were heard, County Commissioner John Ames stated that he was opposed to any new bond issues, while Commissioners Harold Davenport, Leon Archer and Jake Morris let it be known that all school requests should come through the county board of education.

Sunrise joins Wilsonville but Columbiana annexation fails

From Staff Reports

Wilsonville's neighbors voted 'yes.' Columbiana's neighbors voted 'no'.

That's the outcome of two separate annexation elections that took place Tuesday in the eastern part of Shelby County.

In what several people found to be a surprise outcome, Columbiana's proposed annexation of some 20 square miles was defeated by a margin of 85-11.

The area includes some 700 people, and had the vote passed, it would have made Columbiana the largest municipality in the county, though Alabaster would have remained the most populous.

"I guess there just wasn't much interest in it," election official Basil Smith told the Reporter after the votes had been counted around 8 p.m. "Several folks said they didn't even know about it until last night."

The Columbiana area votes were taken at the Wallace Camble Community Center near Shelby from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.

Representatives of all 25 families in Sunrise Cove subdivision — now part of Wilsonville — turned out to vote at the residence of Mrs. William R. Smith. The annexation passed by a 23-2 majority.

Mrs. Patrick told the Reporter that the polls were actually closed 15 minutes early because everyone had voted.

"We're officially in Wilsonville and looking forward to it," Mrs. Patrick said, voicing the opinion of most of the subdivision residents. "The majority rules."

According to Wilsonville councilwoman Frances Phelps, the annexation is the result of over a year and a half of work.

Originally, the city sent a letter to the subdivision residents about coming inside the limits, but since there was some opposition the vote was required.

The subdivision stretches from the former city limits, southward to Old Lokey Ferry Road.

Night fire burns Pelham business

A Monday night fire at Pelham's ESP Mobile Home Sales resulted in heavy damages.

Pelham Fire Chief Bill Bryars said his department received a call from Alabaster police at 10:14 p.m., and when Pelham's engines arrived at the U.S. 31 location "there was a lot of fire showing."

Bryars said it took his men approximately 15 minutes to get the fire under control.

The fire appears to have started at the back of the building in what was apparently storage space, said Bryars.

The back room and an adjoining office were the most heavily damaged due to the flames, he said.

"There was a lot of heat and smoke throughout the building," Bryars added, which caused damage to the entire facility.

Bryars reported that there were no injuries.

The damage estimates and exact cause of the fire are still being investigated.

Alabaster bank moves on Pelham; Harrison plans for Valleydale

Two long-established Shelby County banks announced their intention to establish new branches this week.

The First National Bank of Columbiana is seeking approval from the comptroller of the currency to build a branch bank at the Valleydale Shopping Center near the intersection of County 17 and Caldwell Mill Road. (County 29)

The First Bank of Alabaster announces it will open a branch next to the post office in Pelham by the first of November.

The Alabaster bank, which affiliated with SouthTrust Corporation on August 1, has had a branch at the intersection of US Hwy 31 and Cahaba Valley Road (Alabama 119) for many years.

The First National Bank of Columbiana has branches in Wilsonville, Riverchase, and Inverness.

J. E. "Ned" Bearden, chairman and president of the First Bank of Alabaster, said the branch will be housed in a temporary facility while a permanent structure is being built. He added it will offer several banking services to the people of Pelham and Helena.

"In addition to our regular paying and receiving services, the branch's staff will include personnel to open new accounts and take loan applications. There will also be a night depository and a drive-up window," he said.

Bearden said the new branch is needed to serve the growing Pelham-Helena area, which has a projected population growth of 29 percent in the next five years.

Jim King seeks House seat

Pelham accountant James L. King has officially announced that he is seeking the Democratic appointment for the House of Representatives from District 40.

If King receives the October 1 appointment by the State Democratic Executive Committee, he will run for the seat in the November general election against Republican Al Knight.

King lives on Indian Lake Drive in Helena with his wife, and they have five children ages nine to 21.

A Shelby County native, King graduated from Thompson High in 1952 and received a bachelor of science in business administration from the University of Montevallo in 1960. Between high school and college he served in a financial department for the US Navy.

From 1961-1979 he worked for the US Treasury Department before going into public accounting in Pelham in 1979.

King is the current chairman of the Shelby County Democratic Executive Committee.

He said the thrust of his campaign will center on the needs for direct lines of communication between locally elected officials, citizens, and the capitol in Montgomery.

"Often you have a half-dozen people in Montgomery trying to do the same thing," King said. "We need stronger correlation between citizens and elected officials, and the state representa-

Dropouts face problems; county had 188

by Carolyn Smiley

In the ninth grade, Lynn Blankenship decided he'd had enough reading, writing, and arithmetic. He quit school.

"I didn't think there was any need in me being there," Blankenship says. "I found out later I was wrong."

Although he now regrets his decision, Blankenship says he was determined to get out of school. "I wasn't going to go, it didn't matter what anybody said or did," he says.

"But I definitely made the wrong decision," he adds. "I've missed a couple of pretty good jobs because I didn't finish high school."

As a high school dropout, Blankenship isn't alone in Shelby County.

According to figures from the Shelby County Board of Education, 188 students dropped out of county middle and high schools during the 1982-83 school year.

Of the 3,050 students enrolled in the seventh through the ninth grade, 2.3% dropped out; 5.2% of the county's 10th, 11th and 12th graders did not complete the last school year.

That's a total of 3.3% for the entire school system.

These figures represent students who withdrew from school and made no requests for transfer of records. The figures do not include students who completed the year, then did not return to school the following year.

According to Patricia Bulger, Coordinator of Pupil Personnel Services in Shelby County, most students who drop out are having academic difficulties.

One reason for middle school drop-outs, Bulger told the Reporter, is that students generally have to be in the 10th grade before they qualify to enter vocational school.

"Once we can get them into the vocational program and the student can see some purpose in the education, we can usually keep them," she says.

"Many of these students feel they're not learning anything that is applicable to wage earning skills (while they're in school)," Bulger adds.

Two important factors in keeping students from quitting school are the job opportunities available, and getting into the armed forces.

Due to the recent high unemployment and the new age requirements for getting into the service, Bulger says drop out rates in this county seem to be decreasing. (No figures, however, are available.)

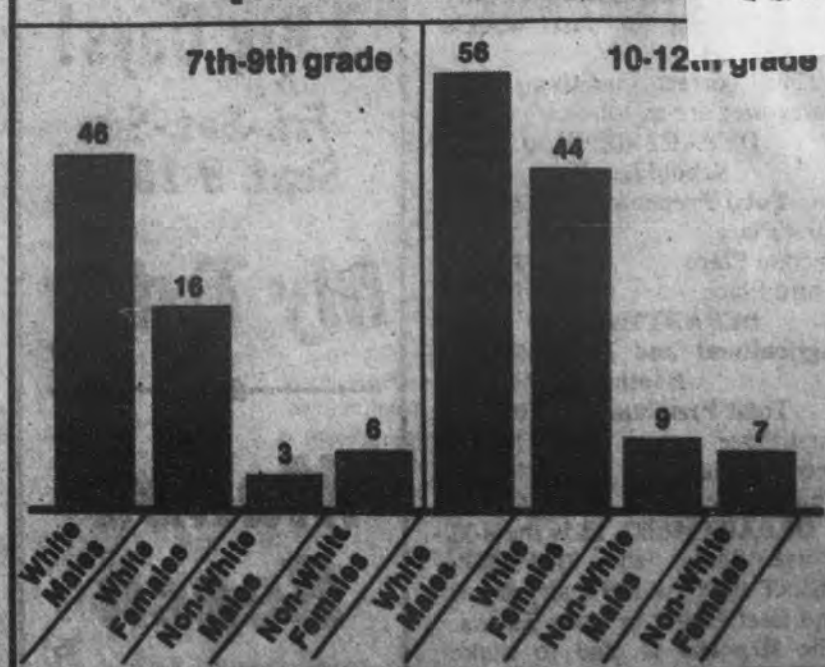

On the state level Alabama's graduation rate has decreased slightly over the last five years, according to the National Center for Education Statistics.

In 1976, 68.3% of the 19th graders (tallied three years earlier) graduated from high school.

In 1981, however, the graduation rate had dropped to 67.1%. Nationally the figures are similar. The national graduation rates dropped from 75.1% in 1976, to only 72.1% in 1981.

The main factor given for this decline is that more students are dropping out and taking tests that give them credentials equivalent to high school diplomas.

Zoning proponent

Louise Glenn loves her home and her community in Beat 13. She knows that growth is inevitable there, and says it's better to have that growth controlled rather than uncontrolled. That's why she is leading a drive for zoning in Beat 13.

Sears sells WBYE to Birmingham man

Shelby County's first radio station has changed ownership.

Announcement of the sale of WBYE was made jointly by former owner Ralph Sears and B.M. "Bill" Murchison. The change took place September 1.

Murchison, the new owner, is a veteran of 25 years in the broadcast business.

A native of Birmingham, Murchison attended Woodlawn High School and holds the bachelor of science degree in business administration from Auburn University. He began his broadcasting career while still a student.

He has been affiliated with radio stations in Jackson, Columbus and Canton, Mississippi and stations in Fairhope, Bay Minette, Mobile and Marion, Alabama. He also served as regional sales manager for WALA-TV in Mobile.

He founded the Murchison Advertising Agency in Pensacola, Florida and operated the firm for ten years.

Murchison, a U.S. Air Force Veteran, served in Korea. He is a Mason, a former Kiwanian and a member of the Christian Church. At Auburn he was a member of Phi Kappa Tau.

He is the father of five children. His oldest daughter, Belinda is a medical student at the University of Alabama. He has two children who are students at Auburn and two who are high school students.

"I endeavor to make WBYE one of the finest stations in Alabama," Murchison said of his recent acquisition. "We'll devote more time to local and state news, including additional farm programs."

There will be no changes in the station's music format, he said.

WBYE went on the air January 15, 1958. The station was purchased by Sears, Marion Jones and Ed Ewing on January 15, 1959.

Sears bought out Jones and Ewing a year later and remained the sole owner until last week.

Jones, the station's original general manager and chief engineer, remains with the station in those capacities.

Cahaba Beach woman pushes for zoning

by Marcia M. Sears

When Louise Glenn takes on a project, she doesn't do it halfway. Last spring she was so surprised and disappointed when zoning was turned down by the voters of Beat 13, she decided to do something about it.

She organized a community get-together and started a door-to-door canvass of the residents of the beat to find out why the vote went 56 to 35 against zoning.

What she found was that many residents of the beat were not registered voters. She also found that more tenants than property owners live there, and many of them did not know what the zoning issue was all about.

She and her committee -- which consists of Dot and Victor Marden, Dot and Reid Hosey, and Braxton Taylor -- talked with everyone they could find, explaining the advantages they felt zoning offered to control the growth that is coming to Beat 13.

The beat is east of US 280, touches Jefferson County, includes Lake Purdy, and goes south about 1 1/4 miles from State 119 (Cahaba Valley Road). It is not heavily populated, and the biggest landowner is the Birmingham Water Works Board. The area is considered prime development property by realtors.

Glenn asked the county board of registrars to schedule a night registration in the area so people could register without making a trip to Columbiana.

When that event failed to bring in all the non-registered voters, Glenn asked for, and was granted, the status of deputy registrar, so she could register people herself.

When the April 30 election was held, there were 146 registered voters in Beat 13. Glenn found later that 39 of those no longer lived there, or had actually been mis-registered and belonged in another beat. Those names were dropped.

As of last week she had the list back up to 140, and she knows each one of them is a bona fide resident. She has the figures down to such fine points as: "On Meadowlark Drive there are 29 registered voters, and 18 of them are tenants."

Cahaba Beach Road is the most heavily populated in the beat, and US 280 and State 119 are the other main areas of population.

Why does Glenn favor zoning?

"Birmingham is moving this way. People want their property to be valuable and want to sell for top dollar, and forget the people who will be left here," she says.

"But this is my home. I've lived here for 13 years. I want some type of controlled growth."

She lives on Cahaba Beach Road with her husband, Leon, and four children.

The west side of US 280 is in Beat 12, which has zoning. She says she doesn't want to see the east side become a patchwork of businesses and industries like Gardendale or US 31 South.

Her committee had no problem getting the 26 signatures required to ask for the second election, and the date is set for September 20 at Bowles Springs Church.

Win, lose, or draw, Glenn says she has enjoyed her contacts with her neighbors.

"We have opposition, but we don't have fights," she says. "The thing I like about the people in Beat 13 - they are reasonable and nice."

B. M. "BILL" MURCHISON

Pelham holds zoning meet

A rezoning request will be one of the items of business to be taken up by the Pelham City Council at the Sept. 12 meeting.

Marilyn Hinds has asked that an acre of land on county 52 be changed from A-1 zoning to R-2.

According to city officials, Hinds wants to put a child care center on the property.

The city's planning commission has already reviewed the request and recommended the change.

Montevallo's Klotzman's store sold to couple in Vestavia

A family owned dry goods store that has done business on Montevallo's Main Street for 55 years has changed hands.

Klotzman's Department Store was sold September 1 to Marvin and Shirley Mallette of Vestavia.

The store will continue to sell the same type of merchandise as in the past, at least for the time being, Mrs. Mallette told the Reporter.

She said that she and her son David will operate the store.

Previous owners were Sam and Rose Klotzman and more recently, their son Harry.

Sam Klotzman reportedly began the business in partnership with his brother in 1928. After acquiring Meroney Hardware in 1931, buying out his brother, and bringing his new wife Rose into the business in 1933, Klotzman transferred ownership of the firm to his son Harry some years ago.

Wal-Mart sales up 34 percent

Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., has reported net sales of $1,951,000,000 for the six-month period ending July 31.

new 902,000 square-foot, five-state distribution center.

The figures mark an increase of $497,000,000 (34%) over the same period last year. Wal-Mart also now operates 610 stores, as compared to 506 stores a year ago.

Excluding the new stores, sales increased 14%.

The announcements were made during the quarterly board meeting held last month in Cullman, the site of Wal-Marts' headquarters.

Columbiana streets receive attention

The street scene in Columbiana has been claiming the attention of the city council in recent months. One street project has been completed and two others are on the horizon.

Washington Street has been widened to 24 feet with a six foot sidewalk built along the east side. And the council has been talking about improvements to McDow Road and changing the location of Seale Road where it exits on county 47.

The purpose of the Washington Street project was to improve traffic and pedestrian safety on the heavily traveled street leading to the elementary school.

The Childersburg firm of Butts and Billingsley was awarded the contract and began work Aug. 15.

Plans for improving the traffic flow also included a bus turnaround.

The city is counting on the board of education to do that part of the project since it is on the school campus.

However, the latest word from the central office is that this year's budget does not include money for the project. It will reportedly be considered in next year's budget.

According to school Principal Ann Head, revised plans on what the board is expected to do will change the route cars follow rather than the busses.

The idea now, is for vehicles to drive to the rear of the school where a parking lot will be built.

This will increase the safety factor, the principal points out, by separating the car and bus traffic.

Eighty five percent of the students ride busses, Head reports. She said they will exit through the wide front doors while the smaller group leaves through rear exits.

A decision on moving Seale Road over for a distance of 400 feet was postponed again at Thursday night's council meeting.

Although Councilman Lewis Walker said he had checked with the city attorney and learned the city had the right to move the road. Mayor Buck Falkner did not have the figures on what paving would cost.

At a previous meeting, street superintendent James Palmer had told the council grading work would cost approximately $1,850.

Owen Joiner and his son Randy have appeared at two council meetings to ask that the unpaved road be moved away from James Seale's home because he suffers from a health problem aggravated by dust.

There was some hesitation about moving the road because that would put it closer to Leslie Seale's home.

The Joiners told the council that the majority of families living along the road were in favor of the move.

During Thursday's short meeting, the mayor mentioned repaving McDow Road, which had also been discussed before.

He said he had talked to the Shelby County Commission to see if the county could help with the project and that he would talk further with county officials.

According to County Engineer Gary Ray, the road doesn't have an adequate base.

He said the base would cost about $1,500 and paving would be somewhere in the neighborhood of $5,000-$6,000.

The county is expected to help with the project since there are county buildings at the end of road and other industries may locate there in the future.

Close check

The Rural Community Fire Protection Program is enabling local firefighters to aid county rangers in the fight against forest fires. But the added help doesn't mean the forestry department can get slack, so ranger Bobby Smith (seated), county forester Daryl Lawson and others keep a close check on equipment for their firefighting bulldozers. Rural firefighters get financial boost

by Fred Guarino

Shelby County's rural fire departments are taking advantage of state cash for capital improvements... strings and all.

The cash: a maximum of $950 in matching grants, administered by the state forestry commission.

The strings: an initial expenditure of $1,200 in return for a $600 grant and a second expenditure of $700 for a $350 grant.

The offer is being received so well in Shelby County that 18 of 25 rural fire departments have applied for grants. Six of those units have either received or been approved for funds.

"I can't tell you how many units will get the funds because I can't tell how many have spent the up front money," says county forester Daryl Lawson.

But with 1983 being the first year up front money has been required for grants, Lawson calls Shelby County's participation "favorable."

However, apart from up front expenditures of funds, the grants come with one more string attached, according to Lawson.

"Each unit must sign a memorandum of understanding that they will help the forestry commission by fighting forest fires in their areas. We will help them get their grants in return," he says.

"Local people don't understand that rural fire departments are doing this work on a volunteer basis and that they need support," Lawson explained as one reason for the state's generosity.

County fire departments which have or which will receive grants for capital improvements are:

•Shelby Fire Department-- Spent $1,200 for a pump and $700 for hose to receive $600 and to apply for an additional $350.

•Indian Ford-- Spent $571 for hose and will receive a $250 grant.

•Chelsea-- Spent $1,200 for hose and received $600. They are also applying for an additional $350 grant.

•Calera-- Spent $1,200 for a 55 watt radio and two alert monitors to receive a $600 grant. Calera is also applying for a $350 grant.

•Westover-- Applied for $424.38 in return for an expense of $848.76 for fire hose and couplings. Westover is also interested in applying for additional $350 grant.

•Shelco-- Spent $1,200 for fire hose to receive a $600 grant.

Nunnelley Tech gives five scholarships

Five Shelby County students have received Academic-Merit Scholarships to the Nunnelley State Technical College.

Each two-year college in the state is authorized to award 25 such scholarships per year.

County recipients are: Kimberly Yvonne Allison, Shelby, accounting; Emily Kay Avery, Shelby, computer programming; Donna Rene Brasher, Vandiver, computer; Ronda K.

Pardue Elliott, Westover, nursing; and Angela Lois Trussell, Vincent, secretarial technics.

Red Cross striving to increase blood supplies

by Carolyn Smiley

In an effort to prevent another emergency situation, Red Cross officials are already planning toward next summer.

John Burleson, Director of Donor Blood Resources in Birmingham, spoke before a group of Shelby County Red Cross officers on this year's dilemma and their plans for next summer.

"Donor blood service is now taken for granted, but once it's not there..." Burleson said solemnly. "It's for real. We're going to get through this crisis, but next summer we can't promise that."

In Wednesday's meeting, Burleson told the group that after the emergency appeal for donors last week, blood supplies are getting back to normal.

"We're still not out of the woods, because we're still about 2,000 units below ideal," he said, "but we don't feel that anyone's life is in danger."

The decline in donors during the summer months is due to several factors including the heat, vacations, and the fact that high schools and colleges are not in session.

Now is the time to prepare for next year's shortages, he said.

"We've got to start planning for next summer because it might not be as easily resolved," Burleson said.

Getting new donors was one method Burleson suggested. He told the Shelby County group that most donors today are people that give more than once a year, and new donors need to be sought.

He also stressed educating those that have never given blood and contacting the many churches and small businesses in Shelby County.

Burleson praised the Shelby County chapter for their work thus far and said the Red Cross saw "great potential" in this area.

United Way kicks off campaign

A kick off rally for the 1983 United Way Campaign will be held Friday, September 16, at the Birmingham Civic Center Plaza. The rally is being held for all volunteers who'll be helping the drive reach its goal of over $10 million in the Shelby, Walker, Jefferson-County area. Companies are being asked to purchase rally tickets for their employees who are involved in the drive.

Zoning election offers chance for control of Beat 13 growth

To zone, or not to zone?

The question is not new in Shelby County, nor is it new in Beat 13 where residents will go to the polls again on September 20.

Beat 13 voters turned down zoning by a 56-35 margin on April 30 of this year. Had the vote passed, the area -- which borders the commercially expanding US 280 corridor -- would have become only the second beat in the county to vote in zoning.

The populous Beat 12, which also borders US 280 and covers Valleydale and Cahaba Valley Roads reconfirmed zoning in a vote a year ago following legal foul-ups in the wording of the act.

Zoning is not a final answer to controlling property values, but it's a start.

Without zoning, business and industry can help itself to moving into an area -- whether or not neighboring citizens in residential areas like the idea or not.

With zoning the residents have a recourse. They can fight the encroachment though the county planning and zoning board, and they can win, as have residents in Beat 12.

At the same time, zoning provides developers with a tool by which they can lay plans for controlled business growth.

To date, the planning and zoning board has not developed a new zoning map for consideration in the September 20 vote. But barring some unreasonable assignment of zones in the area, this newspaper urges the citizens of Beat 13 to vote for zoning.

To zone, or not to zone, actually is a question of having some amount of control over what goes on around your home.

The development is coming -- one way or the other. If you want any say in it, vote for zoning.

Remember KAL Flight 007

Many of the unanswered questions surrounding the downing of KAL Flight 007 will likely remain mysteries forever. The answers are either buried beneath the waves, or buried behind the wall of paranoia built by the Communist government.

Even though some of the mystery will remain buried, the memory of this senseless mass killing sanctioned by the Russian government must never go the same route.

There was reason -- at the time -- to remember the Alamo. There was reason to remember the USS Maine, the USS Arizona. And there are reasons to remember KAL Flight 007.

Sometimes, in the worthwhile pursuit of peace, many of us tend to want to believe in propaganda issued by the Russians. We want to believe the Soviet government truly desires peaceful co-existence with the US and other nations of the free world...

In the necessary hope that the earth never disappears in fireball of atomic destruction or in nightmare waves of fallout, we sometimes want to believe the Russian government when it says it wants to end the crazy arms race, that it does not want nuclear war...

Sometimes we merely assume that all peoples and their respective governments have at least some of the decency and compassion we associate with basic humanitarianism. We sometimes assume the Soviets have hearts...

Sometimes we want to think that fear is the wrong attitude to take towards the Russian government. Indeed, in 1980 President Carter counseled against "inordinate" fear of the communists.

These assumptions are absolutely incorrect.

The Russian government and the communist doctrine as laid out in the Kremlin, are basically no different today than they were many years ago when Khrushchev swore to world dominance. We must remember that the communists will apparently stop at nothing.

We must remember -- as the world was so cruelly reminded when the Soviet-fired missile blasted KAL Flight 007 out the skies -- that the Russian government has no inkling of human compassion, no trace of mercy, and no hint of honor. Otherwise, it would have not have destroyed the Korean airliner and its 269 innocent passengers.

That we -- everyone from Shelby County to Canada, from Japan to West Germany -- remember this lesson is the only positive thing likely to come out of so many senseless deaths.

Letters to the Editor

High School football supported

Letter to the Editor:

For the past three years beginning with the opening of school I have used this media outlet to call upon all parents and patrons of the public schools of Shelby County to lend their upmost support to the cause of high school athletics.

I believe very strongly that one of the keystones to our societal foundation is high school athletics, along with the goals and objectives it seeks to instill in the hearts and hands of our children.

The acid test of criticism has been hurled and leveled at public school education, but the record speaks in Shelby County that public education is alive and well.

So, this Thursday and Friday night when the ball is teed to signal the start of another week of competition and development of young minds, I urge you, the good people of Shelby County, to be there to cheer your team on to victory after victory.

Things that stick in your mind after a Greyhound Tour:

The sign outside the building at Boy's Town, Nebraska. One boy, about twelve, carrying a little boy, about four, and the words: "He's not heavy, father, he's my brother."

The faces of four presidents on that granite cliff at Mt. Rushmore, South Dakota. You look at 'em and you wait a long minute and then you think: "What do you suppose they'd say about our county if they came back today and saw the shape we're in."

The Mormon Tabernacle at Salt Lake City, Utah. On every wall a mural painting, one after another, filling your eyes with wonder and your heart with praise. And somewhere down that long beautiful hall the little woman who stopped and waited a minute and whispered: "Be still and know that I am God."

Hundreds of trees scattered over the ground anyway you looked. They'll lay there close to a hundred years before they rot completely. No one touched 'em. No one bothers any part of this marvelous place called Yellowstone. Somehow they believe God made it, and would like to have it left just like he planned it.

The cascades in the Canyon of Yellowstone. Snow white water tumbling down a mountain, untouched by man, free and frolicsome, on its way to the ocean. One wonders if man will leave it so, after he's spoiled the rest.

An old building in Memphis, Tennessee, so worn and weather-beaten most folks would hesitate to go inside. And a line, maybe four blocks long, pushing and shoving, trying to get inside for a meal that was something.

The Grand Tetons at Jackson Hole, Wyoming. They're almost unbelievable in their majesty, and a guy, looking, feels no larger than a flea. One wonders if He made 'em too beautiful for men who have so little respect for nature's beauty anymore.

The Chapel at the Air Force Academy. You look at it and you look again, letting your eyes fill up and spill over and get all over you. In a land where God made things so pretty, man added one little touch of his and called it a Chapel.

Scrambled Eggs

Staying at the paper until the wee hours has tended to sap my energy to some degree.

And running around the countryside covering stories has worn me down on occasion.

But nothing - I mean nothing, could hold a candle to my recent three day stint taking care of my grandchildren.

The challenge of seeing that the small fry were: cared for and keeping the house in some kind of order didn't sound like Mission Impossible when I accepted it.

But I was tempted to throw in the towel before my daughter and her husband returned from their trip.

Trying to time the baby's naps with the time I was supposed to be somewhere proved interesting.

Usually, she had just drifted off to sleep when it was time for us to be on our way.

But with an older sister along to pop a bottle in her mouth or entertain her as we drove along, we managed to get along pretty well.

Most of the places we went, I could just deposit the crawler on the floor and away she'd go to explore her surroundings.

If there were any animals around, the older one usually tried to lure them into playing with her.

However, she never did succeed in enticing a pint sized dog named Killer to be her friend.

As she ran in and out of the house asking our hostess for tips on getting the dog to come, her younger sister hauled herself up on tottering footstools and pulled whatever she could reach from tabletops.

Bathtime proved to be an interesting experience since the single knob on the tub would not produce water from the faucet.

As I turned and twisted in every direction, the only water that emerged was from the shower.

Needless to say, it took quite awhile to get enough water in which to bathe.

Running late one day, I plopped the baby in the tub for a lick and a promise and then refilled it for the other one.

When everyone was spic and span and we were ready to go, the oldest one couldn't find her shoes.

No stone was left unturned in trying to locate her Sunday best footwear, but we never did find where they were hiding.

Oh well, I have seen children wear sneakers to church.

Thankfully, an eight month old doesn't need shoes.

And a baby doesn't need to pop everything they get hold of in their mouths either. But they do.

My finger went into her mouth, I don't how many times, to remove paper and other foreign objects she thought would make good eating.

I also had to explore the dog's mouth after he decided to join in a game of marbles.

I don't think anyone swallowed anything they weren't supposed to.

Thankfully, I didn't have to stick my finger in a turtle's mouth - he never showed his head.

Oh yes, the older girl found the little creature in the yard and thought he might make a nice pet.

It was a little hairy for awhile when he turned up missing. But much to my relief, she located him under her parent's bed before their return.

Saying that I was glad to see them would be an understatement.

Sure, I loved staying with my grandchildren, but I don't think I could take it as an every day thing.

Long live parents - and more strength to 'em! I'm sure they need every ounce.

The Alabama Scene

Picking up a few loose ends on the state political scene...

Just when it appeared that the state prison crisis was nearing some sort of resolution, another controversy has erupted. Atty. Gen. Charles Graddick has announced he will file suit to put an end to an early release program implemented by Prison Commissioner Fred Smith. Graddick called the plan a "sham". Smith called Graddick's charges "political rhetoric" and warned that if Graddick wins his suit the taxpayers will be the losers...

Despite the press speculation about it, it isn't likely the state is going to buy a new residence for Alabama governors. It's no secret that the present mansion is poorly-designed to serve both as living quarters for the First Family and a tourist attraction as well, but it is still improbable the Legislature would be willing to spend the money necessary to buy a new mansion. Not at this time, at least...

There is a very strong likelihood that a court challenge will be made of the law which led to the legalization of a greyhound race track in Macon County. The measure passed the House and Senate as a "local" bill, but there is a law already on the books which seems to clearly indicate this cannot be done. The state courts may have to decide this one...

The tragic destruction of the Korean commercial airliner by Russian jets could have enormous political consequences in this country. Those who have been so outspokenly critical of President Reagan's hard-line posture against the Soviet Union have been buffeted by this cowardly act...

Joe Reed, head of the Alabama Democratic Conference and the No. 2 man with the AEA, doesn't mince words about what his goal will be since being appointed to the Board of Trustees of Alabama State University in Montgomery. It is to dismantle Auburn University-Montgomery and Troy State-Montgomery, and merge them under the ASU Board. The fierce controversy over the proposed merger of the three institutions is a long, long way from being resolved...

If you see any people in your neighborhood whose faces are flushed with anger, who are frothing at the mouth and making all sorts of threatening gestures, the odds are good that they are Auburn fans who have just received their season football tickets. Under an altered priority system, many long-time Auburn supporters who in the past had been assigned reasonably good seats, now find themselves relegated to the end zone, if they got tickets at all. There are some very, very upset folks. Coach Pat Dye is finding out the true meaning of an old truth -- hell hath no fury like an Auburn fan who doesn't get the tickets he thinks he deserves.

Movie theatres are booming... but not here

by Carolyn Smiley

At a time when movies are a multi-billion dollar industry, business is less than booming in Shelby County.

While neighboring Jefferson County can boast of more than 25 theaters, Shelby County has only two.

Why has one of the fastest growing areas in the state not seen a reflection of that growth in the movie industry?

According to Eddie Watson, who built the county's only remaining theaters, it's because "the world is on wheels."

The movie business today is better than it's ever been," Watson says of the industry in general.

But, he's quick to add, he has seen better times for the movies in Shelby County.

"I'll tell you, the movies in small towns just don't do as well as they used to," Watson says, remembering the days when he first built his theaters.

Watson says he built the Strand theater in Montevallo in 1935 and Saginaw's Rebel Drive-in in 1955.

The reason for building them in Shelby County is simple. "To make a profit!" Watson laughs.

He also had a theater in Columbiana in the building that is now the Western Auto store. He ran that theater for almost 15 years before selling the building.

"There was a time in Columbiana when I did very well," he says. Watson believes changing times are the reason for the slack in the movie business today.

The college students all have automobiles, he explains. Watson also says the young married couples don't bring their children to the drive-ins like they used to.

Although the same crowd may not be visiting the theaters, the same facilities are housing the two remaining Shelby County theaters.

Because of its age, Carl Love, now owner and manager of the Strand, says it is one of only five like it in the United States today.

Love says he is proud of his theater's reputation as a "friendly family place." He adds that the nostalgia of the building is an added attraction for his customers.

Another benefit of the older building is its capability of being used as a live production theater.

Love says this will come in handy in October when the Birmingham Children's Theater will perform "Rumpelstiltskin" in the Strand.

Love has no attendance figures available for comparison, but says local movie attendance is definitely down from last year. The decline, he says, stems from a shortage of "really great movies," and lack of interest in the movies by the public.

Will there be any new theaters built in Shelby County in the near future?

According to Rocky Tieg of Consolidated Theaters in Birmingham, his company is not planning to come into Shelby County because they feel the county comes to them.

"When we built the Riverchase theaters we intended to draw from Shelby County," Tieg says.

With the addition of new theaters in Hoover, Cobb Theatres apparently feels the same way.

"We just built the Hoover Square theaters and we think it serves Shelby County also," says R.C. Cobb of the large movie chain.

Cobb says his company is, however, planning to put theaters in Riverchase's new Galleria shopping complex.

In the meantime, movie-goers interested in staying in Shelby County can still do so -- and perhaps enjoy a little bit of history at the same time.

Horizons broadened

Thompson Middle School reading teacher Debbie Patterson discusses a reading assignment with 6th grader Cindy Rikard.

Little lambs

Kelly and Wayne Booth of Helena will be two of the entrants at Monday's opening night of the Shelby County Fair. The fun starts at 6:30 p.m. and will last all week long.

Old courthouse reopens with expanded exhibits

The museum at the old Shelby County Courthouse in Columbiana will reopen Sunday with new displays.

During the recent heat wave, the museum has been closed. The public is encouraged to visit the historic building and to look over the most recent displays that members of the Shelby County Historical Society have assembled.

The museum will be open from 2-4:30 p.m.

Sixth grade reading course to help Thompson students

Even students who excel in reading are expected to benefit from the reading class that has been added to the 6th grade curriculum this year.

Thompson Middle School Principal Randy McDonald says he thinks the class mandated by the State Department of Education is a good thing.

"What a student reads can broaden their horizons," McDonald observed.

English teacher Debbie Patterson will be one of the teachers of the new reading classes at Thompson Middle School.

She explained that up until now, reading has been taught as a part of English.

But the added emphasis on competency skills brought about the establishment of a class devoted solely to reading instruction, Patterson reported.

During the 50 minutes 6th graders spend in that class, they will study vocabulary development, literature/reading skills, writing skills (functional and creative), and library and research skills.

For students who have trouble with comprehension, the class will be especially helpful, Patterson said.

She pointed out that failure to understand what is read can affect a student's work in science, social studies, and other subjects as well.

McDonald stressed that reading ability is essential to doing well on the competency test which is given to students in the 3rd, 6th, and 9th grades.

He also mentioned the importance of spelling.

"All our grades spend 25 minutes on spelling three days a week," the principal noted.

Joann Lee, who has taught social studies, will be the other reading teacher at Thompson Middle School.

Corene Rodgers will continue to instruct students who have difficulty with reading.

Why energy conservation makes sense for you and Alabama Power

If our customers would reduce the amount of electricity they use during the peak demand period in the summer, it would help hold down our costs for the expensive equipment needed to meet peak demand. That would help hold down the tremendous amount of money which we have to borrow and pay back to investors. So, energy conservation can mean lower investment costs for Alabama Power as well as lower monthly bills for you.

Undefeated 'Dogs rout Briarwood Lions

by Fred Guarino

How 'bout them 'Dogs?

The answer to that question is 'undefeated.' After a 20-9 opening win over Calera, Montevallo won a crushing -- could have been worse -- 26-6 win over Briarwood Christian, Friday night.

Incidentally, the game marked the first regular season meeting between Briarwood and Montevallo, and pitted Montevallo's Richard Gilliam against his former assistant football coach Gary Fleming.

Again, as in the Calera win, the Bulldogs were just too physically tough to stop.

But if you expect to hear praises from Gilliam, you're mistaken.

Gilliam told the Reporter he's not saying anything until his 2A dog pack does battle with the 3A Wildcats of Shelby County tomorrow (Friday night).

"I really don't know yet," was the only response he would give to questions about just how good the Bulldogs are this year.

He pointed out that his team played a pretty good 1A squad in Calera, which went 10-3 last season and which took both Area 8 and Region 4 titles. But he was mindful of the fact Calera is low on experienced players.

Gilliam also pointed out that while Briarwood won the 1982 Alabama Christian Athletic Conference title, it is an "unknown entity" this season. Fleming himself has said the Lions are not as deep in talent or ability as they were in 1982.

The Montevallo coach also recognized that Briarwood is trying to break into the regular playing of public schools for the first time as an associate member of the Alabama High School Athletic Association.

But if caution prevented Gilliam from heaping praise on his 'Dogs yet, his opposition hasn't followed suit.

Danny Alverson of Calera called Montevallo "physical and experienced."

Briarwood coach Gary Fleming was even more unreserved.

"They are strong, powerful, awesome and well coached," he said.

Considering that Montevallo rolled up 26 points in the first half of play against Briarwood, Fleming's comments were understandable. And considering that Gilliam played all 38 of his players by the third quarter, the comments are even less difficult to reason...

The Bulldogs kicked off to the Lions, who began play from their own 43-yard line. However, on the first play of the game, Briarwood fumbled

Thompson defense folds to Bibb County

The Thompson Warriors went on the warpath looking for their second victims of the season, Friday night in Bibb County.

But... what they found was an angry tribe that just wasn't in any mood to be pushed around.

The fight ended up with the Warriors on the short end of 23-20 score.

However, Thompson head man Doug Wheeler stopped short of heaping praises upon his opposition. Instead, he heaped a little blame on his defense.

"I just didn't feel like we had the effort defensively," Wheeler said comparing the 23 points Bibb County scored against Thompson, to the zero handed out two weeks ago to Pell City.

"I still feel like we played well enough offensively to win," he added.

In many respects the game with Bibb County was a reverse of last week's Warrior defensive action.

In their season opener against Pell City, the Warrior defense gave up fewer points than did its counter-part last year against PC (42-20).

But against Bibb County, this year's defense did worse. The Warriors only gave up one touchdown to Bibb County last season in a 27-6 contest.

Proving Wheeler right about Thompson's offensive effort being strong and its defense being weak, one need only look at the record.

The Warriors scored first on an 12-yard run by Max Brown with 5:56 remaining in the first quarter.

Thompson scored again with 28 seconds left in the first quarter when Luvell Bivins scampered into the endzone from three yards out.

With both point after efforts failing, the Warriors led 12-0. The lead was first threatened when the Warrior defense gave up a 66-yard touchdown run to Bibb County at the end of the period.

The point after pulled Bibb County within five of Thompson at 12-7, and the opposition was not to rest.

Bibb County scored again with 4:09 left in the first half on a four-yard pass play. And a two-point conversion gave them the lead 15-12.

Thompson rallied late in the third quarter on a 65-yard pass play from Gordon Kenny to Scottie Hawkins. The two point conversion put the Warriors back on top at 20-15.

But again the defense fell down.

Bibb County regained the lead for good on a 17-yard play with four minutes remaining in the game. A two point conversion added insult to injury, and Bibb County went on to win 23-20.

A last shot effort at saving the Warriors failed when a Kenny pass was picked off at the Bibb County 13 yard line with only seconds remaining in the contest.

Wildcats mangle Pelham 21-7

by Fred Guarino

The Shelby County Wildcats ran wild, Thursday night, while an injured and ailing Pelham Panther squad played a game of "apple turnovers".

The result was a 21-7 win for the Wildcats -- who are off to a strong, 2-0 start in 1983 -- and the second loss in a row for Pelham.

The contest allows Shelby County the luxury of already topping its 1982 record of 1-9. Pelham, on the other hand, has a long way to go to beat even its 3-7 mark of last year.

Thursday night, while SCHS' Ambrose Wood, Pat Wallace, Curtis Sherman and John Garrett were combining for 274 total rushing yards, Pelham was committing offensive harakiri.

The Panthers fumbled twice after long drives, fumbled one punt return and threw one interception.

"I thought what hurt us was throwing the football on the ground," confirmed a disappointed Pelham Coach Billy Tohill. "You can't win throwing the football on the ground...."

Even though Tohill said his team played as well against SCHS as it did last week against Munford (a 27-13 loss), he lamented the absence of his starting tailback Mark Brashier.

"Yonder stands a kid that don't throw the ball on the ground," Tohill said after the game, pointing toward Brashier who saw no Wildcat action because of injuries from the Munford game.

Yet Tohill would not take anything from Ricky Seale's Shelby County team.

"I think Ricky has done a hell of a job," Tohill complimented. "He's got some people with good attitudes -- and that's what pays off."

Tohill did not make excuses, but there was more behind the Panthers' loss than turnovers and the absence of Brashier...

Against Munford, Pelham weak side linebacker Ronnie Tate was also injured to the point that he could not play.

Too, a virus which brought high fever and severe stomach cramps with it, put six other Panthers out of action against SCHS. Suffering from the painful illness were Eddie Abraham, Billy Goosetree, Gary Howard, Ricky Shiflett, and Lee Bates.

Whatever the game was to Pelham, however, it had to serve as a confidence builder for the Wildcats.

Last year SCHS lost to Pelham 14-0 and Vincent 16-0. This year the Wildcats opened with a 26-7 win over Vincent and followed that with the plundering of Pelham.

"I feel like this will really help us down the road," Seale said after the game. "But what impressed me so much was that after they (Pelham) scored, our team sucked it up and scored again."

"I felt like our offensive line has really improved and our secondary did an outstanding job," he added.

Seale also congratulated his assistant coaches for their efforts.

The Shelby County Wildcats struck pay dirt early in the first quarter, capping a 47-yard opening drive with a 33-yard touchdown strike from Kenneth Jones to Gerald Lawson.

The point after by Jeff Denney was good and with 8:52 remaining in the period, the Wildcats led 7-0.

A bobbled punt return by Pelham near the end of the first quarter almost allowed Shelby County to score again, but a field goal attempt by Denney fell short.

There was no further scoring in the first half. Pelham found little relief in the third period when Shelby County's Ambrose Wood picked off a Panther pass.

In business at their own 35-yard line, the Wildcats moved quickly down field, scoring on a five-yard run by Curtis Sherman. The point after was good and with 6:49 remaining in the third quarter, the Wildcats led 14-0.

But Pelham was not to be denied some breaks of its own.

A Shelby County punt fell short and out of bounds to give the Panthers field position at the Wildcat 27 near the end of the third quarter.

Moments later a pass interference call against Shelby County helped the Panthers to find a golden opportunity at the Wildcat one yard line.

Gary Howard broke into the endzone with 10:29 remaining in the game, and Ricky Hayes booted a point after to pull Pelham within seven of the Wildcats.

Shelby County did anything but give up, however, and marched 45 yards on their next possession to score.

Wood got the Wildcats to the Panthers' six-inch line before quarterback Jones punched into the endzone.

The point after was good and Shelby County held on to win 21-7.

The Wildcats will host undefeated Montevallo Friday night. Pelham will journey to Childersburg in search of its first win of the season.

Looking for room

Shelby County High School's Ambrose Wood (22) looks for running room against the Pelham Panthers as Pelham High School's Tony Johnson (10) looks for a way to bring the Wildcat down. Wood would make his presence felt by Pelham many times during the contest which Shelby County won 21-7. (Photo by Fred Guarino)

All wrapped up

One might say that Shelby County High School's Gary Lewis (21) gets all wrapped up in his work. He certainly wrapped up a Pelham pass receiver so badly, Thursday night, that he didn't even need the help of teammate Ambrose Wood (22) who closed in to make sure the Panther was out of action. (Photo by Fred Guarino)

Coming through

Shelby Academy's Carl Ray (21) looks for room to run while much to his dismay, teammate Dennis Attaway (86) is down on the job. Not sitting down, however, are Minor Christian defenders. But Ray and his Shelby Academy Raiders did manage to stay on their feet long enough to defeat the opposition 13-6. (Photo by Jerome Bannister)

Eagles aren't picky about taking wins

by Mark C. Jones

"It wasn't pretty, but we'll take it."

That's what Calera Eagle Head Coach Danny Alverson said after his football team blanked the Holtville Bulldogs 7-0 last week at Calera's Ricky M. Cairns Memorial Stadium.

"We were lucky to get out of this one with a win. We were very sloppy," Alverson said of the game that improved the Eagles to a 1-1 record.

While the Calera offense mounted only two serious drives during the contest -- one of which resulted in a touchdown -- the Eagle defense completely shut down Holtville's offense.

The Bulldogs ended the first half with just 14 yards total offense and two first downs -- one of which came on a Calera penalty.

Calera fared better with 90 yards rushing and three first downs.

The first quarter was played, for the most part in Calera territory with an exchange of six punts and two turnovers. The early stages of the second provided the Eagles with enough points to seal the win.

Darryl Griffith darted over from the two-yard line with 9:06 left in the half after Mike West and Griffith set up the score with a pair of 21 yard runs. The drive went 66 yards in nine plays.

Steve Ellison booted the extra point and Calera had all it would get and need for the night.

Calera's sputtering offense, which has generated a mere total of 16 points in two games, mounted only one sustained drive in the second half. But that effort died at the Holtville two yard line when Kenny Johnson was stopped short on fourth down.

The fourth quarter drive did show promise, however, with West running for 16 yards and Johnson with runs of 11 and 16.

Holtville, which had no success running the ball, also found the going tough through the air. The Bulldogs failed to complete a pass in thirteen attempts, due in large part to a fierce Calera rush and a stingy secondary.

For the game, Calera amassed 249 yards total offense to Holtville's 79.

Eagle defenders who played a major role in limiting Holtville's offensive output were Todd Killingsworth, Edwin Milstead, Eddie Smith, Ken LeSueur, Dan Campbell and David Phillips. Killingsworth lead all tacklers with 15, eight unassisted.

Offensively for Calera, West outgained the entire Holtville offensive effort with 83 yards on fourteen carries. Smith, playing his first year of varsity ball, averaged ten yards per carry with 50 yards on five tries. "We definitely have to improve," said Alverson. "We're not executing and we're having too many mental breakdowns. It's nice winning, but I just wish we could have looked better doing it..."

"But we did manage to pull it out on a bad night, and I'm proud of our guys for the effort. Hopefully this win will give us some much needed confidence," he said.

The Eagles will need more than confidence to overcome this week's visiting foe -- Bibb County. The Chocwaws are coming off a 23-20 win which clipped the Thompson Warriors' 15 game winning streak.

Calera has yet to play a class 1A team. Of the first five games this year the Eagles have lost to 2A Montevallo, won over 2A Holtville, and have 3A Bibb County and 2A Jemison before facing 1A Thorsby.

Need a lift?

Bulldogs bulldoze Briarwood

Behind the running of Jeff Chism and Keith Moore, the Bulldogs marched to the Lion 11. One play later Chism ripped the final distance.

A faked extra point attempt and two-point conversion try failed, but the 'Dogs were up 6-0 with 9:04 left in the first quarter.

Briarwood got good field position out of Montevallo's kick off, but that's all.

Unable to move the football, the Lions punted from their own 44 to Bulldog Anthony Prentice. Prentice simply caught the ball at his own 16 yard line and shot straight down field 84 yards for a touchdown.

The distance of the run matched the number on Prentice's back, and was the second longest for Montevallo since 1974.

Andy Chism kicked the extra point and with 4:19 left in the first quarter, Montevallo took a 13-0 lead.

Again Montevallo kicked off to Briarwood and again the Lions were unable to move.

This time Andy Chism, Jeff Chism and Barry Worthy all took turns moving the Bulldogs from the Briarwood 46 to the Briarwood six yard line.

An encroachment called against the Lions put the 'Dogs at the Briarwood three, from which Worthy punched into the endzone. The point after attempt failed and Montevallo led 19-0 with 34 seconds left in the first quarter.

Montevallo's defense proved too tough again for the Lions and a hard shot by Bulldog Andy Chism against Lion Kenneth Preston left Briarwood short of a first down.

The Bulldogs continued to dominate the gridiron and marched from their own 35 to the Lion 30-yard line.

At that point, Ricky Gaddis executed a perfect pitch to Prentice who went all the way for the score. The point after was good and Montevallo went on top 26-0 with 5:54 left in the half.

Briarwood could not score until the fourth quarter and then only with the help of a Montevallo fumble and some hard running by Craig Collier, Bobby Welch and Tommy Stoves.

Capping a 34-yard drive, Collier scampered two yards to pay dirt to prevent the "goose egg."

"We've got some young boys who just made a lot of mistakes," said Briarwood's Fleming. "But," he added, "they played against a pretty tough team."

"I'm real pleased we came out as strong as we did," commented a relieved Gilliam for Montevallo.

"They had the advantage of knowing what we were going to do (having watched Montevallo's opener with Calera) but we did have a game under our belt and had gotten rid of first game jitters," Gilliam added.

Montevallo travels to face undefeated Shelby County in Columbiana tomorrow night while Briarwood travels to face Ohatchee.

Raiders win

The Shelby Academy Raiders have bounced back from an opening loss to South Choctaw to even their record at 1-1.

Playing at home last Friday, the Raiders held on to defeat Minor Christian 13-7.

"I thought we improved some. We played a little more aggressively on the line, our backs ran better and, we at last had a passing game," understated SA coach Dewayne Kervin.

Last week the Raiders gave up 21 points and passed for only 26 yards.

Against Minor Christian, the Raiders lost only six points after a pass interception set the visitors up for a 16-yard air strike.

Kervin's men went to the air themselves for a total of 110 yards.

He didn't single out any individual players as showing improvement, but gave credit to his entire team.

He did acknowledge that team improvement allowed Ricky Davis to catch two passes for 71 yards and a touchdown, both completed by Jeff Dunaway.

Shelby Academy scored first during the second quarter. Robert Thomas struck pay dirt from one yard out and Vince Pickett added the point after.

Minor came back, however, capitalizing on a pass interception to tie the game in the same quarter. The point after was good.

Instead of folding, the Raiders fought back and took the lead for good with under three minutes left to play.

Jeff Dunaway hit Randy Davis with a 36-yard TD pass and the game was history.

Though glad for the win, Kervin said his boys still have a long way to go to be a good ball club, and they must be ready to face Cahaba at home on Friday.

VHS needs more than speed

Vincent's speed was supposed to be at its forte this season. But the Vincent Yellow Jackets have a lot of improving and healing to do before that speed can help them win any football games this year.

At least that's the way Vincent Head Coach Harold Garrett viewed the future of his 0-2 squad after it fell to Lincoln 25-0 last Friday night.

Garrett, in pre-season discussions, called his 1983 team faster than its 4-6 predecessor last year, and one which should be better.

But in two outings the 'Jackets have been trashed by a total of 51 opposition points, to only six of their own.

"We've got good speed but we are so awfully small that we don't do well against big people like we've faced the last couple of weeks," Garrett said.

Furthermore, he continued, the Yellow Jackets are playing inconsistently and still making mistakes.

Problems, problems.

But at the same time Garrett isn't down on his squad, and he said the team played better this week than they did in their season opener against Shelby County.

"They are playing with more intensity and I am pleased with that aspect of things," Garrett pointed out.

The Vincent helmets said his charges had shots at stopping Lincoln on two or three touchdown drives, but just missed.

But with Jemison planning to invade Vincent tomorrow (Friday) night, are the Yellow Jackets improving enough to win their first game?

"I don't know if we can win, but we've got to continue to work hard," Garrett said realistically.

Another problem that has plagued Vincent has been the health status of quarterback Eddie Reynolds.

Reynolds was hurt during the Shelby County game and only saw three offensive series against Lincoln.

Will the Yellow Jackets get their act together and put their speed to work? Time -- and maybe Jemison -- will tell.

CVA loses but shows improvement

For a football team that lost its second straight game of the season last week, Coosa Valley Academy has a lot to be proud of.

The Rebels -- who lost their season opener 42-0 to Edgewood -- fought Chambers to a 13-0 contest that could have just as well been a 0-0 defensive struggle.

Chambers only managed to score thanks to penalty calls against an inexperienced but vastly improved CVA defense.

The first mishap occurred late in the first quarter after a pass interference call against the Rebels set up a 12-yard Chambers run.

The second mishap took place late in the third quarter when a roughing the punter call against CVA put Chambers at the Rebel front door.

But while head coach Bruce Breland praised his team for its efforts, he would not go too far in handing out congratulations.

"We played better....You could tell the improvement after one game. We hit a lot better," he said on one hand.

But on the other...

"We are still making a lot of mistakes you can't win with. Chambers was not the team Edgewood was..."

However, Breland gave away a little of his true feeling when he reported that his team played without the help of five injured starters and that he saw a "lot of positive things."

Also on the positive side is that CVA has an open date this week, thus giving Breland and the Rebels that much better a chance to act together for a win.

Gina McGraw marries Kennon

MRS. SAMUEL E. KENNON
...the former Gina Lynn McGraw

Miss Gina Lynn McGraw and Samuel Edwin Kennon were married at 7 p.m. in the Chapel of Dauphin Way United Methodist church in Mobile on Saturday, September 3. A reception followed.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Sara Gardner McGraw and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Thomas McGraw, Jr. of Birmingham and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kennon of Mobile.

Miss Indria McGraw of Birmingham was honor attendant. Other attendants were Mary Alice McGraw of Birmingham, Christie Turner of Vincent and Tara McGraw of Leeds was junior attendant.

Melissa McGraw of Leeds and Sara Roberts of Mobile, were flower girls, and Kimberly Shamblin of Helena had charge of the scrolls.

The bride wore a formal gown of silk chiffon over taffeta, with a jewel neckline and full bishop sleeves, accented with Venice lace. Her veil was chiffon with the cap encrusted with seed pearls and bordered with Venice lace flowing to a fingertip length.

Mr. Kennon was his son's best man. Other groomsmen were Chet Gutowsky of Houston, Robert Middleton of Oakland, Calif., Mickey McCane of Spring, Tex. and Bob Gwin of Mobile.

After a wedding trip to the Smokies and the west coast, the couple will reside in Benton Harbor, Michigan.

NANETTE LITTLEFIELD
...to wed Mark Edward Zeanah

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Littlefield of Dothan, announce the engagement of their daughter, Nanette, to Mark Edward Zeanah, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Dee Zeanah Sr. of Montevallo.

Miss Littlefield is a graduate of Ida V. Moffett School of Nursing and is presently employed by Shelby Medical Center.

Mr. Zeanah is a graduate of Bessemer Technical College, and is employed by WBRC-TV.

An October 29 wedding is planned.

MRS. WILLIAM BAILEY JR.
...the former Wanda Jo Inman

Wanda Inman, Bailey unite

Miss Wanda Jo Inman and Mr. William Jasper Bailey, Jr. were united in marriage on September 3 at 7 p.m. at 25th Ave. Baptist Church in Center Point. A reception followed.

Parents of the couple are Ruby C. Inman of Center Point, and Mr. and Mrs. William J. Bailey Sr. of Shelby County.

Lesa D. Howell, sister of the bride, of Augusta, Ga., was the matron of honor.

Michael Brashier of Helena served as best man. Other groomsmen were Walter W. Howell Jr. of Augusta, Ronald Miller of Center Point, Rodney Holsombeck and Wade Yates, both of Shelby County.

After a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, the couple will reside in Homewood.

Identikid set

The Junior Civitan Club at Shelby County High School will be helping the Columbiana Police Department fingerprint students in the three Columbiana schools. It's expected that approximately 1,000 students will be fingerprinted between Oct. 25 and Oct. 27.

Parents will be asked to keep the prints in a safe place in case they should ever be needed.

MRS. RICHIE L. ELLISON
...the former Cindy Lynn Jones

Cindy Jones weds Ellison

The First Baptist Church of Sylacauga was the setting for the wedding of Miss Cindy Lynn Jones and Mr. Richie Lynn Ellison.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Tollie E. Jones of Alabaster, and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Ellison of Sylacauga.

The bride wore a formal gown of chiffon with a plunging V-neckline in the back. The gown was trimmed with satin ribbons on the hem and at the waist and the fingertip veil was attached to a circular wreath of white flowers.

Suzanne Lacey of Saginaw served the bride as maid of honor. Other attendants were Gayle Ellison, sister of the groom, Nan Luckie, Freda Hubbard, Anne Thompson, all of Sylacauga. Leslie Jones was the flower girl.

The bride is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nelson and the late Mr. and Mrs. Allen Jones of Gadsden.

She attended Thompson High School, Auburn University and Jacksonville State University in Jacksonville, Ala.

The groom's father served as best man. Other groomsmen were Gray Ellison, brother of the groom, Wayne Jones, brother of the bride, Jerry King, and John Blackmon, all of Sylacauga.

The groom is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. H.A. Ellison and the late Mr. and Mrs. J.L. Greenwell, both of Sylacauga.

He attended B.B. Comer High School, Auburn University, and Jacksonville State University.

The bride is employed by Talladega County Board of Education, and the groom is employed with the Alexander City Board of Education.

After a honeymoon trip to Nashville, the couple will reside in Sylacauga.

Parties and showers honoring Cindy Lynn Jones included a tea held on July 9 at the Siluria Baptist Church; a lingerie shower held on July 8 in Sylacauga; a tea, at the Sylacauga First Baptist Church on July 24; and a bridesmaid luncheon held on Saturday, July 23.

A rehearsal dinner was given in Sylacauga by the parents of the groom.

Lesia Dale Allred engagement told

Mr. and Mrs. Cordie M. Allred of Harpersville announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Lesia Dale, to Darrell Terah Holcombe of Columbiana. He is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Gary Holcombe.

Miss Allred is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Allred, and Mrs. Ada M. Nixon, and the late Mr. Raese Nixon, all of Harpersville.

She is a graduate of Vincent High School, and is employed by Vulcan Binder & Cover Co. in Vincent.

The prospective groom is the grandson of Rev. and Mrs. Winford B. Lenn of Clanton, and Mrs. Edith Morgan, and the late Rev. Frank Morgan of Columbiana.

A September 11 wedding is planned at the First Assembly of God in Vincent at 3 p.m. All friends and relatives are invited to attend.

MISS LESIA DALE ALLRED
... to wed Darrel T. Holcombe

What Does Jesus Teach?

A cordial invitation is extended to all to take advantage of this opportunity to enroll in a bible correspondence course being offered by the South Columbiana Church of Christ.

Two weeks ago we sent out the first lesson to all Shelby, Columbiana and Wilsonville postal patrons. We hope that you'll request the following six lessons that complete the course. It is free for the asking, also, anyone who did not receive the first lesson can do so by contacting me, Mike Hunt. "Come now let us reason together saith the Lord," Isaiah 1:18.

M. Hunt

A warm welcome awaits you at the church of Christ at South Columbiana

See You Tomorrow at The Every Day Store.

Davis Drug has opened its doors every day of every week of every year since July 1, 1956. That kind of reliability is important when you need a prescription filled or first aid supplies. Even when you want a bit of advice about feeling better.

Come in Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. until 7 p.m.

We're also here Saturday from 8 a.m. until 6:30 p.m. and Sunday from 1 p.m. until 6 p.m. Since accidents and illnesses don't take holidays off, we're here then too.

Come to Davis Drug tomorrow. We'll be here.

You'll see why people say we're more than just another drug store.

Going for it

Pelham's Brian Hughes could not get his 6'3" frame high enough to prevent Jeff Denney from having a shot at an errant pass. Helping to make life miserable for Hughes is Shelby County's Ambrose Wood. Shelby County went on to defeat Pelham 21-7, Thursday night. See story on page six in the Reporter A section. (Photo by Fred Guarino)

Vets seek building, land donations

The Alabama Department of Veterans Affairs is looking for a location to build a 150 bed home for state veterans.

The recent legislature provided funds for the department to conduct a study to find possible sites for such a home. The state has 4,000 WWI veterans and over 165,000 WWII veterans. It is expected that the demand for long term nursing home care will increase over the next decade.

The building should be 35,000 square feet or more on approximately five acres of land.

Anyone interested in donating property or money for the project may contact the department at P.O. Box 1509, Montgomery, AL 36192, or any of the major veterans' organizations.

Columbiana gas project saves board $1 million

by David F. Moore

Do-it-yourself projects often save money, and apparently the Columbiana Gas Board is well aware of that.

When the board took outside estimates for replacing some 20 miles of aging and potentially dangerous gas lines, it was told the project would cost from $1.25 million to $1.5 million. But instead of contracting the project to an outside firm, the board decided to do the project itself -- and save about $1 million in the process.

Referred to as an "insert renewal program," the project was started in April and should be completed by the fall of 1984, according to gas board superintendent Jeff Hill.

On top of the savings to the board and customers, Hill said the do-it-yourself project also means seasonal employment to the five men hired by the gas board to help with the work.

The initial stages of the project involve replacing gas lines in the downtown section of Columbiana, and so far some 21,000 feet of line has been replaced, Hill said. Outlying areas will be replaced later.

Since each section of pipeline replacement involves disrupting gas service to adjacent customers for about eight hours, Hill explained that the crews will work only up until cold weather hits in November. Work will resume again in the spring.

Insert renewal involves running polyethylene lines through the present cast iron piping. Two-inch plastic lines are being inserted into four-inch mains, and 1.25-inch lines are being inserted into the old 2.25-inch lines.

Besides the savings in money, inserting the new lines into the old ones has the added bonus of a cast iron casing around the plastic piping.

Rabid bat found in Pelham leads to new series of clinics

With the discovery of a second rabid bat in Shelby County, health officials are urging pet owners to have their animals vaccinated.

After finding a rabid bat in the Wilsonville area on August 9, another one was discovered in Pelham on August 22.

Millard Cox said he was called into the dining room by his wife when she spotted the bat on August 22.

After knocking it unconscious with a blast of air from an unloaded pellet gun, Cox picked the bat up with a pair of pliers and put it in a fruit jar.

came into contact with the bat, which was later proven rabid by tests at the health department.

According to veterinarian Phillip Hubbard, other bats have been found recently, but they weren't rabid.

Hubbard says he doesn't know why so many bats have been reported lately. He says the recent hot weather may have something to do with it, or perhaps just coincidence.

In an effort to protect both humans and pets, Hubbard,

Cox said he is certain no humans or domestic animals along with veterinarian Lynn

Hall, is holding rabies clinics to vaccinate cats and dogs.

Express yourself with car tag

by Carolyn Smiley

They're a great way to advertise your business, introduce yourself, or just plain brag a little.

Personalized license tags -- they're all over the road these days. Everything from "MY LOVE" to "PAPADOC".

Nathalie Hamilton, of the Shelby County Probate Office, says there has been a remarkable increase in the sale of these unique tags.

"A lot of people just think they look better than the regular Alabama tag," says Hamilton.

The personalized tags, which are red and white this year, may contain up to seven letters, numbers, dashes or spaces. Three letters, such as initials, can be centered, says Hamilton.

The only drawback, she adds, is the price. The personalized tags cost $50 extra per year, and some people say that's too much money.

Despite the price, the tags seems to be very popular these days. Hamilton says she sells anywhere from two to six a week.

Names, initials, and kinds of cars are the most common, she says.

Business also use them as a means of advertising, such as "EF HUTN", "DRY ICE," and "SHAMPOO."

Hamilton says football players and fans use them as a way to support their favorite teams. Tags supporting Auburn and Alabama, like "GO AUB" and "BAMA," are popular.

Even Shelby County Sheriff Buddy Glasgow has personalized tags on his vehicles -- "GLASGOW" and "TIDE."

Hamilton says there are quite a few unusual ones, and some that just don't seem to make sense. How about "COD DOG" or "GERM"?

Whether you're an eye doctor with "EYES" or a hot rod boasting "BAD ZEE," personalized license tags are a unique way to express yourself.

Specialty item

Steve Pryor is one of the Shelby County residents who has ordered a personalized car tag. Pryor didn't say if people stop to listen to his particular tag, but people do read it.

Free day care program gets cut back by DPS

Free day care through the Shelby County Department of Pensions and Security will no longer be available to some parents.

The policy change takes place in October and will affect about 80 children in the county who currently receive free day care.

According to Susan Treadwell, director of the program in Shelby County, the change is due to reductions in funding for day care over the past few years.

But not everyone qualifying for day care will have to pay a fee. Treadwell said the amount of the fee will vary with the family's size and income.

The Department of Pensions and Security has scheduled meetings with day care providers and parents to explain the change in the fee system.

Hill elected to association

William R. Hill, Jr., district attorney of the 18th Judicial Circuit, was recently elected vice president of the Alabama District Attorneys Association.

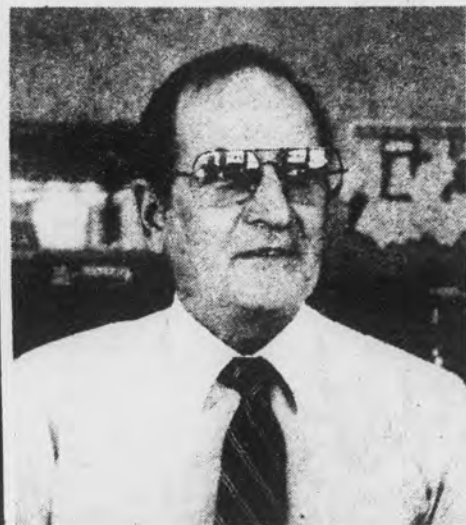

In addition to serving as vice president of the Association, Hill will also be a member of the executive committee which oversees the Alabama Office of Prosecution Services.

Statewide meetings set to explain new constitution

Secretary of State Don Siegelman announced Friday the scheduling of 10 regional public meetings as an "emergency statewide effort" to inform Alabamians about the proposed new constitution.

Alabamians will be voting to accept or reject the proposed constitution on Nov. 8.

Siegelman said there is a "critical and urgent need to examine the proposed new constitution and explain to citizens the importance of the changes and how those changes will impact their lives."

"In November, Alabamians will be voting on the most important constitutional question presented to them since the turn of the century," he said. "There is no doubt that the new constitution will make significant changes which will have an impact on all Alabamians."

Siegelman said the meetings are designed to help citizens examine in an objective manner the contents of the proposed constitution.

"We hope that once those attending the forums have gained a more complete knowledge of the document, they will in turn impart that information to others in classrooms, civic clubs and other organizations," said Siegelman.

"Through this means, we hope to stimulate a more informed electorate and a larger vote on Nov. 8," he said.

The meetings have been scheduled for the following dates and locations:

Sept. 19 - Jefferson County Courthouse, Probate Courtroom No. 2, Birmingham, 7 p.m.

September 20 - Colbert County Courthouse, Circuit Courtroom, Tuscumbia, 7 p.m.

September 21 - Constitution Hall, Huntsville, 7 p.m.

September 22 - Etowah County Courthouse, County Commission Meeting Room, Gadsden, 7 p.m.

Oct. 10 - University of Alabama School of Law, Tuscaloosa, 7 p.m.

Oct. 11 - Dallas County Courthouse Annex, County Commission Meeting Room, Selma, 7 p.m.

Oct. 19 - Mobile County Courthouse, Probate Courtroom, Mobile, 7 p.m.

Oct. 24 - Montgomery County Courthouse, Circuit Courtroom No. 2, Montgomery, 7 p.m.

Oct. 25 - Dothan Civic Center, Meeting Room No. 3, Dothan, 7 p.m.

Oct. 26 - Foy Student Union Building, Meeting Room No. 246, Auburn, 7 p.m.

Columbiana replaces gas lines

 "We had been getting a few breaks in the old lines," Hill said, "so we decided to go ahead and replace them. The project is being done strictly from a safety standpoint, not for gas loss problems or money."

According to Hill, it's only a matter of time before cast-iron gas lines are outlawed by the public safety commission. Such iron lines have been linked to gas explosions such as the one in Sylacauga two years ago, and one in Columbiana some 15 years ago, Hill said.

Columbiana's cast iron gas lines were laid in 1952. Because of the new paving on East College Street, Hill said that lines would not be replaced there until next year.

Insertion of the new lines requires that roads or sidewalks be dug up, but only in the places where gas taps or abrupt turns in the pipe occur, Hill explained. The entire project will affect service to some 500 customers.

SMC lauds workers

Shelby Medical Center honored some 40 employees for their years of service at a recent awards banquet.

The theme of the event was 'Aloha,' and Japanese chicken was served.

Frances Headley was given a 20-year pin for her work in the nursing department.

Fifteen-year pins went to Mary Gill, data processing, and Sarah Gentry and Claudelle Coates, also from nursing.

Ten-year awards went to Mary Charles Ivey, Nellie Haggard, Ruby Davis, Sarah Lacey, Mary Louise Gilmore, Virginia Beasley, Virginia Williams, Daisy Capps, Sally Trenhoms, Ruby Glass and Warren Hall.

Receiving five-year pins were: Leslie Lucas, Dorothy Freeman, Helen Glover, Teresa Sims, Helen Walker, Debra Satterfield, Donna Stafford, Sandra Morris, Shelia Poe, Kathy Boothe, Cora McMullin, Janice Lawley, Pearl Alexander, Annie Horton, Dorothy Waldrop, Christine Vickery;

Mary Quicksey, Billie Stewart, Rosie Lee, Shirley Holten, Neil Cash, Linda Kiker, Eddie Jean Dukes, Jettie McKnight, Leola Pierce, Myra Bean, Susan Aldridge, Robert Williams, Martha Whitfield, Pam Thompson, Flora Cooper, Rose Parker, Charles Smith and Melinda Capps.

Entertainment was provided by Irving Payne, Hal Atkinson and David Bradford. Meteorologist James Spann was guest speaker.

Do-it-yourself

Columbiana gas board's do-it-yourself line replacement project is saving some $1 million, as compared to bid prices offered by outside firms. Gas board superintendent Jeff Hill (foreground, in the ditch), says the old iron pipe that's being replaced will one day be outlawed for safety's sake.

County fair offers ride specials

One of the attractions at the Shelby County Fair this year is the return of pay-one-price night.

The fair will be in Columbiana from Monday through Saturday, September 12-17. The specials on the rides will be held Tuesday and Thursday nights, from 6-10 p.m.

After the general admission charge of $1 for those school-aged and above, a $5 pass can be bought entitling a person to unlimited rides.

Other than the rides, all other events are free.

Proceeds from the fair support the Columbiana Kiwanis Club's scholarship program, as well as scouting other civic projects.

Liquor store owner relieved

After a recent scare, the fears of the independent liquor store owners have been calmed.

The state Alcoholic Beverage Control Board has decided to rescind its ruling to discontinue the 10 percent discount to the independent liquor dealers.

After a request from Governor George Wallace and heavy lobbying from the Independent Liquor Dealer Association, the ABC voted unanimously to rescind the order last Wednesday.

Shelby County liquor store owner James Bishop said, "If they had not rescinded the order, package stores would have been in trouble."

"I'm relieved and happy they've decided to do that," he added.

DeSoto hosts fall festival

DeSoto Caverns will be hosting its annual September Fest Weekend on the 10th and 11th. Fest proceeds go to the American Cancer Society.

Festivities go from 9-6 p.m. both days, and plenty of country and bluegrass music (including the Brasher Brothers Band from Vandiver), square dancing and clogging are on tap, as well as arts and crafts. Picnicking is available.

The fest is held at the caverns, located several miles east of Childersburg on highway 76.

Marijuana cut down in Harpersville

Twelve-foot tall marijuana plants ready for harvesting were found in the Harpersville area last week.

Twenty-five plants were pulled up Wednesday by personnel from three law enforcement agencies, and confiscated for evidence.

There are no suspects at the present time.

According to James Jones, Chief Deputy with the Shelby County Sheriff's department, the street value of the marijuana would be somewhere in the neighborhood of $2,000-$2,500.

Jones told the Reporter that the sheriff's department and Harpersville Police Chief Aubrey Perrigin had both received tips as to the general location where the marijuana plants were growing.

Perrigin's information more closely pinpointed the location, Jones reported.

He said the plants were found in a swampy, wooded area about a mile off County 79.

Three deputies, Peringer, and three agents from the Alabama Beverage Control agency were involved in the search.

One of the ABC agents told the Reporter that the plants were grown in scattered areas.

"They didn't want to put all their eggs in one basket," he said, explaining why they weren't grown in one location.

The agent said that a number of plants had already been harvested.

Summer snow?

All it took to build a snowman in 90 degree heat was a little magic snow. Youngsters from a Pelham day care center and kindergarten found that ingredient at an ice packaging plant in their city. Mitch Martin, Lindsay Burke, and Christina and Dianne Dow were some of the children who got in on the fun. See story and picture on page A-7. (Photo by Bert Seaman)

Alabaster police crack large auto theft ring

by Bert Seaman

The theft of a pickup truck from the parking lot at Shelby Medical Center has led to the uncovering of a two-state car theft ring.

Now under investigation by the ABI and FBI, the initial discovery of the ring was made by Alabaster police officers.

Alabaster investigator Sgt. Larry Rollan and Sgt. Larry Horton arrested three suspects and turned up a stolen motorcycle and three stolen cars before the federal and state investigative agencies stepped into the case.

According to Rollan, the pickup which led to the discovery of the ring, was stolen from the SMC parking lot on Labor Day.

Assisted by Montevallo police, Alabaster officers were chasing the pickup when it ran off State 119 in the Montevallo city limits, a short distance from the doctors' clinic, Rollan said.

After arresting the driver, Willie Joe Moore, Rollan and Horton followed a trail which led to Maplesville where two more suspects were arrested.

Jimmy Lee Moore, a resident of Indiana, was arrested at his mother's home and Thomas Gayle, the Moores half brother, was arrested at his residence in Maplesville.

According to Rollan, cars stolen in Alabama have been shipped to relatives of the accused car thieves in Indiana to be sold.

Cars stolen from Indiana were sent here for resale, he reported.

Over a two-year period, Rollan and Horton said about 150 stolen vehicles had been taken out of Alabama and approximately 200 had been delivered here from the north.

The police officers said that several more arrests are expected.

Willie Moore is in the Shelby County jail under a $35,000 bond.

His brother and half brother are in the Chilton County jail.

County eyes funding that goes to hospital

by Fred Guarino

It's an almost sure bet that the Shelby County Commission will ask the county hospital board for help in funding county health services such as the county health department.

County Commissioners John Ames and Leon Archers have been granted commission approval to attend the next hospital board meeting on Tuesday, September 27.

The hand to be played by the county was tipped when Commissioner Harold Davenport made reference to services which include mental health, mosquito control and the health department.

"This health care facility thing is something the hospital should be committed to as well as the county," Davenport said.

He pointed out that the law states the hospital board can help.

"We are not asking them to help the sheriff or the highway department, but health care," Davenport continued. "I don't want to sound cruel but the way they guard it, you would think it's their money."

Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden echoed Davenport's demand for hospital help in financing county health care operations.

"I don't think anyone around this table wants to hurt that hospital in any way," Snowden said. "I personally feel that they've got the money to do it."

Gentry enters race for representative

Pelham businessman Ed Gentry has officially announced that he's seeking the Democratic appointment for House District 40.

The district stretches from Caldwell Mill Road in north Shelby, through Riverchase, Pelham, Helena, Alabaster, and the Pea Ridge area, and into northern Bibb County.

Gentry and Jim King are both seeking the October 1 appointment by the State Democratic Executive Committee. Whoever gets the nomination will face Republican Al Knight in the November 8 general election.

Gentry is the owner of Ed Gentry Sales, which serves water, gas and sewer markets throughout Alabama.

If elected, Gentry said he'll work to provide "positive, active, representation" to the citizens, businesses, and elected officials of the municipal and county governments in the district.

"I want to seek new businesses to bring in jobs and a more sound tax base, so we can have the money we need for better education and the things we always seem short on," Gentry said.

"You have to make things happen to bring new businesses into the area," he continued. "You can't just wait on them."

One way to do this, he said, is to work closer with area chambers of commerce and the Alabama Development Office.

He said his education, job experience, church and civic involvement qualify him to serve as state representative.

A native of Shelby County, Gentry graduated from Montevallo High School. In 1969 he received his Bachelor of Science degree in business administration from Livingston University where he was treasurer of the University Student Government.

Gentry is a member of the Crosscreek Baptist Church, the Pelham Chamber of Commerce, a board member on the Pelham Lions Club, and a member of the Alabama Natural Gas Association.

He lives on Valleyview Drive with his wife and two sons.

Sumners tosses hat into District 41 ring

Wayne Sumners of Harpersville has officially announced that he's seeking the Democratic appointment for House District 41.

The district, located totally within Shelby County, includes Calera, Columbiana, Harpersville, Montevallo, Vincent and Wilsonville, as well as portions of north Shelby.

If Sumners receives the appointment from the State Democratic Executive Committee, he will face Republican opposition from Jim Entekin in the November 8 general election.

Sumners, a Shelby County native, graduated from Vincent High School in 1972, attended Auburn University, and graduated from UAB with honors.

From 1976-80 he was a coach and teacher at Vincent. He is presently employed by the Alabama Education Association and works with eight school systems in Jefferson and Shelby Counties.

He worked with the Young Democrats at Auburn, and as an 11-year member of the Shelby County Democratic Executive Committee has worked in campaigns at the local, state and national levels.

Sumners said the focus of his campaign will be on meeting the needs of the county and its citizens as growth and expansion continues.

"It is time that we plan for the future and not just react to problems once they are upon us," Sumners said. "We must insure the quality of our educational system and we must provide all Shelby County citizens with adequate water, fire protection, sewage disposal and other needed services."

"It is time that cooperation be the rule rather than the exception. By working with the County Commission, the Board of Education, the municipalities and other governmental agencies, I believe we can overcome any problem that we may encounter," he said.

WAYNE SUMNERS

He is a member of the Vincent Baptist Church, treasurer and board member of the Alabama Professional Staff Organization, and a past treasurer of Sigma Pi fraternity. He is married and has two children.

Three rabid bats found

by David F. Moore

Three rabid bats have been found in Shelby County since the Labor Day weekend. In at least one of the incidents an infected bat bit a pet cat.

•The most recent bat -- discovered Monday with positive rabies results posted on Tuesday -- was found on the carport of a residence near Bozo's Camp on Lay Lake.

•Last Friday a dead bat which later proved rabid was found in front of an office on Main Street in Montevallo.

•On Sunday, September 4, a pet cat named April Fools attacked a bat in the yard of a Camp Branch area home.

"The bat was standing up on its hind legs screeching," said Jean Hahn, who lives with her family off Fire Tower Road. "You could see his fangs -- about a quarter-inch long."

"The cat bit the bat. The bat bit the cat. It was a real battle," she said.

Her father finally killed the bat with a shovel and they put it in a jar. The state lab in Birmingham, which did a rabies test on the bat, reported Thursday that the results were positive.

"The previous articles in the Reporter had worried me, so I had taken all our cats for rabies shots five days before," Hahn said.

Since the cat had been vaccinated, she said her veterinarian told her it would probably be all right.

The dead bat in Montevallo was found by Roberta Fields as she came to work at Roberts Realty about 7:10 a.m. Friday.

"It was laying right in front of the door," she said. "I just stepped on inside and got the waste basket and sat it over the bat."

Fields said she was concerned about children walking past on the way to school, and called police chief Allen Needham to take care of the bat. Again, the lab test showed the animal to be rabid.

On Monday morning, L. M. Berry and his wife found a bat on the floor of their open carport near Bozo Camp.

"It was on the carport and my husband stomped it and picked it up with a spade," she said. "We dropped it in a plastic bag. Neither of us handled it -- I'd read about the other bats in the paper, so we called about it."

Because the lab test came back positive, Berry said she would notify her several neighbors to see if their dogs had been vaccinated.

"It doesn't pay to take a chance with some things," she said.

"I just hope they don't wait until someone dies before they come down on this," Hahn said.

Montevallo council gets task force ball rolling

by Bert Seaman

The Montevallo City Council started the ball rolling Monday night to implement task force recommendations for improving the educational and economic climate of the city.

The recommendations for making the city an even better place in which to live were drawn up by a committee of 29 citizens who conducted a survey of area residents.

In choosing which proposals to present for the council's consideration, Mayor Ralph Sears said that the deciding factor was the requirement for little or no funding.

Improvements of race relations are one area in which the council felt immediate action could be taken.

In order to establish a better line of communication, the council approved the formation of a bi-racial commission to be appointed by the Mayor. There will be 11 people serving on that commission which will meet at regular intervals to discuss problems of concern.

In order to improve educational opportunities for the city's young people, the council backed task force's recommendation of the Committee of Six to explore and execute ways of increasing cooperation among the local schools and the University of Montevallo.

Committee members will be the Mayor, the three school principals, the Dean of the College of Education, and UM President Jim Vickrey. A compact to increase cooperation at specified levels of activity was also approved by the council.

In an effort to improve facilities at the three schools, the council agreed with the task force recommendation that an inventory of specific needs should be completed by the Committee of Six.

The task force further recommended that the needs be made available to the community with a multi-year plan for funding, plus the preparation of a timetable for fulfilling the various goals.

Another thrust to improve the quality of education that might require funding was the adoption of a proposal that Southern Association of Colleges and Schools accreditation be an absolute necessity for each of the three local schools.

Whatever is needed to meet the accreditation standards is to be presented to the council, with the assumption the council would try and come up with the required funds.

According to George Dailey, a staff member at the Board of Education office who was present at the meeting, Montevallo Middle School is the only school lacking Southern accreditation.

Proposals from the task force that the council did not go along with included the appointment of an ad hoc committee to ensure the quantity and quality of recreation programs.

"We already have a park and recreation board and I don't see any reason to appoint another committee," the Mayor remarked.

The council agreed with that reasoning and they also decided there was no need to appoint an advisory committee to the Industrial Development Board.

"It seems that would be a duplication of effort," Sears noted.

"We can commit ourselves to death," Sears said. "That's what we're approaching."

Three grand champions named

Fair opens to damp crowd, livestock shows

Despite often heavy opening day rains, a number of people turned out Monday for livestock competition at the county fair.

Held under a tent, Monday's showings 4-H and FFA members included prize beef, heifers and steers, as well as a first for the fair -- a lamb show.

Earning grand champion honors in Mondays competition were Doug Jennings, Max Eisenburg and Wayne Jones.

Tuesday's special events included a dairy show, and Wednesday the horse show was held.

Today (Thursday), free beauty and talent shows will be held at 7 p.m. in the Shelby County High School auditorium. Too, one special price at the gate entitles fair goers to unlimited rides on the midway.

The midway is also the feature attraction Friday, and Saturday Randy Glenn and The Travelers will put on a free concert (after general gate admission is paid) from 8 - 10 p.m. in the grandstand.

Proceeds from the county fair go to the fund the Columbiana Kiwanis Club's scholarship program and other civic activities.

Listed from first to third place by category, the winners in Monday's competition are:

BEEF SHOW

Jr. Showmanship, Beef: Scott

Atchison, Wayne Jones, and Lance Byrd.

Sr. Showmanship, Beef: Doug Jennings, Jessica Ann Eisenberg, and Todd Atchison.

HEIFER SHOW

Class I: Scott Atchison and Vickie Wheeler.

Class II: Todd Atchison.

Class III: Doug Jennings (first & second place), and Scott Salter.

Class IV: Scott Salter.

Doug Jennings was named Grand Champion and Todd Atchison won Reserve Champion.

LAMB SHOW

Light Weight: Max Eisenburg, Wade Berry, and Wayne Booth.

Heavy Weight: Max Eisen-burg, Kelly Booth, and Renee Byrd.

Max Eisenburg was named Grand Champion and Kelly Booth won Reserve Champion.

Medium Weight: Robby Johnson, Jessica Ann Eisenburg, and Scott Atchison.

Heavy Weight: Wayne Jones, Todd Atchison, and Lance Byrd.

Wayne Jones was named Grand Champion and Todd Atchison won Reserve Champion.

Education program gets its fireworks

by Fred Guarino

The community education program in Shelby County began without many fireworks last year in Calera.

A fulltime high school science teacher, Lamont Franklin, was named as its director and the City of Calera gave her $1,000 to operate with.

Holding classes at Calera High School, the program was well received. However, proposals for federal funding yielded no results.

But now some fireworks are going off.

Suddenly the program has been awarded a $10,000 grant through the state which could mushroom its services into serving other communities.

According to Franklin, "...The state was so impressed with what we did without any funding except the $1,000 that the city gave us, that it came up with the grant."

She stated that the funding stipulates that the program be expanded beyond Calera into communities that give it a good reception.

Although plans are not complete for use of the $10,000, Franklin said that she will have an administrative assistant for the first time, Tammy Arrington.

Arrington will serve to help Franklin expand the programs now offered.

In addition, the City of Calera is providing Franklin with $900 for a second telephone at Calera High School to be used by Arrington.

Courses currently offered by the community education program include:

- English Smocking on Mondays from 6-8 p.m., four sessions
- Slinnastics for Women, Mondays and Thursdays from 6-7, six sessions
- Theatre Workshop, Thursdays from 6-8 p.m., six sessions
- Introduction to Technical Theatre, Mondays from 6-8 p.m., six sessions

- Storm Window Construction, times to be announced
- Adult Basic Education GED preparation classes, continuously on Mondays and Thursdays from 6-8 p.m.
- Nature Photography, one time, October 17

- Anyone Can Paint, Thursdays from 6-8 p.m., six sessions

Franklin stressed that these courses were arranged before receipt of the grant money and now expansion is planned.

At this time Franklin is unable to identify the exact source of her grant funding and stated that many details are still to be worked out.

Pelham Library seeks funds

It will cost the City of Pelham at least $200,000 to put a first class library in the basement of the new North Shelby Health Department building.

Jay Dorrance gave the report from the Pelham Library Board at a meeting of city council Monday night.

Understanding that Pelham does not have the kind of money in question, Dorrance said the library board recommends that 50 percent of the amount be spent in the first year of a three-year project.

He later told the Reporter that an architect has estimated the cost of the library at $312,000.

But Dorrance said that figure was valid only if heating and cooling equipment must be provided by the city.

"I propose that the City of Pelham put a first class operation over there," Dorrance told the council. "I hope that when the budget is made you will seriously consider first class. We will work with whatever the budget is."

Water gets closer to Dunnivant Valley

The Dunnivant Valley Water Authority is a step closer to incorporation.

An application filed by Carl D. Hulsey, Margie D. Isbell and Robert F. McClough was accepted by a resolution of the Shelby County Commission Monday morning.

The certificate of application was also signed by Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden.

The remaining steps include the filing of a certificate of incorporation and the nomination and approval of a board of directors.

In addition, Dorrance asked the council to provide $4,000 for a space use study to be made of the new building's basement.

In other matters brought before the council:

A zoning change from A-1 (agricultural) to R-2 (multiple dwelling) was approved for Marilyn Hinds for property along County 52.

No objections to the change were voiced during a public hearing portion of the council meeting.

After calling for any possible objections several times, Councilman Ray Hamilton moved that the zoning be approved.

A beer and wine license application was denied Robert K. Prescott and Michael B. Gunn. The two wanted to operate a place of business called Brian's Quick Stop at the Sureway Gas location.

Councilman K. O. Maynard objected to the selling of intoxicants and gasoline at the same location.

The water authority plans to contract with the City of Leeds to purchase water for its estimated 280 customers.

Suits name Alabaster, Helena and police

A $2.6 million lawsuit has been filed against four law enforcement officers and two Shelby County cities.

Shirley Juanita Smith and her husband, Sidney Barry Smith claim that their arrests, and the way Mrs. Smith was treated, resulted in the loss of her unborn baby.

Defendants in the suit are former Helena policeman Jesse Payne, Alabaster police officer Richard Harmon and former Alabaster policeman Billie Sanders, who has since transferred to the Alabaster Fire Department.

Also named are Alabama Bureau of Investigation agent Ronnie Cribbs and the cities of Alabaster and Helena.

Smith was arrested at Barry's Hide-a-way in Helena last July and taken to the Alabaster jail.

Mrs. Smith rowined her husband to Alabaster and was arrested at the jail.

She had been a participant in an arm wrestling contest at the Helena lounge/gameroom.

The couple contend that they were unlawfully arrested and that unreasonable force was used.

The cities are charged with failing to properly hire, train and supervise their police officers.

After being filed in Jefferson County in July, the suit was transferred last month to Shelby County Circuit Court.

The Smiths live on Horn Drive in Birmingham.

Housing takes plunge then climbs

by Marcia M. Sears

It's been an up and down pattern this season on new housing starts in the towns of north Shelby County.

But it appears that the area is now on an upswing in building new homes and housing units.

High interest rates virtually stopped new housing construction in Shelby County in 1981 and 1982. Lower rates this spring, however, provided the incentive to start building again.

May was a good month, but when interest rates started creeping up again, June and July weakened. By August, confidence had returned, interest rates appeared stabilized, and city halls were issuing more and more building permits.

Alabaster, for instance, issued 13 building permits in May. It dropped to six in June, five in July and jumped to 16 in August, according to building inspector Milton Allen.

In Pelham, building inspector George Anderson reports that 14 permits were issued in June for one-family houses; two permits for pools; and four for commercial buildings, including one church.

In July, Pelham saw only four house permits issued, two pool permits, one commercial building and two additions.

But the August figures for Pelham zoomed. There were 17 permits for homes, one for a pool; one permit for seven townhouse units, and one for a commercial structure.

Most of these permit requests came from developers rather than from individuals, Anderson said.

Helena showed a slightly different pattern, with six permits for homes in June, four in July and only one in August.

But, City Clerk Frances Parrish says, the total number of permits issued in Helena in 1983 is already double the number issued in 1982.

The City of Hoover does not keep statistics separately on the Riverchase area, which is partially in north Shelby County.

However, the office of building inspector Gerald Smith separated the figures for August for the Reporter and said that there were 12 housing starts in Riverchase with a total value of $1,099,000 that month.

There are no figures available for the amount of housing construction outside the city limits, because the county has no regulations on issuance of building permits.

NEW HOUSING PERMITS

Helena chickens go to circuit court

If chickens are kept as pets, can they live in a Helena subdivision?

That is the question Judge Kenneth Ingram must decide after he reads the written arguments that will be submitted by attorneys for the city and the defendant in the case.

Judge Ingram listened to the facts about the chickens in Sunnysbrook subdivision as they were presented in Shelby County's circuit court Wednesday.

It's the city's contention that the owner of the chickens, Curtis Mims, is violating the city's zoning ordinance by keeping agricultural type animals in the subdivision which is zoned R-1 (single family).

Mims and his attorney, William Halbrooks, contend that since the chickens are not used for any commercial purpose, but are considered family pets, they are not in violation of the zoning laws.

The chickens, which have ranged in number from three to eight, have been confined in a pen since Mims started keeping them. He has four at the present time.

City attorney Frank "Butch" Ellis pointed out that it was the council's intention when they passed the ordinance to keep animals considered agricultural out of residential areas.

"We can't find anything that prohibits what we're doing," Halbrooks told the judge, "and we don't find the intent that Ellis mentioned."

Judge Ingram gave Ellis 21 days to file his brief. After it has been filed, he gave the defendant's attorney 21 days to answer.

After reading the arguments for both sides, the judge will make his decision.

Montevallo orders city districting map

by Bert Seaman

Although the Montevallo Council hasn't made a final commitment on districting the city, it agreed Monday to have a map prepared.

The division into districts is being pushed by black community members who want to be represented on the city's governing body.

If the new voting procedure is approved, council candidates will run according to districts, with only the Mayor still running at large.

One of the five districts will be made up of mainly black voters.

Mayor Ralph Sears instructed City Administrator Don Hughes to contact the Birmingham Regional Planning Commission and have them start on the map.

The Mayor said the 1980 census would have to be used in dividing the population into districts since the cost of a new census would be too expensive.

The three-year old census will include University of Montevallo students, which black leaders had hoped would not be included in the count.

During the discussion at Monday's meeting, Councilwoman Catherine Legg asked black community leader George Dailey if he knew of other cities Montevallo's size that were using the district method of voting.

Dailey said he knew of other cities which voted under this system, but did not know their size.

Legg and others on the council have said they're concerned that the change would not be in the best interests of the city.

"What if no one wants to run from the black district?" Councilman Johnny Holsomback asked.

The city administrator replied that someone would have to be appointed.

In order to have a better understanding of the situation with the black community, the council asked if they could attend a meeting of the Suburban League.

Dailey said a meeting will be called for that purpose.

In order to have the new voting procedure in place before the next election in July, 1984, it must have final approval by January.

In other business:

The council accepted the resignation of electrical inspector Gene Walters.

•Hughes reported that the municipal court had ordered the conditional forfeiture of $5,100 worth of alias bonds.

•Finance chairman J.A. Brown said his committee is not considering the task force proposed one cent sales tax at the present time.

Branch office bills come under fire

by Fred Guarino

Two bills from the operation of the county's license branch office in Pelham are under fire.

At a Monday meeting County Commissioner John Ames expressed the belief that the bills -- which are for office supplies and typewriters, and amount to nearly $5,300 -- violate the intent of the bid law.

"If there is a specific need, you cannot camouflage it with 50 purchase orders," he said.

Ames pointed out that the county paid for bills amounting to $3,386.56 with check No. 12391.

Of that amount, Ames said that $377.75 was for office supplies for the county coroner and $3,008.53 was for office supplies for the license branch office.

The commissioner also pointed out that the county paid $2,322 for two typewriters with check No. 12413.

One of the typewriters was purchased on July 13 and another on July 19, according to Ames.

"I think an auditor would hold that we needed both typewriters at the same time," he stated.

Although Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden agreed to check the legality of the purchases, Ames moved to suspend payment.

The motion to hold payment until a written statement of legality can be received was seconded by Harold Davenport and approved.

The written statement must also show that the bills cannot be back charged to the commission.

And same insurance

County employees want raise

An across the board pay raise... "as is" employee insurance coverage... increased Christmas bonuses...

Those items appeared on a list of requests to Shelby County Commission which was made Monday by the public works department business committee.

Although the commission is seeking a means to cut the $550,000 now paid in insurance premiums, committee chairman Kenneth Walton pleaded the case for leaving things as they are.

"We respectfully request that the county commission please keep our insurance coverage as is," Walton said. "For people who don't make much money, that's one thing that helps us a lot."

Walton said that while he understands the county's insurance expense, he asked that employees who make as little as $8,000 per year be considered.

With regard to salaries, Walton requested a $45 bi-weekly raise ($90 per month) for all county employees. He said it has been 19 months since the last pay increase.

In a request specifically for the public works department, Walton asked that Christmas bonuses be prorated on five-year increments.

Walton said that the county's bonuses stop at $600 for employees with 20 years service.

However, he said, 11 employees in the department have more than 25 years service, and four have over 30 years service.

He stressed that the way things are now, these people receive no more at Christmas than employees with less time.

In this light, Walton asked that bonuses be increased $100 for each five years of service. That would mean employees with 25-30 years would receive $700 and men with 30 or more years of service would receive $800.

Presently, the total cost of the bonus request would be $1,500.

Walton made it clear that his committee understands its organization carries no official power.

"Our business committee was established several years ago. If we have a request, we bring it to you simply as a request. We don't have any bargaining power," Walton said.

Beat 13 zoning issue up for second vote

The issue of zoning in Beat 13 goes before voters there next Tuesday.

Registered voters living within the beat will be able to have their say on zoning when the booth opens at 7 a.m. at Bowles Springs Church on State 119 near Lake Purdy.

A similar proposal for zoning in the district was defeated last April.

Although there are only about 140 registered voters in the beat, it bounds the east side of US 280 which is undergoing considerable development.

Silent poor need uplift

Finance committees all over Shelby County are now in the process of developing budgets for the next fiscal year which begins October 1.

A big part of the budget for every city in the county goes for police and fire protection. The largest part of the county budget goes for highways and for the sheriff's department.

Every year governing bodies grapple with the problem of matching up their expected income with their expected expenses.

The chief goal of each of them is to provide services that the people need.

But what services do people need the most, and in what order? That is the question that plagues all budget planners. Quite often the vocal and persuasive members of the public make such strong cases for their particular interests that the budget committees allocate large pieces of the budget to them.

But there are many people out there who do not know how to articulate their needs, and in fact, do not know that government could be doing things to make their lives richer.

We would ask that the budget committees remember these people. They are often the ones who are bearing the heavier tax burden, particularly with the sales tax. Most of their income is spent on food, and its accompanying sales tax.

People with higher incomes may spend a little more on food, but each person can only eat so much, and the sales tax on food is not the burden to the well-to-do that it is to the poor.

In light of this, we suggest that governments spend more money on activities that would provide excitement and give purpose to their lives, that would in turn bring them into the mainstream of community life.

Some of these programs are in the arts: drama, music, dance.

Others are in the parks and outdoors. Still others are in the form of classes to improve skills in everything from the arts to sewing, woodworking and hobbies.

The list is endless and includes any type of activity that uplifts the human spirit and makes life fuller and happier for people of all ages.

If it means someone has to be hired to coordinate the programs, then do it. Salaries for this type of person are lower than for many others on the city or county payroll.

The result would be better communities and a better lifestyle for all.

Letters to the editor

Zoning endorsed for Beat 13

Letter to the editor:

The question of zoning in Beat 13 is again being brought to a vote next week. Since I own no property in Beat 13, may I offer an objective opinion...

We all need to come to the realization that North Shelby County is no longer "rural". That this area is the fastest growing area in the state is an understatement, as the 1980 census figures will certainly bear out. When an area experiences explosive growth, there needs to be some organization and control by the duly elected government for the benefit of its citizens.

Zoning is not just a clever scheme invented by the big property owners and the real estate agents. Rather, zoning is for the benefit of all property owners; and especially the small property owners, who have most of their net worth invested in their property. True, zoning does limit my freedom in what I can do with my property (in Beat 12). Likewise, zoning limits what my neighbor can do with his property also. When the almighty dollar gets involved, my neighbor's consideration for my property values diminishes rapidly.

The purpose of zoning, therefore, is not to tell me what I can do with my property. Rather, it prevents my neighbor from making a big profit at the expense of my property values.

Zoning supports the property values of all. Zoning organizes and controls growth to the benefit of the area and its citizens.

Sincerely,
Joe A. Scotch, Jr.

Hospital: please send money

Open Letter to the Board members of Shelby Medical Center:

Once again, there appears to be a communication gap between the Commission and you Board members.

When Commissioner Archer and I made the presentation to you earlier this year, we stated that without your help, proration would occur. I think the facts for our eleven months performance do bear that out.

We also stated that both of us inherited a fiscally unsound management at the Commission and that we were working to change that.

As evidence of this, please consider the following:

1. Reversal of the ill advised second homestead exemption. (This affects your revenue as well as ours.)

2. Requirement on all department heads to justify new employees or not be permitted to hire them.

3. Created job description for County Clerk/Administrator.

4. Entered into basic personnel study with Joe Curtin to obtain guidance in complete revamp of Countywide system.

5. Advised Law Enforcement Personnel Board that we would require a basis for deputy pay other than presently in existence.

6. Required early submission of budget requests and detailed examination will not permit excess next year.

7. Implementation of an on-line computer budget management system 9-1-83 to be tracked in a parallel manual system until 10-1-83 and then operate fully automatic.

Ladies and gentlemen you must understand that we do not control our revenue, merely our expenditures. We are dependant on the legislature for our level of tax income and our fee schedule.

I am sure that by now you know that this past session allowed three bills for Shelby County to be voted on. We asked for one, expressly asked that one not be passed, and thought the other unconstitutional. So much for any help there.

I hope that you can see that we have lived up to our word, by reviewing all of the above.

A preliminary look at next year's budget indicates a potential need for around $250,000. This would cover Public Health, Mental Health and Mosquito Control only.

I think that with a combination of continued fiscal responsibility and increased tax income from commercial construction next year, we will be at a balanced budget or even a slight excess.

If final examination bears out these preliminary findings, we will ask you to commit the $250,000 this month and I am sure each of you will give it your full consideration in light of the facts presented here.

Yours Truly,
John W. Ames

Why keep health tax?

Letter to the Editor

As a 20-year resident of Shelby County I have a yet unanswered question. Is the hospital tax that all Shelby County property owners pay going to be dropped as promised when it was imposed? If so when? If not why?

As a business man and observer of "politics as usual" I realize that you can continue to add on to, and build new hospitals forever, and say "when we are finished."

In answer to the Shelby County Reporter's article to write and the directors will answer each letter, I would appreciate a personal response or one in the form of an answer in the Reporter.

If ya'll have funds to replace a boiler, etc., but can get by without it as stated in one article, that further reinforces my belief you have too much tax money.

Also if ya'll have left over funds in the amount of $850,000 to turn back to the Commission, this whole hospital tax is a sham and should be abolished.

Some people will probably take the same stand as the Russians on the downing of Korean flight 007: We didn't do it!

Respectfully,
Sherwood Stamps

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member of the FDIC.

This I'd like to do again: Pause and look at the apples in Mrs. John Johnson's side yard and make like I had a nickel... Get my first real letter at the old post office on the south end of Main with a faded forget-me-not inside...

Just one more time let me hunt the quarter I lost on the path between Mrs. McMillan's house and Granny's house that was my pay for taking Mrs. McMillan's cow to the dipping vat... Trudge through Ben King's pasture on the way to Browning Mill Pond with the temperature 120... Go to Aunt Jenny's house on the edge of town past the Poor Farm where there were watermelons in the summer and boiled peanuts in the fall...

Go to the wet weather spring back of Toliver Taylor's house on Turner Boulevard where Spring's first violets peeped out a little while after the last frost... Hunt rooster-head violets on the road up the side of Mount Dixie... Find the honey-suckle ditch in Bruton Pitts' pasture back of the high school and take one more look for the bobwhite we crippled 65 years ago and didn't find...

while the baseball team was warming up... Drool while Will Longshore rifled balls into Harry Gordon's goose lot... See Bertrued Murphy play right end on the football team... And Dewey Green drop-kicking field goals from 50 yards out...

Play horseshoes in Granny's back yard with Marcus Polk and Doug Holman and James Longshore and Hector Lyons...

Get a new air-rifle and crawl all over J.B. Turner's pasture hunting grass sparrows... Chase robins after a snow storm with Helen McMillan, hoping they're rabbits...

Spend all morning knocking speejink marbles out of a ring... Fish for little catfish on Walkie Creek after a hard rain... Go to the wash-hole in Longshore's pasture... Smell the wood burning in September... Hurry to get a drink at the well back of the school house between first and second bell... Send home-made Valentines to most everybody and hope you get one from a certain girl... Hunt willow switches on the ditch back of the school house...

Yep, I'd like to do it again... And call back Father Time and make like it is 1916. When a man was a boy and time was something special.

Scrambled Eggs

by Bert Seaman

Isn't there a play or movie with the title "The Ice Man Cometh?"

If there is, I don't have the least idea what it's about.

But what brought the title to my mind was an encounter I had last week.

Believe it or not - it was with an ice man. Actually it was an ice snowman.

I even had a premonition that it was going to happen.

Walking past a building near my office, I jokingly asked a fellow who I'd photographed with a snowman he'd built, if he wasn't ready to build another.

Of course the idea seemed preposterous in the 90 degree heat.

But lo and behold if I didn't get a call not an hour later asking me to take a picture of some youngsters building a snowman.

My caller informed me that they would use magic snow in the project.

And she went on to explain that the magic substance was actually crushed ice.

The children were going to take a trip to an ice packing plant with the construction of a snowman as the grand finale of the trip.

When I arrived at the location, Mister Snowman was standing grandly atop an ice mountain wearing a top hat and brandishing a broom.

The little ones had already shed their winter caps and coats, and their wet mittens had been laid out in the sun to dry.

It was the strangest sight on a summer's day! The sun beating down on the ice mountain was worse than the glare of the sun on a sandy beach.

I wished I had my sunglasses handy. But when I stepped into the cold wet ice, trying to get closer for a picture of the snowman, I wanted a pair of boots.

Sandals were definitely not the appropriate footwear for that assignment.

I remember the boots, snowpants, coat, scarf, cap and mittens that my mother forced me to wear when I went out in the snow.

In the wintry climes where I grew up, dressing to go out and then taking off all those duds when one came in was quite a time consuming ordeal.

However, looking back at that time now, the inconvenience caused by snow doesn't seem so bad.

I guess if I had to live through a northern winter again though, I'd be ready to come back to home sweet home.

And where else I ask you, would you find anyone building a snowman in the summer?

The Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

The safest political prediction to be made at this time is that the proposed New State Constitution will come under heavy attack in the coming weeks.

The document will be on the Nov. 8 special election ballot for ratification (or rejection) by the voters, and thus far very little has been heard on the subject. That will soon change.

Several knowledgeable sources have in fact predicted that Gov. George Wallace may shy away from endorsing the Constitution. That alone could kill it. History shouts the precedent that it is far easier to kill a constitutional amendment -- and that's what this is, in effect -- than to pass one. When in doubt, Alabama voters have nearly always voted "no" on propositions of this sort.

Interestingly, most of the opposition expressed thus far has not been aimed at any specific provision in the document, but rather on the grounds that nobody knows what's in it.

Odds and Ends -- Somewhat to the dismay of some Montgomery property owners, the state has decided to re-locate the Alabama Legislature into the Highway Department building during the two year renovation of the Capitol building. The project will begin at the end of the 1984 Regular Session.

By that time the present Highway Department building (directly behind the Capitol) will be vacant, the employees having moved into their new building located near the site of what once was Kilby Prison. At one time the state had looked at several privately-owned buildings in Montgomery as the temporary meeting place for the lawmakers...

Despite an exceedingly light turnout of voters, Alabama Republican leaders insist they were pleased with the legislative primary elections held in five districts last week. In the only race of statewide note, incumbent Sen. Spencer Bachus defeated incumbent Rep. Van Scott for the House seat now held by the latter. Bachus had opted to run for the House rather than run against his Republican senatorial colleague, Sen. Bill Cabiness...

It was an understandable question, what with the recent publicity concerning the generous fringe benefits which are accorded them. The question: Are football coaches covered by the State Ethics Law which prohibits a state employee from using his position for personal gain?

While coaches are indeed state employees, they are not covered by the law. Specifically exempt from the law are all instructional personnel (teachers, faculty members), and coaches are considered faculty members...

said. County health officials are urging pet owners to have all domestic animals vaccinated against rabies.

Furthermore, they suggest that anyone with bats in their attic or barn should call an exterminator.

However, "you really can't just eradicate all the bats," said health department director Ron Stutts, noting that some bats are on the endangered species list.

Stutts said that any bat on the ground would be acting abnormally, and therefore should be suspected of carrying rabies.

So far, five rabid bats have been found in Shelby County since August. The others were found in Wilsonville and Pelham.

Program takes aim at welfare cheats

Within the last two years, individuals guilty of welfare fraud in Shelby County have been ordered to repay $30,000.

But that amount is expected to double as the result of a new pilot project begun in Shelby and five other counties.

The program -- initiated by Shelby County District Attorney Billy Hill and Joe Carlton from the Office of Prosecution Services -- went into effect the first of August.

Six individuals charged with welfare fraud pled not guilty in Shelby County Circuit Court Thursday, and will be tried Nov. 7.

They are charged with illegally taking a total of $5,486. Defendants and the amounts they allegedly took are: Florida Johnson, $1,313; Minnie Earline Davis, $1,899; Willie and Johnnie Williams, $1,252; Willard Reach, $593.

The project, aimed at people who supposedly cheat the needy by unlawfully collecting food stamps, is sponsored by the State District Attorneys' Association, the State Department of Pensions and Security, and the Office of Prosecution Services.

According to a DA spokesperson, DPS workers will identify the alleged welfare cheats by cross checking employment records at the Board of Industrial Relations and welfare rolls.

Welfare rolls will also be checked against each other to make sure individuals are not obtaining welfare services in more than one county.

Lawley murder trial set

Gerald Lawley pled not guilty to killing Birmingham art dealer Malcolm McRae during an arraignment in Shelby County Circuit Court Thursday.

McRae's body was found April 17 in a wooded area a short distance from the Cahaba River near Helena. He had been missing since February.

In a statement to investigators with the Shelby County Sheriffs department, Lawley said that the shooting was accidental.

The 32-year old Homewood man is also charged with taking $700 McRae had in a briefcase either at the time of the killing or afterward.

Lawley has been in the Shelby County jail under a $100,000 bond since his indictment.

His trial date was set for Nov. 7.

Fifteen defendants plead not guilty

Michael Skinner could be sentenced to life without parole under the Habitual Offender act.

Skinner pled not guilty to the charge of escape 1st degree during arraignment in Shelby County Circuit Court Thursday.

The alleged escape took place while Skinner was serving time in the Shelby County jail for robbery.

Vincent city clerk Frances Spates also pled not guilty during the arraignment proceedings.

Spates is charged with forging a prescription.

Gabriel P. Morales, who allegedly tried to entice a girl under the age of 12, pled not guilty to attempted sexual abuse 1st degree.

Other defendants entering not guilty pleas during Thursday's arraignments are: Robert Crouse, buying, receiving, concealing stolen property; Daryl T. Atkinson, theft of property 2nd degree; Johnny Ray Johnson, burglary 3rd degree; Ralph Robinson, theft 1st degree; Mitchell Tyler, theft of property, 2nd degree.

Floyd Vance Fowler, burglary 3rd degree; Mark Moran, violation of the Alabama uniform controlled substances act; Kenneth Lane Powers, receiving stolen property 1st degree;

Richard Hardin, two counts of burglary 3rd degree; John D. Simmons, theft of property 1st degree; Richard J. Hendricks, theft of services 2nd degree; Marilyn Overton, forgery.

Their trials are to be held in November.

Defendants who did not appear and are considered alias are: Jimmy Wayne Wood, criminal mischief 1st degree; Robert Levert, burglary 3rd degree.

Bobby J. Wideman pled guilty to burglary 3rd degree and will be sentenced later this month.

Elastic plant lays off 26 employees

by Fred Guarino

The twenty-six employees Elastic Corporation laid off last week may be the last casualties of a plant streamlining operation.

The Columbiana plant has laid off 110 people during the past year. But according to personnel manager Don Blackerby, no additional layoffs are expected, and a comeback of sorts is in the offing.

Blackerby told the Reporter Tuesday night that many of those who have been laid off could be recalled in a couple of months.

He explained that over the past year the company has cut its labor force while getting out of the fashion belt business.

He also pointed out that some new management people have come in to streamline the plant's operation.

However, the personnel manager said that the company also purchased the old National Standard Building and purchased new knitting equipment.

With the new knitting equipment expected to come in November, Blackerby said that the company could bounce back from a labor force of 214 to 300 people.

That number would be just 50 short of the pre-layoff level.

Calera loosens purse strings

Calera City Council played Santa Claus -- on September 6.

At its meeting that night the council agreed to provide lights at Calera Elementary School along the city's right of way.

It also approved $900 to finance an additional phone line for the Calera Community Education Program.

Furthermore, Councilman Mark Jones was authorized to spend $1,200 to purchase a new public address system for the high school football field.

The council met that Tuesday because its regular Monday meeting conflicted with Labor Day. The Calera Council's next regular meeting will be at 7 p.m., this Monday.

Business news briefs

The Piggly Wiggly super-market in Montevallo has begun an expansion of its present facility.

Some 5,000 square feet of floor space will be added. Projected completion date is January 1, 1984.

Jack's Restaurants has purchased a 32,400 square foot building in the Pelham Industrial Park.

Jack's, which operates a chain of 28 restaurants in the Birmingham area, plans to use the building as a distribution center. The center will reportedly create 17 jobs.

The building, previously occupied by Industrial Chemicals, had been vacant for some time.

Two new firms have recently moved into the Shelby County portion of Riverchase.

Pacesetter Corporation, headquartered in Omaha, has located in 9,600 square foot office/distribution facility in Wren Park. The facility will be used to distribute custom-designed doors, and creates 45-55 new jobs.

Teco, Inc., headquartered in Fort Wayne, IN, has purchased a 17,000 square foot building on Valleydale Road.

The company handles hydraulic lift buckets used on utility trucks, and it's Riverchase operation will handle sales and service.

Alabama Insurance Exchange is constructing a 12,200 square foot office on Valleydale Road in Pelham. The $400,000 project is being built by Hallmark Builders, Inc.

Briarwood Apartments in Montevallo won a first place beautification award from its realtor.

The award was presented to resident manager Mary Ann Parker and maintenance man Danny Acker at the Morrow Companies recent annual banquet in Tuscaloosa.

The 57-unit complex in Montevallo is one of 20 apartment compounds handled by the company.

A Birmingham businesswoman has now received two consecutive national awards for marketing work.

Anne H. Minton, president of the Minton Company (a marketing specialist), was the first person to win two consecutive President's Awards from Performax Systems International.

The recipient is named from a field of more than 15,000 certified marketing consultants.

She is the daughter of Nell Henderson of Columbiana.

Blue Circle executives predict upturn for concrete in Sunbelt

by Marcia M. Sears

Top executives of Blue Circle Industries flew to Alabama last week to inspect their Calera operation and meet local leaders.

Blue Circle has become a household name in dozens of Shelby County homes since May, when the company bought out the cement operations of Martin-Marietta.

The firm employs about 200 people at the plant between Calera and Montevallo, and in its American headquarters in Birmingham.

Blue Circle is an English firm, headquartered in London. It has plants in 22 countries and posted $1.5 billion in sales last year.

This is its first venture in the United States, and it purchased Martin-Marietta's plants in Atlanta and Tulsa as well as Shelby County.

John Milne, the company chairman, expressed optimism over the future of his American acquisitions. He commented that the United States is a safe place to run a business, and the population growth in the Sunbelt states will cause greater consumption of concrete here than in other parts of the country.

David Baird is chief executive of the company's Western Division, which controls its operations in the western hemisphere.

Both Baird and Milne expressed concern over the worldwide financial and banking situation but said if the financial system holds up, the world economic recovery will continue.

CPR classes set

A CPR class will be held Thursday, September 22 at Oak Mountain State Park.

The night class will last from 6-10, and all equipment will be furnished.

CPR cards will be issued at the completion of the class.

A small fee is required. For more information and registration, call park security supervisor Talmadge Butler at 663-0586.

Vincent grad honored

A graduate of Vincent High School has been named as the state's trade and industrial teacher of the year.

Nancy Gentry, who now teaches drafting at the Phenix City Area Vocational Technical Center, received the award at the Alabama Vocational Educations' summer conference in Birmingham.

She graduated from Vincent in 1974 and went on to earn a Master's Degree in industrial arts from Auburn University.

She is the daughter of James and Geraldine Foster of Harpersville.

Commission deals with roads, Inverness

In taking care of business, the Shelby County Commission took the following actions Monday:

*The commission approved the low bid of Butts and Billingsley Construction Company of Childersburg for the resurfacing and paving of 21.74 miles of county road.

The county will pay $17,490 of the amount from four cent gas tax funds and the rest of the $333,193 total cost will come from windfall oil funds.

The project will include 19 different roads scattered throughout the county.

*Approval was given to base and prepare the road serving the humane society building.

The approval was given only with the understanding that Columbiana must commit to pave the road.

*Two new warning lights will be erected one half mile on each side of Inverness School on Valleydale Road.

In addition the commission agreed to reimburse the sheriff department for a person to operate a patrol car with flashing lights near the school as a warning to traffic.

The person will work 20 hours per week, will base the car at the North Shelby County Fire District station, and will be under the supervision of the sheriff.

*The county commission agreed to serve as a sponsor the Green Thumb program to employ senior citizens for the County's Program on Aging.

Oak Mt. replaces golf course worker

Butch Trammell is the new golf pro at Oak Mountain State Park golf course.

Trammell is a member of the Professional Golfers Association, with the PGA training that qualifies him to teach golf.

He replaces Andy Schwab, who was transferred to the maintenance department at Oak Mountain Park.

In district court last Wednesday, Schwab was assessed court costs of $29.50 for driving a vehicle without a license.

Dedication concert set for new Steinway at U of Montevallo

One of "the best pianos in the world" is being dedicated at the University of Montevallo in two and half weeks.

The $35,000 instrument was purchased by Dorothy and Leslie Dobbins of Portola Valley, CA, in memory of Mrs. Dobbins' parents.

The piano was delivered to UM on August 24, and is one of only three in the southeast.

According to UM duo-pianists-in-residence Robert and Joan Cowan, and UM tuner Graham Anderson, who traveled to London to select the instrument, it's one of "the best pianos in the world."

Playing the nine-foot Hamburg Steinway Concert Grand at the dedication will be internationally-known pianist Roy Bogas of Berkeley, CA. A finalist in the Tchaikovsky Competition in Moscow, Bogas' varied program will consist of works by Bach-Hess, Schumann, Beethoven, Ravel, Chopin and Liszt.

The concert, free to the public, will be staged in Palmer Hall at 8 p.m. on Monday, October 3.

Rider wins

University of Montevallo sophomore Molly Thigpen won first place in the reserve champion costume category at Will's Park horse competition last Saturday in Atlanta.

The Bluff Park resident was riding the Arabian gelding Preston Royal, owned by Pi Jemba Arabians of the Camp Branch area of Shelby County.

Pelham youngsters have summer snow

by Bert Seaman

It would be impossible to build a snowman in early September - at least in Alabama - unless you had some magic snow.

But youngsters from Pelham's Creative Day Care Center and Kindergarten managed to find some of the cold white stuff last week, and constructed a snowman atop an ice mountain.

The activity was part of a learning experience for the four and five year old children and took place at Pelham Pure Pac Ice.

With temperatures in the 90's, the snowman was quickly built, decorated and pelted with snowballs before the sun took care of his untimely demise.

According to Judy McLaughlin, teacher of the five year old group at the center, the idea to build a snowman stemmed from a unit on weather.

"The youngsters were told," she explained, "that you couldn't build a snowman this time of the year unless you had magic snow."

But Marie Ward, director of the center, had a friend who owned an ice plant.

So the wheels were set in motion to tour the plant and to build a snowman with the magic snow.

Doyle Ward, who conducted the 24 children on a tour of the plant, estimated that between 1,000-2,000 pounds of ice was used in the mountain and snowman.

Despite the warm temperature, the children wore caps, jackets and mittens to handle and play in the cold, wet substance.

By the time the snowman was finished, most of the mittens were soaked and had been laid out in the sun to dry.

"We think learning should be fun," McLaughlin told the Reporter, adding that, "This age group loves magic and surprises."

Following the tour and fun with the magic snow, the children wrote a letter of thanks to Ward and plant owner Bill Hancock.

Magic snow

Twenty four children from the Little Ones Creative Day Care Center and Kindergarten had a rare treat last week when they climbed an ice mountain, built a snowman, and threw snowballs. It took magic snow to accomplish the feat. But that's what four and five year olds love - magic and surprises, said a teacher.

Glasscox going to Washington conference

County education superintendent Ellie Glasscox will participate in a national Legislative Conference next week in Washington DC.

The three-day conference is tailored to local school officials and emphasizes the federal role in maintaining quality in the nation's elementary and secondary school systems.

The theme of the conference is "I Care About Quality Education," and will be attended by some 500 participants. Among the speakers will be Atlanta Mayor Andrew Young and syndicated columnist James J. Kilpatrick.

While there, Glasscox plans to meet with Representative Richard Shelby to discuss successful educational programs funded by the federal government, as well as pressing needs that need financial attention.

'Menagerie' opens UM series

'The Glass Menagerie' will open the University of Montevallo's concert and lecture series this year.

Atlanta's Academy Theatre will present the Tennessee

Williams play in Palmer Hall at 8 p.m. Thursday, September 22.

The play, an American classic of love and loneliness, tells the story of a woman who clings to her past while her son and daughter struggle to fulfill their dreams of the future.

Tickets will be available at the door.

Bulldogs remain undefeated; SCHS falls

by Fred Guarino

What's the difference between an undefeated football team and a team that's been beaten?

If you ask the perfect 2A Montevallo Bulldogs -- who whipped previously unbeaten 3A Shelby County 20-7 Friday night in Columbiana -- the answer is what you do in a critical fourth down situation.

The Bulldogs found themselves in just such a situation at the Wildcat three yard line with 1:32 left in the third period. Furthermore, they were down 7-6.

What Montevallo did was give the football to Jeff Chism. What Chism did was fight his way into the endzone one time for six points and a second time for a two point conversion.

"That was sucking it up. That is what it takes," a proud coach Richard Gilliam told his squad following the game.

Apart from keeping Montevallo undefeated, the game with Shelby County was both sweet revenge and an possible omen of great things to come for the 'Dogs.

Last year, Shelby County High won only one ball game. That win came on a 20-14 score against none other than the 6-4 Montevallo Bulldogs.

Gilliam remembered that loss and he made sure his team remembered it too.

In fact, Montevallo's head coach remembered so well that he kept a low profile about his undefeated boys and he set Shelby County up as the only game by which he would judge them.

Until Montevallo faced Shelby County, Gilliam had refused to comment about what could be the best football team he has had in years.

So... after his team beat SCHS, what did Gilliam think?

If you judged from post game comments to the media like "We are not there yet," you might think Gilliam still isn't sure.

But if you heard the comments he made to his team, you'd get a different picture.

"The defense was magnificent!" he cried.

"The greatest offensive play of the night was fourth and three," he said proudly.

The Montevallo mentor's true feelings showed through in other comments, too.

"The big thing I am so proud of is we have been improving all three weeks. I think we are on our way," Gilliam said.

On the other side of the field, where a previously perfect football season had now -- at least temporarily turned -- the words of Shelby County's Ricky Seale were expectedly more sullen.

"I don't know what the difference was between this week and last week..." Seale said dejectedly.

Bulldogs session

"Do we stay humble or stumble?" That's the question Montevallo Bulldog Coach Richard Gilliam asked his team, last Friday night, after they defeated Shelby County to stay undefeated and to up their season record to 3-0.

"I felt like before the game we were ready to play..." he said, groping for some reason, some explanation.

"They out played us," he decided. "They wanted it more and they were well prepared. Coach Gilliam did a good job in getting them ready."

As disappointed as the Shelby County head man might have been, Seale maintained respect for his team.

"I just hope that people don't give up on us and get down on us because I think these boys have character. They will bounce back," he firmly predicted.

He may be right, but the road they have to bounce back on is a rough one.

The Wildcats, now 2-1, host a tough Chilton County squad at home tomorrow night (Friday), and follow that with games against Thompson, Pell City, Sylacauga, Bibb County, Childersburg and Jemison.

Montevallo doesn't have an easy road, either.

Tomorrow night the 'Dogs travel to Alabaster to take on ever tough Thompson. And while the Warriors are not going to match last season's record, they are making a bid to be among the best 3A schools in the state.

Montevallo runner adds punch

How do the Montevallo Bulldogs spell victory?

"C-h-i-s-m!"

The reason for that is easy to see, once one follows the Bulldogs through what had to be their biggest gridiron challenge -- and win -- this season.

Unbeaten after taking on inexperienced 1A Calera and untested Briarwood, the 2A Bulldogs had a 2-0 record -- but, according to coach Richard Gilliam, nothing much to boast about.

Friday night, however, Montevallo took its first real test in the form of the hometown Shelby County Wildcats, a much improved 3A team that had whipped both Vincent and Pelham.

Here are the test results:

The Bulldogs scored first with 6:12 remaining in the first quarter on a three yard Anthony Prentice run, but the point after failed.

Shelby County's Gerald Lawson, upset about his team being behind, shouted from the sidelines, "We ought to be on top of them!"

His scolding must have been heard by the Wildcat defense. With only seconds left in the first half, Jonathon Davis blocked a Bulldog punt. Davis fell on the ball in the endzone and teammate Jasper Carden fell on Davis -- just to be sure the touchdown didn't get away.

Mark Cardwell's point after was good. Shelby County led 7-6.

The Bulldogs rebounded from the sudden blow with a solid drive from their own 21 yard line to the Shelby County three.

But the Wildcat defense was paying tough football, and the Bulldogs found themselves facing gut check time.

With fourth and goal, Gilliam could have called for a field goal to take the lead. Instead, he called a cross block play and went for six.

Jeff Chism took the football and scored from the three, making Gilliam a hero. He followed that effort with a two-point conversion that put the 'Dogs on top 14-7.

Montevallo would score one more time with one second left in the third period to put the game on ice.

The Wildcats hadn't quit, but shouts of encouragement from their sideline turned to expressions of disgust -- such as "Aghhh!" -- when Bulldog Ricky Gaddis picked off a pass and returned it to Shelby County's 35-yard line.

On the next play halfback Terry Rutledge threw a 35-yard touchdown pass to another Chism -- this time Andy. A two-point conversion effort failed, but Montevallo held on to win 20-7.

Montevallo also held the distinction of being the only undefeated team left in Shelby County this year.

Thompson Warriors overwhelm Chilton

The Thompson Warriors are back on track again.

If anyone thought the Warriors first defeat in 15 games -- 23-20 at the hands of Bibb County two weeks ago -- would send them down the tubes this season, they're apparently WRONG! Last Friday night Doug Wheeler's charges invaded Chilton County and came away with a 22-9 victory which places them back in the winning ranks with a 2-1 record.

Making the bounce back win sweeter is that the Warriors almost equalled the 27-0 win Thompson leveled against Chilton County (4-6 on the season) last year.

But don't make the mistake of thinking that Thompson's head man is now pleased with the efforts of his defense. He doesn't like the nine points given up to Chilton County, nor the 23 lost last week to Bibb County.

"We are not playing real good defensively. I think we could be better," he insisted.

Wheeler did at least give his defense some room to breathe, however.

"We've got a lot of people who have not played before," he said in an almost understanding tone. Yet even those words can't be taken to mean too much by Warrior defenders.

"In the amount of time we have, I hope we will get better or we will have some long nights," the Thompson coach warned.

Thompson scored first against Chilton County with 2:02 left in the first quarter when Max Brown ran one of his three-yard specials into the endzone.

The point after was no good.

The Warriors showed some of their offensive explosiveness early in the second period when Gordon Kenney hit Scottie Hawkins on a 53-yard pass play. Brown took the ball the final three yards and a two point conversion by Rodney Bunn put Thompson on top 14-0.

Chilton County scored its only touchdown of the night on a 12-yard run with 7:22 left in the first half. The point after failed.

The opposition scored just once more with 4:25 remaining in the third period. A seven yard field goal made the score 14-9.

Thompson's Luvell Bivins made the final Warrior touchdown of the night when he scored on a seven-yard run. Again, the point after was no good and the Warriors led 20-9.

The Thompson defense would get a little glory of its own in this game. With 1:44 seconds left in the game, the Warriors sacked the Chilton County quarterback for a safety that made the score 22-9.

This Friday Thompson faces the challenge of the undefeated Montevallo Bulldogs who'll be coming to Alabaster seeking their fourth win. Sounds like a real barn burner...

Over the top

Thompson's unstoppable Max Brown (28) makes a classic dive over a heap of Chilton County Tigers as Luvell Bivins (20) and Randy Littleton (55) clear the way for him. With the help of folks like

Brown, Littleton and Bivins, the Warriors bounced back from a previous loss to up their record to 2-1. (Photo by Jerome Bannister)

Calera Eagles lose game, but not pride

by Mark C. Jones

There were no tears. No lowered heads.

Instead, as members of the Calera football team filed off the team bus following a 27-14 defeat at the hands of Bibb County, there was, in fact, a sense of pride in the faces of the Eagles. They had proven -- at least to themselves -- that their team wouldn't quit and play dead for anyone.

"I'm tremendously proud of our team for the class pride they showed in the second half," said Calera head coach Danny Alverson.

The Eagles, down 19-0 at intermission, searched for the pride everyone talks about having, and apparently found it. They scored twice in the fourth quarter when lesser teams might have rolled over.

"We showed what we are made of. Nobody quit and I'm proud of these guys for playing their hearts out," Alverson said.

Bibb County established its superiority in the first half, scoring three of the four times it touched the ball.

For the first score, set up by a fluke, Mike Leverette caught a deflected pass intended for another Bibb receiver at the Choctaw 34 yard line, and took it down to the Calera 14.

Quarterback Sammy Bishop scored two plays later from nine yards out with 7:27 left in the first quarter. Greg Sanders added the extra point.

Eight seconds into the second quarter Bishop ramblod 33 yards around right end on a keeper for his second touchdown of the evening. With the help of a bad snap, Calera blocked the extra point.

Sanders scored a touchdown of his own with 7:45 left in the half on a one yard plunge. The score was set up by a 30-yard pass to the Calera seven. A two-point attempt failed and Bibb had a halftime lead of 19-0.

Calera's deepest penetration into Choctaw territory in the first half was to the Bibb 36. That drive came to a screeching halt when a Mark Jones pass was intercepted by Jamie Horton at the 25.

The Eagles managed only two first downs in the first half.

Three penalties put the Eagles in scoring position on their second possession of the third period, but an interception at the Bibb nine stopped that march.

The Choctaws used the turnover to mount their final scoring drive of the night. Sanders put the finishing touches on the drive with a nine-yard scoring run with 1:09 left in the quarter.

Bishop connected with Mike Leverette for the two-point conversion and the Choctaw scoring machine had posted its final points.

Calera, down but not out, scored twice in a four minute period. With 8:36 left in the game Darryl Griffith put the Eagles on the board on a five yard blast. A two-point attempt failed but another touchdown was soon to follow.

Jones connected with Edwin Millstead on a 60-yard bomb with 4:16 left. Scotty Wells was on the receiving end of a Jones pass for the two-point conversion and the scoring was over.

"I'm tremendously proud of our defense for hanging tough out there," said Alverson. "Especially Todd Killingsworth, Edwin Millstead, Ken LeSueur, Dan Campbell, David Phillips and Scotty Wells."

Calera's early season schedule is a nightmare by 1A standards but Alverson says playing the larger schools helps in the long run. "We like to play the bigger schools because we enjoy competing with them. And it also toughens us up for our 1A schedule," he said.

The Eagles meet their first 1A team Friday at home against Thorsby. Calera, at 1-2 hopes to improve its record against the Rebels.

As for Friday night's results at Bibb County, Alverson said "The pride displayed by our team convinces me that it's just a matter of time before we learn how to play like a championship team...." Which could be bad news for 1A teams that have Calera on their schedule.

Other guests were William Rasco and Kim of Columbiana, Angie Moore, and Diana Rowland, Brad and Johnny.

Have you ever heard the phrase, 'your body will tell you that it's not good for you'? Well, until Tuesday morning I sincerely doubted that my body could possibly tell me anything.

However, after an hour of aerobic exercising my body was screaming from head to toe, "No more... please, have some mercy..."

Actually, I'm probably exaggerating a bit, but I'm sure that while my mind was going 1-2-3-4 stretch, my muscles were mumbling something about pain. Exercising is... so the experts say... good for you, so I'm gonna try and stick with the class this fall.

DID YOU KNOW?

We can all grow 14 years older before a new generating plant is born.

It takes 10-14 years to plan and build a new generating plant. And it's expensive because of construction and labor costs, government regulations... and the high cost of borrowing money. So we don't want to build plants unless they are needed. To determine if and when new plants will be needed, Alabama Power prepares annual electricity use forecasts. Population growth, economic growth, conservation, and use of alternate energy sources are carefully evaluated. Our past forecasting record has been one of the most accurate in the industry. And that's important.

LEGAL NOTICE
Mortgage Foreclosure Sale
Default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness secured by that certain mortgage executed by William C. Kruger and wife, Mildred I. Kruger (subsequently assumed) to The First National Bank of Birmingham, now known as AmSouth Bank N.A., on the 3rd day of July, 1975, said mortgage being recorded in the office of the Judge of Probate of Shelby County, Alabama, in Book 388, Record of Mortgages, at page 553.
The undersigned, AmSouth Bank N.A., as mortgagee, under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, will sell at public outcry to the highest bidder for cash at the main entrance of the Shelby County Courthouse, Columbiana, Alabama, on the 4th day of October, 1983, during the legal hours of sale, the following described real estate, situated in Shelby County, Alabama, to-wit:
Exhibit "A"
Commence at the northeast corner of the SW 1/4 of SE 1/4 of Section 6, Township 22 South, Range 1 East; thence run West along the south boundary line of said 1/4-1/4 section a distance of 190.0 feet to the point of beginning; thence turn an angle of 88 degrees 29' to the left and run Northwesterly a distance of 223.0 feet to a point on the northwest 40 foot right of way line of County Highway 42; thence turn an angle of 101 degrees 15' to the left and run Northwesterly a distance of 153.82 feet to a point on the said northwest 40 foot right of way line of County Highway 42 also said point being on the boundary line of said 1/4-1/4 section line; thence run an angle of 15 degrees 42' to the left and run Northwesterly a distance of 175.87 feet to the point where the herein parcel commenced; thence turn an angle of 89 degrees 34' to the left and run west a distance of 190.0 feet to the point of beginning.
Said parcel of land is lying in the SW 1/4 of SE 1/4 Section 6, Township 22, Range 1 East, excepting from the above description that small portion of the right of way of said County Highway 42 that lies between the above-mentioned chord and the northwest 40 foot right of way line of said highway situated in Shelby County, Alabama.
This sale is made for the purpose of paying the indebtedness secured by said mortgage, as well as the expenses of foreclosure.

KENNETH ALAN BICE
as a 9th grader
MHS 1981

Organ donations give others life

by Carolyn Smiley

Alan Bice was a typical 16-year old high school sophomore at Montevallo. He was young, handsome, and enjoyed life with his family and friends.

Then, on Labor Day in 1982, he was in a car accident. Alan, critically injured, remained unconscious for eleven days before he finally died.

When Mr. and Mrs. James Bice lost their son, they said they suffered "untold agony."

It is difficult to imagine this situation as anything but tragic -- but there is also a very different side to the Bice tragedy of one year ago.

Alan's parents made the decision to donate their son's organs through the Alabama Regional Organ Bank. In doing so, others were given the chance to live.

Dr. Michael Phillips, assistant director of the Organ Bank, in a letter to the Bices on September 20, 1982 reported, "Two people in the state of Alabama, who were on dialysis because of renal failure, now have a second chance because of their kidney transplants."

"A young woman who desperately needed a liver to survive is now doing extremely well and we do not expect any unforeseen complications for her success," the letter continued.

"We have called in a teenager who was suffering from heart valvular disease and will transplant the heart valves this week."

"The corneas will also be transplanted this week into two individuals who are otherwise blind," he wrote.

From the University of Pittsburgh Transplantation Program, where Alan's liver was sent, the Bices received a letter stating: "The recipient is a young woman who had been suffering from endstage liver disease and was in very grave condition. She could not have survived without this lifesaving transplant."

Today, the Bices do not know how the recipients are faring with the "gifts" they received from Alan. Such information is not released in an effort to protect the privacy of the recipients.

The Bices find comfort, however, in knowing that five other people were given a chance to live because of their decision.

"It just made me feel good to do it," says Mrs. Bice.

The Bices feel it was a choice Alan would have wanted.

Mrs. Bice says that several months before the accident, Alan and her husband were watching a television program that discussed organ donation.

"Alan mentioned it was a good thing to do," she says.

Phillips explains that because of the increasing number of transplants performed today, organs are very much needed.

Many people are waiting for a kidney, liver, heart or other organs, he says.

People with questions on the procedure for donating organs after their death can find out more by contacting the Alabama Regional Organ Bank at UAB.

Mrs. Bice also urges people to contact the Organ Bank.

"I think it would be good to make people more aware of the donor program," she says.

"Alan's death was such a tragic loss," Bice adds, "but somewhere, in a way, I feel like a part of Alan is still living."

Lights on 31 stalemates Alabaster council

The issue of erecting street lights on US 31 in Alabaster ended in a stalemate at last week's city council meeting.

Because of numerous accidents and one fatality this year, proponents of the street lights are calling visibility after dark along US 31 through Alabaster a "serious problem."

In an effort to solve the situation, a proposal was made to light the entire strip, from the north end to the south end of the city limits.

Several Alabaster residents and city officials, including Sherman Holland of the Chamber of Commerce, Police Chief C.E. "Bull" Carter, and Rev. Jimmy Underwood of the Suburban League, addressed the council in favor of the lighting proposal.

This idea, however, was shot down by several members of the council because of the cost involved.

The members of the audience and Mayor H.A. "Doc" Rubin were outraged at the suggestions of putting monetary considerations ahead of the people's safety.

"If it can save one life, just one..." argued resident Ray Dye, "...now somebody put a dollar value on that."

Alabama Power Company representative Bill Lawson told the council the proposed lighting would cost about $500 per month.

After a heated argument between several council members, a vote was taken -- two in favor, three against the lighting proposal.

Voting against the lighting were L.O. Farris, Calvin McCune and Jack Reagin.

The mayor used his prerogative and voted in favor of the lighting, thus throwing the issue into a stalemate.

It is expected the issue will come up again on September 19 after the council has had more time to study the matter.

Arts council meets

The Arts and Humanities Council of Shelby County is inviting the public to a slide presentation at the Columbiana Library, and a tour of the Mount Vernon memorabilia on display at the museum there.

The free show and museum tour is set for Monday, September 19, at 7 p.m.

The slides will be shown by the entertaining head of the University of Montevallo art department, Frank McCoy, according to council chairman Rachael Fowler.

Also, Mary Nell Burton will have the Edmund Law Rogers Smith-Harrison Museum open for touring that night.

Briarcliff teachers relive school days

It was back to school last week for the retired teachers who live at Briarcliff Nursing Home.

Although they didn't actually return to the classroom, the former teachers were reminded of their yesterdays through the enactment of a 'typical' school day by the Briarcliff staff.

According to Activities Director Margery Payne, the teachers said they recognized the school characters portrayed by the staff.

They included Terrible Toby, Marilyn Hayes; Silly Annie, Ann Raspberry; Teacher's Pet, Sylvia Weiss; Mean Damie Sue, Damie Brown; Outraged Mother, Omega Cox.

Teachers empathized with

Payne, who played the teacher, when she had to send two pupils, Brown and Hayes, to the principal's office for disciplinary action.

Nursing Home Director Mary Alice Edmonds was cast as the principal in the enactment.

One of the teachers who watching the enactments said she used the paddle occasionally, adding that, "It got results!"

But Anna Franks, who taught for 27 years, reported that she demanded respect from her students and, "I got it!"

Her discipline problems were few, she noted, explaining that she kept her students too busy to get into trouble.

Another long-time teacher taking in last week's entertainment was Mamie Hill, sister of the famed archer, Howard Hill.

She was in the field of education for 35 years, as teacher, principal and librarian.

Other teachers at Briarcliff are: Dorothy Reeves, who taught for 15 years; Ona Moody, 20 years; Mary Cherry, Rena Crumpton, Vera Adams, Emmie Davidson, Lily Phillips, Myrtice Mabry, Kathy Dunlap, Mary Cherry, Rena Compton, Ida Thornton, Bernice Stone, Maggie Anderson.

Charlie Scott, who taught 35 years, is known as Briarcliff's resident professor, and Ruth Hughes, who taught 37 years, is referred to as the resident speller.

Retired teachers

Retired teachers at Briarcliff Nursing Home relived their days in the classroom when a Back to School event was held at the Alabaster facility. Among the participants were: Charlie Scott, Ruth Hughes, Vera Adams, Emmie Davidson, Ona Moody. On the back row are: Lily Phillips, Anna Franks, Myrtice Mabry, Mamie Hill.

The museum, located in the Columbiana Library, houses a large collection of memorabilia from Mount Vernon and families associated with it, such as George Washington's.

Fowler said that the council now has increased its membership to 60 people and businesses, but is still seeking more members.

So far, she said, it has collected about $2,500 of its $3,000 goal. The money will be used to bring cultural programs to Shelby County schools in 1983-84.

Museum Hours

The Edmund Law Rogers Smith-Harrison Museum is regularly open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The museum is open on Sunday by appointment. For more information, call Mary Nell Burton at 669-4545, or 669-4581.

Ground clearing stops briefly while Shelby Bank Officials inspect the site location for their new Operations Center. (lt. to rt.) President Ken Kirkland; Roy Martin, Director; Bob Litton and Ed Gates, Senior Vice Presidents; and Doug Ballard, Chairman of the Board.

Shelby Bank Expands Helena's Full Service Office To Include New Operations Center.

Now that's really something! Here we are — still celebrating the opening of Shelby Bank's full service office in Helena and already we're expanding.

The reason is two-fold. First, we want you to enjoy the benefits and conveniences of a full-size branch office when you bank INSIDE as well as when using our DRIVE-IN TELLER.

Secondly, we need additional space for our Operations Center to efficiently serve all four of our bank locations. Our new, expanded Operations Center will provide this capability. The new facility will be adjacent to our Helena Office.

This is another commitment to the Helena Community by Shelby Bank. We are proud and pleased to be here first and now.

MEMORY

IN LOVING MEMORY OF
JOHN C. PALMER, JR.
Who passed away 3 years ago,
September 14, 1980
John, we love and miss you more with each and every passing day.
There's so much we want to tell you, so much we want to say.
Remembering all our times together, these precious things we hold dear.
Because, we long to see you, John, beloved son and brother dear.

With Love,
Mom & Dad
Janet & Larry

IN LOVING MEMORY OF

ALAN BICE
We cherish your memories and at times your death seems more than we can bear, but as we look at your empty chair we know you would say,
"If you only knew my portions here, you would not, could not, wish me there". While we cannot understand why certain things should be, we know that God in Heaven beholds what we cannot see.

Love,
Mom, Dad, Wade & Amy Grandmothers, Aunts & Uncles, and Cousins

IN MEMORY OF

GEORGE CONNELL
In loving memory of George Connell, who passed away, Sept. 16, 1980.
Wife, Jewell Connell

Endorsement postponed

Democrats quiz slate of candidates

by David F. Moore

The Shelby County Democratic Executive Committee did not do what some of its members expected Monday night -- it did not endorse a slate of candidates to send to the state appointment convention on October 1.

Because the deadline for qualifying for the court ordered special election is Thursday, September 29, the committee voted to postpone the straw vote originally planned for Monday until next Thursday, in case any more candidates make a bid for the state appointment.

However, during the course of the hour and a half meeting at the county courthouse, the committee did hear five-minute speeches from the six candidates who have thus far qualified: Frank "Butch" Ellis (Senate District 14); Ed Gentry, Jim King and John Tanner (House District 40); and Sonny Moore and Wayne Sumners (House District 41).

Several pointed questions were directed at some of the candidates following the speeches.

Larry Dillard, fresh from heart surgery, said he'd heard that Gentry would leave the party to run as an independent if he did not get the state Democratic appointment.

"Let me say this -- I will leave that up to the steering committee that's pushing me," Gentry replied, adding that he is a Democrat.

"You're getting to be a politician," Dillard said, drawing a laugh from the crowd. Dillard asked Tanner if he would remain loyal to the party if he did not get the appointment, and Tanner answered, "Absolutely."

"That's the answer I would have expected," Dillard said. A few minutes later Sam Reynolds asked Gentry the same thing.

Gentry said that Republican Don Murphy, who's running for the senate, asked him several months ago to stay out of the house race.

"I asked him if the man he had running was a Republican," Gentry said. "He said 'Yes' so I said 'I'm running. I'm a Democrat.'"

"I'm not going to leave nobody," Gentry added.

Raymond Rowell asked Sumners, who's employed by the Alabama Education Association, if he thought he might have a conflict of interest since the AEA is one of the most powerful lobbying groups in the state.

"It will not be a conflict of interest," Sumners said. "I make no bones about supporting education... but I will represent the people of Shelby County."

Union votes on ABEX

by Fred Guarino

As the Reporter went to press, the outcome of a contract vote by employees of ABEX Corporation in Calera was still in the air.

If approved by the employees, who are members of the United Steel Workers of America Union, Local 5190, the contract would stand for two years.

A negative vote could result in a strike.

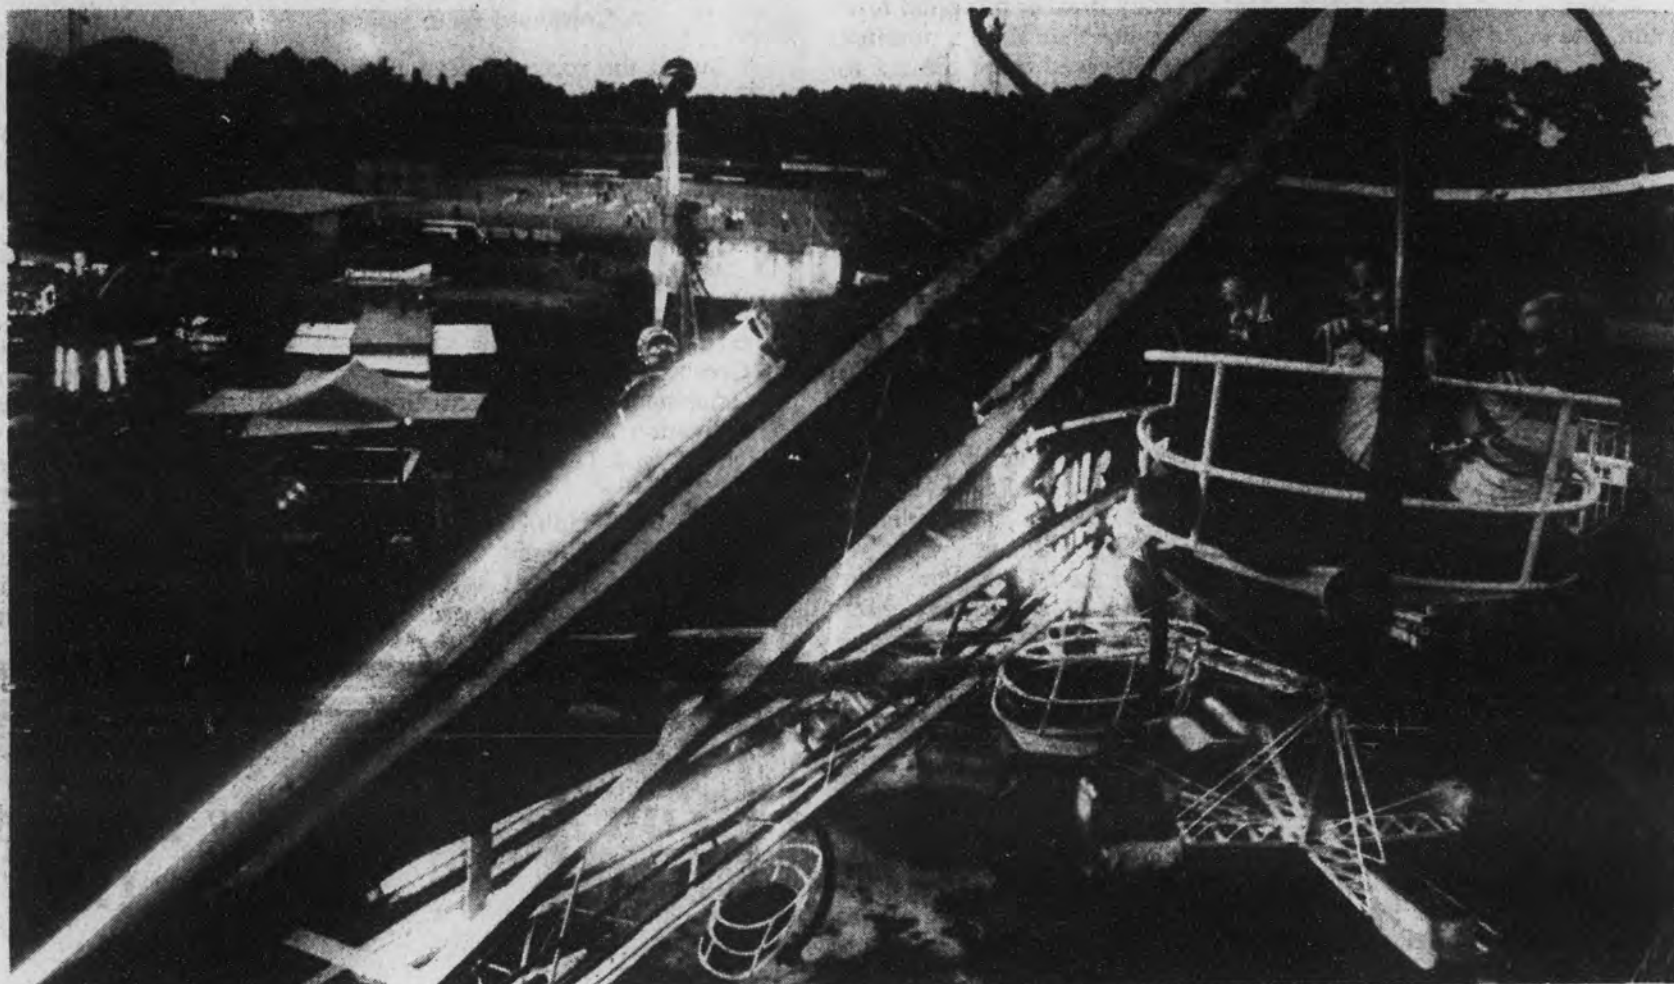

However, local company president Larry DeBoer and staff union representative William Caldwell did not expect that to happen.

The employees were to cast their ballots Wednesday afternoon.

ABEX Corporation has two plants, one in Calera and one in Pennsylvania which is closed. The Calera plant employs 384 people.

Both DeBoer and Caldwell, who works out of the union's Fairfield office, refused to comment on benefits and wages being considered in the contract. But Caldwell was in Calera, Tuesday, explaining the details of the contract.

Fun at the fair

The smell of popcorn, mooing of championship cows, the lights of the midway, and of course the dizzying twirl of the rides -- it was all a part of the Columbiana Kiwanis Clubs 34th annual Shelby County Fair last week. Maybe all the fun is why (from left) Holly Bolton, Amber Collins and Taryn Davis are smiling from their ride seat high above the fair Friday evening. Then again, maybe they're just not very camera shy. For more on the fair, see Page 8. (Photo by David F. Moore)

Beat 13 nips zoning

from staff reports

By the thinnest possible margin, Beat 13 voters have apparently turned down zoning again.

Unofficial returns from Tuesday's election showed 54 'yes' votes being cast that day to 59 'no' votes.

Six absentee votes were 'yes' and two 'no' making the total 60 for and 61 against bringing the beat under county zoning laws.

The official count was to be made Wednesday morning by Sheriff Buddy Glasgow, Circuit Clerk Kyle Lansford, and Probate Judge Tommy Snowden.

Disappointed proponents of land use restrictions complained that chief voting inspector Grady Gullede permitted a challenged voter to cast an ordinary ballot despite her statement that she lived in Beat 12.

Even if the claim is founded, one obstacle to an election challenge, though, is the impossibility of determining for sure which way the suspect voter voted.

Her name was among the 154

Southlake zoning sails through commission

by Marcia M. Sears

A zoning change sailed through the Shelby County Planning Commission Monday night by a unanimous vote.

It cleared the way for the proposed Southlake development to proceed. But the favorable vote came only after the developers waged a month-long campaign, and gave a two-hour presentation at the Monday meeting aimed at showing area residents that the development would not hurt their property values.

The developers also changed their original design to place 'patio homes' where they had originally planned condominiums and townhouses. This change came as a result of protests from residents of Valdewood, who did not want condo units or apartments next to their boundary.

The patio homes were described, in a slide show, as two attached housing units, each with a front and back yard.

The zoning change, from A-1 and R-2 to special District, was requested by Mrs. Florence Rutherford for 225 acres of her property.

Aftco Investment and Development Company had agreed to buy Mrs. Rutherford's property if the zoning change was made. They already own adjoining property and the combined properties will total 400 acres.

If Southlake goes forward as proposed, it will become the third planned community in Shelby County, following a pattern set by Inverness and Riverchase. It is bounded on the west by I-65 and on the south by Valleydale Road in north Shelby county. Three lakes already exist in the area.

It will include a shopping center, commercial and office buildings, apartments and private homes, as well as a hotel and conference center. The project will require seven years to complete.

The traffic situation was a major concern voiced by area residents at the Planning Commission's August meeting. The developers responded Monday night with a detailed traffic study. County Engineer Gary Ray outlined long range plans for improving Valleydale Road. Developers had already agreed to fund some of the improvements.

Other points advanced by the developers:

Utilities will be underground. No motors will be allowed on the lakes.

Maximum of 200 licenses will be issued each year for the lakes.

Private sewage has been arranged to handle 200,000 gallons per day.

Only 5 condominiums are planned per acre. In other developments the ratio is often 10 or 12 per acre.

New property taxes for Shelby County will be generated by the development.

Other similar developments have caused increases in nearby land values of up to 149% in the first few years.

Albert Thomason, owner of Aftco, mentioned that many people were concerned the area might be annexed to the City of Hoover. He told the commission, "As long as we control this project, we will keep it in Shelby County to the best of our ability."

Speaking for the project were Ron Rockhill of Aftco; Bob Enoch, landscape architect; Bob Hearn, a property appraiser; Joe Robinson, traffic consultant and Dr. Joe Judkins, an expert in water problems.

Area residents who raised questions were Stella Malone of Shadowbrook, Harold Ward, and Bob Householder.

Gary Martin, who tested the development August meeting said move out here to him they (the developers) good faith, made c have met with us things."

After the unanimous taken, people in the c forward to congratul Rutherford.

Woman refuses transfusion at SMC

by David F. Moore

A pregnant woman who refused a blood transfusion Monday at Shelby Medical Center created a potentially touchy legal situation.

However, according to SMC administrator Roland Bradford, the woman later that day gave birth to a healthy child. No complications arose and mother and child were both in good condition Tuesday, Bradford said.

The 18-year old Montevallo woman, whose name was not released, was admitted to SMC Monday.

She is a member of the Jehovah's Witnesses.

"Their religious beliefs prevented her from receiving a blood transfusion," Bradford told the Reporter. "Normally, we would have worked this out with the patient and doctor beforehand."

Her religious beliefs, however, were apparently not made known until she was in labor.

Bradford said that Circuit Judge Robert Armstrong was contacted in the event that the woman's physician deemed a blood transfusion necessary.

"His (Armstrong's) ruling was that the mother may be given blood transfusions prior to the baby's being born if withholding blood would endanger the baby's life," Bradford said. "Upon the occasion that the baby is delivered, no additional blood can be administered to the mother."

However, Bradford continued with Armstrong's ruling, had the physician deemed it necessary, blood could have been administered to the child after birth "because it has rights too, and is not able to make decisions himself."

Any possible legal ramifications were apparently sidestepped when according to Bradford, the "baby was delivered uneventfully and no blood was required."

"We want to comply with their religious convictions and at the same time offer the best possible care, and ensure within the bounds of what we're legally required to do," Bradford said, explaining the hospital's position on the matter.

Entrekin enters r

In announcing his Republican candidacy for House District 41, Jim Entrekin said that "ordinary" people need to get involved in politics.

"I saw that if ordinary, unselfish people did not get involved in the political process, we could only expect more corrupt and unresponsive government," he said. "I may serve only one term, but I will do what's right."

Entrekin grew up in rural Morgan County and graduated from the University of Alabama in 1973 with a BS in electrical engineering, and a minor in business administration.

Since 1976 he has been a sales

Hefty find

Helena Police Chief Ray Rollan and officer Doug Jones (right) display the ten and a quarter pounds of marijuana which led to trafficking charges against Sherrell Ed Ammons. Ammons was released from the county jail Friday on a $25,000 bond for the drug charge, and $300 and $100 bonds for DUI and failure to dim his lights. (Photo by David F. Moore)

Helena makes bust for 10¼ pounds of pot

Initially, Helena officer Doug Jones stopped a McCalla man Thursday night for reckless driving and failure to dim his lights. A subsequent alcohol test, however, led to DUI charges.

Then, during the standard inventory of the contents of the 1977 red Pontiac Trans Am, Jones discovered ten and a quarter pounds of marijuana.

Sherrell Ed Ammons, 37, of Rt. 2, McCalla, was charged with drug trafficking, DUI, failure to dim, and jailed on bonds totalling $25,400.

Helena Police Chief Ray Rollan placed the street value of the ten pounds of marijuana at $6,750.

According to police reports Jones stopped Ammons -- who was southbound on County 17 -- about 9:15 p.m. near Cedar Grove Trailer Park.

Jones took Ammons to the Alabaster police station, where he registered .11 (legally intoxicated) on the PI test.

"All I smelled was alcohol at the time," Jones told the Reporter. "Then I went back to inventory the car for impounding..."

Jones said he found two marijuana cigarettes on the dash of Ammons' car, and, on the rear floorboard, a plastic garbage bag containing ten one-pound bags of pot. An eleventh bag contained about a quarter-pound of marijuana, Jones said.

According to Rollan, Ammons is a welder at Standard Pullman in Bessemer.

Helena police were assisted in the investigation by the sheriff department and Alabaster police.

In Columbiana Revenue bails out budget

The Columbiana council has hammered out a budget that exceeds $700,000, but final approval was not given at its meeting Thursday. Finance Chairman Lewis Walker said he promised several people he would hold off on the vote until they could talk to council members.

Reportedly, elementary and middle school principals Ann Head and Lois Bentley want to discuss the money designated for the three community schools.

In reviewing the financial statement through the month of August, the council learned that they are already over budget for the year by nearly $2,000, with one month still to go.

However, anticipated revenues are also more than expected, so the budget should come out in the black.

In the 1982-83 fiscal year the council expected to take in $664,644 and spend $662,836.

Through August, expenses totaled $664,793, with revenues amounting to $711,880 -- $47,236 more than the city expected to receive.

With the improvement in the economic climate, the city received:

- $19,436 more in ad valorem taxes than was expected
- $9,000 more in sales tax
- An excess of $9,123 in interest
- An additional $7,540 in privilege license fees
- $6,087 more than anticipated in garbage collection fees
- $2,492 more in beer taxes; $2,186 more tobacco tax.
- $1,482 more than expected in building permits.

Even though there was a hefty increase in garbage collection fees, it was the fact that the city is in the garbage collection business that put a huge dent in the budget.

Only $3,000 had been set aside for repair and maintenance of garbage trucks, but spending amounted to $12,036.

The cost of landfill permits almost doubled the expected amount. That item called for an expenditure of $2,700, but trips to the landfill cost $5,025.

Another unexpected expense was a donation in the amount of $5,000 made to the girl's softball league for the construction of a field. Only $200 had been budgeted.

Democrats add new committee members

Twenty-three new members were voted into the Shelby County Democratic Executive Committee at the group's meeting Monday.

After their names were read by Janet Braden, J. Claude Smith moved that they all be approved.

Teddy Brasher protested briefly, saying that all the nominees were supposed to be present for approval.

Mrs. Braden and chairman Jim King explained that as part of the agreement, the nominees had only to say they would serve.

Thirteen of the nominees were present.

The new members, who were unanimously approved, as well as three other members approved August 15, are:

- Beat 2: Annette Skinner, Harold D. Scott, Kay Averitt.
- Beat 3: George Ray, Raymond Rowell, Jessie Baker.
- Beat 5: Paul Lutz, Mrs. John A. Martin, Steve McGuire, Mrs. Steve McGuire.
- Beat 10: James Paul Tate.

- Beat 13: Foster Earl Bailey, Mary L. Bailey.
- Beat 14: Alton Parker, Retha Vincent, Albert Vincent, Marion Watson, Peggy Whitfield.

- Beat 15: Hoyt Henderson.
- Beat 21: Shelby Patrick.
- Beat 22: Mary Mulkey, Evelyn

- Rich, Rose Henderson, Jetta McKnight.
- Beat 23: Jackie Brasher, Reva Rice.

Democrats question candidates

During the comment session, retired Col. J. Claude Smith, who also gave the invocation, "begged" that whoever gets the nomination, to coordinate their work through the county, especially when any legislation deals with money. The comment brought applause.

Ellis urged members of the committee to carefully read the proposed constitution, noting mistakes in it as well as wording that may take certain powers from the cities. Attorney Bruce Green made a similar plea.

Assistant DA Bob McGregor urged the cultivation of Young Democrats at the high schools and UM, "or this party is going to die."

DA Billy Hill, reporting on presidential hopeful John Glenn's Monday visit to Birmingham, said "he's an impressive gentleman we could follow as a Democrat."

Towards the end of the meeting Ellis, a member of the ADEC, said he hoped to see the committee meet again before the October 1 state appointments, to recommend or take a straw vote on the county's preferred list of candidates.

Sam Reynolds moved that a vote be taken then, however, at which time Ellis said it might be premature since the qualifying is open until the 29th.

Reynolds withdrew his motion and King, who is also chairman of the committee, suggested that a vote be taken on when and how to hold the endorsement vote.

After considerable discussion it was agreed that the county executive committee would meet in the courthouse at 7:30 p.m. next Thursday to vote on the list.

At Probate Judge Tommy Snowden's suggestion, "absentee type" votes will be taken from committee members after 3 p.m. that day.

Several times during the meeting King urged the 53 members present, as well as the 38 members absent, to remain unified in all their endeavors.

DeBoer refused to answer any questions concerning the possible closing of the Calera plant in the event of a strike vote. "I can't answer that...other than this," DeBoer said. "The other plant in Pennsylvania is closed." Ronnie Beasley of Calera is the local union president but he was unavailable for comment Tuesday night.

engineer for George S. Edwards Co. in Pelham. He lives in Old Virginia subdivision and is a Deacon at Briarwood Presbyterian.

As president of the North Shelby County Residents Association he helped push the bill that restored zoning laws for Beat 12.

Because he grew up on a farm, however, he said he can identify with the needs, and respects the lifestyle of the people living in the rural portions of District 41.

The district includes part of north Shelby and extends eastward to Vincent and southwest to Harpersville, Wilsonville, Columbiana, Calera and Montevallo. Entrekin will face either Democratic incumbent Sonny Moore, or Wayne Summers in the general election.

He said his two main priorities are to provide funds for quality teachers and schools, and to attract new businesses for jobs for men and women.

"We must preserve the desired character of our land and yet create desirable conditions for compatible new businesses and industries in order to have jobs for the unemployed and new tax revenues to improve public education," he said.

He said the last legislature damaged the state's chances to attract new industry and jobs by passing $226 million in new business taxes. Because of this, he said state businesses will have to add $50 per man, woman and child to the price of goods and services.

Money question holds up Alabaster lights

The question in Alabaster is no longer one of to light or not to light U.S. 31 South.

As of Monday night's city council meeting, the question is now just how much of U.S. 31 to light.

Councilman Jack Reagin wanted to light the highway only from Highway 119 to the interstate.

However, Councilman L. O. Farris wanted to light the highway from city limits to city limits.

As a result of this disagreement and questions concerning what sort of contract will have to be made with Alabama Power Company, action was tabled.

Council members agreed, however, to meet with Alabama Power representative Bill Lawson at 2:30 p.m. Friday.

Farris told Reagin that his limited lighting of U.S. 31 was only "nipping at the problem" Alabaster has with its dark highway.

Mayor H. A. 'Doc' Rubin commented, "There isn't a light on the east side of 31."

Farris continued that lighting the east side of the highway would help an area already zoned commercial to go commercial.

However, Reagin was concerned that the city needed to do other things.

Farris reacted to that by saying that lighting the highway would bring more income to the city.

Council members also disagreed over the terms of an Alabama Power contract which called for $500 per month for a period of five years.

Farris felt that if the city just stopped paying, Alabama Power would simply cut the lights off.

Councilman Calvin McCune said that he had not heard much public support for the lighting project.

However a citizen attending

Monday night's meeting, Catherine Sarris, said that she was very much in favor of the lights.

The original agreement proposed by Alabama Power Company calls for 64 lights from the city limits to the I-65 exit at a cost of $500 per month.

Farris maintains the city has the money to do the entire lighting project from city limits to city limits.

Questions to be asked of Alabama Power Company Friday will center around where else such a lighting system has been installed, has it helped increase business and prevent wrecks and the actual terms of any contract required.

In other action, three more homes were approved for refurbishing under the City of Alabaster's $750,000 Community Development Block Grant for the Simmsville Road area.

Projects approved were the homes of Cliff Taylor, Sr., $13,115; Sam and Sara Jones, $7,360.50; and Dorothy Lykes, $11,920.50.

Farris favors lamps

An article in last week's edition incorrectly reported that Alabaster Councilman L.O. Farris voted against proposed street lighting along US 31.

Farris, however, voted for the measure along with Willie Arrington and Mayor H.A. 'Doc' Rubin. Voting against the lighting were Glen Naish, Calvin McCune and Jack Reagin.

The Reporter's glad to clarify the record.

Helena keeps game room

Paul's Hideaway will continue to operate in the town of Helena despite the protests of some residents.

At Monday night's council meeting, the panel voted to renew Paul Cribb's business license for a restaurant and game room.

The license had been held up because of complaints about the establishment located in the shopping center at the intersection of county roads 52 and 91.

However, none of the people who complained were at the council meeting even though there had been a request made for one of them to be on the agenda.

"There's got to be something to back up my denying him a license," Councilman Billy Harris pointed out.

He admitted that the council might have made a mistake in granting Cribb's license in the first place, since the location is so close to a residential area.

"Ninety percent of the problem is what happens after customers leave the business," Councilman C. W. Fulgham observed.

The business has an on-premises beer license and Fulgham was referring to drunk drivers.

Some of the written complaints mentioned the business being noisy. The writers also mentioned there being "trouble" there.

The Mayor said he had been steering clear of the matter. He didn't say why, but council members assumed it was because of the political differences with Cribbs and the court suit the one time mayoral candidate had initiated against Penhale and his wife.

Although no one had complained to him personally,

Penhale said he had received a number of letters addressed to him and the council, asking that Cribb's business license not be renewed.

"We're going to have to live with it -- we can't revoke it without cause," Harris concluded.

Lusco sues ed board over denied post

One day Charlotte Lusco's friends were congratulating her on being named Principal of Thompson Middle School.

A few days later they were offering condolences.

After being approved for the position by the board of education June 28, Lusco was rejected by TMS trustees when they got the news.

So Lusco is suing the board to get her job back.

The suit filed recently in U.S. District Court in Birmingham charges sex discrimination and challenges a state law allowing a school's board of trustees to reject a teacher hired by the board of education.

According to Lusco's attorney, Jim Pino, it was unfair for his client to be removed from the position without justification or without a hearing.

He also contends that it was not right for the position to go to a male applicant who was not better qualified.

Lusco is assistant principal at Riverchase. When the board approved her for the head post at Thompson Middle School, Charles Knowles, who was then superintendent of education, announced that she was the best qualified applicant.

Pino said he feels the statute allowing school trustees to reject teachers is not constitutional in that it doesn't contain any criteria for rejection.

He further believes, Pino remarked, that the law does not apply to principals.

Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox was out of town when the Reporter called for his comments on the suit.

Kick from teaching

Valley expands Pelham PE program

In the beginning, the Student Assistant Program between Valley Elementary and Pelham High focused on physical education. Students from Pelham spent several hours a day helping 'coach' Valley students during PE.

But now, because of the success of the program, it has been expanded to include other responsibilities.

The program was started three years ago by Valley P.E. instructors Tammy Richardson, David Shifflet and Joyce Bonovitch, and was set up with a two-fold purpose:

•To give Valley PE teachers a hand with their classes

•To give Pelham students experience dealing with younger children in a teaching-type capacity.

Now, according to Richardson, some of the participating high schoolers assist Valley teachers with kindergarten, first and third grade classes. On a rotation bases they help with grading papers, doing bulletin boards and other activities.

"It takes a lot of the clerical details and other non-teaching duties away from us, so we can teach," explained Richardson. "It's a very successful program and we hope to get more high school kids down here so we can expand it to all grades."

Four PHS seniors currently participate in the program, earning credit for the three hours they spend at Valley each day. The seniors are evaluated by the teachers and given grades for their efforts.

Bonovitch, who left Valley for Inverness Elementary this year, is working to establish a similar program there, Richardson said.

The program is a lot of help to the teachers -- and apparently a lot fun for the Pelham seniors.

"We just love working with kids," said Patrick Nola.

Stop signs should slow down problem

Since no other alternative was offered, the Pelham City Council voted to place stop signs at a three way stop in Brookfield Estates.

Jerry Adams appeared before the council Monday with a petition signed by 35 residents of the subdivision.

"If you could get a bird's eye view out my living room window, it would scare you to death," Adams told the council.

The Brookfield resident reported that a number of children live in the vicinity of David Drive and Keith Road where he asked for the placement of signs.

"There's a lot of potential for them to get hurt," he emphasized.

Police Chief Dave Watson said that stop signs should be put up to provide right of way and not as a disciplinary action.

Adams had mentioned swearing out warrants for the arrest of drivers who did not stop.

But Watson did not make any other suggestion on how the situation could be handled to make the intersection safer for neighborhood children, so the council went along with the stop sign proposal.

"At least drivers might slow down a little before they run the signs," noted Councilman Ken Maynard.

In other action at Monday's meeting, the council also voted to adopt the personnel policies read at a previous meeting, establishing a three member board.

Members, who will serve three year terms, will be named at the next meeting.

It will be up to the board to hear employee complaints, appeals on disciplinary action and to make recommendations to the council.

The only change in the law from when it was read concerned the sick leave policy.

Mayor Burk Dunaway explained that new employees would be credited with six days of sick leave and would accumulate one day per month after six months of service.

The days could be carried over from one year to the next, he said, adding that the city would not pay employees for built-up sick days.

Editorial comments

Thanks for helping

We could simply say they're doing their jobs and shrug it off at that. But to do so would be a gross injustice to the men and women of Shelby County who are involved in emergency medical units -- be they dedicated volunteers or paid paramedics, ambulance drivers, nurses and doctors.

Governor George Wallace has proclaimed September 18-24 as Emergency Medicine Week, and the designation is fitting and deserved.

Of course saving lives, mending arms, legs and heads, is, indeed, an actual job for many emergency medical personnel in Shelby County. That's what they get paid to do.

Nonetheless, getting paid for a job does not necessarily buy dedication and good work. And by far, most of the emergency personnel in this county are both dedicated and good at what they do. For this, we proudly tip our hat.

But what's even more amazing to us are the people who are not paid for the needed emergency services they provide, the men and women who give of their time and talents so that their fellow humans get the medical attention they need -- and get it fast.

Surely it is not easy to get out of bed in the middle of the night when a beeper sounds. Surely it is not easy to work with a suffering person under less than hospital perfect conditions, sometimes even in the dark, rain, or cold.

When a person not only volunteers to do this, but often even pays for paramedic and EMT training out of his or her own pocket, dedication is not a question.

To these people the Reporter and the people of Shelby County are grateful.

Keeping busy

Elbert Gibson, recently retired postmaster of Columbiana, doesn't expect to run out of things to do even though he'll be at home all day. Gardening is one of the hobbies that will occupy his time. Here Gibson exercises his green thumb on the Camellias he rooted in 1973.

Retirement won't end Gibson's zest for life

by Bert Seaman

Retirement isn't going to affect Elbert Gibson's attitude one iota.

"I've enjoyed everything I've ever done and I'm going to keep on that way," the former Columbiana Postmaster says.

Although he officially retired Sept. 2, Gibson has been on leave since June 16.

During the 27 years he worked for the US Postal Service, Gibson spent 17 years as a rural mail carrier and ten years as Postmaster.

One of the achievements he points to with pride during his years in the Postmaster's position is the numbering of homes and businesses in the city limits of Columbiana.

This allows for mail delivery to those who want it. He says this has been especially helpful to the elderly who cannot get to the post office.

Gibson gives two significant factors that over the years have enabled him to achieve his goals: his refusal to take 'no' for an answer when applying for a job; and accepting Christ as a teenager.

"I've never been unemployed, but I never got the job I went after on the first try," he notes.

After leaving the Army in 1945, (he served three years), Gibson drove street cars and trolley buses in Birmingham.

He moved to Shelby County in 1956 and landed a position as a rural carrier four years later. Until then he commuted to Birmingham for his old job.

Church work has always played an important part in his life, and Gibson told the Reporter he has been a deacon in different Baptist Churches for 25 years. He is now a deacon in Columbiana First Baptist Church.

"I don't think I'll ever run out of things to do," Gibson chuckles.

In listing some of the hobbies he intends to pursue now that he has more time, the former Postmaster says he'll be involved in wood working, oil painting and gardening.

He and his wife also plan to do more traveling, both in this country and abroad, including an extended stay in India where they have a good friend.

Before they hit the road, however, Gibson is being honored with a retirement tea Sunday, September 25, at the Family Life Center of the Columbiana First Baptist Church.

All of his friends and relatives are invited to attend the event, which is being held from 2-4 p.m.

to Clanton to take care of my elderly father and some irate renters. Needless to say it was an extremely trying day. I finally headed home around 4 p.m. on I-65 north. I had a blowout on the interstate and was over a mile from the nearest exit. I locked my car and started walking in the 90 degree heat. Naturally, everything runs through your mind; like who or what kind of person might stop and if I could reach the next exit in order to make a call.

I had only walked a short distance, when a couple heading south turned around on the interstate and came back to help me. My spare tire was flat and I asked to be taken to the nearest phone. I knew that my husband was not home so they insisted on driving me home. They drove 20 miles out of their way and then turned around and had to drive nearly 40 miles back to their destination.

I want to thank them, but all I can remember is their last name. Thank you, Mr. and Mrs. Murray of Thorsby, Alabama. It is so refreshing to know that people will go out of their way to help a stranger in distress and ask nothing in return.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member of the FDIC.

I've seen a lot of folks have a lot of fun in my day. In the early thirties when the Shelby County Baseball League was the talk of the day, I would watch those good ladies in Sterrett have more fun than anybody, sitting on the side of the hill, watching their men play ball.

And if Charlie Hughes and his crowd didn't have fun standing on the thirdbase line in Mr. Wolf's pasture, yelling for Wilsonville and kidding Columbiana, then there isn't a Santa Claus.

And that day with the temperature 133 in the sun and only five hours since he got in from the honky-tonks on old 280, if the Montgomerys and the McGraws and the Morrells and the Masseys and the Floreys didn't have fun ragging Skillet Bird, who didn't get a man out in the first inning, then you can forget about fun and turn the whole kaboodle over to the tear-jerkers.

At old Montebriar, halfway between Montevallo and Centreville, a little off highway 25 and stuck back in the woods, with that Montevallo orchestra playing the sweetest music anywhere, and the girls as pretty as peach trees in April, a guy could have enough fun in one night to last three summers.

Let the home team have a winning streak of two games, who didn't win but one game all last year, and the homefolks will pack the stands and yell and shout and make big talk, with fun running out of 'em like molasses out of a jug.

Put two guys on a half-sunken treetop, in their favorite slough, with the crappie eating it up, and they'll forget that steak is four buck a pound and coffee a quarter a cup and shoes close to a hundred bucks a pair.

But today at the 4-H Camp on the Coosa, out past the Kingdom and almost to the Sollie Perkin's place at the old ferry, Amy and I and Annette Skinner and over a hundred more, folks like Arlin Perry and Hugh McDaniel and Ethel Billingsley, attended the Shelby County Singing Convention. And if those folks can't sing, and if they don't have fun doing it, rabbits can't hop and birds can't fly and mules can't kick. They had enough food to feed an army and after lunch they began singing and sang until three o'clock. Yep, I've seen a lot of folks have a lot of fun in my day. But this group, singing their songs in their fashion, had the most fun of all.

Scrambled Eggs

by Bert Seaman

I think I was accused unjustly the other day, when I was charged with tearing up the forest. Just because I gathered two armloads of wild flowers and various and sundry items of nature doesn't mean I was wreaking havoc in the woodlands.

But I must admit that I don't seem to be able to get out in a field, forest or beach without gathering whatever is within arm's reach.

This little excursion the other day started out as a search for arrowheads.

My granddaughter couldn't wait to get started when her aunt told her about a place where they could be found.

I just went along for the fresh air and exercise.

But we hadn't gone far into the woods when I spied some flowers I thought would make a dandy arrangement.

Not too much further down the trail was another interesting looking species of plant.

As my hiking companions faded from sight, I continued to stop and pick.

When I finally caught up with them, my daughter was amazed at what I had accumulated and chided me for "tearing up the forest."

I assured her there was plenty left in the places where I had picked the wild flowers. After all, I was once a Girl Scout.

As we trudged along, my daughter became less and less sure just where the trail was that led to the Indian artifacts.

She suggested I deposit my load as we reached an area where she thought the trail began because it was overgrown and the walking would be more difficult.

I gladly put my posies, weeds, branches and other items on the ground to be reclaimed on our way back.

As we struggled through the tangled underbrush, my granddaughter lost all her enthusiasm for gathering the pieces of flint.

However, I continued to find objects produced by Mother Nature that I thought would look interesting in and around my home.

We finally gave up on reaching the destination we had set out for, but when we came upon the load I had deposited at the start of the trail, I couldn't pick it up. My arms were filled with a second load.

So daughter dear grudgingly agreed to carry my first accumulation.

The walk did have a nice climax though. We stopped at a creek, rolled up our pants and went wading.

And several flowers which are stuck in a vase in my bedroom are a nice reminder of the day's adventure.

I must admit however, that most of them wilted before we were out of the woods.

On my next walk, I guess I should try and keep my hands in my pockets. But that sure would take most of the enjoyment out of the outing.

The Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

The Montgomery mayoral race between the controversial incumbent, Emory Folmar, and challenger Franklin James, is beginning to warm up.

A clear indication of that came when a series of radio spots showed up on local stations a few days ago. One of them features a conversation between a "country bumpkin" and a salesman. The bumpkins wants to buy a pair of six-shooters that are water-resistant. What does he want them for? He wants to give them to Mayor Folmar. "If they won't rust, he can wear them while he showers," explains the bumpkin.

The commerial is obviously aimed at Folmar's penchant of the past of wearing a .357 magnum at all times. He doesn't carry the gun anymore. His explanation for being armed: "If you had had as many threats on your life as I have you'd wear a gun too."

Challenger James was quick to disavow any responsibility for the radio spots. But James himself has not been exactly shadowboxing in his campaign. His campaign slogan describes him as a man who will be "Bold, Forceful and Polite", and "polite" is underlined. Folmar has been known to be rather plainspoken.

While neither candidate has raised the issue, nor is it likely either will, there's not much doubt what the underlying issue is -- it is the old issue of race.

Folmar is exceedingly unpopular with Montgomery's substantial black population. His unabashed support of the Montgomery Police, his hard-line stance on law and order, are both interpreted by blacks as being racist.

With the election now but three weeks away (Oct. 11), most observers still figure Folmar must be favored to win, but it will be no cake walk.

James, a white businessman and former Industrial Relations Director in the Fob James Cabinet (they are not related), does not have to raise the issue of race. He will get the black votes en masse without seeking them. If he is to win, however, he must poll at least 25-to-30% of the white vote. To do that, he hopes to steal a page from the playbook of his brother, Earl James, who served as Montgomery mayor for a dozen years or so. Earl James always came out of the predominantly white precincts of East Montgomery with a powerful vote. If Franklin James can do that, Mayor Folmar is in for a fierce struggle.

Odds and Ends -- Former Circuit Judge Perry Hooper of Montgomery thinks the Alabama Legislature should re-write the State Ethics Law, but the head of the State Ethics Commission, Mel Cooper, says the thought scares him to death. Cooper fears that the Legislature, if given such an opportunity, might instead repeal the law and abolish the commission.

A Birmingham man who walked into a department store, put a $349 TV set in a shopping cart and walked out without paying for the set, has been given a 20-year sentence for shoplifting. The hefty sentence was given to John Buchanan, 38, was due to 10 prior felony convictions.

If you doubt that Montgomery-based Blount, Inc., is a world-wide corporation, then ponder these numbers: Five of Blount's corporate pilots were recently honored by the National Business Aircraft Association for their safety record. The five, collectively, had flown the Blount planes 6,833,545 miles without an accident. That's a lot of miles.

Sears signs off WBYE news for last time

by David F. Moore

"Good morning. This is Ralph Sears with this morning's news..." Since a cold day in January of 1958, radio listeners in Shelby, Chilton and Bibb Counties have started their mornings with this familiar greeting from the owner and newscaster of WBYE radio station in Calera. But on September 1, 1983, Sears sold the station to Bill Murchinson of Birmingham.

With the signing of those papers Sears ended a news career at 'BYE that not only spanned a quarter of century, but fulfilled one of his childhood ambitions as well.

Sears' radio ambition has its roots in the mid-American plains of Nebraska where he was born.

"I always had a liking for radio," recalls the veteran newscaster. "Then during the World War -- I emphasize 'Two,' not 'One' -- I directed artillery fire by radio. It was kind of interesting."

After the war -- which interrupted his studies at the University of Nebraska -- Sears added broadcasting classes to his business management major and took a job as an announcer/newscaster at KOLN in Lincoln. When he left the job after graduating in 1948, the slot was filled by a young upstart named Johnny Carson.

Sears, along with his wife Marcia, moved to Montevallo where he took a job teaching radio and speech at Alabama College (now the University of Montevallo).

During his four years of teaching he established the school's first campus station, WRSD, while traveling to the University of Southern California in the summers to study telecommunications.

In 1952 he became the school's director of public relations.

Radio, however, remained in his blood and during the next seven years he produced three radio programs of note on campus.

With the help of a grant from the Ford Foundation, Sears announced and produced a series of 26 half-hour programs entitled 'Organ Music of the Centuries.' Featuring Putnam Porter on the UM organ, the program was aired around the world by the Voice of America network.

From 1949-57 he produced 'Music from Montevallo' which was carried by 60 stations in the southeast.

'Montevallo Nocturn,' which had a format of organ music and poetry, ran for three years and was carried nightly by WAPI in Birmingham and ten other stations.

"I produced it," Sears says with an air of dry wit, "but I didn't read the poetry..."

Although these shows were produced for radio at Montevallo, at the time there was no station operating in Shelby County -- a fact that Sears tackled when he served on the Industrial Development Board in 1956 and '57.

Sears says a lot of people at that time didn't think Shelby County even needed a radio station -- but he was able to persuade members of the board otherwise. With aid and encouragement from Roy Downs of Central State Bank, and others, the board raised $400 in Calera and Montevallo to fund the engineering survey required by the Federal Communications Commission to receive a frequency assignment -- 1370 kilocycles.

A Birmingham businessman by the name of M.D. Smith was then persuaded to buy 7.5 acres on State 25 between Calera and Montevallo, build and equip the station, and erect a 280-foot antenna.

On January 15, 1958, WBYE, the voice of central Alabama, went on the air. But Sears didn't become directly involved with the business until later that year when Smith decided to sell and go into television.

"Three of us -- Marion Jones, who kept it on the air as chief engineer all these years and is still general manager, Ed Ewing, and I -- formed a corporation and bought 'BYE exactly a year from the date it went on the air."

That morning in 1959, as people crawled out of bed and dressed for work and school, they were greeted with their first "Good morning. This is Ralph Sears..."

Sears' 'World News Roundup' incorporated the Associated Press wire service reports into a format divided into five minutes of world and national events, with ten minutes of Shelby County and state news.

As radio listeners ate breakfast and drove to work, they could catch Sears' five-minute weather summary at 7 a.m. At 7:05 they were entertained and informed with nationally syndicated 'Between the Lines.'

Sears often made his own tapes for a ten minute show entitled 'BYE goes ...'

He filled that blank by taking listeners with him on trips to the Seattle Worlds Fair, Mexico, Central America, and even the Panama Canal where he interviewed a lockmaster from Calera.

From behind his studio microphone, Sears and central Alabama followed the news through the years -- from Sputnik and outer space, to the jungle fighting of Viet Nam. "It was all pretty exciting," he recalls.

But always, the importance of local news and story angles were stressed at 'BYE (as well as the Shelby County Reporter, which Sears and his wife still own).

It was important that people had information -- such as schools closing because of ice or snow, or who won the Calera game. But the big story Sears remembers was in 1974 when then Sheriff Red Walker had his opponent, Billy Thompson, Probate Judge Conrad "Bully" Fowler, and five others jailed shortly before elections on charges (later dropped) of conspiring to murder him.

"That created phone calls to 'BYE from around the world," Sears says. "I fed the story to the BBC (British Broadcasting Corporation), who called from London and aired the report live."

Sears also fed live coverage of the event to the Mutual Broadcasting System which aired the story on its national network.

His coverage in the mid 70's of an Amtrak passenger derailment in Saginaw in which a truck driver was killed also made national news.

Throughout the years, Sears says there were numerous stories of fatalities and brutalities.

"But I don't think you ever get to a point where you get so cynical that you become insensitive about what's going on." In fact, says the seasoned newsmen, "I was shocked and dismayed when the Russians shot down the Korean airliner."

Though still active with the Reporter and his duties as Mayor of Montevallo, Sears figures -- with some regret -- that his radio days are now over.

"I miss 'BYE and the broadcasting. Very much." Still, he seems to take it all in stride.

"It was perhaps my childhood ambition to be involved in radio -- and I was. Now I sold it -- and I'm not."

"But," and the former newscaster lets slide a grin, "I still listen to it!"

Teacher Talk

by Pam Reach

Editor's note -- 'Teacher Talk' is a series of articles written for the Reporter by members of the Shelby County Education Association. Reach is a librarian at Wilsonville and Shelby Elementary Schools. A teacher for six years, she resides in Leeds with her three children.

Reading regularly to your young child is one of the first responsibilities a parent has in order to guide a child into positive reading experiences. The earlier the age that a child is read to the better. Not only does this show the child how important you feel reading is, but it also gives you and the child a time of sharing something special.

By reading to your child you help him to learn that reading is a source of pleasure as well as information.

Once your child is old enough to read by himself you now have the responsibility in guiding him in the selection of his books and materials, especially in his pleasure reading. When giving suggestions the first thing to consider is the child's interest. Whether or not a child reads a given book depends on his interest in the subject matter.

The second important factor to consider when assisting your child in selecting a book is the readability of the book. Readability refers to the reading level or grade level of the book. You should consider the size of the print as well as the vocabulary. Let your child read a few lines to be sure the book is on the correct level.

A third point to consider when guiding your child in the selection of a book is the physical format. Is the cover attractive and appealing to a young reader? The cover should entice the young reader to look through the book. If there are pictures, are the pictures colorful? (Pictures should be numerous in books for grades one through three.)

An important point to remember is that your librarian, whether in a school or public library, is there to help not only the young reader but parents as well. Always feel free to ask for help or advice whenever needed.

Reading is a fantastic pastime and children need to experience it at an early age so they will continue it for a lifetime.

Helena Council agrees to fix potholes

The subject of potholes was the cause of some friction at Monday's meeting of the Helena Council.

Businessman Ronald Beck said he thought the reason for the city not doing anything about the potholes on Mullins Drive was because he had griped about the increase in his business license fee.

"If you thought that, you thought wrong," declared Mayor Sonny Penhale, adding that he hadn't even known about the complaint.

"We don't operate like that," the Mayor emphasized.

Beck reminded the council that his son had appeared before them several weeks prior to Monday's meeting to ask that the potholes be filled.

Because nothing was done, he reported that an axle on one of his trucks was broken after hitting a pothole.

He also told the council that his 14 employees were having difficulty driving over the road in the city's industrial park.

Beck's company manufactures electrical equipment which includes brackets and substation structures.

The road has not been repaired, the Mayor said, because the city has not had the equipment needed to do the work.

But he told Beck that a machine has been acquired that can be used for the job once repairs on it are completed.

It should be ready to go next week, Penhale said, assuring Beck that the potholes would be taken care of.

During the exchange over the increase in his privilege license fee, Beck said it had gone from $100 to $400.

But a city official explained that the increase in business license fees went into effect two years ago.

Mike Metrock, another business owner on Industrial Road, accompanied Beck to the meeting.

He offered to supply labor and asphalt if the city would just agree to fix the road.

However, Mayor Penhale said the city would fill the holes with tar and gravel.

The Becks say they are afraid that will wash out with the first rain.

Snowden can pick bank

Shelby County Probate Judge Tommy Snowden may deposit funds collected by his office in any bank of his choosing.

At least, that is the opinion of State Attorney General Charles A. Graddick, even if such bank has not been designated as a depository by the Shelby County Commission.

However, the attorney general also believes that deposits made by Snowden in a non county commission designated bank are not protected by any measures taken by the county commission to insure county funds.

He further believes that the county commission is not liable for any funds deposited in a bank selected by a county official independently.

Upon receipt of the opinion from the state's attorney general, Snowden told the Reporter that the situation was exactly like he thought it was.

"I can do anything I want to," he said.

Bubble pops as Montevallo falls to Thompson

by Fred Guarino

There are no undefeated football teams left in Shelby County.

The Thompson Warriors took care of that last Friday night by whipping previously perfect Montevallo 20-0 in Alabaster.

Since the teams play in different divisions, the game won't effect playoff chances. But as far as county pride was concerned, the win was a big one.

"It means a whole lot," stated a proud Warrior Max Brown after the win. "They had been mouthing off all week."

The alleged mouthing off may have concerned the fact that 2A Montevallo did remain alone as an unbeaten team after it whipped previously perfect 3A Shelby County 20-7 two weeks ago.

Also, upon pressing, coach Richard Gilliam had indicated that this year's Bulldogs could be the best he's had in years.

The 3A Thompson Warriors were 2-1. A heart breaker of a contest with Bibb County gave them their first loss since going undefeated in 1982.

Making the game with Thompson even bigger was the fact that the Bulldogs almost beat the super Warriors last year. It was only a comeback in the final three minutes of that well remembered contest that allowed Thompson to win 21-14.

Then there was the sunset — enough of an orange and blue one prior to last Friday's kick off looked like a good omen for Montevallo. But good things were not to be for MHS.

After the sunset, things only got dark...

The Bulldogs went into the game with two strikes against them. Defensive players Dwayne Jackson and Rick Dobson were not at a 100 percent health status — bad news for anyone facing Warrior runners Brown, Luvell Bivins, and Stevie Hawkins.

On the other side of the defensive coin, Thompson held MHS super runner Jeff Chism, usually good for 5.3 yards per carry, to slightly more than three.

It took only one break for Thompson — a pass interception by Kevin Ballard — to prove the weakness of the Bulldog defense, and to signal the way of the game.

Thompson used just five plays to notch its first score. Brown capped a 29-yard drive by going over from the one-foot line.

The point after was no good, but THS was pretty much in the driver's seat with 6:10 left in the first period.

Things remained fairly stable, however, until the second period. At that point, a bad punt snap left Bulldog Trey Hughes in the arms of Warrior defenders at his own 24-yard line.

Thompson took over possession and just four plays later Brown scored again. A two point conversion failed but Thompson led 12-0.

The third period was no better for Montevallo. A fumble recovery by the Warriors put them in business at their own 27-yard line.

Behind the running of Bivins and Hawkins, Thompson moved down to second and goal at the one.

Bivins did the final honors by going into the endzone. Again, a two point conversion failed, but at 18-0 the points were moot.

The fourth quarter also failed to bring Montevallo any relief.

With third and 13 from their own six, their backs against the wall, fate and Thompson worked together to deal the 'Dogs yet another embarrassing blow.

Montevallo's Anthony Prentice caught a pass in his own endzone as was tackled for a safety.

At 20-0, nothing changed on the scoreboard until the lights went out, and the Warriors added a third scalp to their belt.

Apart from being a game of bragging rights, last Friday's endeavor was important from other angles.

For the Warriors, the challenge offered a chance to prove their growing strength. Quarterback Gordon Kenney felt his team met that challenge.

"Everybody was saying we're not the same as last year," he said. "Montevallo was undefeated... If we were going to prove that we are as good as last year's team, we knew we had to beat them."

"We really wanted it," Kenney said, analyzing the happy outcome.

For Montevallo, the game perhaps put the season and the chances for a state title in perspective.

"All of our goals are still in tact except one (an undefeated season)," Gilliam told his disappointed squad. "We're at a cross roads. Past victories don't mean a thing."

"To win the (2A) state championship, we've got to win five straight weeks against Chelsea, Vincent, Jemison, B. B. Comer and Winterboro," Gilliam stressed.

On the other side of the field, Thompson Coach Doug Wheeler was pleased with his team's effort, but kept a stiff lip about the need for improvements.

"I think we are on the right track — but we haven't arrived yet," Wheeler stressed.

Arrival or not, he was unable to hold back signs of approval for his boys. Wheeler smiled about the win and told the Reporter, "It felt great."

Wheeler also gave his defense — which had been under fire — some words of encouragement.

Until Montevallo, he said the offense had been playing well enough to win, but the defense wasn't up to snuff.

But after golden goose egg he said, "Both the down people on defense played well, and we played good up front. We controlled the line of scrimmage (both ways)."

Thompson travels to face 4A Vestavia this Friday night, while Montevallo hosts Chelsea in its first area encounter.

Warriors rip

The Thompson Warriors burst Montevallo's unbeaten bubble last Friday night with a 20-0 win in Alabaster. Runs such as this one by Luvell Bivins (20) told the tale. Bivins gets good blocking

Lions keep home opener record intact

Not only did the Briarwood Christian Lions notch their first win of the season last Friday, they also kept an important string going.

The 25-0 whipping they laid on Marion Institute makes the fifth straight year they have won their first home game.

"We needed it," said a happy defensive coordinator Steve Franklin of the winning home field opener.

"It helped us build morale. We had lost a couple of times," Franklin said, pointing out there now 1-2 record.

According to Franklin the Lions played as well as they hoped to against a tough Montevallo squad, but then fell short of their ability against Ohatchee.

Since then "we believe we've had some boys wake up and give it all they had every time," the defense man said of the of the confidence building win. "We looked like a different team."

The Lions scored first on a four-yard run by tailback Carig Collier, early in the first quarter. Brad Blan added the point after to put Briarwood in command, 7-0.

Briarwood struck pay dirt again late in the half on a five-yard pass from Bobby Welch to Ken Preston. The point after was no good, and the Lions took a 13-0 lead into halftime.

Briarwood's third touchdown of the night came on a 35-yard pass from Welch to Preston in the third quarter. A two point conversion try failed, giving the Lions a 19-0 lead.

Adding icing to the cake, Briarwood scored its final touchdown on a defensive effort. Shawn Smith blocked a punt in the endzone which was recovered for a Lion touchdown.

The two-point conversion attempt again failed, at 25-0 no one was complaining too much.

This week the Lions travel nearly to Tennessee to take on Cherokee County and the chance to bat 500 on the season.

Calera routs Thorsby in a first area encounter 33-0

by Mark C. Jones

The starting football players for Calera spent most of last Friday night sipping soft drinks and exchanging small talk.

In fact, the starting crew saw little action at all because the reserve forces were able to finish off Thorsby in a 33-0 rout.

The big win was the first area 1A encounter for Calera this season — leaving playoff hopes still very much alive...

The Eagles took the opening kick and three plays later had six points. Mike West rambled 22 yards to cap a 61-yard drive that took just over one minute to complete. Steve Ellison added the extra point.

Todd Killingsworth soon put the Eagles in scoring position again when he intercepted a pass at the Rebel 26. Darryl Griffith took it in four plays later on a 5 yard run with 7:55 left in the first period.

Ellison kicked the extra point and the first string offense was through for night.

For the rest of the evening the Calera reserves took center stage, but if Thorsby was expecting any relief, it didn't come until the fourth quarter.

Calvin Cohill added to Thorsby's miseries by blocking a Rebel punt deep in Thorsby territory. Kenny Johnson scored for the Eagles from 19 yards out with 4:39 still left in the first period. Ellison again kicked the extra point and Calera was coasting 21-0.

Even with starters taking it easy on the sideline, the Eagle offense continued to roll.

Scott McLendon connected with Shane Schroeder on a 69-yard pass play for yet another Calera touchdown with 10:56 left in the first half. Ellison's extra point attempt was wide and Calera led 27-0 at the half.

Calera mounted only one scoring drive in the second half as the reserves gained valuable experience.

Andy Crumley ended a 74-yard fourth quarter drive with a one-yard touchdown plunge with two seconds gone in the period. The score was set up by a Schroeder run of 36 yards to the Rebel five. Ellison missed again on the extra point but the Eagles coasted to a 33-0 win.

"I think we've turned the corner and we're in a position to put together a string of victories," summarized Calera Head Coach Danny Alverson. "Our practices during the week were just super and I feel we were totally prepared to win the game."

"I think we're about to prove to everyone that we are a state playoff-type team," he said.

Alverson heaped praise on all of his players after the easy win but, the two major recipients were McLendon and Crumley, players that had previously seen limited action.

"Scott gave us a great performance as quarterback and Andy had an excellent night both with his rushing on offense and defensive plays," Alverson complimented.

The victory evens the Calera record at 2-2 with 2A Jemison next on the agenda. The contest will be played at Jemison with the Panthers sporting a 4-0 record which the Eagles would no doubt love to spoil.

Defensive swarm

Eagles may not swarm in the bird kingdom but they certainly do when they are from Calera and on the football field. Swarming to bring down a Thorsby runner are (52) Calvin Cohill, (57) Jeff

Panthers fight hard; fall to Mt. Brook

The Pelham Panthers are winless after four straight football games. But... if last Thursday's game with 4A super power Mountain Brook is any indication, the Panthers won't remain winless forever. Though Pelham fell 31-14 at the hands of the number seven ranked, undefeated Spartans, something was definitely different...

Unlike the team which lost to Munford, Shelby County and Childersburg earlier this season, there was actually some punch in the offense.

There was also some sting in the defense, and the Spartans paid for every yard they got as Panther defenders stuck them again and again.

All of this can be attributed to the simple fact that until last Thursday the Panthers were animals without teeth:

•Starting tailback Mark Brasher and weak side linebacker Ronnie Tate played for the first time since being injured at Munford.

•Thirteen Panthers who suffered a severe stomach virus before the Shelby County game, and who saw no action against Childersburg, were back for the first time.

Coach Billy Tohill made the situation clear in Mountain Brook.

"We don't know what kind of a football team we have," Tohill said, "because we haven't been a football team until now."

Tohill stressed that the injury and sickness situation on his team has been real.

"It's been an unfortunate fact," the coach stated. So... how did Pelham do on its first health night?

For starts, it held Mountain Brook on its first offensive series.

Then, still looking good, Pelham recovered a fumble at its 36-yard line and drove 64 yards to paydirt.

Mark Brasher ripped 34 yards on one burst and Gary Howard kept punching the Spartans until he scored from ten yards out. The point after was good and Pelham led 7-0.

Mountain Brook didn't tie the game until towards the end of the first quarter. But by then it had its act together enough to pound the determined Panthers 28-7 by the half.

But the Spartans were only able to add three points in the entire second half, while Pelham managed to win the half with a touchdown.

Late in the game the Panthers began a 97-yard drive from their own three. Brasher, Tony Johnson and Ricky Hayes combined their talents to move the Panthers to a third and eight situation at the Mountain Brook eight-yard line.

Then Johnson crashed through the line for the touchdown that made the score 31-13. The point after was good, making the final 31-14.

While the Panthers made Mountain Brook earn everything it got last Thursday, one still has to wonder how a team keeps going after it's been down week after week.

Mike Bramblett, whose been out of the line-up the entire football season with a blood clot, offered his explanation to the Reporter.

"We just keep working hard and knowing we can be a good football team," he said.

"We ain't down on ourselves," offered Jim Gorman.

Saying the team has simply got to execute, he maintained the notion that the Panthers keep going because they keep believing in themselves.

But if Pelham proved anything to itself against Mountain Brook, it will need every bit of confidence it gained when it hosts Bibb County Friday.

Bibb is the only team to whip the Warriors this year.

Touchdown!

Pelham's Greg Howard stuns fans of unbeaten Mt. Brook as he leaps into the endzone for a touchdown. Howard surprised folks in Mt. Brook because his run put the Panthers on top 7-0 against the 4A power. Mt. Brook would come back to stay undefeated, however. (Photo by Fred Guarino)

Champs

Helen Lewis' Renegades are the youngest adult women softball players in the Columbiana City League which plays ball off Egg and Butter Road at Graham Field. Yet that didn't stop them from winning four straight games and first place in a tournament played last Saturday. Assisting Lewis in the coaching department is Deanne Vansant. Team members are Michele Reed, Samantha Gothard, Suzy Pool, Annie Joyce Bailey, Shelia Woods, Carolyn Walker, Christine Buie, Roni Garrison, Nicki Waldrop, Jennifer Garrison, Pat Vansant, Mary Peoples, Shirley Smith, Patti Tidmore, Margie Head, Kristy Ruston, Soline Madison, and Mary Alice Pool. The team has been cheered on this season by avid supporter Geraldine Woods.

Jemison proves too awesome for Chelsea

Things have been going poorly for a lot of Shelby County teams, and the Chelsea Hornets are no exception.

After winning their opening contest against Billingsley, the Hornets have fallen to West Blocton and now Jemison.

Jemison gave Chelsea an unwelcome reception last Friday night by whipping Gene Hulsey's team 27-0.

Hulsey would only say of the game that Jemison was just too strong -- and just too quick.

And, as is the case for most Shelby County teams, the schedule offers no relief.

Chelsea will play 3-1 Montevallo in an area encounter at Montevallo tomorrow (Friday) night.

Columbiana youths win

There was some rough, tough football played Saturday in Calera when Columbiana and the home team youth football players went after each other.

Columbiana won the 75-pound game 34-32.

Calera's Tony Smith ran a for touchdown to get things started but Columbiana's Chris Gable returned the favor for his squad.

Both sides got down to some serious action with Gable making three TD's, Shawn Goodwin one and Brent White, one.

Tary Smith ran the touchdowns and extra points for Calera.

In 85-pounder action Columbiana came away with a 12-2 win. Scoring for Columbiana were Ches Harris and Lane Lowery.

Columbiana made the night a clean sweep by winning the 105-pounder contest 28-8.

The next series of games will be played in Childersburg, September 24.

UM volleyball blends youth and experience

"We have a lot to live up to after finishing seventh in the NAIA National Tournament last year," said University of Montevallo volleyball coach Beverly Warren.

"We lost some key players and our ability to make up for the losses will determine what type of season we will have."

The task Warren has at hand is to blend seven new recruits with six returning lettermen into a unit that will be facing the toughest schedule in the school's history. The seven new players are the most ever brought in by Warren during one year.

"I feel fortunate to have recruited such fine talent and so much of it," commented Warren. "With the experience our junior college players bring with them we should stay competitive."

Three seniors return from last year's 37-16 team, and the stability they offer, will be important during the early part of the season, she said. Leadership is expected from setter Thompson graduate Toots Cooley, and hitters Dianne Green of Huntsville, and Janet Ingram of Killen.

Additional experience comes from a trio of juniors that played key roles in last year's team. Hitter Paula Seibert of Decatur, middleblocker Amy Dishroon of Huntsville, and defensive specialist Blanche Watkins from Brent, will all see plenty of action and must step forward if the Lady Falcons are to return to the national tournament again this year.

The junior college players are Debbie Noack of Hillsboro, MO, Tee Straughn of Pensacola, and Karen Kreger of Sarasota. Noack will play middleblocker while Straughn is a setter-hitter and Kreger a hitter.

Coach Warren dipped into the high school ranks and got four talented preppers in hitters Denise Clary, Kristy Golden, Lynette French, and Becky King.

The schedule the Lady Falcons face features four regular season tournaments and a number of tough NCAA Division I and II schools.

Crunch...

Coosa Valley defenders put a crunching hit on a Rebel from Bessemer Faith. However, Bessemer runners got free enough times to win 40-0. (Photo by Bert Seaman)

CVA stays scoreless after three games

Last year Coosa Valley Academy played Bessemer Faith to a 9-0 loss. There was some consolation in the closeness of the game.

This year's 40-0 loss to the same team did not offer the Rebels nearly as much consolation.

In fact, in their three losses in three games, the Rebels have yet to score a single point.

This, of course, is only the negative side of the coin. There is a positive side, according to the stats and coach Bruce Breland.

For starts, Coosa Valley earned only two less first downs than Bessemer, and were outrushed by only 26 yards.

"I don't think the score indicated the game," Breland said. "We did move the ball on them."

What hurt the Rebels was the passing game -- mainly Bessemer Faith's, which went for a hot 13 of 15 passes and 246 yards.

Furthermore, in the first game of 1983, Breland lost starting fullback John Limbaugh to injury. Against Bessemer Faith he lost second stringer Jerry Spates.

Yet Breland maintains confidence in his players, and isn't singing the blues, even if he has good reason.

"I believe by the end of the season we will surprise some people," he stated.

The coach pointed out that on two occasions CVA stopped Bessemer Faith on fourth down only to blow the effort with 15-yard penalties.

The coach indicated that with the elimination of mistakes, the Rebels can be very competitive.

Coosa Valley Academy will host Lee Scott at home Friday night.

The Rebels will be looking to earn their first victory -- which will require that they at least score their first points.

Vincent finds hope in Dadeville

It's usually hard to find a bright side to a 41-6 loss.

But... look at the facts regarding the game between winless Vincent and undefeated Dadeville last Friday night.

Dadeville was a runner up for the state 2A football title last year and state champion in 1981 -- the team has grown up winning.

Vincent, on the other hand, struggled last season and has had little encouragement thus far this year.

Yet after trailing 28-0 at the half, the Yellow Jackets managed to play Dadeville a much better game in the third and fourth quarters, being outscored by at least a more respectable 13-6.

In addition, Vincent put together its most consistent drive of the year (65 yards) to score its third period TD.

Cedric Riggins crowned the drive with a six-yard run to the endzone.

Coach Harold Garrett looked at the situation this way:

"We haven't scored a touchdown since a kickoff return against Shelby County. This was the first game this season in which we scored a genuine offensive touchdown."

He explained that his team set a goal of trying to win the second half. But even in failing by seven points, his Yellow Jackets at least played with intelligence and aggression.

Garrett pointed out that the Yellow Jackets also managed to stop Dadeville several times in the second half.

He stressed that his kids now have only to believe in themselves to reach victory.

After facing undefeated football teams all season, the 0-4 Yellow Jackets finally get a break Friday when they play 1-3 B. B. Comer in Sylacauga.

Injuries mount as SA goes 1-3

The Shelby Academy Raiders have suffered their third loss in four weeks -- this time at the hands of Springwood.

Plagued with injuries from the previous week's effort, the Raiders suffered even more bumps and bruises last Friday night as they fell 43-6.

Shelby Academy linebackers Dennis Attaway and Vince Pickett were previous casualties, and fullback Robert Thomas was also hurt.

Thomas tried to play last Friday at Springwood, but was hit on a sore shoulder on the opening kickoff.

During the course of the night Chad Burton, a defensive end, was injured and is doubtful for the Raider's next game.

To make things even worse, quarterback Jeff Dunaway broke his finger.

"Our biggest problem is we can't find 11 boys who really want to play," said head coach DeWayne Kervin.

He pointed out that he doesn't have that many reserves, and that he will only be able to dress out 14 boys when they travel to Tuscaloosa on Friday.

The Raiders only points against Springwood came on a seven-yard pass from Doug Thomas to David Ingram late in the third quarter.

SCHS falls

It wasn't a very pretty homecoming for Shelby County High School last Friday.

Playing a tough Chilton County squad, the Wildcats were foiled 13-7.

Coach Ricky Seale had no excuses for his team's effort: "We slopped around the first half."

He pointed out that his team only managed to break onto the scoreboard in the third quarter on a four-yard run by Ambrose Wood and a point after by Kevin Jones.

Seale stated simply that his team played flat in the early going and made offensive mistakes in the third and fourth quarters.

The Wildcat coach indicated that some offensive changes will probably be made to correct the situation.

The now 2-2 Wildcats host St. Clair County this Friday night.

Billy Rocko named as deputy coroner

Billy Rocko of Montevallo has been named deputy coroner for Shelby County. The appointment was made Monday by Shelby County Coroner Billy Thompson.

The position was created by a bill Thompson had introduced during the last session of the legislature.

Both Thompson's and Rocko's positions are part-time jobs.

According to Thompson, a deputy coroner was needed because death investigations and certificates have often been needed while he is busy working out of the county. In the past, such incidents have required that police either wait for Thompson, or have a sheriff's deputy act as deputy coroner.

Thompson said he worked about 120 cases last year.

Rocko will have the same authority and responsibilities on death calls as Thompson, however he will be called only when Thompson is unavailable to work a case.

The new position pays $100 per month salary, $100 per month in expenses, plus mileage, Thompson said.

He said some half-dozen people — all from Shelby County — applied for the position.

"The man (Rocko) had the qualifications and it'll be a very compatible situation," Thompson told the Reporter.

Rocko is owner of Hoffman-Rocko Funeral Homes in Montevallo and Centerville. Thompson is a mortician at Bolton-Brown Service Funeral Home in Columbiana.

Writer workshop held for student journalists

A journalism workshop for high school students will be held Wednesday, Oct. 5, at Samford University.

The annual workshop is co-sponsored by the Birmingham chapter of Women in Communications, Inc., and Samford's Department of English and Journalism. Sessions will be held from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in Dwight Beeson Hall on the Samford campus. Registration check-in will begin at 8 a.m.

Professional communicators will lead seven workshop sessions designed for high school newspaper editors, staffers, sponsors and journalism teachers.

Topics they will discuss are: "Planning Before You Go to Print," "Writing for Readability," "Writing with Light," and "Asking the Right Questions."

An idea exchange for sponsors and a "hands-on" session on layout basics will be presented in the afternoon session.

The registration fee of $8 per person includes lunch. For more information: 870-2921.

The Shelby County Reporter will be happy to pay the workshop registration fee for one student from each of the high schools in Shelby County.

In the event some of the schools are not able to send a representative, the Reporter will make the offer available to more than one student from participating high schools, up to a limit of 15 students in all.

Any student or journalism teacher interested in attending the workshop should telephone Violet Powell at the Reporter: 669-3131, by Wednesday, September 28.

Teachers' joke tops school week

Homecoming activities, open house, an exhibit at the fair and lots of reports — last week was unusually hectic at Columbiana Middle School.

To help relieve the pressure on their principal, the school staff decided to give her a good laugh.

While Lois Bentley went about her afternoon duties Friday, teachers went outside and decorated her car.

When it was time to leave school, the surprised principal found her car looking as though it had been in the homecoming parade. It was draped with streamers with a big sign in front proclaiming "What a Week!"

The joke's intended effect worked, Bentley said, — with a chuckle.

Westover sets festival to raise money for FD

The Westover Volunteer Fire Department is sponsoring a Fall Festival Saturday, October 8.

The event will feature arts and crafts, a beauty pageant, music, games, food and fun for the whole family.

A steer and a portable tv will be given away. (For more information, contact any fire department volunteer.)

Arts and crafts booths are still available, and can be reserved by calling Carol Wanningar at 678-6459.

Entries for the beauty pageant should contact Sherry Jerrill at 678-9666.

The festival will be held at the fire station on US 280, and all proceeds go towards supporting the fire department.

Riders win awards

Eighteen trophies and ribbons were given to 4-H horse showmen Wednesday night at the county fair.

According to John Jones, county agent, it was the largest 4-H horse show the fair has ever had. Winners in each of the six events were recognized with ribbons and trophies by the Kiwanis Club of Columbiana. They include:

English Showmanship: Stann Mahan, Kelly Booth and Mary Bowman.

Pleasure: Mary Bowman, Stann Mahan and Jessica Ann Eisenburg.

Western Showmanship: Stann Mahan, Kelly Booth and Rebecca Richmond.

Western Pleasure: Stann

Mahan, Kelly Booth and Jessica Ann Eisenburg.

Pony: Wayne Booth, Tamara Martin and Heather Sullivan.

Costume: Jennifer Pilkerton, Jinjer Pilkerton and Mary Bowman.

The 4-H dairy show was held last Tuesday, and ten showmen were awarded for their efforts in the competition.

Winners in the show include: Junior Showmanship: Scott Genry, Shannon Peoples and Chris Willis.

Beginner Class: Angie Coburn, Len Bearden, Kari Coburn, Luke Smith, and Lee Peoples.

Harpersville rink opens

Howard and Lisa Battles announced their plans this week to open a roller rink and recreation center south of Harpersville.

The Battles purchased the property, formerly known as Lakeview, and plan to open on October 1.

They are natives of Decatur, and now reside in Shelby County near the rink.

They both hold Bachelor's degrees from East Kentucky University. Howard Battles served as a narcotics investigator for 10 years with the state of Alabama and city and county police departments. He now attends Birmingham School of Law.

Lisa Battles was a legal secretary and worked with a bank in Decatur.

They emphasize that their new business will be a wholesome family type of recreation center.

Zoning prevents Pet Motel addition

The Pet Motel's building on Highway 280 cannot be extended without a zoning change.

This was the decision of the Shelby County Planning Commission Monday night when Randy D. Britt requested a permit to add two extensions to the building.

Commissioners told him the owner of the property would have to ask for a zoning change, and there was no assurance they would grant it. The motel is in Beat 12, and was built before zoning regulations were passed.

In other action the commissioners:

• Agreed to postpone a rehearing on the Creekview subdivision until October because of new information it had received on the project.

• Discussed with lawyers and developers the problems of Meadowbrook 9th and 10th sectors, and the 4th sector of Broken Bow. A lawsuit filed over a road opening led to a change in the development, but complete maps had not been prepared. Commissioners agreed in principle with the changes but took no action, pending a highway study.

• Approved a private subdivision near Wilsonville after Randy Goggins showed he had purchased enough land to connect his property with paved county highway 56. The vote was 4 to 2, with Al Knight and Bill Coyne dissenting.

• Decided to abolish guidelines for private subdivisions by a vote of 5 to 1, with Blanton Moore dissenting. Commissioners informally agreed to consider details of this decision at a later meeting.

City chamber plans sale

The Columbiana Chamber of Commerce is planning its Fall Sidewalk Sale for the weekend of September 30 and October 1.

Heading up the effort are Jim Strickland, Chamber president, and Linda Starnes, chairman of the retail committee.

Beat 13 zoning defeated

Earlier certified by the Board of Registrars as being eligible to vote.

Tuesday's balloting drew a 79% turnout, compared to 62% of the 146 voters that were registered for the April 30 election on zoning.

That election saw zoning defeated 56-35, but some 39 names have been dropped from and 47 added to the rolls since then.

Beat 13 lies between US 280 and Lake Purdy, stretching from the Jefferson County line roughly 1 1/4 miles south to a mountain ridge running parallel to and between State 119 and County 41.

Few of the beat's large landowners, such as the Birmingham Water Works Board and several developers, were able to vote on the future of their land since only resident individuals are legally eligible.

Zoning proponents are reportedly planning a special meeting to decide whether to contest this election, or petition for another one.

Several years ago, Beat 12 went through several elections — some bitterly contested and very close — before an influx of subdivision residents finally overwhelmed the area's earlier inhabitants and established zoning there.

Shelby County's incorporated municipalities are also zoned.

Overall winners for the year in the 4-H Horse Club are shown with their trophies at the Shelby County Fair horse show. They are (kneeling l-r): Stann Mahan, Jessica Eisenberg. Standing are Jennifer Page and Mary Bowman.

What Does Jesus Teach About - Man?

Isaiah said, "Let the unrighteous men forsake his thought". How very sweet and adoring are these words when viewed in light of 1 Corinthians chapter 1.

1 Cor. 1:20-21, 28-29. "Where is the wise? where is the scribe? where is the disputer of this world? hath not God made foolish the wisdom of the world? For seeing that in the wisdom of God the world through its wisdom knew not God, it was God's good pleasure through the foolishness (simplicity) of the preaching to save them that believe."

"For behold your calling brethren, that not many wise after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble, are called: but God chose the foolish things of the world, that he might put to shame them that are wise; and God chose the weak things of the world, that he might put to shame the things that are strong; and the base things of the world, and the things that are despised, did God choose, yea and the things that are not, that he might bring to nought the things that are: that no flesh should glory before God."

In Loving Memory of Our Husband, Daddy, and Granddaddy, Clarence E. Simmons, who passed away 6 years ago, Sept. 24, 1977

Your gentle face and patient smile With sadness we recall. You had a kindly word for each and died loved by all. The voice is mute and still the heart That loved us well and true. Ah, bitter was the trail to part from one so good as you. You are not forgotten, Daddy Nor will you ever be. As long as life and memory last We will remember thee. We miss you now, Our heart's are sore As time goes by we miss you more. Your loving smile, your gentle face No one can ever fill your vacant place.

In Love, Your wife, Bertha Sons, Bobby, Jimmy Daughters, Sarah, Nellie & Grace and Grandchildren

120-pound Warriors 'squeak' by SM 47-0

The 120 pounder Thompson Warriors kicked the 1983 football season off in style last Thursday night with a crushing 47-0 victory over Shades Mountain.

But apart from the big win, according to Coach Bob Thames, the most exciting thing was that all 25 of his players got into the game for a half or more of action.

The coach would not single out any individual players for honors because he stated that all did a "outstanding job."

Reaching pay dirt for the young Warriors were Dwayne (Speedy) Payton who made four touchdowns; Big John Woody who reached pay dirt one and scored almost all of the extra points; rookie Andy Lackey who scored one touchdown of his own.

The now 1-0 Warriors will travel to play the Black Knights of Cahaba Heights tonight (Thursday) for the second game of an 11 game season.

MEMORY

IN LOVING MEMORY
of our son and father, Larry Pemberton who left us 5 years ago Sept. 24, 1978.
There must be a reason why. A reason that we must take "on faith".
As we do the sun on high.
That one who enjoyed life so. Why someone who was so dear to us.
Suddenly had to go.
Life is a journey, so we are told. For some long - others, brief.
A journey on which we all find joy. Mingled with sadness and grief.
Father and Mother
Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Pemberton
Children-Scott and Angela

IN LOVING MEMORY
In loving memory of Thomas R. Breshner, who passed away six years ago Sept. 21, 1977. We love you and miss you more each day. There's not a day that goes by that you're not thought of in some way. There's so much we'd like to talk to you about and tell you, but we know there's no way. You have a special place in our hearts that cannot be filled. We long to see you, but we still have our memories of the precious time we had together. We love you so much.
Aunt Helen, Uncle Robert, Mom and Dad, Jerry and families.

IN LOVING MEMORY
The family of J. W. Huett wishes to thank all our friends and neighbors for their kindness and thoughtfulness during his recent illness and death. We especially want to thank the doctors and nurses at Brookwood Hospital and the hospital nurses and all the pastors who ministered to the family with prayers and visits.

Roof crashes down on Alabaster Church

by David F. Moore

First came cracks in the walls and along the edges of the ceiling. Concern for safety drove the members of the Freewill Missionary Baptist Church to start meeting in the basement of the Alabaster church last August.

Then came the rains last week -- all day Monday, all that night, and Tuesday. It was more than the roof of the 41-year old church could stand.

Lucile Thomas, who lives next door to the church, called Rev. G.C. Kelley with the bad news about 3 p.m.

"She told me that the top fell in on the church," Kelley says to a reporter. "I didn't know what to think."

With the upper walls of the building bulging outwards, the roof crashed down in one piece -- more or less -- on the pews and floor of the sanctuary, leaving a gaping whole exposed to the heavens above. No one was inside the church at the time.

However, the members had invested $15,000 in remodeling the building just three years earlier.

Wednesday church members gathered to begin salvaging what they could of the mess and dragging the rest outside. Thursday they got the disheartening news that the insurance covered only damage caused by fire and hail.

So the extensive repairs to the building will cost the church another $15,000, says Kelley.

"But I believe all things work together for the good of those who love the Lord," Kelley continues, his faith obviously unswayed by the disaster. "This could be a blessing in disguise..."

He says Alabaster Mayor H.A. "Doc" Rubin and Police Chief C.E. "Bull" Carter offered the city's annex building to use until the repairs could be made.

"I told them I'd have to talk to my members," Kelley says, "but I think we want to stay here and worship in the basement."

Apparently, meeting in the cramped basement since August had already started inspiring worshippers and the services alike.

"He (Kelley) can really talk on that man upstairs," comments member Lula Booker, "and he's been talking to us, too!"

Talk is leading to action, and more work parties were scheduled for the weekend. This week contractor Roy Holcombe is supposed to start repairs to the walls and roof.

Help from the members will defer some of the repair costs, Kelley says. Still, there's the matter of raising $15,000.

"We couldn't make it without the Lord," the preacher continues. "He hasn't failed us yet. We'll get the money somewhere."

After the disaster

Rev. G.C. Kelley (right) tells Deacon Richard Kidd (left) and Sunday school superintendent Sammy Spelgner that with the Lord's help they will be able to repair the roof that collapsed during last week's heavy rains and crashed into the sanctuary of the Freewill Missionary Baptist Church. About 70-80 members regularly attend the Alabaster church. (Photo by David F. Moore)

Toys for who?

It appears to be a case of 'who's who?'

According to Larry Rollan, president of the Shelby County Fraternal Order of Police, another organization is apparently misrepresenting his group by making telephone solicitation for Toys for Tots.

"Shelby County FOP does not solicit for Toys for Tots or any other fund raisers over the phone," Rollan told the Reporter. "If you want to help people in Shelby County, you can contact Shelby County (law) officers."

The calls are apparently being made by a Jefferson County group that is telling people their donations will benefit Shelby County's needy, but according to Rollan that's not true.

Lay Lake subdivision planned

by David F. Moore

A Birmingham developer, betting on the drawing power of Lay Lake, is building a 157 acre subdivision in Wilsonville.

Homestead Acres, which is being developed on land previously owned by Homer Jackson, will be located largely on waterfront property off County 103.

According to developer Bob "Red" Robinson, the subdivision's 1 1/2-miles of waterfront will be increased by the construction of a mile long canal which will tie in to the lake at its two ends. The canal will create an island on which a number of the homes will be built.

Robinson said the three-year development will eventually incorporate 84 lots, ranging in size from one to three acres. Houses will be restricted to the $50,000-$100,000 range, he said.

Another feature of the subdivision will be log-cabin style marina -- "our homestead house," Robinson said -- which will have dry boat storage.

Depending on feedback he gets from early buyers, Robinson said he may develop an "air village" by widening one of the roads on the island to accommodate small airplane landings. He may also build a riding stable if the interest is there, he added.

"We're keeping receptive to purchases input," he said.

Since acquiring the property this summer, he said that 15 lots have already been sold. Buyers, he said, have come from Shelby County, Birmingham, Montgomery and South Alabama.

Robinson expects to sell about half of the lots as sites for permanent residents, and the rest for "summer cottage residents."

He said Wilsonville officials have been very receptive to his plans, and the city services they supply will also add to the attraction of the development.

Construction on roads and water lines, expected to cost nearly $1/2 million, has already started. Robinson said housing construction will start by spring, if not sooner.

Since famed archer Howard Hill once farmed on the old Jackson estate, Robinson said one of the roads in the subdivision will be named after him.

"This is probably one of the few places on the river with such gentle slopes and good water," he said. "And with the city services from Wilsonville, and Birmingham only 45 minutes away, we expect people will find the place very attractive."

The subdivision is being developed The Homestead, A Joint Venture, and managed by Donald Real Estate company, of which Robinson is president.

Trial date set for Pelham gambling offense

Fifteen defendants who were arrested as a result of a Pelham gambling raid in July all pled not guilty during arraignment in Shelby County Circuit Court Thursday.

Their trials have been set for Nov. 7.

Seven cases were continued until Oct. 3 and three of the accused were not served with their indictments in time to be put on the arraignment docket.

Twenty-four men were arrested following a raid on the AMVETS Club in the Pelham Mall July 30.

The raid was conducted by Pelham police, personnel from the Shelby County Sheriff's department and the Alabama Bureau of Investigation.

Gene Glasgow, brother of Shelby County Sheriff Buddy Glasgow, and Alabaster police lieutenant Leroy Davis were two of the defendants who pled not guilty to gambling charges.

Davis was suspended from duty for a week following his indictment.

Others who pled not guilty to simple gambling were: Johnnie Crawford, James M. Cruce, Tommy L. Bailey, James O. Shelton, Joseph Louis Cameron.

Those entering not guilty pleas to charges of conspiracy to promote gambling, possession of gambling devices and promoting gambling are: Robert Walter Humphries, Joe Carrier, Michael Jay Milam, Saliba S. Bajalleh, Paul Jackson, Eddie Shunnarah, Mark R. Metcalf, Nathan Metcalf.

Arraignments were continued to Oct. 3 on: William Terry

McMahan, James E. Parsons, Bobby Joe Price, Richard P. Du-jan, and Marvin Shapiro. They are all charged with simple gambling.

A similar charge against William Eubanks was dismissed, and his case was returned to the grand jury docket.

Court returns manslaughter charges

Four defendants were charged with manslaughter during arraignment proceedings Thursday in Shelby County Circuit Court.

Two drivers who hit head-on while allegedly playing a game known as "chicken," are both being charged with manslaughter.

The wreck, which happened last April near Shelby, killed Teresa Todd Holliman and Larry Joiner of Wilsonville. They were both passengers in a car driven by 25-year old Johnny Queen of Columbiana.

Queen pled not guilty to the charge during arraignment proceedings in Shelby County Circuit Court Thursday.

The driver of the other vehicle, Arthur Dewayne Burks, 19, of Shelby, has applied for youthful offender status.

The accident took place on Hwy 47, approximately two miles south of Columbiana.

A Montevallo woman whose newborn baby was killed by dogs, also pled not guilty to manslaughter during Thursday's arraignment.

The newborn daughter of Esther Cutts had been left outside the home where she lived with her parents.

She allegedly had been trying to hide it from her parents who did not know she was pregnant.

Another defendant in a manslaughter case also pled not guilty to the charge.

Hazel McClellan is accused of killing her husband with a rifle after he threw rocks at her.

The killing took place off County Road 41 near Dunnivant in May.

Trial dates for the three defendants have been set for Nov. 7.

Our Lady of Valley sets date for its eighth Cahaba Fair

When you've got a good thing going, keep it up.

That's why Our Lady of the Valley Parrish is again holding its annual Cahaba Valley Fair. This is the eighth year for the successful fair, and the fun lasts from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Saturday, October 1.

In response to the 15,000 people who attended last year, this year's fair will be bigger and better than ever.

For starts, there's the midway, which will be lined with game booths, pony rides, drink stands and barbeque stands.

Another highlight will be Grannies Attic which will feature an antique auction and other bargains.

The ever popular Bake Shop will return with all sorts of homemade goodies, as well as the arts and crafts which will have over 1,000 items.

Adding to the atmosphere of fun will be all day music provided by Sammy Salvo and the Classics, Sweet Adelins, Indian River Boys, and the Pelham High band. The PHS majorettes and flag corps will also be on hand as well as the Buck 'n' Wing Cloggers.

According to Rev. Michael White, proceeds go towards the building of the new Parochial school at Our Lady of the Valley, and various civic groups in Shelby and Jefferson Counties.

MORE THAN 100,000 PEOPLE IN ALABAMA BELONG TO THE SAME FAMILY.

The First Southern Family Because 1st Southern treats customers less like customers and more like family. With top interest on your investments. With interest on easy-to-use checking accounts, pay-by-phone service that pays all your bills, payroll deductions that let you build for your retirement, automatically, a multi-million dollar commitment to home construction and home financing, and with cheerful, friendly service on every transaction you make. 1st Southern may be Alabama's biggest savings and loan. But no matter how big we grow, we'll always treat you like family.

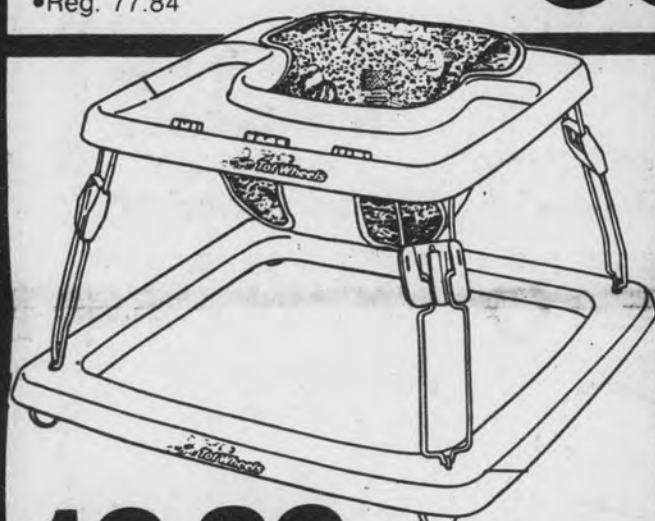

For banking the way you deserve it, join our 1ST SOUTHERN family.

Happy Birthday!

The auxiliary to Shelby County Humane Society celebrated its first birthday last week. Auxiliary raises $3,000

Members of the auxiliary of the Shelby County Humane Society celebrated their first birthday Wednesday.

In the year they've been in existence, the group has raised $3,000 for the Humane Society.

During their luncheon celebration at the Oak Mountain home of auxiliary President Dottie Abele, members decided to continue with the fund raising devices that have been successful during the past year.

These include dog banks at various business establishments, bazaars and bake sales, a 'Giving Tree' at Christmas, and the sale of $5 memberships.

The auxiliary, which now has 55 members, meets at 10 a.m. the second Wednesday of the month at Abele's home.

Helena cemetery aided

Several Helena residents concerned about the future upkeep of the Helena cemetery, have formed a corporation to ensure perpetual care of the grounds.

The group, whose purpose is raising funds for the cemetery's maintenance, incorporated in July under the name Helena Cemetery Association.

They are asking for donations from individuals who have family members buried there, and from anyone interested in preserving the historic site.

The cemetery is located behind the Presbyterian Church and contains the graves of the founder of the town, Joseph Squires and his wife.

According to Floyd Naish, who is on the five-member board which will administer the business of the corporation, funds will be invested in bonds or certificates.

He said that the interest on these investments would be used to pay the cost of keeping up the cemetery.

All donations, Naish noted, are tax deductible.

Members of the board, which meets monthly on the second Tuesday are: James Sides, chairman; Charles Penhale, vice-chairman; O.K. Campbell, secretary-treasurer; R.F. Worrall and Naish.

The public is welcome to attend meetings which are held in the Community Services building.

Donations should be sent to: Helena Cemetery Association, Post Office Box 262, Helena, AL 35080. For further information, call 663-7435, 663-7436 or 663-3649.

Col. Charles Knowles and CWO 3 Johnny Lowe, Jr., both of Shelby, have been recognized by National Guard Maj. Gen. William A. Hornsby for their part in keeping the 167th Material Management Center in Homewood above 100% of its authorized strength.

Knowles is unit commander of the unit and Lowe is the senior fulltime technician.

Cadet Ronald S. Summers and Cadet Christopher D. Hill, recently received practical work in military leadership at the US Army ROTC advanced camp, Fort Riley, KS.

Completion of the six-week camp and graduation from college results in a commission as a second lieutenant in either the US Army, Army Reserve or National Guard for the cadets.

Both are students at the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa. Summers is the son of Ronald and Karen Summers of Pelham. Hill is the son of Harold Hill of Calera and Jerry Powell of Birmingham.

Regina L. Bapst, has been promoted in the US Army to the rank of sergeant.

She is a supply specialist at Fort Campbell, KY, with the 561st Supply and Services Battalion.

Her husband, Richard, is the son of Karl Bapst of Hammond, Ind., and Sandra Moore of Pelham.

Staff Sgt. Wales W. Williams of Columbiana, a member of 167th Infantry in Pelham, was one of 98 Alabama Army National Guard members to attend an advanced Noncommissioned Officer Course at the Alabama Military Academy here recently.

County denies relief to Vincent steel firm

by Fred Guarino

Shelby Steel Company of Vincent will receive no additional tax relief from Shelby County. Harold Ridgeway and Alida Dwyer represented the company at Monday's county commission meeting.

The company received a ten year exemption on equipment when it received its original industrial development bond.

Ridgeway and Dwyer wanted newly purchased equipment to also be made exempt of all county taxes until 1993 -- a request which would have amounted to roughly $3,500 per year, or $35,000.

Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden and Commissioners Harold Davenport and John Ames told the company representatives their petition was incorrectly worded.

They also pointed out that the county does not exempt tax millage earmarked for health and the schools. The most the county could grant would be a general five mill tax.

"This is the first time in 15 years that an industry under the Wallace-Cater Act has asked for anything additional," Snowden further pointed out.

Commissioner Jake Morris said that he was willing to stop giving tax exemptions to industries all together, but he did not want to start until the commissioners could set a concrete policy.

"Since we have not set a policy, I say we should exempt the five mills," Morris stated.

Commissioner Leon Archer pointed out that the county did $3,000 worth of work to pave a road to the plant and only received $800 in taxes.

"I'm like you," Archer told Morris, "we have got to draw the line somewhere."

Davenport started that 'line' by moving to deny the Vincent company's additional exemption.

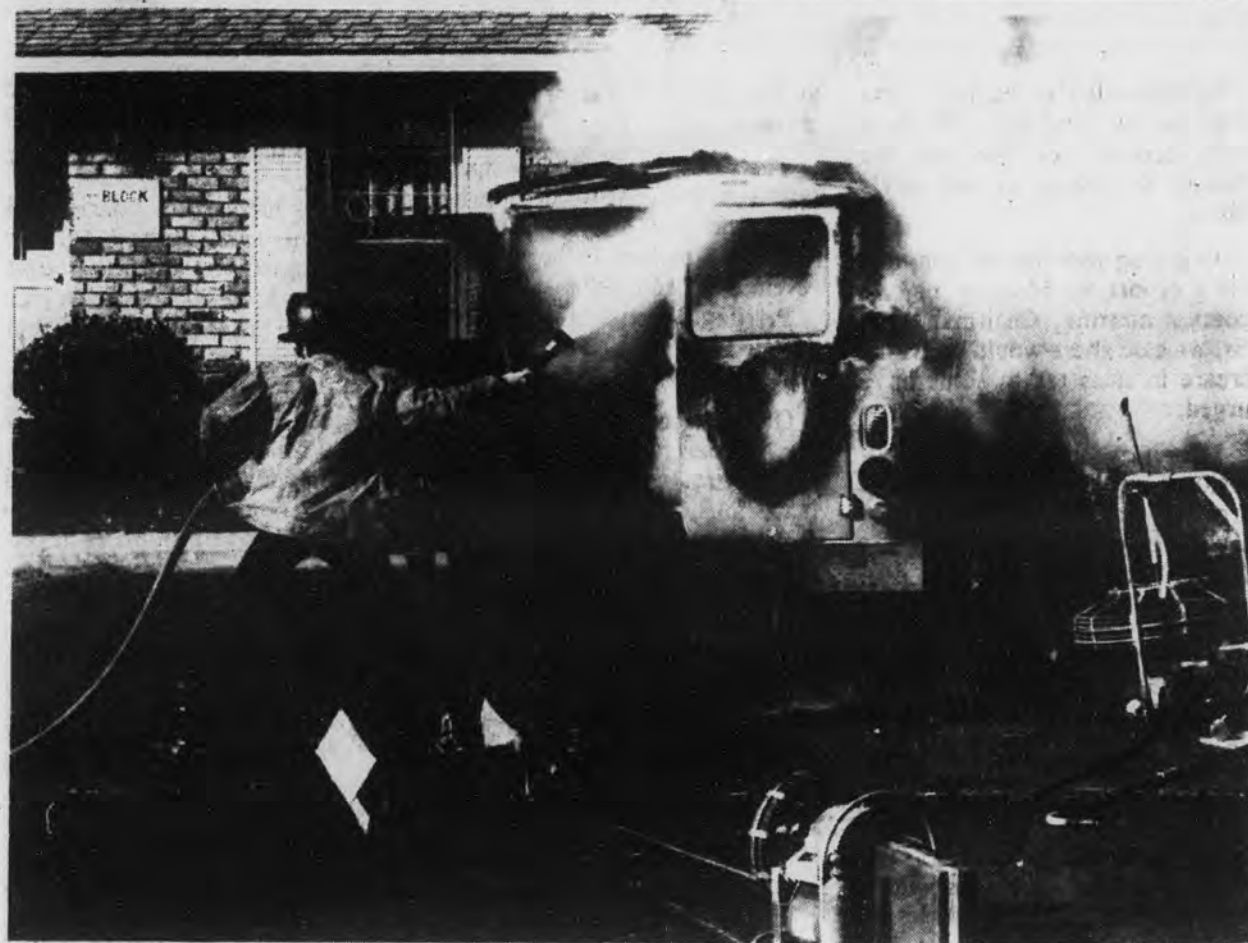

Morris tried to amend the motion to not "approve any more tax exemptions" at all.

"I don't want that part of my motion," Davenport said, and his motion passed with only Morris opposing.

A new motion made by Morris to end tax exemptions to industry by the county died for lack of a second.

Ridgeway expressed his discontent over the vote.

"Every week I get brochures of steel company liquidations," said Ridgeway, expressing his discontent with the vote. "Our annual payroll is slightly over a half million dollars. I personally think you ought to do something for your small businesses."

Friday the what?

It was Friday the 23rd, but it might as well have been Friday the 13th for Marlin Bearden. The Green Park plumber's truck caught fire about 4:15 outside a doctor's office on US 31. Bearden said he used both of his small extinguishers, and Pelham firemen arrived in minutes to extinguish the quickly roaring blaze, but the truck was apparently totaled anyway. "At least we tried," Bearden commented. (Photo by David F. Moore)

From Pelham office

Snowden loses chair

by Fred Guarino

Thanks to Shelby County Commissioner John Ames, Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden has no place to sit in Pelham.

Ames recently questioned the legality of expenses for the recently opened license branch office in Pelham. He said they could be in violation of bid law requirements.

Ames questioned the purchase of two Xerox typewriters and office supplies, including furnishing.

According to Don Lawley, an attorney with the state department of public examiners, the typewriters were okay, but not the office supplies.

Lawley told Snowden that the Xerox typewriters met the state's bid price, which made their costs fair game for the county. But, Lawley said, the office supplies exceeded the bid law by $1,008.83.

Snowden told commissioners at their regular Monday meeting that he would send back "enough" office supplies to comply with the law and rebid the excess.

Supplies to be sent back include a fire proof file, two stool's and Snowden's executive chair.

"I guess I don't have a place to sit," Snowden joked upon giving the report.

Hikers found in dark

by David F. Moore

Sunday afternoon was still warm and sunny when the two couples decided to hike to Peavine Falls from the bottom of Double Oak Mountain. Even if one of the women wasn't seven months pregnant, and even if they hadn't had a two and three-year old with them, the state park hike would have taken three hours.

Slowed by the children and expectant mother, and leaving the state park road about 4 p.m. without a light, what happened was almost inevitable -- they got lost in the dark, mountainous woods.

Oak Mountain Park security head Talmadge Butler found their car about 8:30 that night, parked by the trailhead.

"There were purses in it... no change of shoes," he told the Reporter. "The car looked like it was expecting someone to come back to it."

With help from Pelham police, the car was eventually traced and family members in north Jefferson were contacted. That's when park officials got the word on the children and expectant mom.

The trained, volunteer search team -- composed of Shelby County Amateur Radio Emergency Squad (SCARES) hams and Vulcan Trail Association hikers and park workers -- was quickly called into action. Six walkie-talkie equipped search teams hit the dark and chilling woods about 9:30, combing the rugged terrain for the missing party.

VTA hiker Les Miller and SCA Bill Fleet found the missing pair.

City council agrees to district Montevallo

by Bert Seaman

The city of Montevallo has agreed to divide.

Now that the decision has been made by the city council, members of the black community are assured of representation on the council.

At Monday night's council meeting, Mayor Ralph Sears said that he believed the move to divide the city into voting districts would have the most far reaching effect on the city of any proposal recommended by the task force.

The group of citizens who made up the task force had come up with 24 ways to enhance the economic and educational climate of the city. Pointing out that the change in voting will set the pattern for years to come, the Mayor told citizens who filled the room that countless hours had been spent discussing the subject.

Using the 1980 census, which puts the population at 3,965, Sears said each district would have 793 voters.

"The only criteria we still need to work on," he noted, "is getting a majority of blacks in one district."

When George Dailey, a leader in the Suburban League, asked that a black be allowed to work with city administrator Don Hughes and the Birmingham Regional Planning Commission in preparing a map, Sears asked Dailey to serve.

The council feels that the voting plan will have Justice Department approval and be in place by January -- six months before the summer elections, as required by law.

An ordinance will be adopted by the council when all the details of the voting plan have been completed.

While Sears and the council feel that the move is significant in their effort to move the city forward, University of Montevallo President Jim Vickrey urged more haste in activating some of the task force plans.

The UM president was successful in getting the council to adopt the concept of the task force report, but he could not budge the city Monday towards adding a one-cent sales tax to fund some of the proposals.

During budget discussions Finance Chairman J.A. that his committee has decided on charging for garbage means of bringing in revenue.

By charging $5 per month for the service, Brow revenue would amount to $32,000 a year.

Vickrey was also successful in getting the council change their minds about two of the task force proposals at the previous meeting.

•The formation of a committee composed of students to work on recreation programs

•The formation of an advisory committee whose goal would be to attract new industry.

Recreation Director Billy Vann said he was in favor of a committee to assist with the recreational program, and those responsible for the city's economic development also said they would welcome new ideas to attract industry.

Knight runs for house

Al Knight has officially announced that he is a candidate for the Alabama House of Representatives from District 40.

Knight, a Republican, is a member of the Shelby County Planning Commission and a trustee at Valley Elementary School. He also serves on the Shelby County YMCA Board of Managers and is a Council Member of Boy Scout Troop 5. He has been with the Bell System for 21 years and is currently a project and corporate manager.

In making his announcement, Knight said, "It has been a long time since the general condition of our state has been so poor. It's hard to recall when so much needs to be done by our state legislature and yet so little is being accomplished -- especially for the business climate and education system."

He believes that the best way to serve the citizens of this district as well as the entire state, is to provide a healthy economy which will encourage expansion of existing businesses and attract new industries from outside Alabama. He also stated, "Alabama needs leaders who recognize that education and economic development are inseparably linked. When considering location or expansion in Alabama, prospective businesses and industries look first at the quality of our public system of education. Our ability to increase our quality of life, reduce unemployment, reduce the dependencies of so many of our citizens on demeaning government programs, and stimulate the economy, are in direct proportion to our investment in a good education system."

AL KNIGHT

Knight and his wife Martha have two children. Michael is a sixth grader at Riverchase Middle School and Shannon is in the second grade at Inverness Elementary School. They are all active members of Christ Church United Methodist on Caldwell Mill Road.

Tanner seeks party nod

Pelham attorney and City Councilman John F. Tanner has officially announced that he is seeking the Democratic appointment for the House of Representatives for House District 40.

Tanner received his BA degree from Jacksonville State University. He concluded work on his Masters of Public Administration at the University of Alabama, and received the JD degree from Cumberland Law School in 1978.

He served as an assistant attorney general under Bill Baxley. He was the youngest elected municipal official in the state when he was elected to the Pelham city council in 1976. He was re-elected in 1980 and is mayor pro tem. He is married and has two children.

Tanner's council responsibility is to serve as legislative liaison with Montgomery and Washington, D.C. He heads up the search for state and federal grants.

"I feel that the years I have worked with the legislature, seeking and obtaining funds for our community projects and coordinating state and federal legislation has given me invaluable experience."

Tanner ran for the legislature last year but fell ill with viral meningitis which handicapped the remainder of his race. But he came within 38 votes of making the runoff.

"It is critical that we elect a representative that can be effective and responsive in Montgomery," Tanner told the Reporter.

"One of the most important functions of our representative will be to bring back funding for us to have first rate schools, fire and police protection, and the services necessary to improve the quality of life for our community," he continued.

"We must actively solicit more jobs and direct the growth of our counties in a positive direction."

Notice for food giveaways are 'problem'

by David F. Moore
"Notification has been a problem since day one." Those are the words of Butch Elkins of the Department of Economic and Community Affairs, monitor of the USDA Donated Foods Program — the food giveaway. Apparently a lot of people in Shelby County agree — at least those who received no notification of the giveaway in Columbiana that was held on September 7-9, 13 and 14.

Gladys Ross said her Community Action Program office in Columbiana received the cheese, butter and milk powder on Friday, September 2, for giveaway on Tuesday.

She said she was instructed Tuesday by region officer Olivia Washington of Clanton that Washington would handle notification procedures, and that WBYE in Calera was contacted.

Ross said she was unaware of Alabaster station WQMS.

Washington said that Ross was to handle media notification. Furthermore, she said didn't think the daily papers would advertise the giveaway, and said she was unaware the Reporter was available in news stands on Wednesdays.

On top of all the recent changes in eligibility, she said notification was further hampered by the rush job on the delivery — which was prompted by community pressure to hold a giveaway. "We just didn't have time," she said.

Elkins explained that county deliveries from a Birmingham warehouse are made on very short notice because of a contract with a trucking firm.

Despite a lack of media notification, all three said they had a good turnout. However, they said surplus food was leftover.

The giveaway was at first slated for just three days.

Elkins said another one was in the making and Washington said communications would improve.

Zoning waits

The question of zoning in Beat 13 will probably not be brought up again before next spring.

A group of voters who favor zoning met Monday night to discuss the entire question, and decided not to ask for another election before next March, according to Louise Glenn, a leader in the pro-zoning forces.

Zoning was defeated by a vote of 61-60 on September 20 — marking the second time the issue was turned down by voters of the north Shelby County beat.

Last week's election was clouded by an incident in which Margaret Farley Parker was allowed to vote, even though she admitted — and polling officials knew — that she was not a resident of Beat 13. Her name, however, had been incorrectly listed on the Beat 13 voter list.

At first, pro-zoning forces considered challenging the entire election because of the incident, but no legal action is now anticipated.

According to reports, poll workers Louise Glenn and Paula Willis protested allowing Mrs. Parker's vote, but poll officials Mildred Wallace and Grady Gullege ruled she was eligible.

"She lives in Beat 12 on the right of US 280 going up Oak Mountain to the rest area," Gullege told the Reporter "but she has voted in Beat 13 for some while."

He indicated her name should have been moved to the Beat 12 list "long ago."

Montevallo passes '84 budget

Montevallo's budget for 1983-84 will total $631,500. At a 13% increase from last year, the budget is largest in the city's history.

In giving the finance committee's report at Monday night's council meeting, Chairman J.A. Brown said there would be no increase in sales tax as some have urged.

However, Brown reported, additional revenue will be derived from a garbage collection fee which is expected to bring in $32,000. The city has been providing the service at no cost to citizens.

The sales tax, presently the city's highest source of income, has generated $150,602.63 this year. The new budget estimates that revenue at $166,700.

Privilege license fees are expected to bring in $127,000 next year.

Other major sources of income are: property tax, $50,000; fines and court costs, $52,000; beer tax, $35,000; income from reserve interest, $20,000; gasoline excise tax, $15,000.

The biggest expenditure in the 1983-84 budget is the $176,000 going to the city's police department.

A 6% increase in salaries will bring the total payroll for the year to $350,000 and the budget sets aside $64,500 for streets plus $15,000 in gasoline excise tax that will be used for that purpose.

The volunteer fire department will get $27,000 and an additional $3,400 for an annual fishing trip.

Montevallo High School will receive $4,000 with the elementary and middle schools each getting $3,000.

Teens hit train in Alabaster

Three Alabaster teenagers were injured when their car hit a freight train in the early hours of Sunday morning.

The driver, 16-year old Douglas Bradford Sallis, suffered a chipped vertebra and Glen Rikard, a passenger in the front seat, received numerous facial lacerations.

Alicia Lawley, who was in the back seat, received a fractured ankle in the crash which occurred at the 1st Ave. West railroad crossing at 12:30 a.m.

Sallis was heading toward US 31 when he hit the northbound train 24 feet behind the lead engine.

After bounding off the road, the car landed in a ditch 42 feet from the point of impact.

The accident victims are all juniors at Thompson High School.

Lawley was treated at Shelby Medical Center following the accident and released.

At prestime Tuesday, Sallis was listed in satisfactory condition by Brookwood Hospital; Rikard's condition was also listed as satisfactory by Shelby Medical Center.

Reporter moves to new Pelham office

The Shelby County Reporter will open in a Pelham location on October 3. The office will be located in Room 109 of the Riverchase South Building, on U.S. 31, just south of the Valley Paint Building.

The new telephone number will be repetitive, and easy to remember. It's 987-9879.

The Pelham office will continue to handle all the news, telephone calls and advertisements from the new location that it did from the former location in Shelby Mart. The office will continue to be a news center, and will be manned by reporters, and staff members on a rotating basis.

'Rights with Education' comes to UM campus

The second annual "What's Right With Public Education in Alabama" conference has been scheduled for Oct. 4 at the University of Montevallo.

Although this year's event is being held during National Higher Education Week (Oct. 1-8), Montevallo officials say the conference deals with all aspects of public education in Alabama from kindergarten through graduate programs.

The conference is open to all educators and interested citizens and there is no registration fee. Participants may purchase a luncheon ticket or make other arrangements for lunch.

For additional information contact Dr. Joe Brindley, Director of University and Public Affairs, at the University of Montevallo, 665-2521, ext. 432.

SCARES operator Carl Weeks told the Reporter that the people had cut the legs from their jeans to make torches to see.

"It was pretty black outside by then," Weeks said. "We were all pretty beat."

The missing people were escorted out of the woods about 12:30 a.m. with no apparent complications.

"The search team worked the way it was supposed to," Butler said, adding that it was the group's first actual emergency call.

Found and safe were Jeff Purcell, 23, Jenney Hartzog, 16, Roger and Brenda Whitten, both 22 and one pregnant, their two-year old son and three-year old niece.

Other SCARES members involved were Paul Creed, Jim Pritchard, Jerry Caudill, and James and Paul Pilman. VTA responders included Lem Stabler, Doug Clements, Bill Hoover, Kenneth Stallings, Jim Blair, Charlie Trotter, Bob Birch, Tina Zirbel and Hugh Alford.

Off-duty park personnel included Phil Robeson, Bobby Gallahar and Brian Phillips.

ABEX okays contract

The 384 employees of ABEX Corporation in Calera have approved a new two-year contract that gives them increases in both wages and benefits.

The employees, who are members of the United Steel Workers of America Union, Local 5190, cast their ballots last Wednesday.

While company general superintendent Larry DeBoer would not comment on the details of the contract, he called the vote by employees "good.. positive."

But USW staff representative

Bill Caldwell was not nearly so reserved.

Caldwell told the Reporter that the contract not only provides an increase in pay but it includes severance pay (money for employees in the event the plant relocates), and increases in both medical and accidental insurance.

"It is a real good contract," Caldwell said.

Absent dads leave families in bind

by Fred Guarino

At the time, Rachel was 29, attractive, had four young children and nearly ten years of marriage to her credit.

Then one day her husband abruptly walked out on her. She never heard from him again—until he was arrested for non payment of child support.

But even that arrest and a subsequent arrest are not helping her collect the money she's due from her now ex-spouse.

Over the past three years, Rachel has been forced to make-do both on and off public assistance, fending the best she can for her and her four children, without any help from her ex-husband.

As bad as Rachel's situation may be, it is not unique in Shelby County. According to the Shelby County District Attorney's Office such stories of desertion are all too common.

One woman with five children to feed, clothe, educate and keep in health, hasn't received one penny of the $15,000 in child support her husband now owes.

Another woman with two children works and struggles just to keep her head above water. Yet she only receives child support when her husband is found and brought to court.

No, Rachel's case is not unique. But it is one for the books, and brings to light many of the problems faced by women unable to collect the child support their husbands and ex-husbands owe.

Rachel's (not her real name) absentee husband never granted her the divorce she sought. She got it instead through a newspaper legal advertisement—and even then the document had to be granted without his signature.

Though a judge ordered that Rachel receive $200 per month in child support, she tells the Reporter, "I knew then there was no way to collect it."

The DA's office tried to help Rachel. According to Jackie Brasher who helps handle non-support cases, a warrant was issued for Rachel's husband and his name was added to the National Crime Information Computer.

After he was finally located and brought to jail, the court ordered him to pay Rachel $50 weekly. He said he had a job and gave an address for himself.

But as soon as he was released from jail, he skipped out on her again. To its dismay, the DA's office learned the job and address were false. A great deal of investigation uncovered Rachel's disappearing ex-husband—he was living in Birmingham with another woman—and he was sentenced to one year in jail for non support.

Because of his previous lies, no bond was set.

But he only served little more than half of his sentence. He was paroled after an employer signed for his release and promised to cut his wages for the child support due.

According to records, he paid Rachel only $300—and skipped out. Again.

Throughout this time, Rachel was playing the agonizing game of bouncing ball, going on and off public assistance several times.

First she was granted $177 per month in child support by the state, as well as Medicaid Insurance and food stamps to survive. But Rachel didn't want to stay on state aid.

"If you tell people you are on food stamps and welfare, they look at you like you are trash," she explains. Instead, she wanted to go to school, get a job, and better the life of her children.

It didn't work out.

The only job she was able to find paid $3.75 an hour. In the meantime she was paying $75 per week for three of her children to attend day care ($300 per month), rent for her basement apartment, gas to go back and forth to work and doctor bills.

It was all too much. Without state assistance, her expenses totaled more than her income, as well as exceeded the $50/week her ex-husband had originally been ordered to pay.

So Rachel has had to quit work to save the day care costs, and go back on public assistance again.

Just when it seemed everything was at least semi-back on track with the state funds, Rachel's ex-husband created a new wrinkle in her troubled life. Apparently the one $300 payment he had made after his second arrest started a paper chase that caught up with, and swallowed, Rachel's benefits.

According to the DA's office, since that one payment actually exceeded the amount she was getting from the state, the state deducted what it was owed for Rachel's public assistance payment.

All Rachel got was the difference for the month. Furthermore, she was cut off from her benefits.

According to state laws, once a man pays more than the state pays in assistance, it is assumed that the woman would be better off on his support.

The state benefits are automatically cut off, and Rachel fell victim to the system.

Before this last twist of fate—which happened only last week—Rachel called her situation "lucky."

"Since I've got food stamps, I don't wonder where food is coming from," she says. "I live in my parents house. I pay them rent (from the now terminated state funds). And though my parents don't pay my bills, if it were not for them I don't know what I'd do..."

Rachel says she never dreamed the public assistance would be cut off so soon. But even with it she says she could afford to live in a project house. She wonders how other women survive.

"I just buy what I can. I'm not going to let my kids do without but they are not like the other kids in this neighborhood. They don't wear Polos and Izods," Rachel says.

Still, she feels she can take pride in herself, even when she's on welfare.

"I'm a good mother and I've got nothing to be ashamed of... but my husband does."

Yes, bitterness shows through.

"If my husband ever has to ask for anything in his life," she says, "he won't have to ask as much as I have for my kids! They will have to grow up fast. They will have to be independent."

Since the devastating news reached Rachel last week that her public assistance will be cut off, she has filed an appeal.

Personnel in the DA's office say Rachel will probably not have any problem being re-instated—considering her four children and her disappearing ex-spouse.

With the payments from the state she will at least have a steady, if not meager income with which to try and struggle by.

But then Rachel's life—like those of many women whose husbands don't make child support payments—has already been one problem after another. More bad news would not make for a big surprise.

Trying to 'squeeze blood from turnip'

State goes after child support money

by Bert Seaman

There's an old saying about not being able to get blood from a turnip.

The same principle might be applied to getting child support from an absent parent—before you can squeeze the turnip, you have to find it first.

That's one of the problems in collecting child support payments—locating the absent parent.

And according to reports from the District Attorney's Office, there's about 470 such cases in Shelby County that have to be hounded.

Even after the person is located, they may not be employed.

A non-payer can be put in jail. However, a man in jail can't make money to make the payments—again, like not being able to squeeze blood from a turnip—thus defeating the purpose behind the arrest.

After the custodial parent—usually the wife—reports that the absent parent isn't paying support, it becomes Bill Mathew's job to get the money. Mathews, an assistant district attorney, heads the child support program for the Shelby County DA's office.

Whether or not payments are made, a custodial parent still receives money from the state through the Aid to Dependent Children program, if she doesn't have the income to support her children.

In either case, whatever money the DA's office collects from the man goes to the state for reimbursement.

Through the second quarter of the year, which ended June 30, 674 aid to dependent children cases and 66 non-ADC cases were being handled through the Shelby County program.

During the month of August, $13,935.23 in child support payments were collected through the DA's office.

But Jackie Brasher, secretary for the program, explains that the rate of return to the state for the quarter is only $16.78 per child.

That figure represents the money that comes in minus administrative costs. Statewide Shelby County ranks 36 out of 67 in collection ratios.

"We're doing good—but not great," Mathews says.

"I think we're doing pretty dog-gone good with what we have to work with," declares Ron Oswald, child support worker with the Department of Pensions and Security who also tracks down non-paying fathers.

In his attempts to find these subjects, Oswald notes that he has names on his list like 'Kenny Rogers' and 'Jerry Lee Lewis'—and since these are aliases, there is little likelihood they will ever be located.

It would help tremendously, Oswald remarks, if the public would call in if they know the whereabouts of a non-paying father. The cooperation of businesses also plays an important part in locating individuals, he adds.

A man is sometimes able to be located by the forwarding address he leaves at the post office, Oswald explains.

In order to get on the aid to dependent children program, the custodial parent—usually the mother—goes to DPS and shows that she does not have enough income to support her family.

However, if the child is left with a grandmother or someone else, the mother has just as much responsibility to pay support as the father, Mathews notes.

Absent parents are summoned to court if they don't respond after being contacted about non payments.

In one recent case, the judge ordered a mother jailed for failure to support her children.

Once a mother or father has been incarcerated, the only way they can get out is to make bond ($300), or to pay the amount they are behind.

Oswald points out the means of collecting support payments include garnishing wages and attachments of property such as cars, boats and tv's which can be sold.

The only ways dependent parents can be removed from the ADC program, are if they remarry, if their wages exceed what the state pays, or if the absent parent's support payments are more than the state payments.

Children receive support payments until they reach the age of 18.

Another program a woman may apply for in order to get support payments owed by the father of her children, is known as non-ADC or IV-D (which is the section number in the code).

In these cases, her income is already more than the state would pay. But for an initial fee of $20 she can take advantage of location and collection services.

The original amount of payment is determined from the divorce decree, or, if the couple were not married, there is usually an informal agreement between the man, the DA's office and the judge.

The docket for non-payment of child support is usually the heaviest in the fall and at Christmas.

"That's when the needs of the children are the most obvious to the mother," Mathews explains. Those needs come at the beginning of school when children must have clothing and school supplied and again at Christmas, when it's gift buying time.

The last bi-monthly child support court docket listed 78 names, 29 of which were served with papers to appear.

Brasher explains that some of the subpoenas were not served in time, other cases were continued, two subjects were in jail in other counties, and the remainder could not be located.

Only one individual was sentenced to a year at hard labor or until he pays the amount owed.

Another man was given a 90-day-suspended sentence.

In cases where there have been hard feelings between the couple, it sometimes appears that the woman would rather see the man in jail than get the payments, observes one worker involved with the program.

Judge Robert Teel, who hears child support cases in Shelby County, tells the Reporter that most of the defendants plead guilty.

"They realize the obligation is there," he notes. But the judge went on to say that the poverty level of those involved becomes a factor that must be considered in order to understand the situation.

Teel estimates that 90 percent of the men who appear before him fall into the poverty category.

"How are you going to get money from a man who either can't find work or who won't work?" he asks.

Recent Beat 13 voting incident underscores registration errors

One voter last week threw the spotlight on Shelby County's entire voter registration and election policies. That spotlight shows a system that needs to be improved.

The voter, Margaret Farley Parker, admitted she lives in Beat 12, yet insisted on voting in the zoning election which would affect only residents of Beat 13, and which was open to only registered voters there.

Two poll workers protested, but two others allowed her to vote because her name was -- incorrectly -- on the official voting list issued by the board of registrars in the courthouse.

The so-called 'challenge' ballot was designed for situations where there is doubt as to a voter's eligibility, but the poll officials allowed this voter to vote a regular ballot, although everyone present knew the registration listing was incorrect.

There is no telephone at Bowles Springs Church where the voting took place, so the polling officials could not easily call the courthouse for instructions. Yet in other elections, in other parts of the county, a sheriff's automobile has remained outside similar polling places to radio messages to the courthouse if necessary. There was no sheriff's car at Bowles Springs Church.

There is enough blame in this case to go around over the three groups that handle the system: the board of registrars, the probate judge, and the polling officials.

As we see it, there is not much excuse for the board of registrars. The board has been expanded greatly in recent years and has received almost every penny it has sought from the county commission.

The three board members are paid, have been given a paid full-time secretary, and a tie-in to the county computer. In addition, the board now has a spacious two-room office suite and private telephone lines. Every voter was required to re-identify recently, and that should have given the board up to date addresses for everyone.

But still, at every election we hear grumblings from election officials and others about how many people are listed in the wrong beat or box.

In the case of the Beat 13 election, a volunteer deputy registrar found 49 names incorrectly listed just a few weeks ago and had them taken off the voters list. The paid staff should have been doing that job.

The probate judge should have made some arrangements for communication between the polling place and his office, and he has some responsibility in seeing to it the polling officials understand the law on voting.

The polling officials, for their part, should have been more aware of the law, and in case of doubt, should have taken it on themselves to call for clarification.

The election process is the basic, first step in our way of governing ourselves. If we cannot carry it out in a lawful, democratic manner, our entire way of life is threatened.

Advertise food give aways!

Open letter to the Food Give Away Program:

A week late, we hear that cheese, rice, etc., have been given away.

Why weren't people notified? Even neighbors who knew of it, did not let others know. How inconsiderate! It didn't matter to me; I am not starving, but I know some with small children who did not know about it and really needed the food.

Jefferson County always advertises the Food Give Away - Shelby County keeps it so quiet. Only a few favored ones hear of it and they do not tell!

Some who had faithfully promised to let us know if they heard anything, carefully kept it to themselves when they did hear. God Bless them! "Love thy neighbor as Thyself." Few people do.

Vote the senior citizen ticket

Letter to the Editor:

Being a Senior Citizen I read and examine all facts concerning my situation. (Let's deal in fact not rhetoric.)

What is a Senior Citizen? A Senior Citizen is an older retired person. If this citizen has capital (money) that citizen is respected, wooed, and looked upon with favoritism. If not, that citizen is an unwanted "bum." This is a fact, not rhetoric. Senior citizens are easily swayed by politicians. They often vote wrong and cry later. We are a disorganized "bunch of sentimental nuts". How do we overcome our bad situation concerning our position in a hostile society? It's easy! We own the nation and I have a Warranty Deed to prove it. Vote

Senior Citizen! Act Senior Citizen! Support Senior Citizens! The rest will follow. If we as Senior Citizens will do this from the precinct level to the federal congress--we will be a winner. It's easy. It's a fact.

Hire the handicapped

Letter to the Editor:

The week of October 4-10, 1983 has been proclaimed "National Employ the Handicapped Week" by the President of the United States. Every week in the year is "Employ the Handicapped Week" in our agency, but the first week of October is a time to join Vocational Rehabilitation in placing emphasis on the special and often outstanding abilities of the handicapped.

This year's theme is "The Talent is There. Use It." Some emphasis is placed on making agencies and organizations more aware of recruiting disabled individuals as volunteers. This provides an opportunity for these handicapped to prove his or her capabilities and also to gain valuable work experience.

Although volunteerism can indeed serve a useful purpose, the placement of individuals in jobs will continue to be our primary objective. New employers of the handicapped can usually qualify for a tax credit but the employer must apply for credit before the person begins to work.

The 35th annual poster contest is timed to kick off with the week. The Department of Education and the Department of Industrial Relations have joined efforts with the Veterans of Foreign Wars in sponsoring the poster-illustrations contest designed to show that ability -- not disability -- counts.

Hire the Handicapped. Brochures and instructions have been mailed to all schools, junior high through college level. Posters must be submitted to the VFW or to the State Employment Service by December 16, for judging. There will be a winner at each level of school and cash awards will be given.

We hope everyone will promote giving the handicapped an opportunity to make the greatest contribution to society that they can.

Sincerely,

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member of the FDIC.

The notebook is running over: Bill Shaw, the last of the Shaw boys, passed away last week. They were my friends, all of them, and to say I have missed them is the understatement of the year. Some families you love all your life and to outlive them is to see little candles go out in many places.

You ought to see my okra patch. From a dried up mess two weeks ago to the greenest plants you ever saw is what happened after two rains. I don't know if those little buds can make it before the frost comes. But that ain't my department. If we have a mild fall, we'll have okra. If we don't, the okra will be like the beans and corn and tomatoes, just trash anyway you look at it.

The dove season came in Saturday. I listened to the ball games. I guess because at my age missing 'em has just got too easy. But next to following a bird dog, I guess dove hunting has been tops. Tag Elliot and Bub Gordon and Jack Stone and Jim Merrell and Garvin Baker and Herman Strong and Nobie Payne and Jim Nichols and Leon and Buddy Kelly -- we must have squatted in a thousand fields, watching the sky, and killing enough doves to fill a pickup truck, if you piled 'em all in one heap. They had homecoming at Alma's place last Friday. They always have a ball, with the young folks putting on a show to remember, and the old guys and gals making noise in the stands and putting away twice too much food in the dining hall. But that's all right. When you get old, eating and talking are the things a fellow does best.

They buried Alfred Talton one day this week. We were out of town and didn't know about it for several days. He was one of my favorite folks. I just wish I knew that somewhere down the road I'd find another Alfred Talton. But if I don't, having one is a joy to remember.

A letter in the mail from Mary Wooley Weldon. Mary was one lovely lady years ago when Jesse married her and carried her away. And, though I haven't seen her in 40 years, I'm sure she's still lovely.

This is to say a little prayer for Brinton Owen and Jim Harrison and Gerald Fulton and Harold Harlin and Ed Benson and Zera Walton and Clayton Farr and Blanche Farr, all of them ill, and all of them missed by their many friends.

by Bert Seaman

I was torpedoed the other day by a small baby and a large dog.

Although I'm not the type to have every hair in place when I appear in public, I'm usually semi-well groomed. On this occasion, however, I paraded into a roomful of people totally unaware of my unsightly appearance.

What happened, you see, was a stop at my daughter's home before meeting time. While I was there, Baby Dear needed a diaper change. And who volunteered for the task? Why, Grammie, of course.

As I carried on with the baby and not watching what I was doing, I failed to notice the holes in the powder container were wide open. Consequently, I dumped a ton of the white stuff on the hapless kid.

I merely bent over and blew off the excess. No big deal.

Also during my visit, a pony-sized Newfoundland rubbed against me several times. It never occurred to me what might be happening to my slacks.

Later, making my entrance at the meeting, I walked to the front of the room in full view of everyone and exchanged pleasantries with several folks.

When it was time for the meeting to begin, I sat down, put on my specs and glanced down.

To my horror, the front of my red blouse was covered with white powder and black dog hairs were stuck all over my light gray pants. In shock, I brushed and picked away, hoping no one would notice...

And if that wasn't bad enough, my embarrassment increased when I learned someone had overheard me talking to myself outside the building. It was dark when I pulled in between two cars, and as I scrounged around in my bag looking for a pen, I fussed and fumed that none could be found in the hidden recesses.

When I finally climbed out of the car, I suddenly noticed that there was someone in the car on my left.

Thankful I didn't know who it was, I hurried in to the meeting -- wearing the powder and dog hair.

When the meeting ended, fate had another surprise in store for me.

A lady walked up saying, "I was parked next to you earlier and I waved at you but I guess you didn't see me."

"If I had," I said, laughing sheepishly, "I would have died of embarrassment as I'm about to do now!"

I didn't though. But she must think I'm a looney and the rest of the folks are probably of the opinion I don't give a darn about my appearance.

From now on, my lips are sealed. And I think I'll keep an apron handy for encounters with babies and dogs.

The Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

If you are of my generation or older you perhaps remember the TV comic in the early days named Red Buttons. He would come on camera, cup his hand to his ear, do a little dance and then say "strange things are going on here..." Here are some strange things going on in Alabama politics these days...

Prison Commissioner Fred Smith announced to the press that he had received some form of assurance from Gov. Wallace that a special session would be called to address the problem of crowded prisons and that an increase of one cent in the state sales tax would be sought to correct this problem. Wallace reportedly nearly flipped when he heard this talk about a sales tax increase. Very quickly the governor's office said Mr. Smith must have "misunderstood" the governor.

State Sen. Ed Robertson of Northport, who ended up in the same senatorial district with Sen. Charles Bishop of Jasper, says he thinks it will be almost criminal if the State Democratic Executive Committee doesn't handicap him as the party nominee. The SDEC isn't likely to do that. Bishop is a bosom buddy of Lt. Gov. Bill Baxley, in fact, they are roommates when the Legislature is in session. The fact that Robertson has been in the legislature for years and Bishop has not completed his first year makes no difference. Tenure may be important in some professions, but in politics it's of no value...

Sometimes lines come back to haunt you. Gov. Wallace in the old days, in looking at the various aspirants for the Democratic presidential nomination, liked to say there wasn't a dime's worth of difference among the whole lot. Republican Winton (Red) Blount of Montgomery took a look recently at the 1984 Democratic contenders--Mondale, Glenn, Cranston, Hart, Hollings, Askew and McGovern--and guess what he said? "There ain't a dime's worth of difference..."

Lt. Gov. Bill Baxley says there is nothing wrong with him agreeing to represent the AEA in a court suit which challenges a 1983 law relating to political contributions by teachers. Just because he will be on the AEA payroll, he insists, will not cause him to show any favoritism as presiding officer of the Senate...

The most predictable football line after Texas 20, Auburn 7? A few days earlier the story was published that Auburn Coach Pat Dye was living in a $400,000 home for which he made no monthly payments. Quipped one diehard Auburn fan after the Texas loss: "Starting now, Coach Dye is paying off that mortgage."

It was supposed to be a deal

Letter to the Editor:

I have just read another article on the flooding problem at the Shelby County Attention Home.

In the six years my family and I lived in this home the flooding problem was never to the extent described in this article and previous articles. Once during six years did the water situation ever get to the point we had to leave. This was in March 1971 and most of Alabama was flooded.

I am sorry that Ms. Lee feels she has gotten such a bum deal, but at the time my father leased this house to the State and County; at one dollar for ten years, everyone seemed happy about the situation.

Vase takes shape

Becky Bolton's four month old kitten watches intently as her owner works in her studio near Montevallo, turning a piece of clay into pottery which she'll exhibit at the Bluff Park Arts and Crafts show.

Democrats to vote on three candidates

The Shelby County Democratic Executive Committee will vote today (Thursday) on its preferred list of appointments to the November general election.

The endorsement list will be forwarded to the State Democratic Executive Committee's convention which is being held Saturday at the Birmingham-Jefferson Civic Center.

Several Shelby County party leaders told the Reporter they feel it's important to have some input into which candidates will be appointed Saturday, but they do not necessarily expect the SDEC to follow their recommendations.

The six candidates who had qualified with the Democratic Party by Tuesday, will be given the opportunity to make brief speeches Thursday at the 7:30 p.m. meeting in the county courthouse.

Following the speeches, a vote of the executive committee members will be taken, counted and announced, according to SCDEC chairman Jim King.

Absentee type votes from committee members will be accepted at the courthouse from 3-7 p.m., and will be added to the overall tally.

The meeting -- although not the vote -- will be opened to the general public, King said, adding that a question and answer forum with the candidates might also be conducted.

The county endorsement vote was originally scheduled for September 19, but was postponed to September 29 deadline.

King noted that the special court ordered redistricting, which prompted the Democrats into appointing their party candidates, is a first for the state.

Qualified contenders for the party appointments are: Frank "Butch" Ellis (Senate District 14); Ed Gentry, King, and John Tanner (House Seat 40); and Sonny Moore and Wayne Sumners (House Seat 41).

DID YOU KNOW?

It costs less for us to read your electric meter than for you to read it and report the information to us.

We have to process 45,000 meter readings a day. The readings are recorded on special forms and in a certain order so that they can be handled quickly, accurately, and efficiently by a computer. Even if everyone read their own meter and sent the information to us on time, a lot of additional, expensive work would be necessary before our computer could read it. We're always looking for ways to cut costs, but customers reading their own meters isn't one of them.

Potter has style of her own

She has a biology major, a minor in chemistry, and she ended up making pottery.

But the reason's apparently simple. That's what 28-year old Becky Bolton decided she'd be happiest doing.

The Reporter found the potter Monday in her studio on the outskirts of Montevallo, getting ready for the annual Bluff Park Arts and Crafts show Oct. 8.

Bolton points out that her pottery combines aesthetic and functional qualities. And although she admits it may not be original, she says she hasn't seen anyone else put a design on pottery the way she does.

She explains that after throwing a piece, and while it's still sticky, she places a sheet of paper with a cut-out design on the object. Then she paints it with porcelain glaze, removes the paper, and the design is left on the pottery.

Another unique item the young potter turns out is something she calls a character jar.

The figures that adorn the jar lids are based on "Middle Earth people" -- characters from the Hobbit stories.

Although she doesn't have human companionship in her studio, Bolton isn't alone as she works. While she shapes the clay on her wheel, a kitten named Cloud usually climbs into her lap and Loki, a malamute dog, curls up at her feet.

Her first attempt at making pottery goes back to her high school days, she recalls.

Bluff Park hosts 20th show

Four Shelby County artists and craftsmen will be exhibiting in the 20th annual Bluff Park Arts and Crafts show on Saturday, Oct. 8.

In addition to Becky Bolton's clay pieces, Mildred Wyatt from Helena will be there with her watercolors and oils and Pelham artist David Nichols will be showing his watercolors.

Charles Ellis, a craftsman from Helena, will be at the outdoor show with the dulcimers and other instruments he's carved from wood.

The Henry Kimbrell combo will provide live jazz for the thousands of guests (many from Shelby County) who attend the show.

Signs in Hoover will give directions to the show site at Bluff Park Community Center, as well as locations for free parking and shuttle bus service.

In order to increase art appreciation among the student community, the permanent collection of the Bluff Park Art Association is on display in a number of schools and colleges, including the University of Montevallo.

Like David and Goliath...

Calera Eagles topple 2A giant Jemison, 16-13

by Mark C. Jones

"Giant killers!"

Anyone who saw Calera slingshot Jemison 16-13 will have little trouble understanding that terminology.

For the record, Danny Alverson's 1A Eagles were previously 2-2. Jemison's Panthers were only unbeaten in four games, but no one else had even managed to score on the powerhouse. Ranked #3 in the state in 2A play, the Panthers also boasted a 14-game winning streak going into Friday night.

As 'the team to beat' for any Shelby County 2A team with playoffs hopes, Jemison loomed big on the schedule of 1A Calera, and even bigger when challenged in its own backyard.

Don't think any of this was lost to Alverson as he prepped his team for last Friday...

After Calera won its first area encounter in 33-0 rout of Thorsby, two weeks ago, Alverson predicted: "I think we've turned the corner and we're in a position to put together a string of victories. I think we are about to prove to everyone that we are a state playoff type team."

The downing of the giant should help down any doubts around Alabama about Alverson's comment.

Against Jemison, the Eagles displayed an aggressive defense that bent but never broke. They also showed an offense that controlled the line of scrimmage when it had to.

"This is one of the biggest wins we've had around here," beamed Alverson. "This is the greatest thing that could happen to this team! This surely lets these players know they're as good as some of the other teams we've had around here in recent years."

Jemison's highly touted defense never managed to figure out Calera's offensive slingshot. Darryl Griffith and Mike West provided the running power while quarterback Mark Jones directed the attack through the air.

On defense, the Eagles gave ground between the twenties but not much near the goal line -- as illustrated by the fact that Jemison, used to 30.3 points per game, was forced to settle for only 13 against Calera.

Calera topped the giant this way:

An early mistake put the Panthers in first quarter business when Griffith dropped a Jemison punt at the Eagles' 27.

Bernard Ellis recovered the mishap for the Panthers and Ross Thompson later scored from 14 yards out. Lawrence Mims added the PAT and the Panthers led with 3:22 left in the period.

Calera tried to help the Panthers some more with a fumble on the kickoff that gave Jemison possession -- again -- at the 27.

But this time, the Eagles held and that was all they needed for confidence.

Midway into the second period Calera's offensive line started to blow Jemison out of the trenches.

As the holes began to open, Griffith took advantage of them with runs of 32 and 18 yards.

With 7:38 left in the half, on the seventh play of a drive that started on Calera's 36, West put an end to Jemison's shutout streak with a four-yard touchdown romp. Steve Ellison tied the score at 7-7 and the battle was on.

But this time it was Calera's turn to make things happen.

Steve Ellison booted a 31-yard field goal with nine seconds left in the half and the Eagles took a surprising 10-7 advantage into halftime.

Alverson told the Reporter that he didn't know what to tell his team in the locker room. "What do you say to a team that's doing exactly what you tell it?" he asked.

Whatever Alverson said, must have worked.

Jemison tried a desperate move to get back into the game at the beginning of the third period... an onside kick off.

But an alert Russell Crowe came up with the ball at mid-field for Calera.

Both sides then swapped punts and pass interceptions before Calera took possession of the ball at the Panther 35-yard line and fought it in for another score.

From the 35 Griffith gained a crucial first down on a fourth and four at the Jemison 25. Two plays later West scored a touchdown on a 14-yard sprint with 31 seconds left in the half. The PAT attempt failed, but Calera led 16-7.

Jemison came back in the final stanza to score on a three-yard run. But a two-point conversion effort failed and Calera held on to its amazing 16-13 lead.

As the final second ticked off the clock, Calera's traveling cheering section erupted into bedlam -- with good excuse.

To make the win even better -- if that could be possible -- Calera avenged last year's 18-7 loss at the hands of then undefeated Jemison.

"This is the best win since I've been here," said All-State candidate Todd Killingsworth. We had a lot of young people and some people didn't think we had anything -- but I guess we showed them."

"On our first drive of the night, we all felt we could beat them if we didn't make mistakes," said Griffith who rushed for 105 yards against the former giants. "We did make some mistakes but the line really came through."

"We have our confidence now. If we cut down on our mistakes we'll be in the playoffs," predicted Bobby Spence who was in on several key Calera defensive plays.

Four of Calera's next five games are against 1A foes. The Jemison win and their recent dominance of its area opposition make the Eagles a strong contender for a third straight trip to the playoffs.

"If we take every opponent seriously and play as a team, we should be okay," figured sophomore Eagle quarterback Mark Jones.

Calera has an extra week to hoot over Jemison, then it's off to Verbena on October 7.

The Eagles now go 3-2 overall, while Jemison licks its wounds at 3-1.

Montevallo's 'Dogs turn back hungry Hornets

by Fred Guarino

The final score was Montevallo 36, Chelsea 19. But that tally in no way reflects the closeness or the importance of the area encounter the 2A teams played last Friday in Montevallo.

As to the closeness, Chelsea trailed only 14-13 at the half!

Importance? For starts, it was a "pride" game for the Bulldogs who saw their perfect season spoiled by 3A Thompson two weeks ago.

It was a big confidence game for 1-2 Chelsea, coming off a disappointing 27-0 from Jemison, and looking to even things up.

Too... it was a game which Montevallo quarterback Taylor Blackwell called, "the first step to the state title. But if we lose, there is no way for us (to win the title). Jemison would have to lose two or three games," he said prior to last Friday's kick off.

The 'Dogs, who have definite plans for a trip to the playoffs, knew they had to win five straight -- beginning with Chelsea -- if they were to have a chance. (Past Chelsea, the competition still includes area foes Jemison, Vincent, Winterboro and B. B. Comer.)

Even with all of that incentive going for Montevallo, Chelsea was out to prove it was a competitive football team.

The Bulldogs took the opening kick off -- after a scary bobble -- and marched 77 yards for a score. Jeff Chism, Barry Worthy, and Blackwell munched up turf like some kind of unstoppable animals on the loose.

With second down and three yards to go at the Chelsea four, Chism broke into the endzone. Andy Chism added the point after and the 'Dogs led 7-0 with 6:56 left in the first period.

This was pretty much as Bulldogs fans expected. Chelsea, however, had no intentions of letting Montevallo get away with that sort of thing -- at least not without a good scrap.

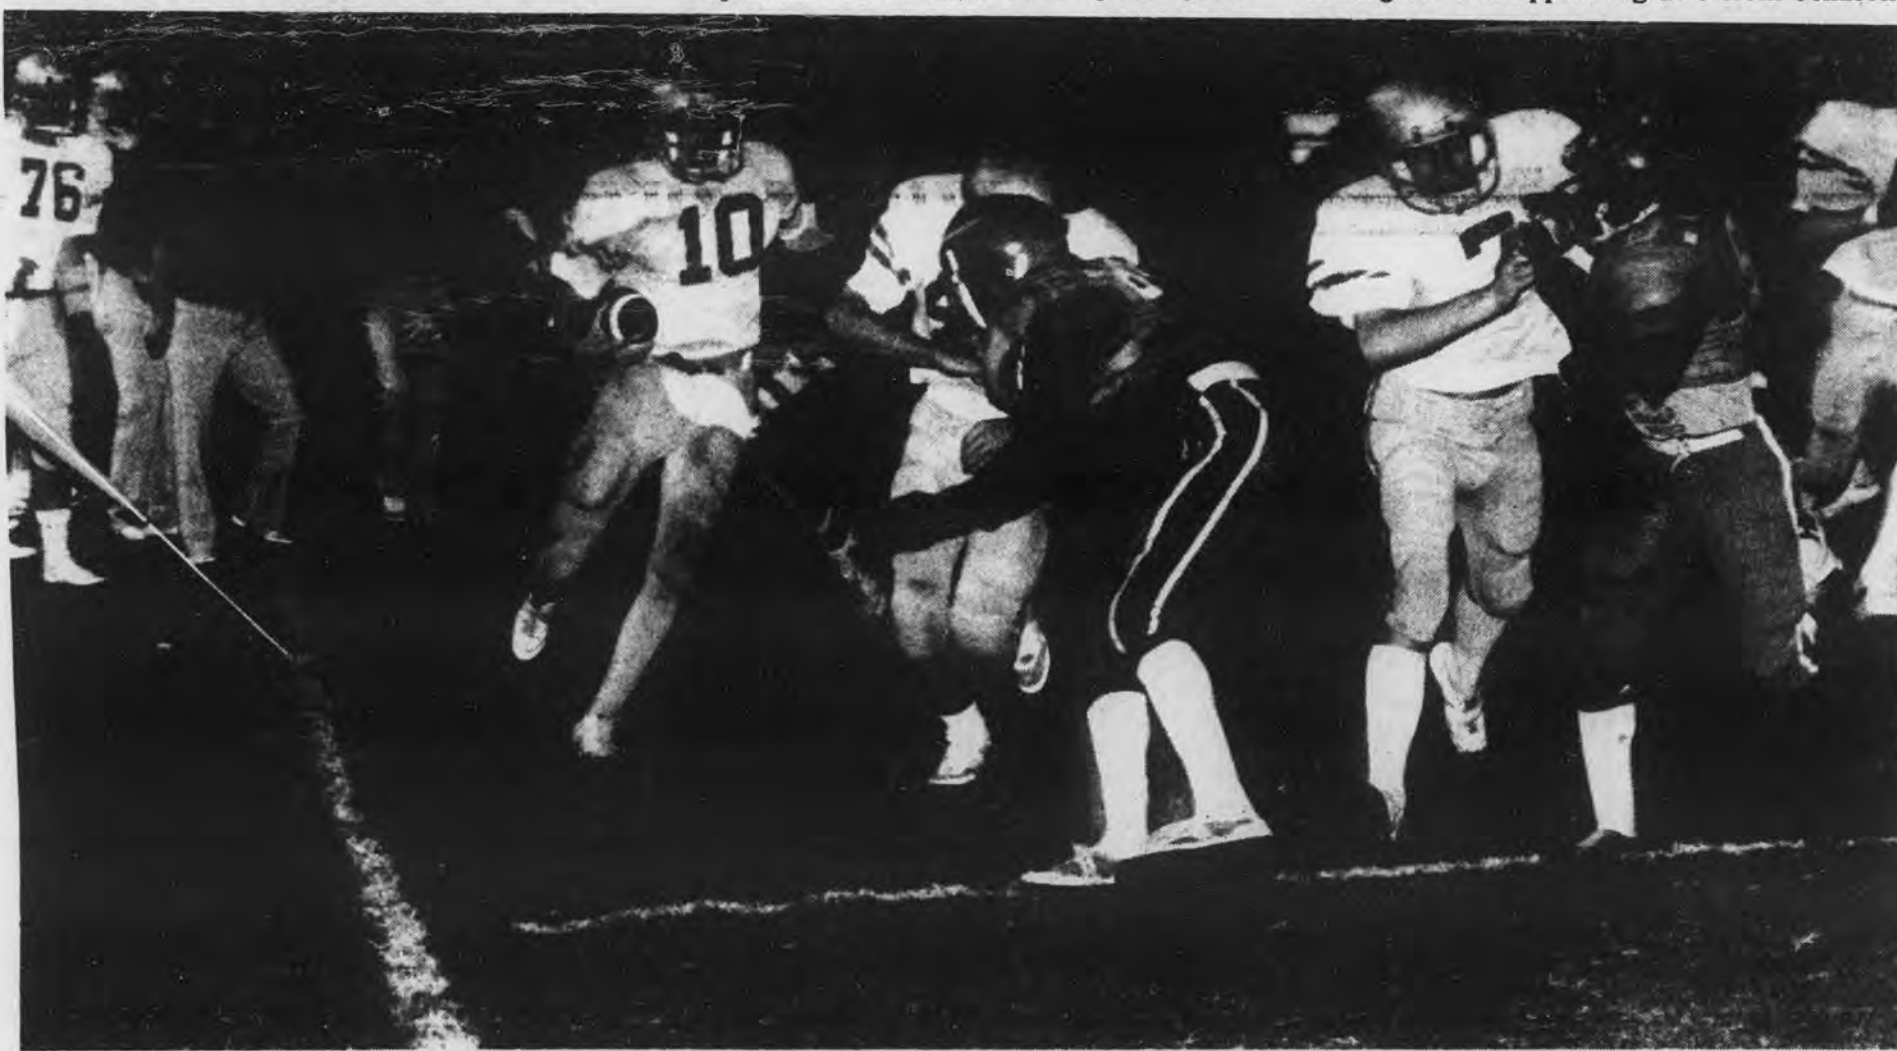

In turn, the Hornets began a 66-yard touchdown drive of their own. Johnny Sands, Mike Gragg, Jason Wiggins, Walt Tatum, and Kerry Shaw all combined in an effort that took Chelsea to a clutch fourth down at Montevallo's nine.

There Wiggins passed to Tatum who got to the three for the first down.

But Montevallo meant trouble and after three plays Chelsea faced fourth and goal back at the six.

Again Wiggins went to the air, this time hitting Tim Williams for the score. The PAT by Gragg

Vincent whips Comer 24-22 for first big win

Finally.

Friday night the Vincent Yellow Jackets tasted the sweet taste of victory for the first time in 1983.

Not only that, but their taste of victory came against an area opponent -- which helps their now 1-3 overall record look not nearly so bad.

In beating B. B. Comer 24-22, the 'Jackets upped their 2A area record (the only record which really counts) to 1-1. Their only area loss this season came at the hands of powerful Jemison.

But now... finally.

"It was very important for us to win one," Vincent Coach Harold Garrett told the Reporter "If we had lost this one, it would have been hard to get our kids up. I hope this is going to be a turning point..."

The win against B. B. Comer came on the road in Sylacauga, and was one of those that gives fans heart attacks.

Vincent got started good on its second possession when it drove 65 yards for a touchdown.

Robert Pouge picked up the final ten for the TD, and Eddie Reynolds booted the point after the touchdown.

But even after pinning Comer down on its own seven yard line, the 'Jackets didn't have much time to congratulate themselves -- yet.

On the very next play Patrick McClure raced 93 yards for a B. B. Comer touchdown. Comer added a two-point conversion and led 8-7.

Things went from bad to worse for Vincent.

A Yellow Jacket fumble gave Comer excellent field position at the Vincent 12 yard line and it didn't take long to score.

The Yellow Jackets dropped behind 15-7.

Vincent never was able to recover its lead in the first half, but it managed to stay in the game and keep pressure on the opposition.

Jimmy White grabbed a pass interception for the visitors at the 27. Then Reynolds rolled out and up the field 73 yards for a touchdown. A tying two-point conversion effort failed and the 'Jackets trailed 15-13 at the half.

Vincent came back, however, in the third quarter to drive 60 yards and score on a 13-yard Reynolds run. This time Robert Pouge made the two-point conversion and the Yellow Jackets were up 21-15.

But just when the Yellow Jackets were about to sigh in relief, disaster struck again.

A roughing the passer penalty set up a B.B. Comer touchdown, and the opposition went on top 22-21.

Eddie Reynolds would come through again, however, in the final minutes of the contest to kick a game winning 21-yard field goal.

Keith Reynolds iced the 24-22 victory for Vincent by intercepting a desperation B. B. Comer pass.

Vincent travels to Winterboro this Friday night for another area encounter.

SCHS returns to winning ways

An extra football game added to the schedule proved to be good for the Shelby County Wildcats last Friday night.

Their 23-21 win over 2A St. Clair County not only upped the Wildcats' season mark to 3-2, but apparently gave them a needed dose of confidence.

That could be helpful since the Wildcats must meet 4-1 Thompson in an area clash this Friday in Alabaster.

Besides a lot of bragging rights, the game is crucial to still possible playoff action because both teams are 1-1 in the area. The Wildcats beat Pelham and lost to Chilton County in area competition. Thompson lost to Bibb County and then beat Chilton County for their area marks.

But Friday night, thoughts in Columbiana were only on St. Clair. And the Wildcats started out (a la Bama) on the wrong foot... falling behind 14-0 in the first quarter.

The Wildcats began by throwing a pass interception, then put on a good stand only to see the visitors score anyway. St. Clair scored again on it next possession.

"Things started getting tight," SCHS Coach Ricky Seale told the Reporter, understating the situation.

"But we stayed with what we planned and had a good offensive night -- over 300 yards," Seale added with pride.

Pat Wallace's running ability was another point of pride with Seale.

What Wallace did was score from seven yards out. The point after by Jeff Denney pulled the Wildcats to within seven.

The Wildcats scored again on a pass from Kenneth Jones to Denney with 30 seconds left in the first half. Denney's PAT was good again and the game was tied at 14-14.

The Wildcats took the lead for good in the third quarter on a 40-yard pass from Jones to Gerald Lawson. A bad snap cost SCHS the PAT but the score stood at 20-14 -- which was okay with most the fans.

Denney added three to the Wildcats' last points of the night, with a 25-yard field goal.

Although St. Clair County came back to score in the fourth quarter, it was too little - too late and SCHS went on to win it 23-21.

"I felt like Denney had a good game catching and our offensive line did a good job," Seale said, accounting for the win.

The line included center Mark Tidmore, guards Bob Alston and Leroy Martin, tackles Grant Cole and Jasper Carden.

"It always feels good to win one," Seale said. "We needed the confidence going into the next game."

Shades of 1982...

Warriors whip Vestavia in close one

The Thompson Warriors are well on their way to what could be another outstanding season.

Last Friday night the 3A Warriors upped their record to 4-1 by beating 4A Vestavia Hills 20-13.

Last year's perfect Warriors only managed to nip Vestavia 11-7, and this year Vestavia set out to avenge that loss by scoring with 9:31 remaining in the first period.

But Thompson apparently knew it had what it takes to win, and stayed unshaken. The Warriors came back and scored minutes later on a 16-yard Gordon Kenney run.

But the Warriors kept themselves from a complete rally at that point when the missed PAT left them lagging 7-6.

Vestavia added to the pressure with a field goal at 2:12 left in the quarter.

But Thompson and Luell Bivins got tired of the new score quickly. Bivins took the kick off and reeled away a classic 90-yard touchdown run.

Kenney passed to Scottie Hawkins for a two-point conversion and Thompson took the lead 14-10.

Bivins continued to punish Vestavia for taking the lead first with a super punt return that set up Max Brown for a one-yard TD run with 5:10 left in the half.

The two-point conversion try failed, but now the Warriors had pushed their lead to 20-10.

Vestavia came back in the third quarter to cut the lead with a field goal. But there was no more scoring on tap for the night as Thompson held on to win 20-13. "Naturally it was a big win for us," said a pleased Thompson mentor Doug Wheeler. However, the head coach was not as pleased as he wanted to be.

"We didn't play as well as I first thought we did," he said. "They played well on defense but we didn't play well offensively."

But Wheeler did have good words for Bivins, considering his punt and kick off returns. Too, he had good words for Kenney who hit five of seven passes for 63 yards.

Thompson must now put Vestavia behind it and get ready to play Shelby County High School at home Friday in a key area matchup. With a win over St. Clair County, the Wildcats are sporting a respectable 3-2 record.

Chelsea gives Montevallo first half scare actually bounced off the goal post crossbar before it went on over to tie the score with 9:45 left in the half.

Montevallo didn't take kindly to such retaliation and came back with a touchdown drive of 64 yards.

Blackwell, Anthony Prentice, and Keith Moore worked the 'Dogs down to first and goal at the

Bulldog run

Chelsea three. From there Blackwell pushed into the endzone for six points. The PAT put Montevallo in the lead 14-7.

Again, Chelsea refused to say die and its offense marched 67 yards for an answering score of their own.

Wiggins, Tatum, Gragg, Shaw, Sands, all combined to make the drive effective -- with the help of major distance penalties -- and wound up with a first and goal at the Bulldog nine-yard line.

As the halftime horn sounded, Wiggins scrambled out of the pocket, looked for a receiver, and hit Scott Isbell in the endzone for six.

The point after missed, but the Hornets had put on an exciting challenge to the strongest Montevallo team in recent history.

Chelsea's Tommy Kelley was understandably excited.

"I'm just a sophomore and this is one of the biggest games I've played in," he said, perhaps recalling with other Chelsea players last year's 27-8 loss to MHS and thinking revenge. "It's just my second starting night and we've got to prove we can do it."

But an upset was not to be in the cards. The Bulldogs jumped back to score 22 unanswered points before Chelsea struck again as the final horn sounded.

With 4:41 in the third quarter, Jeff Chism scored from the two. Then Blackwell faked the kick and scored a two-point conversion to put Montevallo out front 22-13.

Three minutes later the Bulldogs scored again on a four-yard Prentice run. The PAT was good for a 29-13 lead.

The final six would come for Montevallo on an eight-yard romp by Worthy at 8:18 in the final quarter. The PAT upped the count to 36-13.

But Chelsea would not be denied one last bit of glory.

A fumble recovery led to the beginning of a 66-yard drive through the air and on the ground. Then, with no time left on the clock, Wiggins scored from four yards out.

The two-point conversion failed and the final score stood 36-19, Montevallo.

"It was a big comeback after losing to Thompson," said Montevallo's Rick Dobson. "I think we could have played better in the first half but we sucked it up and came back in the second half."

With a smile on his face, Dobson added, "We just want Jemison now."

The game was far from error free, and both sides were heavily penalized: -120 yards for Montevallo; -70 for Chelsea.

To Chelsea Coach Gene Hulsey, it was the penalties which spelled defeat.

"We only had the ball two times in the first half and scored both times. In the second half, every time we touched someone, the football flags were on the ground," he lamented. "We were moving the football but we are not a first and 25 team."

Hulsey also gave credit to Montevallo's Richard Gilliam for doing a fine job of coaching.

"They came back and that is it," Hulsey said. "But I think tonight we made a big turn. If we can play Montevallo for a half, I feel like we made a whole lot of progress."

Gilliam viewed his team's win as one by a steady offense.

"We didn't punt all night but you've got to give them credit. They moved it on us and they didn't want to punt," he said.

Now 1-3, the Hornets must get ready to play

Maplesville for homecoming Friday night.

Montevallo, now 4-1, must take the next giant step towards the playoffs Friday when they entertain Jemison (3-1) at home.

For the record, Jeff Chism, who had averaged 5.3 yards per carry for Montevallo, rushed 122 yards against Chelsea for a 7.1 yard per effort average.

CVA lights scoreboard...finally

The Coosa Valley Rebels saw their season mark fall to a dismal 0-4 last Friday by virtue of a 28-14 whipping by Lee Scott.

But things are not too sad in Harpersville. If nothing else it could be raining... the score wasn't as bad as last year's 45-21 loss to Lee Scott... and at least the Rebels finally broke the jinx that has kept them shutout in three straight games this season.

Also -- except for a couple of big plays -- CVA was competitive with Lee Scott all night.

The Rebels drove deep into Lee Scott territory early in the contest only to be stopped by penalties.

Then, after holding Lee Scott, the Rebels drove all the way to the one-yard line, only to come up short.

From that point, Lee Scott opened the game up with a 90-yard romp and a PAT to go up 7-0.

Surprising the opposition -- and thrilling their loyal fans -- CVA turned around, drove for a touchdown of its own, then tied the game at 7-up.

Jeff Martin broke the icy jinx for Coosa Valley by scoring on a 28-yard pass reception from quarterback Ricky Sprouse. Bret Strickland added the PAT.

Lee Scott shot down Rebel hopes, however, by taking the kick off all the way for a touchdown and, with the PAT, going up 14-7.

That was the way things stayed until the third quarter, when Lee Scott scored on yet another big play -- a 50-yard run this time. Another touchdown and two-point conversion made it 28-7.

Coosa Valley came back in the fourth quarter with a seven-minute drive capped off by Sprouse scoring from two yards out on a beautifully executed bootleg run.

Strickland's PAT made the final score 28-14. Breland took the first points by his team as a good sign of things to come.

"I believe we are going to come on and get better every week. It just takes some time," he said patiently.

Coosa Valley faces Southern at home this Friday night.

Panthers give good effort but stay winless

The Pelham Panthers remain winless after five games.

The latest in the still growing string of defeats came at home Friday at the hands of Bibb County.

The 33-7 score wasn't very pretty, but Pelham coach Billy Tohill is not dragging the ground.

As a matter of record, Tohill said the Reporter "I thought we gave a good effort... the best we've given this year."

Tohill said that the visitors simply defeated his Panthers on speed and in the kicking game.

Point of fact, Bibb scored its first points of the game on a faked punt which it turned into a TD.

Despite the lack of speed Tohill said is necessary to make a winning team, he feels the Panthers still have a chance to be successful.

"We are not going to roll up and die. We'll show up to play six more games and there are going to be some fights," he stated. "We can still have a good year -- but not as well as I expected."

As a consolation prize, at least the Panthers managed to score this year against Bibb County (last year Pelham lost 20-34).

The score came on a 40-yard pass from Ricky Hayes to Jack Johnson. The point after was made by Gary Howard.

Once again, Pelham will try to get on the winning side of the scorecards when it travels to Fultondale this Friday.

Raiders go 1-4 with loss to Tuscaloosa

The Shelby Academy Raiders are now 1-4 after losing to Tuscaloosa Academy in an away game 33-0.

But like Coosa Valley Academy Coach Bruce Breland, Raiders' head man Dewayne Kervin is not too upset at this point.

Last year the Raiders fell to Tuscaloosa 30-6 and according to Kervin, he really didn't expect to win this time around, either.

"It was no surprise. We weren't expecting to win. We only dressed out 14 boys, mostly ninth and tenth graders," he stated. "I knew we weren't going to do well but I just wanted to make a good showing."

Is 33-0 a good showing?

By Kervin's reasoning, with all things considered, it was.

Shelby Academy got beat by the pass -- Tuscaloosa scored four touchdowns through the air. That's not too surprising Kervin said, considering that the Raiders went into action with three of their best secondary people out: Robert Thomas, Jeff Dupaway and Randy Davis.

So the pass was expected to be damaging.

Considering that his line only averages 149 pounds, he had cause to be proud of the fact that the Raiders held Tuscaloosa to a little over 100 yards rushing.

The week before Tuscaloosa earned 300 yards on the ground against another foe.

"I wasn't that disappointed in the effort. Tuscaloosa dressed out 40 boys and ours had to play both ways," Kervin summarized. "We shut down the run and we sacked their quarterback four times. He hadn't been sacked all year."

Shelby Academy must now prepare to play Lowndes for homecoming.

Kervin said that he expects to have most of his injured players back for the homecoming encounter -- something that should help the Raiders' fortunes.

Lions keep struggling

The football season continues to cause trouble for Briarwood Christian High School.

The Lions dropped to 1-3 on the year last Friday night after their first ever meeting with Cherokee Vocational School.

A brilliant, game opening 85-yard kick return by Briarwood's Craig Collier proved no indication of the way the game would go. The Lions were tamed 20-12.

Following the game opening run by Collier, Cherokee scored almost at will until it led 20-6.

It was only in the last quarter that Briarwood managed to hit pay dirt again. That came on a tough one-yard run by Tommy Stoves.

"Craig Collier did a good job running but we didn't have many bright spots," said Briarwood Coach Gary Fleming.

He commented that quarterback Bobby Welch did an adequate job in passing but "we didn't give him the time he needed to throw."

Fleming summed it up this way: Briarwood just did not play aggressively enough.

The Lions will have a chance to get back on the winning track Friday night against Cedar Bluff. The home crowd usually helps fire up the Lions.

Columbiana has hard day

The sun was out, but it wasn't the world's brightest day in Childersburg last Saturday. Visiting Columbiana Youth Footballers went one for three.

The 75-pounders fell to the Childersburg youths 36-16.

Chris Gable, Shawn Hawkins and Shawn Godwin all scored for Columbiana but Childersburg just proved too tough.

The 85-pounders also fell to Childersburg, nipped by a close score of 22-18.

But the bright spot of the day came when the 105 lb'ers whipped Childersburg 34-16.

Warren Wilson, Tracy Washington and Pat Greene all combined for some good Columbiana running.

Columbiana plays this Saturday at home.

Basketball comes to Montevallo

The Montevallo Middle School playground will be the setting for some hot basketball competition this Saturday -- and you can be part of it.

The UM Falcons and the Lady Falcons will participate in intersquad competition and the general public is invited.

Fans attending the event can win Birmingham Stallion and Birmingham Barons tickets, t-shirts and Montevallo basketball tickets.

The free fun starts at 10 a.m. with soft drinks and music. Halftime features a slam-dunk contest -- open to the general public. So if you think you're bad, be there.

Helena Jaycees fight CF

This Saturday the Helena Jaycees will hold a Bike-a-Thon to benefit children with cystic fibrosis, a lung and digestive tract disease that takes hold at conception and never lets go.

"The Bike-a-Thon will involve many people in Helena," said event chairman Grover Jackson. "The people involved will not only be raising much money but they will also be having a lot of fun."

Last year, according to Jackson, the Bike-a-Thon raised over $1,700.00 and 35 children took part.

The Bike-a-Thon will be at Helena Elementary School from 8 a.m. til 12 noon. The Helena Jaycees will provide bike route security, refreshments, bike repair and first aid.

Participants collecting at least $30 will receive T-shirts; and those collecting $75 will receive pocket calculators; and those collecting $150 will receive an AM/FM radio with headset.

As an added plus this year K mart has donated a 10-speed bike for the top-money collector, and Wal-Mart has donated $25 worth of prizes as well.

Sponsor sheets are available now at Helena Elementary School, or by calling Grover Jackson at 663-2492. Participants may also register the day of the Bike-a-Thon with collections to be turned in by October 8. Winners and prizes will be announced on October 10.

What Does Jesus Teach About - Man?

Jer. 10:23 "O LORD, I know that the way of man is not in himself: it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps."

PSA. 1:1-2 "Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful. But his delight is in the law of the LORD; and in his law doth he meditate day and night." MATT. 11:28-30 "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light." LETS ALL LEARN OF CHRIST. M. HUNT

County fishermen go for big money tournament

Two Shelby County men are among the top fishers in the Bama division of the Red Man Tournament Trail.

Steve Brasher of Sterrett and Brent Barrow of Columbiana have earned births in the bass fishing circuit's year-end championship which offers more than $100,000 in prize money.

Basher, a 31 year-old electrician earned his spot by placing second in the final Red Man tourney on Sunday, Sept. 18, at the Martin/Piney Woods Marina near Alexander City.

He caught six bass weighing a total of 10 lbs. 14 ozs. — good for $230 in winnings.

The top 24 fishermen in each division qualify for the Red Man All-American Tournament slated for October at Kentucky Lake/Lake Barkley.

At the All-American tournament, the 24 Bama qualifiers will compete against each other for two days. Winner earns a new bass boat, while second and third place fishermen receive cash.

All three move along to the finals with 30 other fishermen. The heaviest catch in this one-day fish-out wins is $50,000

LEGAL NOTICE
Notice of Publication of Bill Filed and Proceeding in Rem to Quiet Title of Real Estate

Southern Haulers, Inc., Plaintiff, VS. Certain Land and Charley C. Jefferies, et al., Defendants.

In the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama Case No. CV-83-246(E)

To: The following described land situated in Shelby County, Alabama: The Northeast Quarter of the Northeast Quarter of Section Four, Township 22 South, Range 2 West which lies South and West of Interstate Highway 65 in Shelby County, Alabama; and all heirs at law, next of kin, and devisees of Charley C. Jefferies, Charles Jefferies, Abe Brown, Katie Jefferies, and Charlie Jeffery, whose names are unknown to the Plaintiff after a diligent search and any and all other person firms or corporations who may claim an interest in and to the above described property.

Take notice that Southern Haulers, Inc., has this day filed this verified complaint in said Court against the above named Defendants and against any and all persons claiming any title to, interest in, encumbrance upon the above described real estate or any part thereof or interest therein, and against all other persons, and against said lands for the purpose of establishing the title of said land in the said Southern Haulers, Inc., and to clear up all doubts and disputes concerning the same and that said suit is not pending in said Court.

Plaintiff alleges in said complaint that the title to said land, to wit, the name of the Plaintiff on the records in the Office of the Judge of Probate of Shelby County, Alabama, and said complaint further alleges that Plaintiff claims title to said land through and by virtue of deed recorded in Deed Book 85, Page 512 in the Probate Office of Shelby County, Alabama; that during the time of Plaintiff's ownership, it had been in actual, peaceable, adverse possession of said lands claiming to own the same, and that title to said lands has stood in Plaintiff's name on the records in the Office of the Judge of Probate of Shelby County, Alabama, for more than ten years prior to this date. The Plaintiff and their predecessors in title have assessed said real estate in the Office of the Assessor of Shelby County, Alabama, and paid the taxes on said real estate for each year; and that no one else has paid the taxes on said real estate for said period of time except the Plaintiff and their predecessors in title and that no one has been in possession of said land or any part thereof since 1927, except the Plaintiff and their predecessors in title.

The Plaintiff after most reasonable and diligent search and inquiry were unable to locate the following named persons to determine whether or not they are living or dead, and if living, what their ages and addresses are at the present time, and if deceased, the names, ages and addresses of their heirs or devisees, and that the same are unknown to the Plaintiff, said persons being as follows: Charley C. Jefferies, Charles Jefferies, Abe Brown, Katie Jefferies, and Charlie Jeffery, and their heirs or devisees. If deceased, and that the names, ages and addresses of any other parties who, unknown to Plaintiff, may claim an interest in or to the above described property, are unknown.

It is, therefore, ordered by the undersigned Clerk that publication of this notice be made in the Shelby County Reporter, a newspaper published and having a general circulation in Shelby County, Alabama, once a week for four consecutive weeks, and that all those to whom this notice is addressed and any and all persons claiming any title to, interest in, or lien or encumbrance upon, the above described real estate, or any part thereof, or any interest therein, be and they are hereby required to plead, answer or otherwise defend this cause within the time required by law, and not later than November 14, 1983.

It is further ordered that a copy of this notice, certified by the undersigned Clerk, as being correct, shall also be recorded as a lis pendens in the Office of the Judge of Probate of Shelby County, Alabama.

Done at office this 14th day of September, 1983.

MEMORY

IN LOVING MEMORY
In loving memory of Cecil D. Motes who passed away one year ago, Sept. 30, 1982.
There is a long and winding road, along which each must go.
It leads beyond the hills of time into the sunset glow.
But only for a little while our loved ones leave our sight.
For just beyond the hill they visit for God's eternal light.

UM fills vacancies; 13 join faculty

Thirteen new full-time faculty members have joined the staff at the University of Montevallo. They fill vacancies in the fine arts, business and other areas.

University officials said no new faculty positions have been created for the 1983-84 academic year, however vacancies in some non-academic areas such as the physical plant are not being filled presently because of budget restraints.

The new faculty members are: Dr. Robert Dennis Bean, music instructor, comes to Montevallo from Arkansas where he served as lecturer in piano, a visiting instructor, and gave private instruction in piano. He earned his Bachelor and Master of Music Education degrees from Mississippi State University and his doctorate from the University of Mississippi.

Jerri Hayes Bullard, assistant professor of sociology and a doctoral candidate, served as a graduate teaching assistant at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University in Blacksburg, Va. She holds a bachelor's degree in sociology and psychology from the University of North Alabama and a master's degree in sociology from Auburn University.

Dr. Maurice G. Clabaugh Jr., associate professor of marketing, received his doctorate in business administration from the University of Alabama in 1978 and served as associate professor of marketing at Ball State University in Muncie, Ind. Clabaugh holds bachelor's and master's degrees from Eastern Illinois University.

Raymond V. Dunmire, associate professor, library, earned his bachelor's degree from Thiel College in Greenville, Penn., and master's degree from Florida State University. He has served as an instructor in the School of Education and as head of interlibrary loans at the University of Florida and as assistant librarian at Thiel College.

Sara Edlin, associate professor of theatre, is an experienced state, screen and television actress and director from Pima Community College in Tucson, Ariz., where she served as an instructor in the speech department. She earned her Bachelor's in theatre/radio-TV-film from the University of Miami and her Master of Fine Arts degree in theatre from UH.

Stephen B. Finnan, assistant professor of communication arts, brings a background in theatre and mass communication from New York. He has acted in a variety of professional, academic and community theatre productions and in three feature films, including "Serpico," and served as commercial coordinator for NBC-TV in New York City. His teaching experience includes jobs at East Carolina University in Greenville, Michigan State University and Brooklyn College. He earned his bachelor's degree in mass communication from the University of Miami and his MFA in theatre arts from Brooklyn.

Student enrollment dips

Enrollment at the University of Montevallo is down about 2% this year.

Total enrollment this fall is 2,465 -- down overall by 52 students.

School officials explain that some internal changes at the university account for some of the drop, and that admission standards for transfers are also tougher.

"This is not a gloom and doom thing at all," said admission director Bob Doyle.

New freshmen dropped this year from 609 to 559. Transfers are down from 236 last fall, to 213., according to UM records.

The piano

Proudly billed as "one of the best pianos in the world," the University of Montevallo's Hamburg Steinway awaits its dedication concert this Monday at 8 p.m. in Palmer Hall. The public is invited to the free performance by Roy Bogas who will play selections by Bach, Schumann, Beethoven, Ravel, Chopin and Liszt.

UM plans entertainment

Ballet, a comedy musical and three short plays are all upcoming activities planned for the University of Montevallo.

'You're a Good Man Charlie Brown' will be staged by Montevallo's Lyric Theatre at 8 p.m. this Thursday and Friday in LeBaron Recital Hall. Based on characters made famous by Charles Schulz's 'Peanuts' comic strip, the play was first presented in 1967, and began a successful Broadway run in 1971.

Tickets are available at the Lyric Theatre office, or by calling 665-2521, ext. 383.

At 8 p.m. this Thursday, Friday and Saturday, three short plays by Pulitzer Prize winner Lanford Wilson will be staged at UM's Chichester Studio Theatre.

Naomi Metz of Montevallo is included in the cast, and will direct 'This is the Rill Speaking' and 'Days Ahead.' Also on the program is 'Wandering.'

Tickets will be available at the door.

Baritone Benjamin Middaugh, professor of music at UM, and tenor James Frazier, a UM graduate who sings with the Birmingham Civic Opera, will present a concert on Oct. 4, at 8 p.m. in UM's LeBaron Recital Hall.

Accompanied by pianist Timothy Gunter, Middaugh and Frazier will sing selections by Brahms, Cuming, Bach and Duparc. The concert is free and open to the public.

On Thursday, October 6, the State of Alabama Ballet will give an 8 p.m. performance in Palmer Hall.

The varied program includes selections from 'The Firebird,' 'La Bayadere' and 'Duo Concertant.'

Adult and student ticket information can be obtained by calling 665-2521, ext. 526.

Montevallo High graduate establishes college scholarship

A graduate from Montevallo High School has established a scholarship fund at Mississippi Valley State University.

Echol L. Nix, who graduated from MVSU with honors in 1975, started the $800 fund to help students with financial needs who have demonstrated high academic achievement and personal ambition.

"I am committed to helping young people learn to think logically and rationally, and to mankind living a productive and useful life," Nix said. "This process involves providing students with the necessary money needed to get an education."

Recipients of the scholarship must be full or part-time students at MVSU and maintain a 3.0 GPA.

Nix, who is married to the former Annie Mae Adams, graduated from Montevallo High in 1971. He is now chairman of the Carver Senior High driver's education program in Montgomery, and assistant supervisor at St. Margaret's Hospital cafeteria there.

Chelsea title seeker available for talks

When the national finals to choose Miss United Teenager are held in Washington D.C. in December, a 16-year old Chelsea student will be one of the contestants.

Teresa Cain won the state title in competition at the University of Montevallo this summer.

Now she's making a determined effort to win the national event, too.

One way she hopes to improve her chances in Washington is by making as many personal appearances as possible.

Any civic group who would like to contact her for a personal appearance may get in touch with her aunt, Mrs. W.H. Perryman. The phone number is 967-0533, or write her at 4219 Millhaven Dr., Birmingham, 35243.

AU vs. UA

Two college students from Shelby County have one thing in common, and one thing in opposition.

Margaret M. Morton of Montevallo, and Shari Thornton of Pelham were both named to deans lists for their summer school work.

Morton is a student at the University of Alabama. Thornton attends Auburn.

School night pays off for Chelsea Cubs

A recent 'School Night for Scouting' apparently paid off handsomely for Chelsea Cub Pack 354.

Prior to the event the pack had one den of scouts. Afterwards, it had three, as well as a new Tiger Cub group, according to den leader Mrs. George Griswold, Jr.

New Cubs in the den are: Shawn Hatcher, Daryl Dorough, Joey Ziegler, Randy Coleman, Jeb Ritchie and Bryan Wilson.

New Bears are Christopher Lairson, Matthew Whitfield, Jason Bailey and Robert Steadman.

Bryan Cain is a new Webelos and new second grade Tiger Cubs are Jonathan Edwards, John Hann, Scott Ziegler and Michael Fisher.

The pack, sponsored by K-Springs Church of God, meets at the scout building at 7 p.m. on the last Thursday of each month. Interested boys and parents in the Chelsea area can call Griswold at 678-9932.

Tuck it, run

Pelham High School's Gary Howard (31) tucks in a pass reception and leaves teammate Ronnie Tate (75) and a downed Bibb County defender behind. However, it wasn't meant for the Panthers to win this one and they fell 33-7. See this and other Shelby County high school football stories in this week's Reporter sports section. (Photo by Jerome Bannister)

95-pound Panthers defend title

The 95-pound Pelham Panthers -- state champions in 1982 -- continue their winning ways in 1983.

In four games this season (two pre-season and two regular games) they remain undefeated.

The 95-pounders have chalked up wins against Thompson, 35-6; Central Park, 42-0; Leeds, 28-0; and this past Saturday, Fultondale, 38-12.

In Saturday's action, touchdowns were scored by Scott Busby, Brian Chambers, Jimmy Hicks, David Sanders and George Golliday.

Robbie McCary, Chambers, Hicks and Golliday also scored extra points.

In addition to his offensive guns, Coach Bill Fant had praise for his offensive line, which featured Wade Evans, Chris Caldwell, Jimbo Doyle, John Paul Church, Derick Shroyer, Dononic Baldone and Slade Holladay.

On the defensive side of things, he gave pats on the back to Eric Horton, J. Charlton, John Fant and Brandon Callahan.

Fant also recognized defenders Sean Lee, Nathan Ingram and Mike Jeffers.

This Saturday, the 95-pounders travel to play Irondale in further conference competition.

UM alumnus returns as V'ball trainer

Sally Hicks, a former University of Montevallo volleyball player from Luverne, has returned to her alma mater as trainer for the Lady Falcons.

Hicks, 33, holds BS and M. Ed. degrees from UM. She played volleyball and tennis from 1968-72 as an undergraduate.

She has taught at Fort Benning, Alabama School for the Deaf and Blind at Talledega, and Partlow State School in Tuscaloosa.

"This takes a great weight off my shoulders," said Lady Falcons Volleyball Head Coach Beverly Warren. "I don't have to be the coach and the trainer, too. We already have had two injuries this year, and Sally has been invaluable."

Before returning to UM, Hicks finished a two-year sports medicine internship with the University of Alabama Athletic Department. Besides traveling with the Lady Falcons, she will work as a part-time instructor in the physical education department.

120-pound Warriors ice Black Knights

The awesome Thompson 120 pound Warriors upped themselves to 2-0 on the season with a 58-0 Thursday night trashing of the Cahaba Heights Black Knights.

This adds up to 105 offensive points this year for the young Warriors -- while the defense is still sitting on a golden -- and envious -- goose egg.

In the first quarter Big John Woody scored six points and Andy Lackey added the PAT. But anyone expecting a close game because of a slow starting first quarter were mistaken.

Second quarter action started with Dwayne Payton scoring -- the beginning of a real show of power by the Warriors.

Within two minutes the Warriors scored on a 30-yard pass from quarterback Brady Thames to a tiny and surrounded Brian Bunn. Payton added the PAT.

On the next possession Woody shot up field for 40 yards and a touchdown and Lackey added the extra point.

In the third quarter Speedy Payton blazed 75 yards for a TD, and next Ronnie Roan slid past the Black Knights for touchdown number six.

Quarterback Thames switched to end at this point and Brian Bunn took the helm midway into the third quarter.

A loose ball and a stack of Warriors resulted in Thames being injured and taken from the game.

Payton scored again and Bunn slipped around right end for the PAT.

In the final quarter Alan Barefoot scored on a drive with Bunn and Lackey connecting on an extra point pass. (Alan's mom reportedly complained to a fellow fan that she had just missed seeing her son score, so...) One and a half minutes later Barefoot scored again.

Bobby Knight made a super interception with only 37 seconds left in the game. He sped 40 yards before finally being brought down.

That final score again, 58-0. Defensively Knight, Woody, Payton, Jason Stonicher, Bill Walker and Mike Barefoot all got pats on the back.

The Warriors play Bessemer at home Thursday.

Montevallo wreck

Matlack truck driver Thomas Monroe Jackson, 47, of Maplesville, suffered the only significant injury Thursday afternoon when his 18-wheeler collided with two other tractor rigs and a car. Jackson suffered a broken leg and was taken to Shelby Medical Center. Jackson's cab caught fire and was destroyed, another carrier overturned, and the third truck suffered minor damage. The car was a total loss. The incident occurred at the intersection of State 155 and 25 at the top of Holloway Hill, just outside the Montevallo city limits. (Photo by Ralph Sears)

Pelham foresees good year; increases budget half million

from staff reports

City fathers have added something to the Pelham budget this year -- a half million dollars. Expenditures for the 1983-84 budget adopted Monday night total $2,725,598, and projected income amounts to $2,728,165.

Last year's budget was $2,201,502.

The fire department received the lion's share of new budget -- $628,215. Likewise, the fire department also received the largest increase over last year -- $159,860 more than the year before.

Other expenditures for the upcoming fiscal year are:

- Police -- $588,201 (an increase of $95,623).
- Sewer operation and bond payments -- $576,680 (a decrease of $23,230).
- Administrative expenses -- $362,483 (an increase of $79,323).
- Engineering and public works-- $198,653 (an increase of $ 87,089).
- Park -- $153,846 (an increase of $ 93,846).
- Sanitation -- $130,000 (an increase of $13,000).
- City garage -- $37,517 (an increase of $8,507).
- Library -- $50,000 (an increase of $38,300).

City employees are on the merit system so even though there will be no across the board raises, a 12% increase has been set aside for salaries.

The two-cent sales tax, the city's most lucrative money producer, is expected to bring in $1,565,560 -- $32,000 more than last year.

Other sources of local funding are: privilege license fees, $363,000 (an $80,801 increase); fines, $130,000 (a $15,000 decrease); building permits, $19,000; Indian Hills, $15,000; wine tax, $4,451; police reports, $660.

City ad valorem tax is expected to bring in $350,000; motor vehicle licenses, $67,000; beer and liquor, $48,000.

Funding from state and federal sources will include $107,094 in revenue sharing; $45,000 in gasoline taxes; $10,000 from the ABC board; $2,500 in banking excise tax.

In other business, the council rephrased the wording in several sections of the personnel policies adopted at the last meeting.

City officials said that the intent of those sections remains the same.

A change was made however, in the method of making appointments to the personnel board.

Originally, the council was to have made one appointment, employees another, and both groups would have named a third member.

That system didn't prove satisfactory, council members reported, so the council appointed all three members.

The board will consist of Bobby Hayes, Lewis Leverett and Joe Littlefield.

At the beginning, Mayor Burk Dunaway explained, board members will have to draw lots to determine who will serve staggered terms of one, two and three years.

In the future, all board members will serve for three years.

City Clerk Willie Mae Dennis was appointed personnel officer for the board.

Committee names Democrat slate

by David F. Moore

The State Democratic Executive Committee has appointed Frank "Butch" Ellis, Sonny Moore, and John Tanner as its party candidates in Shelby County.

Although the SDEC was under no obligation to honor county endorsement, it picked the same three candidates at its Saturday convention that the Shelby County Democratic Executive Committee choose last Thursday night by straw vote.

Ellis, who was unopposed in his bid for the party's nominee for Senate District 14, now faces former Republican Representative Don Murphy in the general election.

With 102 votes, incumbent Sonny Moore of Sterrett -- who defeated AEA employee Wayne Summers of Harpersville -- was the second highest vote getter at the state convention in Birmingham, according to SDEC executive director Al LaPierre. (Incumbent John Buskey of Montgomery made a clean sweep of the convention vote, besting his opponent 107-0.)

Moore now faces Republican Jim Entrek in the race for Representative District 41.

Tanner, a Pelham councilman, easily beat out competition from SCDEC chairman Jim King and Pelham businessman Ed Gentry for the state party's appointment to the house race for District 40.

Last Thursday at the county courthouse the SCDEC heard all six Democratic contenders speak and answer questions on issues such as home rule, state control over county budgetary matters (such as the county deputies being tied to the State Troopers' pay scale), rights to recall and initiative referendum (Proposition 13).

During the session Harold Davenport questioned Moore about the legislature passing bills that take county money controls from the commission.

State party nominates Ellis for senate district

Frank "Butch" Ellis, Jr. has been named as the Democratic nominee for State Senate District 14. The District includes all of Shelby County, northeastern Bibb County and three-fourths of St. Clair County to as far south as Ashville.

Ellis, unopposed for his party's appointment, faces Republican Don Murphy in the November 8 general election.

Ellis, 43, a native of Shelby County, was raised on his family's dairy farm and graduated from Shelby County High School in 1958. He attended Auburn University before graduating from the University of Montevallo.

In 1964 he received his law degree from the University of Alabama, graduating first in his class scholastically. At Alabama he was president of the Law School Student Government Association, a member of ODK and the Law School Scholastic Honor Society, and he served as editor of the Law Review.

Following graduation Ellis entered into a partnership with Wales Wallace in Columbiana, where he still practices law.

He has served as Attorney for Shelby County and the County Commission for about 17 years. He is Counsel for the municipalities of Pelham, Helena, Wilsonville, and Wilton, as well as Shelby Medical Center.

Ellis has served on several legislative advisory committees and as Chairman of the Shelby County Bar Association Ethics Committee. He is also a member of the Board of Trustees of the University of Montevallo.

He is married to the former Diane Bentley, who owns an arts and crafts shop in Columbiana. They live on the Columbiana farm where Ellis was raised, and have three children -- Kelly, 19, a pre-pharmacy student at AU, Christy, 15, and Corley, 12, who attend Shelby County public schools.

The family is active as members of the Columbiana United Methodist Church where Ellis taught Sunday School for six years.

Gentry jumps in race

Ed Gentry will run as an independent candidate for House District 40 against Republican candidate Al Knight and Democratic Candidate John Tanner. Gentry made the announcement at a press conference Tuesday morning in Pelham.

In a question and answer session, Gentry said he was "confronted" and asked to run last April, but did not say who had asked him.

Last Saturday Gentry was defeated by Tanner in a vote by the State Democratic Executive Committee for the party's appointment to seat race.

"I would say I had a chance of getting the nomination until Tuesday of last week. There was a backroom meeting in which the slate was authorized," Gentry claimed, but did not name anyone involved.

Gentry called Knight a representative of big business and Tanner a representative of special interests. He said that he decided to run as an independent to give the people "a choice."

One stop tags mean long stop in confused probate office

by Fred Guarino

Friday was a rough day at the Shelby County Courthouse for people on both sides of the new car tag counter. The first day of selling and buying the tags under the new one stop system is having problems.

Probate Judge Tommy Snowden is blaming the long lines and time delays on computer woes. County Commissioner Leon Archer is pointing his finger at Snowden.

To prepare for last Friday, Snowden a week ago took the computer equipment from Tax Assessor Bobby Reynolds' office which had been used for car tags prior to the passage of the one stop system.

To train his people for the new one stop tag system, Snowden said he had Reynolds' equipment coupled to the Burroughs equipment.

That equipment is on loan until December when the county expects to receive the new Burroughs equipment which will upgrade the system it currently has on line.

Commissioners Archer and Harold Davenport, who head the computer committee, have secured a one stop tag computer program from Jefferson County, free, which will be ready by the middle of December or the first of January.

By Friday -- the last working day in September and therefore a busy one -- Snowden already had personnel from the offices of the tax collector and assessor training his people on the new and borrowed equipment for one stop tag sales. This temporary system will have to be used until December, Snowden said.

"The problems are caused because the computer system is not designed (for one stop sales) and there have been a lot of problems with power on the computer. Surges keep knocking the computer out," Snowden complained.

Archer sees things differently.

"The computer is not the problem," he stressed. "They (the probate office) took on the new responsibility from the tax assessor's office which goes along with one stop tag sales, but their personnel were not trained in advance," Archer said.

"There is just no way a couple of girls can learn all there is to know about assessing in a week," he said, adding that Snowden "jumped the gun" on activating the new tag program.

"Sure, he (Snowden) would like to have the one stop tag program up and running now," said Archer. "But programming a one stop tag system is complex. It takes time."

Archer said that by training people now on the limited equipment on loan from Burroughs, Snowden is adding to the confusion that will come when the county gets its upgraded system in December.

"We are going to do all we can to help them (the probate office)," Archer said of his computer committee personnel. "Our people have and will continue to work with them."

Shelby student denied transfer to Elvin Hill second grade

The Shelby County Board of Education has denied the transfer request made by the father of a Shelby Elementary school pupil.

Richard Crader asked Thursday, that his second grade daughter be allowed to attend Elvin Hill Elementary School.

Crader's daughter is one of the second grade students placed in a first grade classroom at Shelby because the low enrollment in her class didn't justify a fulltime teacher.

In addition to being concerned about his child's education, Crader also pointed out that Elvin Hill also had a modern plant with heating and air conditioning.

When the request was denied by the board, Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox told the father, "We can't do it for you without doing it for all the other children who attend Shelby Elementary."

Another Shelby parent wanted to know about a report he had heard on the school being shut down.

"If larger schools are your answer, we want to know," PTO President Michael Hunt told the board.

"That subject has been around before I came on the board," remarked board chairman Barbara Whitman, adding that the subject was always brought up by the Shelby community and not the board.

She assured Hunt and other Shelby parents present at the meeting that there has been no discussion about closing the school.

However, it was Hunt's contention that a better line of communication was needed with parents so they would be aware of the board's intentions.

Blacks want on Helena council

by Bert Seaman
Johnny Deviner came to the all white Helena Council meeting Monday to ask that the town be divided into voting districts.

"I don't think we've had the representation we should," he said.

Under the ward or district system of voting, if one district is made up of a majority of black residents, it can result in the election of a black councilman from that district.

Telling Deviner that he didn't see anything wrong with the idea, Councilman Ron Erwin said he wasn't sure the town was big enough to be divided into wards.

Deviner reported that there are 250 blacks in the community and with a total population of 2,130, there would have to be 425 people in each ward.

Erwin contended that Deviner had as good a chance of being elected under the present system as he did.

But the black resident mentioned he had already run twice and lost, adding that the town was not nearly as large then as it is today.

"I wouldn't have much chance now," he pointed out.

Deviner said he was first asking local officials to act on his request, but if they didn't, the Justice Department would step in.

Since no one on the council knew what districting involves, it was agreed the issue be investigated and discussed at the next meeting.

Alabaster is the only city in Shelby County that presently has districting, but Montevallo is now in the process of going to that system of voting.

In other matters:

Although the council voted at its last meeting to issue Paul Cribbs a business license, residents showed up Monday asking that it be denied.

Margaret Lovelady told the council she had intended to be at the last meeting but had been mixed up on the date. Monday she claimed that Cribbs's business poses a danger to the neighborhood.

Cribbs operates Paul's Hideaway, an eating place/game room in the Helena Shopping Center which also sells beer.

Lovelady pointed out that people who were drunk were put out of the establishment, creating a disturbance in the neighborhood. She also said that cars in the parking lot have been vandalized.

The councilmen, however, were unsure what kind of proof would be needed in court if Cribbs's license were not renewed and he brought suit. They agreed to check with the city attorney about the matter.

"We're going to keep a close watch on what's going on there," Lovelady told the council.

"Maybe that will at least cause him to clean up his act."

The council also adopted a yard sale ordinance and voted to rezone property owned by Mr. William and Patty Scurlock from R-1 to A-2.

Candidates to speak

Candidates for the senate and house will speak at the October 11 meeting of the Indian Springs Civic Club Ladies Auxiliary.

Plans for the annual Christmas House tour will also be discussed at the monthly meeting scheduled to begin at 10 a.m.

The auxiliary meets at the Riverchase Family Medical Center on Riverchase Parkway.

Will county's 60 employees get raises?

Will Shelby County employees receive a $45 bi-weekly raise and keep their employee insurance benefits as is?

With the legal deadline for a county budget -- October 10 -- drawing near, the answer is anyone's guess. But it is certain that the decision lies in the hands of county commissioners.

The insurance and raise requests were made by Kenneth Walton, business committee chairman for the public works department.

"It would affect everyone. They (the county commission) don't do anything for one department unless they do it for all," Walton said.

Walton explained that his committee has no bargaining power. He also said he cannot give an adequate picture of the county employee wage situation because most are paid different wages.

"Really I have no idea of what the commission is going to do. I don't know what they have in the way of money," says Walton.

But the representative of 60 public works employees says the county will meet with all department heads on the issue. The date of that meeting has not been set.

Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden also cannot shed light on the wage situation for county employees.

"I couldn't guess what the commissioners are going to do," Snowden told the Reporter.

"We haven't decided anything but we have talked about different methods (for setting wages)," said County Commissioner Harold Davenport. According to him, some county employees are already making more than they would be in the private sector.

"We are trying to bring those who are not making much because of their jobs, into line. We are trying to get things balanced out," Davenport said.

The commissioner even said some county employees may have to be laid off because requests are exceeding revenues.

Davenport noted that while it would be nice to get $250,000 from the county hospital for funding of the mosquito program and mental health, that money would only prolong the problem of inadequate revenues.

Even though a budget must be approved by the first commission meeting of this month (October 10), Davenport vowed that "If we still have problems we will continue the meeting to the next go round, and until we have a good workable budget."

He said the only reason the county has been able to meet its budget this year is because some department have countered budget exceeding departments by actually spending less than appropriated.

Schools vie over limited funds

by Bert Seaman

Schools in Alabaster and Columbiana need a lot of things, but there's one little problem: money.

Teachers without permanent classrooms and a lunchroom schedule that begins serving students at 10:30 a.m. — these are only two of the problems that confront the Thompson school system.

At last week's county board of education meeting trustees for the Alabaster schools also pointed out the urgent need for a new high school.

Columbiana trustee John Jones presented the board a list of needs for schools in his community which will also require capital outlay funds.

Money budgeted for capital outlay was supposed to go to Thompson High School ten years ago, Thompson trustee Hershel Hale reminded the board.

"When a five-year plan was presented in 1981," he reported, "we (Thompson) were at the bottom of the priority list."

The high school, which was built in 1949, is unairconditioned and overcrowded.

"My father fought a paint and powder approach," declared Mike Kent, talking about the stand former board member Doug Kent took on renovating the high school.

Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox agreed with that point, saying, "anything spent on the present building is a waste of money."

Going on to talk about the elementary school — which is the largest in the county — Kent pointed out that students even have to be scheduled to use the bathroom.

Kent and Hale reported that seven trailers now serve as classrooms on the elementary school campus, and another pod is planned.

Lack of space has also forced the middle school to hold classes in two trailers. Two trailers are also at the high school.

Thompson trustee Don Latham told the board that his three children had gone through the Thompson system "with water leaking on their heads" because leaking roofs have plagued both the high school and middle school.

"We've got needs here no one else has the likes of!" Latham declared.

Reciting the needs of the Columbiana schools, Jones said the elementary school needed an indoor recreation area and more classroom space.

Jones reported that the most pressing need at the high school is for a new band room, while the middle school's most urgent need is for a bigger lunchroom.

Jones reported that the Southern accreditation study committee had cited some of the areas he mentioned when they visited the elementary and middle schools in the spring.

"We recognize your concerns and think you have been fair in pinpointing your needs," the superintendent told the trustees. But, he said, the board still does not know how much money will be available for construction this year.

Because of 10% proration at the beginning of the last school year, the board had to make cuts in some areas. This year, Glasscox explained, it will have to play catch up.

So even though proration has been eliminated for the 1983-84 school year, no official word has been received as yet on how much money will be coming to Shelby County.

Payne leaves post as commission secretary

After five years of work for Shelby County, commission secretary Alice Payne is hanging up her notebook.

September 30 was the last day of work for the 37-year-old who is reportedly leaving her job as part of a commission office personnel cutback.

"We are cutting back downstairs and we are reassigning the work load to take up the slack," explained Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden.

Payne, who is Snowden's sister-in-law, did not indicate that the cutback was behind her job's end, but Snowden called it a "layoff."

Payne simply stated that her husband (Curtis) is going into business for himself and that she will work as his secretary.

Until recently, Payne kept the minutes for the Shelby County Commission, filling in for former commission clerk Margaret Ray. The job has been handled lately by administrative assistant Myra Davis.

The Paynes have two sons, ages 14 and 11, and make their home in the Alabaster area.

Piano dedicated

Mrs. Dorothy Dobbins, left, of Portola Valley, California, visits with her sister, Mrs. Virginia Nichols of Columbiana, at the concert where the new Hamburg Steinway concert grand piano was dedicated to the memory of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Alton Crabtree. Mrs. Dobbins and her husband, Leslie, were the principal contributors to the fund for the piano, which will be permanently housed at the University of Montevallo for the use of faculty and students. The dedicatory concert was held Monday night in Palmer Hall.

Asbestos found at UM; maybe at public schools

by Bert Seaman

A study conducted at the University of Montevallo has determined there is asbestos in the ceilings of Napier and Fuller dorms. However, a crumbling substance which has been found in 17 Shelby County public schools is merely assumed to be asbestos.

The announcement of suspected asbestos in public schools was made by Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox at last week's board of education meeting.

He reported that remedial maintenance has been done until the substance can be removed — action that must be done by the beginning of the '84-85 school year.

UM officials say asbestos found on the campus will probably be removed next summer.

Although asbestos can cause cancer, public school students apparently have not come in direct contact with the suspect material since it is wrapped around boiler room pipes.

In addition to the dorm ceilings, traces of asbestos were also found on the UM campus in pipe wrapping high above the floor of Bibb Graves Hall, and in several unused places in three dorms.

If the dorm ceilings are not disturbed, campus officials don't think there is any danger of students breathing in the dangerous fibers.

In the public schools, actual lab testing for asbestos was conducted only at Pelham High School. That test showed that the substance in question is not asbestos.

In all the other schools, the substance is merely presumed to be asbestos.

The crumbling substance was found wrapped around certain pipes, and those pipes have been rewrapped to keep it from falling off.

Glasscox said that was done at Columbiana Middle, Thompson Elementary, Montevallo Elementary and Vincent High School.

Commenting that the cost of the project was more than it would appear, Glasscox said it irked him that the school system's allotment from oil and gas lease money had been cut $400,000 for the analysis done at only one school.

Maintenance technicians were not allowed to do the work, Glasscox said, reporting that the school system was required to use a firm trained in handling asbestos, as well as pay an architect to draw the plans for the removal and replacement of the pipes.

"We're at their mercy on what they charge," he noted.

The six county schools given a clean bill of health are: Elvin Hill, Riverchase, Shelby, Pelham High, Wilsonville and the Area Vocational Center.

The 17 schools where the suspect substance was found are: Calera High, Calera Elementary, Chelsea, Shelby County High, Columbiana Middle, Helena, Montevallo High, Montevallo Middle, Montevallo Elementary, Thompson High, Thompson Middle, Thompson Elementary, Valley Elementary, Vincent High, Vincent Middle, Vincent Elementary and the Center for Exceptional Children.

Calera extends fire coverage

by Fred Guarino

There was both good and bad news for residents of the Calera area Monday night.

The good news?

The council extended fire and rescue coverage to all areas within one and a half miles of the city limits.

The new area — approved with the adoption of a map presented by fire chief James Miles — takes in industries such as Blue Circle, Allied Products, Unique Industries, Portec (formerly Dixie Alloy) and Crusher and Screen Repairs.

In addition, over 300 homes will now have the option of protection. The council agreed to ask the state to help erect signposts to mark the area.

The bad news?

The council voted to pass on a 7.2% natural gas rate hike to citizens and industry. The hike results from a rate increase from Southern Natural Gas.

"We don't have no other choice," said a reluctant Council Member W. B. Watts.

According to information provided by City Clerk Lemoine Payton, the yearly increase for the city is from $12,021.75 to $20,495.

For citizens the increase for the 500 cubic foot minimum will be from $5.31 to $5.44; and from $5.14 per extra 1,000 cubic feet to $5.51 per extra 1,000 cubic feet.

For industry on all gas purchased the rate will increase from $4.47 per 1,000 cubic feet plus BTU adjustment to $4.81 per 1,000 cubic feet plus BTU adjustment.

The rates reflect a 37-cent increase over the present rates, and a 13-cent increase over the rates since the reduction last July.

The new rates go into effect during the October billing cycle.

In other action:

Mayor Carl Prichard was defeated by a 5-1 vote on an attempt to keep two previous budget meetings from being considered paid city council meetings.

Prichard reported that Calera High School has been notified that the city will withhold payment for paving a bus turn-around at the school unless it is used for busses instead of car traffic.

The turn-around was to be provided by the city to help relieve busses from having to unload and load on State 25, enabling them to pull directly onto Highway 31.

Richard Murphy of TAC CAN Cable TV had a close call in receiving authorization to change the channel package offered in Calera.

Instead of 12 channels for $8.25, the new package will be 18 channels for $12.50. Exempted will be senior citizens on fixed incomes who can prove a need to stay at the old rate and package.

The new package reduces by 95 cents the rates of 188 customers already getting 16 channels, and increases the rates of 69 customers by $4.25. The approval was granted on a 3-2 vote with Council Members Watts and Larry Farris opposed.

A request to keep a metal building at the old Calera landfill for fire department training was delayed until the next budget meeting.

Prichard told Fire Chief Miles that the council had decided to move the building to the city shop for storage. But the mayor ran into unexpected opposition from Councilmen Jeff Pilgreen and Watts, and matter was delayed.

At the next meeting Prichard will present several possible ordinances to enforce the removal of junk cars in Calera.

Although the council voted at its last meeting to issue Paul Cribbs a business license, residents showed up Monday asking that it be denied.

Margaret Lovelady told the council she had intended to be at the last meeting but had been mixed up on the date. Monday she claimed that Cribbs's business poses a danger to the neighborhood.

Cribbs operates Paul's Hideaway, an eating place/game room in the Helena Shopping Center which also sells beer.

Lovelady pointed out that people who were drunk were put out of the establishment, creating a disturbance in the neighborhood. She also said that cars in the parking lot have been vandalized.

The councilmen, however, were unsure what kind of proof would be needed in court if Cribbs's license were not renewed and he brought suit. They agreed to check with the city attorney about the matter.

"We're going to keep a close watch on what's going on there," Lovelady told the council.

"Maybe that will at least cause him to clean up his act."

The council also adopted a yard sale ordinance and voted to rezone property owned by Mr. William and Patty Scurlock from R-1 to A-2.

Candidates to speak

Candidates for the senate and house will speak at the October 11 meeting of the Indian Springs Civic Club Ladies Auxiliary.

Plans for the annual Christmas House tour will also be discussed at the monthly meeting scheduled to begin at 10 a.m.

The auxiliary meets at the Riverchase Family Medical Center on Riverchase Parkway.

Will county's 60 employees get raises?

Will Shelby County employees receive a $45 bi-weekly raise and keep their employee insurance benefits as is?

With the legal deadline for a county budget -- October 10 -- drawing near, the answer is anyone's guess. But it is certain that the decision lies in the hands of county commissioners.

The insurance and raise requests were made by Kenneth Walton, business committee chairman for the public works department.

"It would affect everyone. They (the county commission) don't do anything for one department unless they do it for all," Walton said.

Walton explained that his committee has no bargaining power. He also said he cannot give an adequate picture of the county employee wage situation because most are paid different wages.

"Really I have no idea of what the commission is going to do. I don't know what they have in the way of money," says Walton.

But the representative of 60 public works employees says the county will meet with all department heads on the issue. The date of that meeting has not been set.

Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden also cannot shed light on the wage situation for county employees.

"I couldn't guess what the commissioners are going to do," Snowden told the Reporter.

"We haven't decided anything but we have talked about different methods (for setting wages)," said County Commissioner Harold Davenport. According to him, some county employees are already making more than they would be in the private sector.

"We are trying to bring those who are not making much because of their jobs, into line. We are trying to get things balanced out," Davenport said.

The commissioner even said some county employees may have to be laid off because requests are exceeding revenues.

Davenport noted that while it would be nice to get $250,000 from the county hospital for funding of the mosquito program and mental health, that money would only prolong the problem of inadequate revenues.

Even though a budget must be approved by the first commission meeting of this month (October 10), Davenport vowed that "If we still have problems we will continue the meeting to the next go round, and until we have a good workable budget."

He said the only reason the county has been able to meet its budget this year is because some department have countered budget exceeding departments by actually spending less than appropriated.

In Alabaster and Columbiana

Schools vie over limited funds

by Bert Seaman

Schools in Alabaster and Columbiana need a lot of things, but there's one little problem: money.

Teachers without permanent classrooms and a lunchroom schedule that begins serving students at 10:30 a.m. — these are only two of the problems that confront the Thompson school system.

At last week's county board of education meeting trustees for the Alabaster schools also pointed out the urgent need for a new high school.

Columbiana trustee John Jones presented the board a list of needs for schools in his community which will also require capital outlay funds.

Money budgeted for capital outlay was supposed to go to Thompson High School ten years ago, Thompson trustee Hershel Hale reminded the board.

"When a five-year plan was presented in 1981," he reported, "we (Thompson) were at the bottom of the priority list."

The high school, which was built in 1949, is unairconditioned and overcrowded.

"My father fought a paint and powder approach," declared Mike Kent, talking about the stand former board member Doug Kent took on renovating the high school.

Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox agreed with that point, saying, "anything spent on the present building is a waste of money."

Going on to talk about the elementary school — which is the largest in the county — Kent pointed out that students even have to be scheduled to use the bathroom.

Kent and Hale reported that seven trailers now serve as classrooms on the elementary school campus, and another pod is planned.

Lack of space has also forced the middle school to hold classes in two trailers. Two trailers are also at the high school.

Thompson trustee Don Latham told the board that his three children had gone through the Thompson system "with water leaking on their heads" because leaking roofs have plagued both the high school and middle school.

"We've got needs here no one else has the likes of!" Latham declared.

Reciting the needs of the Columbiana schools, Jones said the elementary school needed an indoor recreation area and more classroom space.

Jones reported that the most pressing need at the high school is for a new band room, while the middle school's most urgent need is for a bigger lunchroom.

Jones reported that the Southern accreditation study committee had cited some of the areas he mentioned when they visited the elementary and middle schools in the spring.

"We recognize your concerns and think you have been fair in pinpointing your needs," the superintendent told the trustees. But, he said, the board still does not know how much money will be available for construction this year.

Because of 10% proration at the beginning of the last school year, the board had to make cuts in some areas. This year, Glasscox explained, it will have to play catch up.

So even though proration has been eliminated for the 1983-84 school year, no official word has been received as yet on how much money will be coming to Shelby County.

Piano dedicated

Mrs. Dorothy Dobbins, left, of Portola Valley, California, visits with her sister, Mrs. Virginia Nichols of Columbiana, at the concert where the new Hamburg Steinway concert grand piano was dedicated to the memory of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Alton Crabtree. Mrs. Dobbins and her husband, Leslie, were the principal contributors to the fund for the piano, which will be permanently housed at the University of Montevallo for the use of faculty and students. The dedicatory concert was held Monday night in Palmer Hall.

Payne leaves post as commission secretary

After five years of work for Shelby County, commission secretary Alice Payne is hanging up her notebook.

September 30 was the last day of work for the 37-year-old who is reportedly leaving her job as part of a commission office personnel cutback.

"We are cutting back downstairs and we are reassigning the work load to take up the slack," explained Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden.

Payne, who is Snowden's sister-in-law, did not indicate that the cutback was behind her job's end, but Snowden called it a "layoff."

Payne simply stated that her husband (Curtis) is going into business for himself and that she will work as his secretary.

Until recently, Payne kept the minutes for the Shelby County Commission, filling in for former commission clerk Margaret Ray. The job has been handled lately by administrative assistant Myra Davis.

The Paynes have two sons, ages 14 and 11, and make their home in the Alabaster area.

Asbestos found at UM; maybe at public schools

by Bert Seaman

A study conducted at the University of Montevallo has determined there is asbestos in the ceilings of Napier and Fuller dorms. However, a crumbling substance which has been found in 17 Shelby County public schools is merely assumed to be asbestos.

The announcement of suspected asbestos in public schools was made by Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox at last week's board of education meeting.

He reported that remedial maintenance has been done until the substance can be removed — action that must be done by the beginning of the '84-85 school year.

UM officials say asbestos found on the campus will probably be removed next summer.

Although asbestos can cause cancer, public school students apparently have not come in direct contact with the suspect material since it is wrapped around boiler room pipes.

In addition to the dorm ceilings, traces of asbestos were also found on the UM campus in pipe wrapping high above the floor of Bibb Graves Hall, and in several unused places in three dorms.

If the dorm ceilings are not disturbed, campus officials don't think there is any danger of students breathing in the dangerous fibers.

In the public schools, actual lab testing for asbestos was conducted only at Pelham High School. That test showed that the substance in question is not asbestos.

In all the other schools, the substance is merely presumed to be asbestos.

The crumbling substance was found wrapped around certain pipes, and those pipes have been rewrapped to keep it from falling off.

Glasscox said that was done at Columbiana Middle, Thompson Elementary, Montevallo Elementary and Vincent High School.

Commenting that the cost of the project was more than it would appear, Glasscox said it irked him that the school system's allotment from oil and gas lease money had been cut $400,000 for the analysis done at only one school.

Maintenance technicians were not allowed to do the work, Glasscox said, reporting that the school system was required to use a firm trained in handling asbestos, as well as pay an architect to draw the plans for the removal and replacement of the pipes.

"We're at their mercy on what they charge," he noted.

The six county schools given a clean bill of health are: Elvin Hill, Riverchase, Shelby, Pelham High, Wilsonville and the Area Vocational Center.

The 17 schools where the suspect substance was found are: Calera High, Calera Elementary, Chelsea, Shelby County High, Columbiana Middle, Helena, Montevallo High, Montevallo Middle, Montevallo Elementary, Thompson High, Thompson Middle, Thompson Elementary, Valley Elementary, Vincent High, Vincent Middle, Vincent Elementary and the Center for Exceptional Children.

Calera extends fire coverage

by Fred Guarino

There was both good and bad news for residents of the Calera area Monday night.

The good news?

The council extended fire and rescue coverage to all areas within one and a half miles of the city limits.

The new area — approved with the adoption of a map presented by fire chief James Miles — takes in industries such as Blue Circle, Allied Products, Unique Industries, Portec (formerly Dixie Alloy) and Crusher and Screen Repairs.

In addition, over 300 homes will now have the option of protection. The council agreed to ask the state to help erect signposts to mark the area.

The bad news?

The council voted to pass on a 7.2% natural gas rate hike to citizens and industry. The hike results from a rate increase from Southern Natural Gas.

"We don't have no other choice," said a reluctant Council Member W. B. Watts.

According to information provided by City Clerk Lemoyne Payton, the yearly increase for the city is from $12,021.75 to $20,495.

For citizens the increase for the 500 cubic foot minimum will be from $5.31 to $5.44; and from $5.14 per extra 1,000 cubic feet to $5.51 per extra 1,000 cubic feet.

For industry on all gas purchased the rate will increase from $4.47 per 1,000 cubic feet plus BTU adjustment to $4.81 per 1,000 cubic feet plus BTU adjustment.

The rates reflect a 37-cent increase over the present rates, and a 13-cent increase over the rates since the reduction last July.

The new rates go into effect during the October billing cycle.

In other action:

•Mayor Carl Prichard was defeated by a 5-1 vote on an attempt to keep two previous budget meetings from being considered paid city council meetings.

•Prichard reported that Calera High School has been notified that the city will withhold payment for paying a bus turn-around at the school unless it is used for busses instead of car traffic.

The turn-around was to be provided by the city to help relieve busses from having to unload and load on State 25, enabling them to pull directly onto Highway 31.

•Richard Murphy of TAC CAN Cable TV had a close call in receiving authorization to change the channel package offered in Calera.

Instead of 12 channels for $8.25, the new package will be 18 channels for $12.50. Exempted will be senior citizens on fixed incomes who can prove a need to stay at the old rate and package.

The new package reduces by 95 cents the rates of 188 customers already getting 16 channels, and increases the rates of 69 customers by $4.25. The approval was granted on a 3-2 vote with Council Members Watts and Larry Farris opposed.

•A request to keep a metal building at the old Calera landfill for fire department training was delayed until the next budget meeting.

Prichard told Fire Chief Miles that the council had decided to move the building to the city shop for storage. But the mayor ran into unexpected opposition from Councilmen Jeff Pilgreen and Watts, and matter was delayed.

•At the next meeting Prichard will present several possible ordinances to enforce the removal of junk cars in Calera.

NEAL DE PIANO AND PARENTS

Eagle aids NSCFD

The sheriff's department, the North Shelby County Fire District, and public utilities will all benefit from Neal DePiano's Eagle Scout project.

It's an up to date map of the fire district, showing all buildings and roads.

Working with fellow Scouts over a nine month period, DePiano researched, diagrammed, indexed, and printed the new map book.

The idea for the project stemmed from his work as a dispatcher for the North Shelby Fire District.

Now 18 and an engineering student at UAB, DePiano was one of the founders of Explorer Post 5 which the NSCFD co-sponsors.

The Eagle award was presented by Scoutmaster Doyle Kernea Sunday evening during a ceremony at Christ Church United Methodist.

Highlights of DePiano's Scouting career -- which began in 1973 as a Cub -- include attending the National Scout Jamboree where he was chosen patrol leader for the Birmingham contingent, and his election to the Order of the Arrow. He also hiked a 50-mile section of the Appalachian Trail with the troop.

Describing the award recipient as a young man "always in search of adventure," Kernea listed rappelling, spelunking and float trips as some of DePiano's favorite activities.

A 1983 graduate of Pelham High School, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Neal C. DePiano.

Under Courthouse Dome

Local Republicans are having a heyday with the way the Democrats chose their candidates for the House and Senate races.

Doni Murphy, Republican candidate for Senate district 14, which includes Shelby and parts of Bibb and St. Clair Counties, said "A lot of people don't realize what took place Saturday." He referred to the meeting of the Democratic Party's Executive committee which elected the candidates.

Murphy claims that the committee did not re-nominate such popularly elected veteran lawmakers as Reps. Rick Manley, Walter Owens, Jack Biddle, and Senator Lister Hill Proctor, because they did not vote down the line with the "Big Four" made up of the AEA, the Trial Lawyers Association, the ADC, and organized labor.

He charges that rank and file Democrats did not have the chance to choose their candidates because the party officials voted not to have a primary. Although Republicans voted for primaries, there was no primary in Shelby County, because only one Republican filed for each office.

Murphy's opponent is Frank Ellis, Jr., who is a member of the state Democratic Executive Committee.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member of the FDIC.

A letter in the mail:
Isloe B. Faust, Fairhope, Alabama, writes about the old days when she lived close to Mrs. Henry Wood. She says they plan to had their family reunion in Calera the 17th of September. The Busbys and the Alexanders and Milsteads and the Burnetts and Faustus and the Stonecyphers and more Busbys. I guess I never saw her, but for all these years she's been reading my stuff. Sometimes I wonder how many out there read it every week. Folks I'll never see maybe. But just knowing they're out there makes this business something special.

Tell me the why of this:
The first quarter of the Alabama-Vanderbilt football game was longer than the other three quarters.

One guy's opinion: That maybe this year's Auburn - Alabama football game will be something to remember -- either with a smile on your face or a frown from one ear to the other. There's one really good thing about it -- if I get beat I'll still have Frank Ellis and Hap Hatchett and Jim Davis and dozens more for my friends.

There's thorns on the rose bush too:
It sounded like a new station, music instead of yelling, and I was just outside of Woodlawn heading for Shelby. He said what the song would be. One of my favorites. And he played it. I was halfway to the Red Mountain Expressway. Then he began talking. He must have had a mouth as big as five-acre cotton patch. When he quit talking, and started to play another song, I was passing Leon Kelly's house, one mile outside of Columbiana.

Amy and I have been going to the football games at Shades Valley. Why? Because Betsy Coker, our grand-daughter, is one of the lovelies that parade up and down in front of the stands. I guess we have brought them good luck, since they haven't lost a game.

Bub Gordon and Herman Strong and I went dove hunting Tuesday. It was just like it was the last time I went, maybe three years ago. They fly faster than ever and always slip in behind a hedgerow and missing 'em is as easy as falling out of a tree.

Scrambled Eggs

by Bert Seaman

It's really amazing how quickly things can change.

Take the TV for instance.
My eyes were glued to the set the other day as a football team headed for the goal line.

After a touchdown run, I waited for the replay -- when suddenly the teams were wearing different uniforms and they were at mid-field.

I was dumbfounded for a minute. Then I realized my son had punched in another channel by using the remote control gadget.

This is something new for us, so it still takes me by surprise.

But unlike the TV gadget, I know my eye color couldn't have changed in what might be called the "twinkling of an eye." But I've suddenly noticed strange rims and designs in my orbs I never saw before.

This great discovery came as I tried to determine my season. In case there is anyone who hasn't heard about it, someone has come up with an idea to identify what colors look best on you, by classifying you as a season.

I've studied information on the subject very carefully, but I don't seem to fit into any of the four seasons.

Anyhow, the eyes seem to be one of the determining factors.

You're told to look for a gray rim around the iris. And much to my amazement, I have one -- but it looks blue to me. My daughter says green.

Another clue on your best colors is whether there are white flecks in the iris.

I found a flecky design all right -- but it's sort of a gold color.

Now gold they tell you, is supposed to be an undertone of some types of skin. If you're not gold, you might be blue.

I haven't been able to detect either shade. Maybe I'm an in-between season person.

Another way to tell your season is your hair color.

And that's something else that can change as quick as you can say "Jack Robinson."

I'm not talking about the color mind you -- I'm talking about what's "in."

And can you believe -- the magazines say that gray is in!

I decided several years ago to let nature go ahead and sprinkle on the gray. And now the world of fashion -- or whoever -- has given its stamp of approval to good ole gray.

But getting back to the way things can change in a flash, I'll tell you something that really did.

The dome light on my car has never worked since I bought it three months ago.

For some reason, I decided to test it as I motored along he other night. Lo and behold -- as if by magic -- a flick of the switch, and my car lit up!

Change is really what life is all about, isn't it -- whether it be swift or gradual.

This old world would sure be dull without it!

Letter to the Editor:

I am very sorry we overlooked your first renewal notice. Thanks for sending the second one.

You do cover the Shelby County news very good, and we enjoy reading it. We also look forward for it each week.

It's amazing of the change Shelby County has gone through in the last ten to fifteen years. I have been living at my present home on Lee Street in Pelham for 24 years, and I will have to say again it is amazing of the progress and tremendous growth Shelby County has gone through in just a matter of a few years time. And knowing what it was like before it all took place.

letter in the Shelby Co. Reporter should be brought to your attention. Let me remind you of major geographical problems with this lot. No. 1, The lot itself sits approximately 5 ft. below Co. Road 26 W. which forms a basin in both the front and back yard. No. 2, the Home itself is surrounded by a creek on 3 sides which are very shallow and readily overflow.

I have personally waded out into a very flooded front yard, and have been kept away from the back yard due to the strength of the waters current. Many times I have gone to bed wondering if by morning my bedroom would be flooded with water. It must be through the grace of God that you have not experienced such a flood during your residence in this house. For that be Thankful because such disasters has cost Shelby Youth Services & Attention Home much money, that could be used to help problem children of Shelby and surrounding counties. I feel personally that your apology would be in order. Seeing how that our claims have been documented by the media.

Sincerely

P.S. This letter is not to say that we are not appreciative of your father giving us the use of this house because without it there wouldn't be a home for children in this and other counties who are in need of supervision. But we can't control the water or the rain.

'Hooray' for stand

Letter to the Editor:

Hooray for the Editor's Editorial Comment concerning the recent Beat 13 incident whereby a voter was illegally permitted to vote.

Maybe, just maybe, this county has got a fighting chance of becoming a proud place to be from, if people such as this Editor, stand up for what is right and fair.

I agree wholeheartedly that poll workers should be made more aware of the law. It is the opinion of this writer that the county should make it mandatory for all poll workers to attend a training session. How can we, as poll workers, do the best of our ability if we do not know what the law is? We not only owe a responsibility to the people of this county, but a sworn duty, to ensure an election is run fair and square.

You have my full support Ms. Editor. You are just what this county needs and I congratulate you.

Press is defended

Letter to the Editor:

Since the founding of this nation, freedom of the press has been a fundamental tenet of American life. The economic freedom that has earned us such great bounty and the precious freedoms of speech and assembly would have little meaning or be totally nullified should freedom of the press ever be ended. There is no more essential ingredient than a free, strong, and independent press to our continued success in what the Founding Fathers called our "noble experiment" in self-government.

Today, as we survey the globe, we find increasing hostility to the principles of open communication. Both the governments of many nations and certain international organizations advocate or enforce policies alien to a free flow of ideas. This promotion of censorship reflects a manifest fear of the truth and deprecation of the great importance of liberty to human advancement.

The theme of this year's observance of National Newspaper Week, "A Free Press-Democracy's First Defense," helps focus attention on the essential role of a free press to the progress and development of democratic institutions. This occasion also serves as a reminder of the singular worth of a free press to the well-being of our country. As Thomas Jefferson wrote, "Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press."

Throughout National Newspaper Week, all Americans are pleased to note the many contributions of the men and women of our nation's press to the preservation of the First Amendment's guarantee of freedom of the press. Of forces shaping the destiny of our civilization, none is more crucial to our future than the responsible reporting and truthful analysis of the events of our era. I commend your dedicated efforts in pursuit of these goals.

'Conditions worsen with time'

Letter to the Editor:

I am writing regarding your Letter to the Editor in the Shelby County Reporter on September 29, 1983. I have been associated with the Attention Home since December 1982. We have been working extremely hard to make this place a place that the residents of Shelby County can be proud to say is a part of their county. We are here to help all children in the county get their lives back in the right perspective. If it had not been for your father's generosity, there might not have been a Shelby County Attention Home today. We are very appreciative of what your father has done for our kids by giving them a roof over their heads.

However, we can not prevent the rain and the flooding of this property. We have received help from several individuals in trying to alleviate the flooding problems, due to the publicity that we have received. We realize that the conditions may not have been this bad when ya'll lived here, but conditions do worsen with time.

We are very sorry that you feel the way you do, but we never intended to sound ungrateful.

Sincerely,
Jody P. Gothard

News from all around the county

MRS. TONY SEALES
the former Tammy Overton

Couple wed at Concord

Concord Baptist Church was the setting for the Sept. 30 evening wedding of Miss Tammy Maria Overton and Mr. Tony Seales. A reception followed.

Parents of the couple are Ms. Myrna Bentley Overton of Alabaster and Donald C. Overton of Birmingham, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn A. Seales of Alabaster.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bentley of Smyrna, Ga., and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Overton of Birmingham.

Cindy Grubbs of Birmingham served as maid of honor. Other attendants were Carolyn Hargett of Birmingham and Debbie Seales of Alabaster.

The groom is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Hitt, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seales, all of Alabaster.

The groom's father was his best man. Other groomsmen were Mike Brashier of Pelham, and Travis Harris of Alabaster.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of Thompson High School, and the bride attended Southern Institute in Birmingham.

After a honeymoon trip to Gatlinburg, the couple will reside in Alabaster.

by Iris F. Smitherman
Ashley Marie Franklin celebrated her 4th birthday on Oct. 2. Her kindergarten classmates helped her celebrate with a party featuring a Strawberry Shortcake decor on Sept. 30.

On Oct. 1 the birthday girl was honored with a party at her Alabaster home. Attending were her parents, Bob and Pat Franklin, her brother Joshua, grandparents - Mr. and Mrs. Myrtle Franklin, and her Aunt Joyce Franklin of Cullman.

The Friends of the Alabaster Library will sponsor a rummage sale this Friday and Saturday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the parking lot of the Alabaster Municipal Annex.

A professional ear piercer is scheduled to be there for both adult and children ear piercing. All proceeds will go toward purchasing children's books.

Congratulations to Jerry and Dixie Bice of Alabaster, who are the parents of a new son.

Jeremy Keith was born Oct. 2 at Brookwood Medical Center and weighed 8 1/2 lbs.

He is the grandson of Mary Vickery of Brantleyville, Tommy Bice of Columbiana, and Peggy and David Bailey of Pelham.

Mrs. Zada Reach was honored on September 29 with a party hosted by her daughter, Marie Pharr and her nieces.

The occasion? It was her 83rd birthday.

Attending the event were William and Ethel McDonough of Birmingham, George and Helen McDonough of Montevallo, James and Laverne Holsombeck of Alabaster, and the Lawley clan of Pea Ridge.

"It was the best birthday party I've ever had," smiled Mrs. Reach.

Epsilon Rho Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will hold a self-defense program on Oct. 10 from 6-10 p.m. at Thompson Elementary School.

The program will be conducted by members of the Birmingham Police Department and will be open to the public for a fee of $3.

For more information, call 663-1643 or 663-4974.

Mrs. Mary Ethel Boothe of Pea Ridge will celebrate her 86th birthday on Oct. 12.

This Friday night she will be treated to a birthday dinner at a Birmingham restaurant by her son, Charles Boothe and family, and her daughter, Mrs. Cecil Busby, as well as other friends.

The State of Alabama Ballet will host its auditions for "The Nutcracker" this Saturday, Oct. 8 at their downtown location on Birmingham Green - 412 20th St. No. (the old Joy Young Building).

Auditions will begin at 10:30 a.m.

This year "The Nutcracker" will be held December 15-18 and will be sponsored by Brookwood Medical Center.

For tickets call 252-2475.

Christopher Michael is the new kid on the block in Alabaster. He was born September 24 and weighed 9 lbs. 11 oz.

Parents of the new baby are Edwin and Cindy Herrington.

The United Way Agency in Montevallo will sponsor a sale this Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. featuring winter items such as wool coats, mens and ladies suits, and jackets for children. The agency is located on Middle Street.

Chelsea High School's marching band traveled to competition at Minor High School in Birmingham last week and returned home with 3 superior trophies.

The band is under the direction of Dane Lawley, and plans to attend competition this month at Thompson High School on Oct.

15, and at Vestavia High School.

Paintings by Elsie Lyle will hang in the lobby of Shelby Medical Center during the month of October.

Lyle is a self-taught artist and has taught painting for about 15 years. Before retirement, she was an Industrial Specialist with the Defense Department.

Happy anniversary to Leon and Violet Powell of Columbiana on Oct. 5.

A cookout at the Five C Farm marked the beginning of another Scouting year for the Vulcan Area Webelos and Cub Scouts in Pack 9.

Twenty boys and their families gathered for hotdogs and fixings on Sept. 30.

The boys showed their outdoor cooking expertise on an open fire, and the farm offered plenty of running room for the adventurous scouts.

The pack is sponsored by Christ the King Lutheran Church in Riverchase.

A-1C and Mrs. Stephen P. Schoonover are the parents of a new daughter.

Tiffany Marie was born Oct. 2 at Offutt Air Force Base in Omaha, Nebraska, and weighed 8 lbs. 1/4 oz.

Grandparents of the newborn are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Schoonover and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Puckett, all of Alabaster.

Happy birthday next Monday, Oct. 10 to David Moore of the Kingdom Community, and to Kathy Sorensen of Columbiana.

If you have any news of social interest, please call Iris at 669-3131 during office hours. Deadline: noon Monday.

STRAND THEATRE MONTEVALLO

Study club fetes 50th

The Montevallo Study Club will hold a 50th anniversary celebration Oct. 25 at Reynolds Hall on the UM campus.

A planning event for the big day was held Tuesday as club members met for a covered dish supper at the home of club president Mrs. Eugene Sledge.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. Justin Fuller, Mrs. Howard Best and Mrs. C.E. Binion.

All former club members will be invited to join current members at next month's celebration which will begin at 3:30 p.m.

Mrs. J.A. Kelley and Mrs. T.W. Lewis are co-chairmen of the planning committee.

Westover slates fall fest

The Westover Volunteer Fire Department is celebrating the change of seasons with its Fall Festival this Saturday.

According to publicist June Collins, booths will be set on the fire house grounds to sell arts and crafts, homebaked goodies, and barbeque. Drawings will also held for several large prizes.

Living up the air will be the music of the Brasher Brothers from Vandiver.

Furthermore, a beauty pageant will be held to crown Miss Westover. Entrants will range from toddlers to high schoolers, and more information on the pageant can be obtained by calling Sherry Gearld at 678-9666.

Booths may still be available to craftsmen, Collins said, and information can be obtained from Carol Wanninger at 678-6459.

All proceeds go toward funding the Westover Volunteer Fire Department.

Church News

Rev. Roy Auvenshine of Greenfield, Tenn. will be the guest speaker at revival services Oct. 9-14 at Concord Baptist Church.

Roger Smith, minister of music at Concord, will be the music evangelist.

Services will be held nightly at 7:30 and a nursery will be provided.

Pastor W. C. Tuten, cordially extends an invitation to the public.

Mt. Olive Baptist Church recently celebrated the anniversary of their Mass and Angelic Choirs.

The choir was honored by Wilton Mayor James Henson, who pinned a flower on the most outstanding choir member, Birdie Chappell.

Other awards given include best attitude - Dellis Williams, and the Rose of Love given to Eva Brown.

Angela Young was hostess for the event. Rev. Albert Jones is pastor.

The choir will be traveling to Marietta, Ga. on Oct. 9 to give a performance at a church there.

For information on the trip contact Durward Tolbert at 665-4286 or Bridgett Hudson, at 665-4002.

The Gleaners will be the featured singers at Calcs Baptist Church this Saturday night at 7 p.m.

Vincent opens house

Vincent Middle School recently held open house for students and their parents in the school library.

The movie 'Rikki Tikki Tavi' was shown, and an introduction of all teachers and staff members was given by principal Stanford Elliott.

Everyone is invited.

Shelby Church of God will be in revival Oct. 10-14 with Rev. B. L. Hamrick of Illinois as speaker. Services will begin nightly at 7. Rev. James Prince, pastor, invites the public to attend.

The regular 2nd Sunday afternoon singing is scheduled to begin at 1:30 at Mt. Era United Methodist Church on Oct. 9.

The Pathway Quartet of Birmingham will be the guest singers.

The church is located on County Hwy 26, and everyone is welcome to attend.

The First Baptist Church of Alabaster will be in revival Oct. 9-13 with visiting evangelist Rev. Eddie Martin as speaker.

Tom Atrial of Tarrant will be directing revival music.

Services will begin at 11 a.m. on Sunday and will continue weeknights at 7.

A nursery will be provided.

Robert Douglas Holt, a church music major at Samford University, will be installed as the Organist/Choir Director of Christ the King Lutheran Church this Sunday.

The special event will take place during the 10:30 a.m. worship service.

If you have any news of church interest, please call Iris at 669-3131 during office hours. Deadline: noon Monday.

WEATHER THE WORST.

Summer or winter, Gulf keeps your transmission running smooth.

Gulf Automatic Transmission Fluid, Dexron II, protects and cools during those long hard days on the farm. It also gets the power going fast when you're off to an early start on a frosty morning. Some torque converters and hydraulic systems can use Dexron II as well. We recommend it for the automatic transmissions of all vehicles built by General Motors, Chrysler, American Motors and some late model Ford passenger cars and light trucks. Gulf Automatic Transmission Fluid-Type F is a similarly high quality fluid for the automatic transmissions of vehicles built by Ford. It meets the requirements of all Ford vehicles which require a Type F fluid. You can get both of these fine products in quarts, 5-gallon pails or 16-gallon drums. Call us today.

It will be time to strike up the band when Montevallo Mania gets underway Saturday.

The Fire Prevention Parade which begins at 10 a.m. will feature bands, drill teams, floats and fire trucks.

All during the day spectators, shoppers and UM students will be able to buy arts and crafts from booths set up along Montevallo's Main Street.

The Mania event is also being held to welcome back students to the University of Montevallo.

There will be games, entertainment and food available throughout the day.

Montevallo merchants will have bargains for the Saturday shoppers who attend the annual event.

Sponsors of Montevallo Mania are: the Central Garden Club, the Montevallo Volunteer Fire Department and the Montevallo Chamber of Commerce.

One of the booths will be manned by students from Montevallo Middle School who plan to raise money for computer software by selling concessions. Their stand will be open from 7 a.m. - 5 p.m.

The character Lucy in the Peanuts comic strip offers psychiatric counseling for 5 cents.

But parents who attend the Oct. 11 meeting of the Montevallo PTO will get that service free.

A panel of three psychiatrists from Brookwood Adolescent Center will be on hand at the 7 p.m. meeting to answer questions submitted by parents.

Subjects the panel will discuss include: homework blues, sibling rivalry, and the communication gap between the generations.

The 7 p.m. meeting will be held at the elementary school.

Montevallo exults in key area win

by Fred Guarino

Friday morning a black rose was delivered to the Montevallo Bulldog football team.

All Coach Richard Gilliam and statistics keeper Cindy Holsombeck would tell the Reporter was that the rose arrived with a card signed 'Jemison

High School'. While Gilliam and Holsombeck stopped short of saying where the death omen actually came from, they were smiling over its effect on the Bulldogs.

Montevallo was seeing black when it came out that night and blasted Jemison 28-6 before an enthusiastic crowd.

Another incentive for Montevallo was the now former beard of assistant coach Bobby Pierson. He promised the 'Dogs that if they beat the Panthers he would shave!

But the Bulldogs really didn't need all of that hoopla. They knew that a win over Jemison would put them 2-0 in area competition and 5-1 on the year -- good enough for the lead in the Region 4, Area 7 title chase.

"It's a must win," quarterback Taylor Blackwell said prior to kick off. "They (Jemison) were over looking at Calera last week. You can't over look that they were looking forward to us."

With so much riding on the game, Gilliam made all his seniors into a captain squad -- Jeff Gentry, Barry Worthy, Rick Dobson, Blackwell, Dwayne Jackson, Jeff Chism, and Clyde Sailes.

Of all these things -- black roses, betted beards, playoff hopes, senior captains -- the major contributing factor to the outcome of the game was Jeff Chism's leg work. He accounted for 232 of Montevallo's 343 rushing yardage.

Chism had been averaging 5.3 yards/carry until he upped it to 7.1 yards against Chelsea. His 26 rushes against Jemison jumped his average again -- this time to 9.7 yards/carry. The Jemison game also brought Chism close to Thomas Brown's 1975 school record of 259 yards in a single game.

But Chism wouldn't take all of the credit. "I know we were prepared," the running star said. "Our line did an outstanding job keeping them back."

The game...

After swapping initial possessions, the Bulldogs decided it was time to take command.

Two plays after taking a Panther punt at their own 21, Chism cranked off a 79-yard TD run. Andy Chism missed the extra point but the Bulldogs led 6-0 and Coach Gilliam excitedly chanted, "That's a game breaker."

But it wasn't all. Lightning struck again.

Dwayne Jackson jumped on a fumbled Panther pitch, setting up another Chism TD run, this time from Jemison's 35. Chism's two-point conversion try was stopped short, but at 2:29 in the first quarter Montevallo led 12-0.

Montevallo kicked off to Jemison but again it was the 'Dogs who struck pay dirt.

Thompson shuts out Shelby County High

For Shelby County High School fans, at least the loss was by one point less than last year's 35-6 loss to Thompson. But don't try to console the Wildcats with that line -- not after the 28-0 whipping Thompson laid on them this year.

And don't try to console them with the fact that Luvell Bivins is only 160 pounds and not much taller than a small stack of footballs. In 14 carries the senior Thompson speedster racked up 260 yards rushing -- an amazing 18.6 yards per carry -- good for four touchdowns. (Actually, he scored five TD's, but one 76-yarder was nullified by a penalty.)

It's no consolation either that the drive back from Thompson field is less than 20 miles...

It was a solid shutout for Thompson and it upped the title questing Warriors' record to 5-1, while dropping the Wildcats to a 3-3 count. "They jumped on us real quick," said Wildcat coach Ricky Seale. "I thought we had a good effort and were ready to play. If I had to do it all over again, I wouldn't change a thing."

Seale did say that the Warriors "out blocked and tackled" his team -- as perhaps evidenced by Bivins' performance.

"I thought Kenneth Jones did a good job throwing the ball. We had some passes that should have been caught that weren't. Ambrose Wood did a good job rushing with over 60," Seale said, looking for something positive.

But while Seale was expressing his disappointment, Thompson's Coach Doug Wheeler was savoring the win.

"I was a little surprised we scored that number of points," Wheeler said. "We were expecting a little tougher game. They were playing well but we got some long runs that kind of took the wind out of their sails."

The wind started dying late in the first quarter when Bivins ripped 20 long yards for pay dirt. Gordon Kenney hit Preston Hansford with a two-point conversion pass that put the Warriors up 8-0.

With 13 second left in the first period Bivins let more air out of Shelby County's sails with an 81-yard sprint to put Thompson on top 14-0. The extra point failed.

In the second quarter Bivins kept up his roll by ripping 68 yards for TD number three. This time an extra point try by Randy Littleton was good and the Warriors led 21-0 at the half.

The nail in the Shelby County coffin came on a short four-yard run by Bivins which capped a fourth quarter drive. The point after by Littleton was good and the Warriors -- with their sails full of wind -- breezed to a 28-0 win.

Coach Wheeler credited senior quarterback/defensive back Kenney with a good night both on offense and defense.

He praised Randy Oswalt, David Grill, John Douglass and Homer Threath for a good job on the offensive line. On defense Wheeler had pats on the back for Stevie Hawkins and Chris Green.

On the year, Bivins has earned 593 yards on 56 carries for an average of 10.6 yards/run, as well as scoring nine touchdowns.

This week Thompson readies for homecoming festivities against Childersburg, while the Wildcats prepare to travel to Pell City -- from which they hope to have short, happy trip home.

Pelham defeats Fultondale

Pelham High School has finally tasted the sweet flavor of victory in 1983 football action.

The Panthers dropped Fultondale 22-19 last Friday night in an away game to notch their first win this season and to improve their record to 1-5.

Making the first win even better was the fact that it avenged a 17-0 loss at the hands of Fultondale last year.

"It's about time," laughed Pelham Coach Billy Tohill.

"It was real good because we needed a win," a happy Tohill went on. "Our kids needed it and everyone involved in our football program needed a win."

The coach also managed to make a point for his troubled team... hard work pays off.

"We had some good efforts and when you have enough good efforts, sooner or later good things are bound to happen..." Tohill indicated he's been trying to prove this philosophy all year long.

Realistically Tohill stated that he didn't know if one win is enough to turn a program around but, "it really does help our feelings."

The coach had praise for Ricky Hayes who he said did a tremendous job getting into the end-zone, and for Bryan Hughes' 60-yard pass reception. On defense, the coach named Danny Turner and Tony Jeffers as standouts.

The night got started as all too many Pelham games ended -- with the Panthers behind. But even though Fultondale drew first blood, Pelham was not about to let this one get away.

Hayes hit Hughes with a 72-yard bomb and Gary Howard booted the PAT to tie things at 7-up.

Fultondale, however, came back to take a 19-7 lead, which it still held going into the fourth quarter.

Then something happened. Pelham began playing like winners. Ricky Shiflett got the change going when he pounced on a Fultondale fumble at the op-

Will 'Dogs tie up area title?

With its stunning 28-7 win over Jemison, Montevallo is now in the driver's seat for the Region 4, Area 7, 2A football title.

The Bulldogs are now 2-0 in the area, while Chelsea, Vincent, B. B. Comer, Winterboro and Jemison all have losses.

But -- and this is a big BUT -- a big area game lies ahead for Montevallo this Friday in Vincent. The contest could have some serious area implications...

If Montevallo wins that game, its 3-0 area mark would just about lock up a playoff slot.

If the Bulldogs lose, then suddenly the driver's seat gets crowded with Jemison and Vincent nudging in with them.

Since Montevallo beat Jemison, a loss to Vincent would still give the 'Dogs an area edge over Jemison.

Vincent defeated B.B. Comer and Winterboro but lost to Jemison, so if the 'Jackets beat Montevallo, Jemison will still hold an edge on Vincent. That edge over Vincent would count heavily if things come down to a tie-breaker situation.

Of course if Montevallo wins this week, things won't be quite so complicated...

In 3A action Bibb County holds the edge in Area 8, Region 4 action -- but the race is both young, and tight.

Bibb, Thompson, Childersburg, and Sylacauga have all lost one game. Clanton, Pelham and Shelby County are playing for pride at this point.

Because Bibb beat Thompson earlier this season, unless they lose to an area team somewhere down the line, the Warriors will be left in the cold even if they win all of their remaining games.

Thompson, like Montevallo, is in a must win situation, starting this Friday with a homecoming bash against Childersburg.

In 1A action, Calera (1-0) in area action, is in good shape -- a condition the Eagles helped along by picking on a bunch of 2A foes.

Stick around and we'll all see how these things work out...

Lions pound Cedar Bluff to 21-6 defeat

Lion's den

Playing a full slate of public schools has been educating -- if not rough -- for Briarwood Christian this season. But last Friday night the Lions were the ones making things rough, and Cedar Bluff left the county on the short end of 21-6 beating.

The win upped Briarwood's record to 2-3, and a homecoming win over McIntosh this week could even out the Lions' keel at 3-3.

Against Cedar Bluff, things got off to a shaky start as the teams committed three turnovers in as many minutes of play.

But the Lions took control midway into the quarter, scoring on a one-yard Bobby Welch run. Welch warmed up his arm, set up the next TD with a long, play action pass, and Tommy Stoves rushed for the TD from five yards out.

Then, with :53 seconds left in the half, Briarwood's defense came up with the big play, suffocating the quarterback as he let go a pass. Ken Preston slapped the ball straight into the air, and a quick and agile Jeff Willis grabbed and streaked -- even for a lineman -- 50 yards down field before he was dragged down from behind.

As the clock ticked away the last handful of seconds in the half, Welch hit an air borne Jimmy Collier who landed with one foot in bounds inside the endzone. Brad Blan added his third straight

PAT, and the Lions blitzed into intermission with sudden 21-0 lead.

Cedar Bluff did not reach pay dirt until the fourth quarter, but did manage to keep Briarwood from scoring anymore.

"It was a big one for us," said coach Gary Fleming. "We've been kind of down. We had a couple of chances to be 3-1 this season," he explained.

Fleming felt good about the win because the opposition was actually "a better team" he said than at least one of foes that have beaten the Lions.

"They (Cedar Bluff) had a good team. We were glad to win," he said.

Fleming had praise for Bobby Welch at quarterback and Tommy Stoves who had to stay out of second half action but who ran nearly 70 yards. He also praised Keith Keller, a standout at defensive end who intercepted a pass near the end of the game.

Willis and Preston both earned praise for defensive work, especially on pass rushing.

"The game could have gone the other way," said Fleming in reference to the early pass interception and fumble his team coughed up. "But we didn't quit. I am proud of our guys for sticking in and playing well enough to win."

Vincent goes for title

The Vincent Yellow Jackets have good reason to welcome Montevallo to their backyard tomorrow night.

With a 28-6 victory over Winterboro last Friday night Vincent's second area win in a row -- the 'Jackets are in the hunt for a dark horse ride into the state playoffs. While Vincent only boasts a 2-4 season record, it is now 2-1 in area competition and a win over Montevallo would do wonders for the Yellow Jackets' title hopes, and turn a possibly disastrous season into something special.

"We were awfully pleased," said Vincent Coach Harold Garrett after the Winterboro game. "They were down with a 15 game losing streak but a win is a win for us... especially after what Montevallo did to Jemison."

"Montevallo has got to be the favorite," Garrett said of the area title picture. But, he added wryly, "Upsets have been known to happen."

In last Friday's action, the Yellow Jackets drew first blood against Winterboro via a 65-yard drive that Eddie Reynolds capped with a one-yard run. Reynolds added the extra point himself to give Vincent a 7-0 lead.

Vincent scored again on a 19-yard pass from Reynolds to Bruce Hamilton in the second quarter. Again Reynolds added the point after and Vincent led 14-0.

In the third quarter Vincent's Reginald Riggins scored on a four-yard run which was set up by a Jimmy White pass reception. The point after by Reynolds was good and the Yellow Jackets led it 21-0.

The last touchdown by the Yellow Jackets came with ten minutes left in the game. Cedric Riggins took a handoff, was hit at the line of scrimmage, but stayed on his feet for 57 yards, and a trip to pay dirt.

The point after by Reynolds was good again and Vincent was ahead 28-0.

Winterboro only managed to score a consolation touchdown with two minutes left in the game.

Vincent's victory formula -- rigged with Riggins -- called for either Cedric Riggins or Veron Kidd to play fullback, and either Reginald Riggins or Cedric Riggins to play tailback. Don't worry, it works for Vincent.

For the record, the Yellow Jackets beat Winterboro 30-6 last year.

Toss up

Tossing up the first ball during the University of Montevallo's first Hoopla Day is Thomas Martin, UM's Dean of Students. Jumping are UM players Karen Scott and Alonzo Williams. Hoopla Day was held Saturday at the Montevallo Middle School playground.

CVA steps backwards

It's been a long year for Coosa Valley Academy and all it did last Friday was get a little longer.

The CVA Rebels fell 27-3 to Southern Academy -- a team they beat last year 14-12. The loss lowers their standings to 0-5, and leaves the Rebels with the dubious distinction of being the only team in Shelby County without at least one win this (so far) this year.

"I would have to say the second half was the worst we've played all year," said a disappointed Coach Bruce Breland. "We had been getting better each week, but in this game we took a step back."

His only words of praise were for Bret Strickland's good job running and the field goal he kicked for CVA's only points.

At the time of Strickland's field goal, things looked hopeful for CVA with a 7-3 showing on the scoreboard.

Then the year suddenly grew two touchdowns longer in 44 seconds as Southern struck with back to back TD's. It added another in the third quarter to ice the ol' cake.

The Rebels must travel to Cahaba tomorrow night in search for their first win of the season.

Montevallo wins

Jackson, who apparently liked the reaction to his first fumble recovery, jumped on yet another loose ball near midfield.

"That's two I done got!" he shouted.

Moments later Barry Worthy ripped 47 yards for six points and the Bulldogs led 18-0.

This time a two point-conversion pass from Blackwell to fumble recovery specialist Jackson was good. Still in the first quarter it was Montevallo wearing the 'powerhouse' label and leading Jemison 20-0.

The Bulldogs struck for more big gainers by air and on the ground, but the score remained unchanged through the half. However, things didn't get much better for Jemison in the third period.

For starts, the Panthers' coach was penalized for arguing over a Montevallo equipment time. Too, with a fourth down and two situation at the Montevallo 17, Jeff Chism hit Jemison's Glenn Taylor so hard that the Panthers didn't get the first down and Taylor was hurt.

But Jemison would not be denied one score. A Bulldog pass was picked off by Panther Mark Childress, and on the next play Ross Thompson broke through a crowd and raced 60 yards to score.

The extra point was good for pride, but at 2:17 in the third period there was nothing Jemison was going to do to drop Montevallo.

Montevallo scored its last points in the fourth period with a possession that started at their own 41. Chism's hard running led the effort, with a gainer going 28 yards to the Panther eight.

Keith Moore showed his power for five yards, and on third down Chism -- of course -- plowed in from the three.

Blackwell earned the two point conversion and Montevallo cruised on to win 28-7.

"I can't tell you how proud I am of your effort," Gilliam told his team after the contest. "We started Monday and worked all week."

But Gilliam, a master of the dramatics, got his team ready immediately to go on the road.

"I want you to enjoy this one... savor it... but next is Vincent and if we were to win that one it would put us 90 percent there (for the area title)."

"We played outstanding," Gilliam told the Reporter. "What did us so much good was that we executed a game plan."

Apart from Chism's fantastic night, Gilliam noted Barry Worthy's outstanding job as linebacker. Worthy had nine individual tackles, four assists, and caused two fumbles.

"We had a game plan (for Jemison) last year but we didn't execute," Gilliam said remembering a disappointing 34-0 loss -- which in itself just might have added one more shake of incentive to a spicy night for Montevallo.

position's 30 yard line.

Moments later Hayes broke into the endzone on a four-yard blast. Tony Johnson hit Jackie Johnson for two points and the Panthers closed to within killing distance at 19-15.

Then Hayes pulled off what Tohill appreciated -- that ability to get into the endzone -- and wheeled off a 68-yard run. The point after by Gary Howard was good and Pelham, as they say, went on to win it 22-19.

This week Pelham seeks win notch two during its homecoming contest against Moody.

Devils ruin homecoming for Hornets

Wiggins wishes--

Homecoming was not all it was cracked up to be for Chelsea High School last Friday night.

The Hornets, who were looking for their second win of the season, ended up on the short end of an all to close 25-21 contest with Maplesville.

"We feel like we are not playing but half a game," said dejected Chelsea Coach Gene Hulsey. "Against Montevallo we did an outstanding job for a half. Against Maplesville we did nothing in the first half, then came back to play and make a game of it in the second half."

Chelsea started off decently against Maplesville with Jason Wiggins scoring an exciting comeback touchdown on a 91-yard kick off return in the first quarter.

The extra point by Mike Gragg was good and the Hornets took the lead, 7-6.

But Maplesville booted a 23-yard field goal, then scored on a 40-yard pass to take a 17-7 halftime lead.

The Hornets, however, put up a homecoming fight in the second half, starting with a 58-yard TD pass from Wiggins to Johnny Sands in the third quarter. Gragg's kick was good and the Hornets closed to 17-14 -- but only briefly.

Maplesville returned the ensuing kick off 86 yards to score. The two point try failed but the visitors led 23-14.

Chelsea came back to score on a five-yard pass from Wiggins to Scott Isbell in the fourth quarter but it just wasn't enough. Even with the point after good, the Hornets trailed 23-21.

A safety scored on the Hornets with two seconds left in the game didn't help the homecoming effort, and Chelsea went down 25-21.

To make the loss even harder to swallow for Chelsea, last year the Hornets beat Maplesville 18-9 for their first win in a long while.

Chelsea gets a good shot at its second win of the season when it hosts Winterboro this Friday. Winterboro, bringing with it a 15-game losing streak, could be a ripe target for a win-hungry bunch of Hornets...

Lightweight Panthers trounce Irondale team

The 95-pound defending AYFL state champion Pelham Panthers blasted Irondale 52-0 Saturday.

In a contest that was never close, quarterback Jimmy Hicks guided the Panthers to a 30-0 halftime lead.

In the first two quarters, tallies came on touchdowns scored by Scott Busby, George Golliday, and Robbie McCary with David Sanders.

In the second half, everyone got into the act with John Fant and McCary running for scores and McCary throwing to Brian Chambers.

On the day, the Pelham squad mounted 207 yards rushing and 29 yards passing behind the blocking of Slade Holladay, Domic Baldone and Jimbo Doyle.

Shutting down Irondale on defense were J. D. Charlton, Brandon Callahan, Mike Jeffers, Nathan Ingram, Sean Lee, McCary, Busby and Wade Evans, who also grabbed an interception to ice the cake.

Coach Bill Fant noted the defensive play of Chris Cadwell, Eric Horton and Deric Shroyer as well.

Two members of the state championship team, Todd Miller and Jeff Sciascia did not see action due to injuries.

Raider court

are left, on the front row, Lisa Silvani, and right, Renee Vance and Julie Patterson. On the back row, l-r, are Tanya McDaniels and Lee Harris.

Royalty

Chelsea's Homecoming Court was presented to Hornet fans in pre-game ceremonies Friday evening. Sandy Bearden, 4th from left, was crowned queen of this year's event. Her attendants are: (l-r) Karen Sapp, Laney Walton, Kelly Kelton, Andrea Sapp, Chera Langner, and Tracey Massey.

Baseball, volleyball, golf

After two years of professional baseball, Bob Hendershot has returned to his alma mater, the University of Montevallo, as assistant baseball coach.

Hendershot, 24, who spent the last two summers playing for the Utica Blue Sox of the Class A New York-Penn. League, will assist Head Baseball Coach Bob Riesener. He is back at UM pursuing a master's degree in guidance and counseling.

The Blue Sox won the league pennant last year with Hendershot batting .302 with 14 home runs and 51 RBI. His first year he hit .319 with 14 homers and 48 RBI. The Utica club is owned by comedian Bill Murray and his brother, Brian Doyle Murray.

When Hendershot was a UM Falcon, he was twice named All-Conference and All-District. In 1981 he was Most Valuable Pitcher and Most Valuable Player. Hendershot's home is Auburn, NY, where he was graduated from Auburn High School.

The UM's volleyball team has struggled so far in the 1983 season and comparisons between this year's team and last year's squad which finished seventh in the NAIA are rising.

Last year's netters got off to a slow 11-7 start while this year's team has started out 10-8.

"At times we play as well, if not better, than last year's team did at any point during the season. But, then at other times we look terrible," said UM volleyball coach Bev Warren.

Inconsistency is the key word to describing this year's team. At the recent UT-Martin Tournament the Lady Falcons opened up by beating a tough Southeast Missouri team, then dropped matches to Arkansas State.

"If we could just maintain a constant level of intensity we would be alright," said Warren. But, it's a long season and we have plenty of time to get our act together. If we can just improve every week we will be in good shape. This team has as much talent as any team I have been around."

Next up for the Lady Falcons are home matches against Mississippi University for Women and UT-Martin this Saturday at 10 a.m. and Troy State next Tuesday at 7 p.m. and a road match at Jacksonville State on Wednesday at 7 p.m.

The Montevallo Falcons golf team started off the 1983-84 season with a strong second place finish at the Hart Invitational held at the Cullman Municipal golf course and the Terri Pines Country Club (Sept. 23-25).

The Falcons posted rounds of 302-292-295 for a three day total of 889, 14 strokes back of Limestone College from Gaffney, SC.

Montevallo was paced by Mark McMeen, who captured medalist honors with rounds of 70-72-74 for an even par 216. Mike Craw joined McMeen on the All-Tournament team shooting rounds of 74-78-71 for a 223 score.

Other Falcons scores were Don Hancock 77-74-73 for 224 total, Harold Breen 81-70-77 for 228, Chuck Wood 81-76-79 for 236, and Steve Fair 83-77-79 for 239.

Next up for the Falcons is the North Alabama Classic (Oct. 6-7) at the McFarland Park golf course in Florence, and the Nashboro Village Collegiate Classic (Oct. 10-11) at the Nashboro Village golf course in Nashville.

were noted by Kervin as outstanding defensive performers. Dunaway and Weis got nine tackles each and both made six solo hits.

On offense, the coach noted Carl Ray for his 94 yards rushing and Vince Pickett for his fine blocking.

This week things aren't letting up much for the 1-5 Raiders as they travel to Bessemer Faith to play what is probably the strongest team on their schedule. It doesn't help any that Friday night is Bessemer Faith's homecoming.

Then again, teams have been known to lose homecoming games...

The Pelham Athletic Booster Club will officially dedicate the new Pelham High School field house Saturday, October 9 from 2 to 4 p.m.

Three young Warrior teams notch wins

The youth football Thompson Warriors recently took clean sweeps in 120, 105, and 70-pound action.

The 120-pounders defeated Bessemer 27-6 on two touchdowns scored by Big John Woody and two touchdowns by Dwayne Payton.

Woody reached pay dirt on runs of 20 and 75 yards while Payton hit the endzone on runs of 70 and 25 yards.

Woody also accounted for two extra points along with Andy Lackey who earned two as well.

On defense, Ronnie Roan and Brian Bunn provided touchdown saving tackles while Chad Ingram and Woody each sacked the Bessemer quarterback twice.

Now 3-0 on the year, the 120-pounders face Gardendale this week.

The 105-pound version of the Warriors ripped Shades Mountain 41-13.

Touchdowns were scored by Lee Weeks and Jeremy Perkins and extra points were provided by Jake Bishop, Weeks, and Perkins.

Defensive standouts were Jimbo Nipper, Chris Maynard, Chris Bunn, Scott Queen and Chad Horrell.

Now 3-1 on the season, the 105-pounders will tackle Pleasant Grove this week.

Thompson's 70-pound Warriors won a close 6-4 game over Gardendale.

The only touchdown came on a pitch out from quarterback Fant Ivester to tailback Mark Lucas who ripped 20 yards. Gardendale scored on two safetys.

Defensive standouts were Bobby Nadler, John Murph and Justin Shores.

Now 3-1 on the year, the littlest Warriors face Pleasant Grove this week.

Card check

Jason Mantooth stops on one of his 30 rounds of the CF bike-a-thon course in Helena to let checkers mark his card. Over 20 riders participated in the event sponsored by the Helena Jaycees.

Helena holds bike-a-thon

Bryan Jackson chalked up 34 miles Saturday as he pedaled around the mile-long Helena course at Saturday's bike-a-thon for Cystic Fibrosis.

The Riverchase student topped his last year's record by four miles.

Helena Jaycees, this year's event sponsors, hope to top the $1,800 the Helena PTO raised during the event last year. Bike-a-thon Chairman Grover Jackson said that pledges are being collected this week, and the total will be announced later.

Everyone who participated in the bike-a-thon received a T-shirt. When winners are determined, prizes -- which include a 10-speed bicycle -- will be awarded.

Riders who made over 30 laps of the course were: Kenneth Wild, 10, 32 miles; Mike Coyle, 11, 30 miles; Jason Mantooth, 10, 30 miles.

Nine-year old Jeff Jackson came close to the 30 mile mark with 28 laps.

The youngest rider in the event only made one round -- but that was quite an accomplishment for two-year old Joseph Bagley who pedaled a Smurf cycle.

Something looked fishy

by David F. Moore

Something about the car looked suspicious. Perhaps it was the 26-foot aluminum mast that was wrapped in a sail and tied to the roof, and the fact that the car was pulling out of the woods in Alabaster at 12:20 a.m....

At any rate, according to Alabaster Sgt. Larry Rollan, "we figured something was wrong."

Rollan was apparently right. Two men are now in the county jail on $150,000 bond each.

William Eaton, Jr., 33, of Columbiana is charged with receiving stolen property and violation of the state drug laws. Steven Craftin, 26, formerly of Florence -- and who has been living in a tent in the Alabaster woods -- was charged with receiving stolen property.

Now Alabaster police are trying to figure out who owns all the loot they recovered.

Rollan said the case unfolded this way:

Sgt. Frank Page noticed Eaton -- with the mast and sail on his car -- pulling out of the woods near Briarcliff Nursing Home early Saturday morning. After questioning the suspect, the police concluded that the mast and sail (valued at $1,900) had been stolen in Alabaster on September 6.

Eaton led Page and Rollan to his house in Columbiana on State 25 near Summer Hill where they found an apparently stolen weed eater, chain saw, outboard motor and rods and reels. Police say Eaton told them he got them from Craftin.

While they were at Eaton's house, Rollan and Page also found seven five-foot marijuana plants.

Back in the woods of Alabaster, Rollan and Page found Craftin asleep in his pup tent, and arrested him.

"We need people in Alabaster to check their boats and sheds and see if something's gone," Rollan told the Reporter. "We figure they just haven't noticed it missing yet."

For more information, call the Alabaster police at 663-7401.

New projector

Rummage sales and contributions have enabled the Friends of the Library to buy a 16mm film projector for the Scott Library in Alabaster. Library officers admiring the new projector are (from left) 2nd VP Janice Clark, president Reba Hatcher, treasurer Marsha Myers, board chairman Nancy Ellison, and (seated) library assistant Ruby Payne. People interested in supporting the facility can inquire at the library about joining the Friends.

United Way shoots for $275,000

The United Way spent some $867,593 in Shelby County, helping people in need.

This year Shelby citizens have been challenged to raise $275,000 for the 1983 United Way Campaign. The goal is only a portion of the $10,345,000 to be collected in the three-county area which includes Jefferson, Shelby and Walker counties.

Shelby County Division Chairman Jerold DesRoche of Construction Engineering notes volunteers are a vital part of the United Way fund drive. Without the help of the people who give of their time to help others, United Way would not be able to help the hungry, sick, depressed, lonesome and aged who need help so much, he says.

DesRoche's volunteers are being led by two loaned executives that will be working full time during the eight-week campaign: Faith Mitchell of South Central Bell and Tony Carter of Blue Cross & Blue Shield.

Section Chairmen include Honorable Thomas A. Snowden, Jr., Shelby County Probate Judge; Joy Peacock, Alabama Power Company; Les Lewis, Moore-Handley, Inc.; Billy Ray Lawson, Alabama Power Company; Harry Coleman, South Central Bell; J.F. Glasgow, Sheriff of Shelby County; and Bruce Flynn, Alabama Power Company.

DesRoche emphasizes that the county receives much more funding from the UW organization than our required "fair share" donations.

As part of their program to raise funds, Combustion Engineering, Inc. is sponsoring the first United Way TopOff Run on October 29, at Inverness Center. The event will "top off" the eight-week campaign with a fun-filled day where serious runners can enter a 10K (6.2 miles) event and the not-so-serious runner can participate in the "Monster Mile" fun run in their favorite Halloween costume.

There are 48 agencies which fall under the United Way umbrella. The Red Cross, the YMCA, a workshop for mentally retarded adults, a day care center, the Montevallo Service Center, Project OTHER and the Food Bank are all beneficial to the community.

In the past two years, the American Heart Association and the American Cancer Society have been added to the list of agencies supported by United Way. Before, these agencies had held their own individual fund drives. Now, along with the 48 other UW agencies, the public is asked for their support once each year rather than having each seek support individually.

"So, when a United Way volunteer comes to your business or home, give your 'Fair Share,' DesRoche says. "Thanks to you it works."

Carl Jr. becomes Rescue 88's first delivery

by David F. Moore

Carl Junior was a first for Rescue 88 -- not to mention his two 'midwives.' But none of that seemed to matter at the time...

Carl Junior's story actual started some nine months ago and centered around his young Wilsonville parents, Carl Whitner and Aleata. Until early last Sunday morning, apparently not much happened except that 24-year old Aleata gained a few pounds.

About 3 a.m. Carl Junior -- although no one was yet certain that name would fit -- got restless and Mom decided it was high time to head to Shelby Medical Center.

As his parents drove through Wilsonville, it became apparent that Carl-to-be was, in fact, VERY restless. His father stopped at a pay phone and called the sheriff's department, which in turn set off beepers to notify the volunteer members of Rescue 88. The Harpersville Ambulance Service was also notified, as well as area police.

Third level paramedic Gene Sasser was the first to reach the Wilsonville pay phone, followed shortly by Rescue 88 Chief Larry Ray.

By 3:45 Ray said the very-soon-mother-to-be was speeding towards SMC in the ambulance along with Sasser, driver Jimmy Gill, assistant Richard Waldrup and himself. Whitner followed in his car while a deputy sheriff led as an escort.

As the group reached Columbiana, Ray said someone noticed that Whitner was no longer trailing the ambulance. He was soon picked up by lawmen back at Cates Cross Roads on State 25 where his car had run out of gas...

"We felt like we didn't have time to get to the hospital," Ray later told the Reporter. As it turned out, he was right. None of the hoopla involved in getting him to SMC impressed -- or quieted -- or slowed down -- the restless Carl Junior.

Between Columbiana and US 31 the ambulance stopped in the middle of State 70 and at 3:55 the eight-pound, four-ounce youngster made his entrance into the world.

"It was pretty exciting," Ray said. "Gene was doing the main delivery... I was basically watching."

Little did Little Carl know or care that in Sasser's eight years of rescue experience, he had never delivered a baby. Neither had Ray, nor, for that matter, the 14-month old rescue squad.

"I wouldn't want to do it every day," Ray observed, "but it's a rewarding experience. It's a lot different than watching one leave this world..."

Carl Junior was unavailable for comment, but Ray said the family had already returned home by Sunday evening and was doing fine.

In education

Mediocrity prevails

About 150 people assembled at the University of Montevallo Tuesday to hear a program billed as "What's Right in Public Education in Alabama today."

But despite the emphasis on 'what's right' the morning session was devoted to reports that show 'what's wrong'.

Susan Trainman of the U.S. Department of Education outlined the recent report of the National Commission on Excellence in Education, which found that mediocrity prevails in the education system, but that "We don't have to put up with it."

Erskine Murray of the Alabama Dept. of Education spoke on the report from the Southern Regional Education Board. He mentioned that educators are discussing the possibility of extending the school day or the school year to provide more education for the students.

Carlton Baker, a vice president with South Central Bell, and member of the Council of 21, spoke on the findings of that council when it investigated higher education in Alabama this year. Long range planning to provide cost-effective education and avoid unnecessary duplication in the state's higher education institutions was one of the recommendations of the Council.

The afternoon sessions were devoted to educators' and staff officials' responses to the calls for reform.

The audience was made up of University of Montevallo faculty and staff, principals from several county high schools, a few county superintendents, and several UM students.

Alabaster lights US 31

One could say it was a bright night it Alabaster Monday.

On a vote of 3-2 the city council agreed to light US 31 from I-65 to the Pelham/Alabaster city limits.

The council also passed a five percent across the board pay raise for all city employees as a part of the $1,546,719 budget it approved for the 1983-84 year.

Voting in favor of lighting the highway, which requires at least 64 lamps at an estimated cost of $500 per month, were Calvin T. McCune, Willie Arrington and L. O. Farris.

McCune's vote represented a reversal of his original position on the issue.

Opposed were Jack Reagin and Glen Naish.

Regain expressed his earlier support for lighting the highway only from State 119 to the interstate.

"I was definitely for it," said Mayor H. A. 'Doc' Rubin, who did not vote.

The 1983-84 budget approved is $41,181 over the 1982 figure of $1,505,538.

The break down is as follows:

Administration, $253,378; fire, $247,950; police, $434,470; sewerage, $241,475; utility, $31,600; sanitation, $154,488; recreation, $18,140; streets, $161,603.

According to Rubin, the budget is based on a very conservative estimate of projected revenues amounting to $1,546,719.

Tieing on shoes

Calera third graders Tina Orona and Wayne Gottier watch ballerina Monica Barnett tie the ribbons on her toe shoes as she gets ready to dance with the State of Alabama ballet company. Several members of the troupe performed for students at the school Monday.

Dancers perform at county schools

Elementary and middle school students will get a taste of ballet this October -- thanks to the Arts and Humanities Council of Shelby County, The State of Alabama Ballet and assistance from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Each 30-40 minute lecture/demonstration will feature four or five dancers (at least one male) who will give examples of how a dancer trains, and a short pas de deux.

The Alabama State Council on the Arts and Humanities is also assisting in the county-wide program.

The programs will be held throughout the month in various communities, with separate morning and afternoon sessions at different schools.

DID YOU KNOW?

Your color TV set exposes you to about 1,000 times more radiation than a nuclear power plant.

A color TV set exposes you to about 1 millirem (a unit of radiation measurement) per year. One coast-to-coast jet flight, about 5 millirems. One chest X-Ray, about 50 millirems. And a nuclear power plant, only about 0.001 millirem per year. Small wonder then, that nuclear power plants rank at the bottom of any list when it comes to sources of radiation exposure. And at the top when it comes to clean, safe, efficient energy. That's a fact that you should be exposed to.

LEGAL NOTICE
Notice of Publication of Bill Filed and Proceeding in Rem to Quiet Title of Real Estate
Southern Haulers, Inc. Plaintiff, vs. Certain Land and Charley C. Jeffries, et al., Defendants.
In the Circuit Court of Case No. City of Shelby County, Alabama at 24-248(6).
To: The following described land situated in Shelby County, Alabama: The Northeast Quarter of the Northeast Quarter of the Southwest Quarter of Section Four, Township 22 South, Range 2 West which lies South and West of Interstate Highway 65 in Shelby County, Alabama; and all heirs at law, next of kin, and devisees of Charley C. Jeffries, Charles Jeffries, Abe Brown, Katie Jeffries, and Charlie Jeffries, whose names are unknown to the Plaintiff after a diligent search and any and all other persons firms or corporations who may claim an interest in and to the above described property.
Take notice that Southern Haulers, Inc., has this day filed their verified complaint in said Court against the above named Defendants and against any and all persons claiming any title to, interest in, encumbrance upon the above described real estate or any part thereof or interest therein, and against all other persons, and against said Plaintiff, in and to the above described land and the same and to clear up all doubts and disputes concerning the same and that said suit is not pending in said Court.
The Plaintiff alleges in said complaint that the title to said land stands in the name of the Plaintiff on the records in the Office of the Judge of Probate of Shelby County, Alabama, and said Plaintiff further alleges that Plaintiff claims title to said land through and by virtue of a deed recorded in Deed Book 85, Page 512 in the Probate Office of Shelby County, Alabama; that during the time of Plaintiff's ownership, it had been in actual, peaceable, adverse possession of said lands claiming to own the same, and that title to said lands has stood in Plaintiff's name on the records in the Office of the Judge of Probate of Shelby County, Alabama, for more than ten years prior to this date. The Plaintiff and their predecessors in title have assessed taxes on said lands and have paid the same for each year; and that no one else has paid the taxes on said real estate for said period of time except the Plaintiff and their predecessors in title and that no one has been in possession of said lands or any part thereof since 1927, except the Plaintiff and their predecessors in title.
The Plaintiff after most reasonable and diligent search and inquiry were unable to locate the following named persons to determine whether or not they are living or dead, and if living, what their ages and addresses are, the names, ages and addresses of their heirs or devisees, and that the same are unknown to the Plaintiff, said persons being as follows: Charley C. Jeffries, Charles Jeffries, Abe Brown, Katie Jeffries, and Charlie Jeffries, and their heirs or devisees, if deceased, and that the names, ages and addresses of any other parties who may claim an interest in or to the above described property, are unknown.
It is, therefore, ordered by the undersigned Clerk that publication of this notice be made in the Shelby County Reporter, a newspaper published and having a general circulation in Shelby County, Alabama, once a week for four consecutive weeks, and that all those to whom this notice is addressed and any and all persons claiming any title to, interest in, or lien or encumbrance upon, the above described real estate, or any part thereof, or any interest therein, and they are hereby required to plead, answer or otherwise defend this cause within the time required by law, and not later than 14 days after the date of this notice, certified by the undersigned Clerk, as being correct, shall also be recorded as a lis pendens in the Office of the Judge of Probate of Shelby County, Alabama.

Done at office this 14th day of September, 1983.

MEMORY

IN LOVING MEMORY OF

JARRITT ISAAC STONE

January 14, 1962-October 7, 1982

I remember my pride and my amazement each day I spent watching him grow.

The joy that I felt the first day he crawled was like none I shall ever know.

I remember that little red-headed boy and I wonder where he has gone.

Don't worry about him I heard them say...

The Father has taken him home.

On no, that can't be, I shouted in pain, not the boy with the hair so red, I can still see him playing and laughing; I just can't believe that he is dead.

On no, they said, little children don't die, because in them sin is not known.

Don't worry for him, he lives somewhere else.

The Father has taken him home.

Stephens, K. Stone, Father Jeannine F. Stone, Mother

IN MEMORY OF

MICHAEL TODD CHAMPION

Who Died October 4, 1982

Just Away

We cannot say, and we will not say

That he is dead - he is just away!

With a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand,

He has wandered into an unknown land,

And left us dreaming how very fair

It needs must be, since he lingers there.

And you - O you, who the wildest yearn

For the old time step and glad return,

Think of him faring on, as dear

In the love of There as the love of Here;

Think of him still as the same, I say:

He is not dead - he is just way!

A thank you in remembrance of J.B. Dunlap.
Thank you, Rev. King, for your help and devotion.

And thank you to the churches and loving friends and neighbors for the food and flowers, which were greatly appreciated.
Hazel Dunlap

Card of Thanks
We want to thank each of you, who showed us so much kindness and concern during the illness and death of our dear sister, Ruth Dorough. Especially do we thank the ladies of Four Mile Baptist Church, who furnished all of the delicious food, and the ladies of the church, who inspired words. We are indeed grateful. May God bless each of you in our prayer.

Vocational students train for future

by Carolyn Smiley

Shelby County's Vocational Center has a lot going for it. That's the opinion of the center's counselor Willie Akridge, as well as school administrator Dan Acker and the instructors there.

To begin with, 650 students attend the center from seven high schools in Shelby County.

Thompson, Pelham and Vincent account for 330 students while Montevallo, Calera, Chelsea and Shelby County account for 320.

Thompson High School is best represented with 170 students enrolled.

The students participate in some 20 different programs which are based on the needs of the county, according to Acker.

"Out of the 116 area vocational schools in the state, we're in the top five as far as what we have to offer and the number enrolled," Acker says.

There are three sets of business and office courses including computer studies.

In addition, students may take:

Drafting, child care, health occupational courses, air conditioning and refrigeration, tv, radio and industrial electronics, masonry, construction, welding, auto body and mechanics, horticulture, small engine repair, graphic arts, and cosmetology -- as well as merchandising and educational resource courses such as math and English.

The Shelby County Board of Education started the center in 1971 with Charles Knowles as its first director.

The center is funded with state and federal money.

To make sure the money is spent in productive ways, Acker explains that surveys are made to determine the need for each course. To justify itself, a course must draw at least 25 students to each morning and afternoon session.

Students are urged to have career objectives in mind when they come to the center, Acker says.

"By placing students (in their desired fields) we make sure they follow through. If someone is going to be a secretary and they are taking cosmetology, we're wasting our time. But," he adds, "I think we've been very successful."

The state board of education requires vocational centers to place 50% of their students in full-time jobs.

Acker says the Shelby County center has averaged placing 65%-75% of its students in fields related to their studies over the past three years.

Furthermore, the center's distributive education program (which combines schooling with part-time jobs) can boast 100% placement for its 45 participants, according program director Betty Fulton.

Students are introduced to the Vocational Center in the tenth grade by way of school tours to the facility.

"They go through all departments and the instructors tell them about the courses," says Akridge.

Students who decide to attend the center next meet with their school counselors and Akridge in order to make arrangements.

The full-time students spend half the school day at the center and the other half at their own high school taking required subjects such as English and history.

Center gets good grades

When it comes to report cards on the success of the Shelby County Area Vocational Center, employers are turning in some good grades.

Jim Strickland, who hires students from the center to work in his department stores in Columbiana and Pelham, is pleased with the "go-getters" he gets.

"They go to school in the morning and come in at lunch," Strickland says.

"We are obligated to work (the students) from noon until 3 p.m., but generally they work until closing time."

"Really, we feel like they are above average because they want to work in the first place and they are go getters. They are hungry to work," he adds.

Strickland says the work program exposes students to the real business world and gives them a chance to earn money. His stores are continuing a ten-year tradition of hiring vocational center students.

Strickland also notes that it's good business to hire the students from another standpoint: they provide

Bigger, better fair set for Oak Mt. Park

It's supposed to be bigger and better than ever. The Shelby County Chapter of the Alabama State Employees Association is holding its 5th Annual Arts and Crafts Fair at Oak Mountain State Park on Saturday and Sunday, October 8-9. And if you want to be a part of it, it's still not too late. Booths are yet available to artist and craftsmen who wish to display their work. (Call 663-6783 or 663-6771 for more information.)

Among the exhibits of arts and crafts are handcrafted jewelry, macrame, pottery, ceramics, woodwork, paintings and sketches, and even a flea market.

The traditional live country and bluegrass music will be performed, as well as clogging and square dancing by area groups. This year a brass band may also play at the fair.

The fair will be held in the boardwalk Plaza area of the park, and hiking, tennis, golf, boating, fishing and other activities are available. The park also has overnight camping and cabins available.

Proceeds over the years have gone to local civic and charity projects, such as the $1,000 donated last year to the Shelby County Center for Exceptional Children.

Library promotion

The Montevallo PTO has formed a Committee to promote cooperation among the school libraries and other libraries in the city. Discussing the Alabama Library Association's emphasis on reading lists are (clockwise): Chairman Kathy Vogel who is Director of the Research Library at EBSCO, Public Librarian Maymie Yarbrough, High School Librarian Heide Ross, Middle School librarian Carol Ham, Elementary School librarian Eleanor Lewis and UM serials librarian Pauline Williams. The committee's first project will be the promotion of these lists to encourage children to read and vote on their favorite books.

Officers claim job stalemate

Three corrections' officers with the Shelby County Sheriff's Department claim they're jobs are in stalemate. They expressed their frustrations to the Law Enforcement Personnel Board Wednesday.

Dale Glass and David Wolfe explained that the job lacked incentive since there is no way they can advance.

"We feel like we're in a stalemate situation," Glass said. Although corrections officers are eligible for pay increases based on years of service, there is no plan for promotion.

William Pickett, another correction's officer present, agreed with his colleagues.

Because of his age, Pickett explained that he did not even have the option to take the test for the higher paying position of deputy.

The two younger men also told the board that they thought it was unfair that their service with the department is not counted on the examination for deputy.

They wondered if there could be an amendment to the rules giving points for years of service, the same as deputies get when they are being tested for promotion.

Personnel Board chairman Teddy Brasher told the men the matter would be discussed and he would try to have an answer by the next meeting.

The board also talked about giving tests for promotion to deputies.

Since the testing is expensive however, the board's liaison officer, Loyd Anderson, had been asked to survey the deputies as to how many were interested.

He reported that 14 want to take the test for sergeant, and that three deputies are opposed to it since they are already on the eligible list.

Four others, Anderson reported, won't take the sergeant's exam, because they don't agree with the criteria.

Being with the department as a deputy for two years qualifies a man to take the test. Some of those not satisfied, are longtime employees.

Board member Mickey Johnson pointed out that the points given for years of service would boost the scores of these men, giving them an advantage.

Anderson also told the board that the eight men eligible for advancement to lieutenant would take a test if one was given. There is only one man on that eligibility list now.

There are presently eight men holding the rank of sergeant and two who are lieutenants. Two of the 36 deputies with the Sheriff's department hold the rank of captain.

According to the board secretary, the last sergeant's exam was given in 1980 and one for lieutenant was administered last year.

Since Joe Curtin, whom the board had employed to prepare and administer tests, is no longer performing that service, the board secretary was asked to contact his partner about continuing in that capacity.

Employers claim benefits from Vocational students

the hiring firm with a tax break.
Strickland's Department Store currently employs Michelle Freedman from Pelham High School and Cathy Jordan from Shelby County High School.
Since its initial involvement with the distributive education program five years ago, the First National Bank of Columbiana has become another company which continues to enjoy success with the students it employees from the center.
"It has worked out real well," says personnel manager Billy Jones. "They have been of benefit to us."

In addition to on-the-job training opportunities, the bank hires many students to full-time positions after schooling is complete.
"Most started out in book-keeping, making statements, filing checks, accounting," personnel manager Billy Jones explains.
But what do the students think of the opportunities they get?
Cathy Partridge of Pelham is a second-year student at the center who has an on the job training opportunity. She takes business education courses while working as a secretary in a law office.

"Oh yes, it has helped me," she says excitedly of the center's place in her life.
"I really like it. You meet people from different schools and it has helped me because I have a job working," she explains.
Partridge says that her work has helped her to improve typing skills and other general office skills.

She plans to attend the University of Montevallo and mold the business experiences she has had, into a position as a certified public accountant.

Currently, the center's distributive education section has students working at Western, Food Center, Quincy's, Captain D's and Wal Mart in Alabaster, K Mart, Strickland's Clothing and Food World in both Pelham and Hoover.

Center's philosophy is to train and place

The age of the computer is responsible for a growing interest in the business and office education course, according to instructor Darlene Rasco.
Rasco's department uses 13 Radio Shack Model 3 computers to give students hands on training in keyboarding, data entry, basic programming and word processing.
"Last year we had right at 90% placement of our graduates and really all of those are using computers," she says.
Besides those specializing in BOE, all seniors at the center take an introductory computer course, she adds.
The school's curriculum has also added a unique program this year for the handicapped.
Jean Stratton, instructor of the new service occupation's education course, says she's been told that it's the first of its kind in the state.
"I'm going to take them through about six or seven areas in entry level job skills," Stratton reports.
According to Stratton, the areas include job readiness, domestics, food services, industry, retail, child care, and custodian and maintenance.
The philosophy of the school is to serve the students' job training and placement needs, and Stratton works to see that her students get a real opportunity to work.
"I want to persuade employers in Shelby County to give these students a chance," she says. And apparently a number of employers are taking the center up on this.

*The difference between the total expenses for '83-'84 budget, is the money encumbered from last year.

Commission adds $1 million to county's 1983-84 budget

by Fred Guarino

It took the Shelby County Commission all day Monday -- until 5:30 p.m. -- to come up with a new budget. But there was apparently good reason for the lengthy session.

The 1983-84 budget is $1,016,026.25 higher than last year's -- up to $8,049,000.

After routine business, Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden wanted to recess the budget work until a later date -- a technicality which would have legally allowed postponement of the budget.

Commissioner Harold Davenport, however, wanted no part of delays, and suggested recessing only into the afternoon.

Snowden agreed on the condition that "we can come up with a budget we can live with and sink our teeth into it and make people live with."

That was all Davenport, John Ames, Leon Archer and Jake Morris had to hear.

In the end, the sheriff's department got a budget increase of $300,000. The highway department got an increase of $224,562, and the now spreading probate office went topsy turvy with its new license branch.

Instead of one lump sum, Snowden's office got $185,651, the Columbiana license office got $130,824.50, and the Pelham license branch got $98,593.95.

According to administrative assistant Myra Davis, one major expense that's not figured into this year's $7,911,000 spend list (shown at left) is money that was encumbered last year.

About $138,000 is money earmarked for the purchase of goods ordered last year but which won't be paid for until they arrive this year.

The county budget is figured on an accrual basis, but actual payments are made on a cash basis.

Other budget changes included:

•The Tax Assessor and Tax Collector saw decreases for their departments because of the loss of personnel to the probate office.

•The county commission budget is less due to the loss of two full-time employees and one part-time employee.

•Data processing saw an increase in budget because of newly purchased equipment, and the county coroner saw his budget increased because of the hiring of a new assistant.

•In addition, three departments were funded this year that received no money last go-around. The county museum, property reappraisal, and the historical society all receive funding in the 1983-84 budget.

•In addition, the courthouse maintenance expenditures were lumped into one figure.

•The matter of county employee raises is still up in the air.

Gunman robs man at bank

by David F. Moore

Terry Gabert didn't see anything until his pickup door flew open and the man jabbed the big, nickel-plated gun in his ribs.

Pelham police haven't seen anything of the man either. But Monday afternoon a Thompson school boy did find the bank bag the masked robber took from Gabert during the Saturday night stickup at First American Bank in Pelham.

Gabert, 26, who manages Southeastern Meats in Pelham, drove across US 31 about 7 p.m. to make a night deposit. He thinks the man must have been hiding in the bushes by the drive up depository, because as he looked down for his box keys, the door to his pickup suddenly flung open.

"My first thought," Gabert said, "was, 'Oh no! He's going to kill me!' All I noticed was the big nickel-plated gun and the stocking mask. He was white and pretty hefty."

"He said, 'Move over and get in the floor boy, or I'm going to blow your brains out!' I said, 'Yes sir!'"

As the masked man started driving, he asked Gabert if he believed he would indeed kill him. Gabert said yes, and later said he figured the man would take him to a back road and shoot him.

Instead he pulled up by the dumpster, told Gabert to get out, lie down in the field there, and not to move or a partner would kill him.

Gabert said he watched the man drive off in his pickup, then jumped up, ran to a nearby trailer, and called the police.

Pelham investigator Donnie Gyer said Gabert's truck was found in five minutes, abandoned in the Food World parking lot.

Monday, as he walked home on Ball Park Road from Thompson Middle School, 14-year old Lee Phelps spotted the money bag in Buck Creek.

"I was looking over the bridge and I saw it," Phelps said. "I went home and put up my books and came back with a couple friends (David Cotton and Jamie O'Daniel) to get it."

Phelps said he was hoping to find $1 million. Instead he found a bunch of soggy checks and food stamps, which the boys took home and laid out to dry. Later Phelps and his mother called Alabaster police.

Gyer said an undisclosed amount of cash is still missing from the bag, and so is the masked man who took it.

Ellis, Murphy debate erupts at forum

by Fred Guarino

It was supposed to be a political forum involving five Shelby County candidates seeking two state offices, and the women's auxiliary of the Indian Springs Civic Club.

What it turned out to be was a heated, two-man debate between Republican Don Murphy and Democrat Frank "Butch" Ellis, both candidates for the newly formed Senate District 14.

The two issues that abruptly triggered the explosive argument were the absence of a Democratic Primary, and a question of who should have control over the sheriff's deputies' pay.

First, the women heard comments from Republican Al Knight, Democrat John Tanner, and Independent Ed Gentry, who all seek election to the new House District 40 seat. (Points made in this debate will be published in next week's Reporter.)

Then Murphy and Ellis took the floor.

Murphy, who was a representative during the last session of the legislature, got things off to an instant hot start by questioning the Democratic Party's refusal to hold a primary.

"I have witnessed Democrats, with no primary, black mailing to get a vote," he said. "How cheap is freedom when we deny people a right to vote? How do you put a price on it?"

The Republican called "hogwash" any arguments that the absence of a primary saved the taxpayers money.

Ellis countered the assault on his Democratic executive committee appointment as a candidate.

"I wasn't hand picked. I was elected without opposition," he said. "I have not accepted a dime from anyone and my family and I are going to finance my campaign."

Things were fired up further when Kathryn Coleman asked "Should the county commission or the county personnel board have authority over the pay of sheriff's deputies?"

By law, deputy pay is now tied to that of state troopers, without any control over it by the county, which foots the bill. Next year, upon the expiration of that legislation, the authority will go to the county personnel board.

Ellis was the first to respond.

"I am a basic believer in home rule. All decisions should be made at the closest possible level to the people -- the county commission," he said.

The county attorney further stated that he did not believe anyone should tell anyone else to do something without first securing a funding source.

"I don't have anything against our deputies. I wouldn't do anything to roll their pay back," Murphy followed. "But I think it is wrong when the local government of the people doesn't have control of the purse strings."

He went on to explain that one week after the county was told state troopers would not get a pay raise, they got one anyway, throwing the county budget off $130,000.

Murphy said he had introduced legislation this year to place employees' pay back under the county commission. But, he noted, the local bill measure was effectively blocked since none of the other local legislators supported it.

When Ellis pointed out that the personnel board has assured the county that it will do no more than keep pay in line with that of state troopers, Murphy pounced.

He said no such agreement has been worked out and by law "the personnel board will set salaries, increase or decrease." He said that part of the law should be repealed.

Murphy, however, opened himself to attack when he asked Ellis if he would seek such a repeal.

Ellis said there were other solutions, but if Murphy had really

'Miss Piggy' ties up I-65 in Pelham

by David F. Moore

Pelham police had traffic blocked Monday on I-65 -- but it wasn't because of a wreck. Miss Piggy was loose.

Apparently the famous piggy, who usually goes to the movies, was loose on I-65, and one of her admirers decided to take her out of the road.

At least one motorist, who didn't immediately believe she was really piggy on the freeway, called the Shelby County Highway Society with the information. As it turned out, though, she was real.

Just like the piggy, according to society director Anne Speckman, was how do you find and take a single female piggy home on the freeway?

Speckman said she had heard on the radio that a piggy was loose on I-65, and she had called the police. She had called the police, and they had called the police.

At a sudden I saw one of them," Speckman said, surprised at the concern that a piggy might get hit by a car. By the way, the piggy was not a piggy, but a piggy, and she was not a piggy, but a piggy.

Although the police and traffic cooperated, the piggy did not want to be taken home. She was running into a drain pipe underneath the freeway.

Cochran, however, proved to be smarter than Miss Piggy and managed to get her out of the pipe.

"I really made a crying tear through the air and looked the

When the police and the traffic were again about five minutes later, Speckman said, all the motorists were looking out the Governor picks new registrars

Two people who have not previously served on the Shelby County Board of Registrars were sworn into office last week.

The new registrars are Vestula Thompson from Vincent and Marti Dillard from north Shelby County.

Thompson replaces 12-year board member Doris Turner as chairman.

The only holdover on the three-member board is Harpersville resident J.T. Spates who has also served for 12 years.

When he made his recent appointments to the registrar board, Governor George C. Wallace also left off veteran member S.M. Mahan of Montevallo, who had 18 years of service.

Both new board members have served as poll workers, and Dillard has worked on voter registration drives in Beat 12.

The board of registrars is required to be in session ten days each month to pass on voter applications. The Shelby County board meets the first and third week of the month.

Board members are paid $15 a day when the board is in session.

The new board will be honored at a public reception Friday at 2 p.m. in the auditorium on the second floor of the courthouse annex.

TMS sign

Parents, students, and teachers pitched in to raise money for Thompson Middle Schools' new sign. Representing those groups are Student Council President Wendy Cox, teacher J.B. Denham and PTO President Susan Coyne.

Columbiana mulls signs

by Bert Seaman

Some of the legislative office seekers have started putting up posters and signs. The election won't be until November, but one candidate has found out he that his signs already have to come down -- at least those within the city limits of Columbiana.

When Jim Entekin introduced himself to the Columbiana Council last Thursday, Police Chief Howell Horn greeted him with the news that posters cannot be put on telephone poles, buildings or any other place inside the city.

Entekin, who is running for the House seat in District 41, apologized for not checking first, and promised the posters would be removed.

Before the meeting ended, the subject of signs came up two more times.

Property owner Dale New requested permission to erect a billboard on land he owns, and sign painter Scott Owen asked the council to choose a design for welcome signs at the city limits.

With Councilwoman Jessie Jones abstaining, the council voted to deny New's request.

It was the council's thinking that the intersection of highways 25 and 30 was too hazardous a location to put up a billboard. In addition to the heavy traffic, it was also pointed out that the area is residential.

Jones said she was abstaining until she could find out what the city's policy is regarding billboards.

Stressing -- as she has on other occasions -- the need for a policy on every subject, Jones remarked that she didn't like to vote on specific cases.

When the welcome signs were brought up, Mayor Buck Falkner explained that money for the project had been overlooked when the budget was drawn up.

Owen had been previously asked to submit several designs from which the council could choose.

Even if the least expensive one were chosen, Falkner reported the cost of putting a sign on every road leading into the city would be over $5,000.

However, the Mayor asked the council to study the designs and said the subject would be discussed again at the next meeting on Oct. 19.

Two ministers appeared before the council with separate requests.

John Beane, a minister in the Church of Jesus Christ, wanted permission for a street preaching service. Robert Jones, a minister in the Church of God of Prophecy, wanted a change in the solicitation ordinance.

Before it can answer Beane, the council will have to check the books to see if there is an ordinance which covers street preaching.

Councilman Lewis Walker said he remembered seeing a man preaching on the sidewalk some 30 years ago, but he said, "There wasn't near the traffic then."

Noting an ordinance passed in June which prohibits solicitation, Robert Jones said it worked a hardship on organizations trying to raise funds, such as his church when it asks merchants to donate items for a bazaar.

If enforced, the minister pointed out, the ordinance would even prevent schools from selling doughnuts.

Robert Jones suggested that the city issue a permit, so if complaints were made, the city would know who the solicitor was and could deny them a permit in the future.

In order to test the idea, Councilman Bill Seale moved that one permit be granted to Jones to see if there was any negative reaction. The council gave its unanimous consent to his motion.

Vickrey may yet keep film post

by Fred Guarino

Dr. Jim Vickrey, president of the University of Montevallo, may be on the ropes concerning his seat on the Alabama Film Commission. But he's not yet down for the count, since the end of this script has not yet been written.

Vickrey, an avid movie fan and local film critic, was appointed by ex-governor Fob James to the body which promotes movie locations and which attracts the movie industry to Alabama.

His term, technically to serve at the "pleasure of the governor," was not slated to expire until 1985. However, Vickrey recently received a letter from Governor George Wallace indicating he may no longer be at the pleasure of the governor.

Last week Wallace sent letters to those who served under James stating that body will either be reorganized, or a new board formed.

"We called after that letter came because of the surprise..." Vickrey said.

The UM president states, however, that there is some chance he could be saved. The letter also indicates that two or three former members may be reappointed.

"We won't know for sure until Wallace gets back," Vickrey said. (The governor is presently off on a Far East industry seeking trip, and is not expected back until next week.)

"I don't know of any reason why I would be one of the ones they would want to get rid of," Vickrey said. "I would not think I would be a political casualty. Of course, the governor can do what he wants."

Vickrey said that the job he wants to keep is both unpaid and lacking in glamour. Once a studio is convinced to shoot a film in Alabama, the commission simply tries to make things go smoothly.

Then why does he want to promote movies?

"Unlike others, it is a clean industry which does not pollute. Usually they (movie makers) leave an area better than they found it. Someone may even get their house repainted. And, it provides fun, excitement and work for Alabamians," he explains.

Another reason Vickrey wants to keep his position on the film commission is so he'll keep an inside shot at attracting a movie to Montevallo. In particular, he has an eye on an R-rated comedy of the "Animal House" genre that is seeking a campus to shoot on.

While the R-rating might cause Vickrey some public relations problems he said boldly, "I took the view a long time ago that I'm not going to welcome some films because I like the screen play, and reject others. My position is one of economic development."

Vickrey says that the average movie costs about $5 million to make and most of that is spent on location.

A film in Montevallo would bring that money to the area, and give students and mass communication majors a chance to work -- such as they did last year when Vickrey had a movie-type UM promotion filmed on campus by a Hollywood crew.

In the past five years the film commission has helped bring 'Close Encounters' and 'Back Roads' film crews to Mobile. 'Norma Rae' was shot in Opelika, 'The Ravagers' was filmed in Birmingham, and 'Kent State' was filmed in the Gadsden-Anniston area.

Vickrey, who was an extra for Norma Rae along with his son, says that Alabama is a natural for movie making because it has one of the "most diverse geographies in the country."

Despite its seemingly attractive geography, Vickrey noted that major movie studios are not developing anything here, but instead are building production facilities in Texas and Florida.

"It sure would be nice to get one of those in Alabama," Vickrey said.

THS student killed in crash

A one car accident on State 70 claimed the life of a Thompson High School senior Thursday night.

According to Shelby County Coroner Billy Thompson, 17-year old Judith Renee Clark was killed when she lost control of her car and it overturned near the intersection of 70 and US 31 (Dargin Cross Roads).

Her classmate, 17-year old Jody Williams, who was a passenger in the car, reportedly received only minor injuries.

Members of Shelco Rescue Unit reached the scene soon after the 9 p.m. wreck and worked approximately 45 minutes to save the THS student's life.

Medical personnel on the Lifesaver 1 helicopter from Caraway Methodist Hospital arrived later to assist with the effort, but Clark was pronounced dead at 9:55 p.m.

Montevallo gas rates will rise

by Bert Seaman

Montevallo gas customers will soon see an increase on their gas bills.

The higher price is a result of the city's gas supplier going up on the price by 52 cents per MCF (thousand cubic feet).

After making the announcement at Monday night's meeting of the Montevallo Council, Gas Board Chairman Catherine Legg said the city was passing along the exact amount of the increase from Southern Natural and nothing more.

Residential customers will see the price increase reflected on their December 1 bills while industries will find the increased rate on their November billing.

City Administrator Don Hughes pointed out that the city has absorbed 15 days of the price increase.

He explained that the increase for residential customers amounts to $6.40 for the first 500 cubic feet of gas used and $6.40 for each additional thousand feet.

Now that the city has paved the approximately quarter mile of road known as Evansville Circle, City Clerk Don Hughes said that it should hold up for 15 years.

But he told a community resident present at the meeting that cars could not be parked along the sides or else the asphalt would crumble.

Anyone who parks on the sides or drives the wrong way on the one way street will be given a traffic ticket.

Evansville residents had appeared at an earlier council meeting to complain about the deep potholes in the road.

The blading and repaving of the road cost the city $7,000, Hughes reported.

Hatchett remembers early days of soil conservation services

Editor's note -- Robert Kelley of the Soil and Water Conservation office in Columbiana interviewed B.F. 'Hap' Hatchett of Columbiana in conjunction with the agency's 50th anniversary. The agency dates back to the CCC Camps -- and so does 'Hap.'

by Robert E. Kelley District Conservationist
Shelby County

The year was 1933. We were in the grips of a depression, but this didn't stop a young determined USDA Soil Scientist, Hugh Hammond Bennett, from pressing his dream into a reality.

A crusader for soil conservation in the 1920's, his efforts led to the Soil Erosion Service, established in 1933 under the Department of Interior, with Bennett as its head.

It was also about this same time that another program emerged, known by many simply as "CCC Camps" (Civilian Conservation Corps). It was out of the CCC Camps and the Soil Erosion Service that the Soil Conservation Service, as we know it, emerged.

Also, out of these programs came men like B.F. "Hap" Hatchett who served as District Conservationist for Shelby County from 1940 until his retirement in 1966. "Happy" -- as his wife calls him -- is 83 years old and recently shared some experiences of those early days with me. He started with the "camps" (CCC) in 1935 in Clay County and worked with them until he moved to Shelby County and went with the conservation office.

"The boys earned $30 a month and all they could eat," Hatchett recalled, "and could they ever eat! Why some of them were so starved, they would gain 20 pounds in one month."

"We had 91 boys come in one day, and you know, over 50 of them could not even read or write their name. But in one month they learned to write their names -- had to, to get their check!"

"But," Hatchett went on to say, "it was the discipline and training that made men out of boys, who five years later would fight to win World War II."

These early programs gave SCS a nucleus of trained, experienced workers like Hatchett who helped farmers heal a land that was in desperate need of attention. But these programs were barely beginning in the Spring of 1935 when widespread environmental disaster struck -- the Dust Bowl.

In April of 1935 the Soil Erosion Service, along with several emergency conservation work camps, were transferred from the Department of Interior to the Department of Agriculture to help farmers pull out of this terrible disaster.

Out of this turmoil, on April 27, 1935, Congress passed Public Law 46 that officially established and funded the Soil Conservation Service as an agency to deal with erosion and land degradation problems.

'Hap'

"The thing I liked about the soil conservation service was getting over the farms and helping guys get them going," recalls B.F. 'Hap' Hatchett. "And I bet we got 600 stock ponds going." (Photo by David F. Moore)

Reporter analysis

The constitution

from staff reports

Many people have voiced the need for a chance to read the proposed new state constitution.

Now is your chance to get ahead of the opinion makers, because it is printed in full on pages 12, 13 and 14 in this issue of the Reporter.

Another reason to read the document is that Alabamians may be voting on it November 8.

Whether that vote is held depends on the state Supreme Court, which is scheduled to hear oral arguments on the question this Monday in Montgomery.

Opponents of the new constitution are trying to get it removed from the ballot because it is an amendment to the present constitution, rather than the product of a constitutional convention.

Alabama's six constitutions to date have been adopted through widely varying procedures, but apparently without the procedural objections that the seventh has run into.

According to some historical sources:

•The first state constitution of 1819 was adopted without a vote of the people.

•The constitution of 1868 was voted down but adopted anyway.

•Our present constitution of 1901 rode in on the backs of corrupted or deceived black belt voters who were promptly disenfranchised by the very thing they had voted for.

Throughout this checkered history, our ancestors apparently confined themselves to debating the substance of their various constitutions.

Now the objections are procedural and the big substantive question is "What's in it (for me)?"

It contains 222 sections, and is shorter than our present document, but a good bit longer than the U.S. Constitution.

The first several sections appear to be padded rewrites of the Bill of Rights, then the three branches of government are described, then education, local government, militia, and amendment procedures are set out.

Our convoluted property tax scheme is enshrined therein, the legislator's custom of raising their own salaries is ended after one more bite of the apple next year, and everything in effect now is "saved" if it doesn't conflict with the new scheme.

At least that's what the constitution says -- but no one seems to be sure what it means.

Those who contend the document is vague and uncertain can point to the final section, which suspends the laws of grammar so that masculine can be feminine, and both can be neuter.

Other questions raised stem from claims that cities and other public entities are curtailed in their financial powers.

At any rate, those who now truly understand our present constitution are rare, and those who have actually read it even rarer.

Reporter readers are urged to study the document closely, and let us know if you think it's good or bad.

Candidates debate

wanted to change things, then he had been ineffective.

"I think it is a cop-out to say (Murphy) tried but got blocked," Ellis retorted.

"You have beat around the bush but you have not answered my question," Murphy said. "Will you try to repeal the law?"

"I would see that the county have control in the future dispersal of pay," Ellis said.

Auxiliary president Martha Knight stopped what had turned into a senate campaign debate by finally calling the forum closed.

Editorial opinions

Is anybody out there?

Is anybody out there?

Maybe everybody's just caught up watching the first leaves turn autumn colors. Maybe everybody's thinking about football (and Penn State officials), or sewing Halloween costumes.

But with a general election less than one month away it seems like we'd see a lot more interest in the general elections set for November 8. It seems like more citizens of this county would be thinking about just who will be representing them in Montgomery for the next three years.

After all, the things they do -- and don't do -- in the legislature do effect our lives.

"Who are you leaning towards voting for?" we asked someone the other day.

"Voting? For what?"

Apathy is running rampant.

Of course we all went through the rigamarole of elections last year. Thanks to a court order, we're going through it again. Regardless of the good the new districting might do, people apparently just aren't ready for another election.

"I'm tired of running," one candidate confided. People are tired of candidates running, too. But that's the way it is.

It is commendable that the women's auxiliary of the Indian Springs Civic Club sponsored a forum Tuesday that gave citizens a chance to question the candidates on issues that involve life -- mostly, as it were, in north Shelby County.

But we agree with organizer Martha Knight who said she was shocked to find out that no other civic groups so far this year have even planned to have the candidates meet with them.

Somehow we're not even too surprised that one person at the meeting reportedly commented that she didn't even know an election was coming up. At least she did see the notice in the paper and decided she'd better attend the forum and find out for herself what's happening.

Rights, like muscles, have to be flexed and worked to make and keep them strong. Like muscles, rights tend to atrophy without use. Following this line of thinking, if we don't vote, we stand to lose the right.

And surely no one would go to the polls in three and a half weeks and vote without given serious consideration for whom they pull the lever.

After all, the three men Shelby (and part of Bibb) County sends to Montgomery will be there three years. And that's a long time to live with a mistake.

Is anyone out there?

Letters to the editors

Schools need parents, not apathy

Letter to the Editor:

Many things pro and con have been said about schools both here in Columbiana and nationally. People have voiced concern about quality education for our children, and others have voiced their satisfaction with the system. However the overwhelming majority of parents and others have been apathetic. I feel this attitude of apathy is wrong. As a parent you just get involved in your child's education.

Attending local PTO meetings is a vital part of getting involved. At these meetings you can voice your concern about the quality of education your child is receiving, meet with other concerned parents, and get to know the people who are educating your child.

Tuesday, October 18th, at Shelby Co. High School at 7 p.m., will be a good time to get involved. For at that time, the Columbiana PTO will hold one of its most important meetings. Along with an interesting program, and a featured speaker, the very important duty of electing trustees for the Columbiana schools will be carried out. If you care about the manner the schools are being governed, and want to have a voice in who the trustees are, please attend. You can show your satisfaction or lack of it, which ever the case may be. Your attendance will at the very least show that you care.

Dailey, city deserve credit for districting in Montevallo

Letter to the editor:

I am of the opinion that George Dailey deserves credit and commendation for spearheading the drive to have the City of Montevallo divided into districts. I personally know that Mr. Dailey shouldered the hard work and responsibilities of this challenging task before a very conservative council.

There are others, too, who contributed immeasurably to this important effort to gain representation for the black community, including citizens in that community and members of the Task Force on Enhancing Economic and Educational Opportunities in Montevallo.

The mayor and council also deserve commendation for conceding to a district plan of city government. This governmental body, though conservative, exhibited the basic constitutional feature of flexibility and adjusted to meet the needs of all its people.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member of the FDIC.

Paragraphs: Underneath a red maple tree and just the other side of two sweetgums, somebody had dumped a load of garbage, un-mindful that October had painted the leaves in breathless colors. I sometimes think that if they were just two folks left on this earth one of 'em would litter.

It was the first Sunday and they had their Sunday afternoon singing at New Bethesda Church halfway between Columbiana and Chelsea on highway 47. Maybe this was the best one of all with the Servants and a family group from Chelsea furnishing the music. But for me, I'll still take Bobby Foster Roegner singing One Day At A Time.

They had the first game of the National League Playoff's last night. A fellow named Carlton and another guy named Reuss were chunking that ball. The last time I saw that much smoke a guy named Lowe came out of some little place outside of Vincent throwing baseballs that looked like aspirin tablets.

Amey and I worked like crazy transplanting shrubbery before the rain. We thought it was no further away than the road to Beaver Creek Graveyard. You see, between our house and East Saginaw was the loveliest rain cloud you ever saw. And maybe those folks in East Saginaw got some rain, the same as we got 38 drops that made our deck look like a domineer rooster.

They're having a class reunion for the classes of 1940 and 1941 who graduated from Shelby County High School. The reunion will be at the 4-H Club Building on the Coosa River on November the 5th at six o'clock. If you haven't been contacted, or if you have any questions, please call Ruby Wallace Coan at 669-9596 or write to her at Rt. 1, Box 128, Wilsonville, AL 35186.

Scrambled Eggs

I haven't been locked out of anything in a long, long while.

And I have a new car too!

I know I shouldn't mention something like that because just as sure as I say I haven't -- by the time you read this, it probably will have happened.

But I assure you, I'm being extremely careful in having my keys with me when I lock the car since a coat hanger has become obsolete in gaining entrance to a modern day auto.

I'll have to admit, though, that I did get locked out of something the other day -- our new Pelham office.

Let me hasten to add, however, that it wasn't due to carelessness on my part -- not altogether.

At our new location, our office is inside a building. So in addition to needing not one, but two keys for the office door, you also have to have a key to the building for weekends and after hours.

As you can probably guess -- I didn't have all the necessary keys.

Not sure about when the building was locked for the night, I made inquiries before dashing out for a bite of supper.

The person in a neighboring office didn't know when lock-up time was either. But I was reassured when she told me she had found the building open when she had come by late at night on several occasions.

So I went on my merry way, and, believe it or not, when I got back, the door was actually unlocked.

When it was time to be on my way to a meeting, I left in a mad dash. Before going far though, I realized several essential items had been left behind.

I whipped back to the front door, but -- guess what? It was locked tight.

Seeing some lights on in a second floor office, I hunted around for some pebbles to throw at the window. After I'd pelted the panes without getting any response, I toyed with the idea of heaving a boulder sized stone I'd found.

Fortunately, I talked myself out of it before doing any damage.

Then I suddenly remembered looking out the back door at the end of our hall earlier in the day. The door had opened on to a fire escape. And I couldn't remember whether or not I had locked it.

Making my way to the rear of the building, I ran up the steps, took a deep breathe -- and pushed it open! Oh Happy Day!

So maybe there was an element of carelessness involved in the episode. But see -- sometimes it pays to be careless.

The Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

Cuss him if you must, but on a political competency test few would score higher than Dr. Paul Hubbert of the Alabama Education Association.

Here's an example: A few years ago Dr. Hubbert came to the conclusion that just perhaps, one of these days the State Democratic Executive Committee might be an important body to control. With that in mind he quietly began encouraging people friendly to the AEA to run for places on the SDEC. Nobody paid any attention to what was going on because nobody cared who was on the committee. (How many members can you name right now?)

No matter, Hubbert was successful in getting a host of pro-AEA members elected, and coupled with a significant number of blacks, the AEA and its political siamese twin, the ADC, did indeed gain control.

Ten days ago... just as Hubbert had speculated years ago... the SDEC suddenly became very important. It had the power to handpick all of the Democratic candidates for the Legislature. Guess who dictated who the nominees would be? Dr. Hubbert and his ADC buddy, Joe Reed.

We'll say it again...cuss him if you must, but a salute for political smarts wouldn't be out of order.

Odds and Ends... In a rare display of toughness, members of the Public Service Commission last week told one of their lawyers she could either work for the PSC or work for the Macon County Dog Racing Commission, but she couldn't do both. Deborah Biggers, without seeking the advice or consent of the PSC, had announced she planned to be legal counsel for the Macon County Racing Commission but also intended to remain in her $32,000-a-year state job. The PSC properly said "no way." She then decided to go with the dogs...

When the state's fiscal year came to an end Oct. 1, the revenue picture was encouraging. Most impressive was the state income tax, which produced an incredible $816.5 million in 1982-83. Even the gasoline tax, which has suffered because of economy cars, showed a slight increase...

The cleverest bumper sticker to show up in Montgomery's mayoral race, where incumbent Emory Folmar battled for survival, was one which said: "Make Emory A Memory."

Pelham pays for teachers' conference

City fathers in Pelham are giving teachers in area schools a helping hand by paying their registration fee to a reading workshop. The city will pay out approximately $440 for teachers from Valley, Riverchase and Pelham High School to attend the Ninth Southeastern Reading Association conference in Birmingham.

Teachers will attend the workshop on October 20, which is a professional development day in the Shelby County School system.

Pelham Mayor Burk Dunaway said the money would come from a fund budgeted for contributions.

Commenting on the gesture, Valley Principal Dr. Norma Rogers said she was pleased that the city offered to pay the fees.

"I would like to see other cities become more involved with schools in their areas," she added.

Crafts

Booths lining the boardwalk at Oak Mountain State Park last weekend were filled with arts and crafts items. One young lady seemed taken with the crocheted items and a chicken in particular. The event was sponsored by the Shelby County Chapter of the State Employees Association.

EHE starts computer program

A number of elementary schools around the county have, or are getting computers. But only one is presently offering a program in computers.

Elvin Hill Elementary is using its two Apple and four Texas Instrument units to "review, reinforce and extend math skills," according to instructor Carolyn Munday.

She said the central office informed her that Elvin Hill is the only elementary in the county with an established computer program.

According to Munday, the program is set up like this:

Math skills are being taught to fourth and fifth graders on the Apples in the media center, while kindergarten through third grade classes use the TI's on rotating, nine week programs.

The Milliken Math software programs which are used allow teachers to advance students at individual rates, and concentrate on the areas where each one needs help.

Besides the reinforcement of math skills, hands-on work also greatly enhances computer awareness, Munday said. Furthermore, young students are also indirectly developing motor and coordination skills by using two hands to type in data.

"We hope that our computer program will improve the math scores on the California Achievement Test," Munday said, noting, however, that studies have neither proven nor disproven this to be the case.

The six computers were purchased through a cookie sale last year by the parents, and installed during the summer and fall.

Already, Munday said, the demand for computers by the 500 plus students has led to another cookie sale which is kicking off this week. She said software and desks to mount the computers on are also needed.

"It does get expensive," she said.

Besides Munday, the classes are being taught by math teachers Paula Smith and Jane Jones, aide Marcia Murrah, and parents Ruby Payne, Elizabeth Wakefield and Debbie Underwood who help with supervision.

Speak out on roads

Want to talk about highway problems?

The fourth and final public meeting of the Joint Highway Legislative Committee, in conjunction with the Alabama Highway Department, will be held Oct. 20 to discuss long-range highway programs. The meeting will take place at 4 p.m. in Birmingham, at the State Highway Department Division Office Auditorium, located at 1020 Bankhead Highway, West US 78.

The meeting will involve state highway plans for Shelby and 16 other counties.

All citizens and governing officials are urged to attend the meeting to voice their concerns and views on the planning for the construction and maintenance of roads and bridges in the area.

The Highway Department will present and explain a 5-year plan for improvements, which will include segments on the interstate system, primary and secondary highways, urban system routes, Appalachian development corridors and replacement of numerous bridges.

Photography by David Litschel and Glenn Rand is on display through Oct. 26 at the University of Montevallo's Bloch Hall Gallery.

The exhibit, "Transient Images," is sponsored by the UM Art Department and will feature color photography by these two artists.

Litschel, a Denver, Colo. resident, received his MFA in photography from the University of Michigan. Rand is director of the photography program at Lansing, (Mich.) Community College. Both have exhibited nationwide.

Gallery hours are Monday-Friday, 9 a.m.-4 p.m., or by appointment. For more information, call Fred Niles at 665-2521, ext. 285.

Pioneer Day set

Anyone who has an old fashioned outfit they would like to show off and possibly win a prize with, should attend Pioneer Day.

The annual event is being held for the fourth year at the home of Richard and Fay Porter on Sunday, October 23, south of Columbiana on County 99.

A fashion show in which contestants will wear clothing similar to that worn by people in the 1800's, will be one of the highlights of the day.

Rides will also be given -- in a mule drawn wagon, of course -- and refreshments will include old fashioned tea cake, lemonade and coffee.

Musical entertainment will be provided by an early American folk music band.

The event begins at 2 p.m. and continues until the last guest leaves.

Shelby County Board of Registrars will be at Pelham City Hall on Oct. 24, 1983 from 4-8 p.m. Also at Christ Church United Methodist, on Caldwell Mill Rd., on Oct. 25, 1983 from 4-8 p.m. Anyone needing to register to vote may do so at this time.

46-27 homecoming victory

Thompson, Bivins smash Childersburg

The Thompson Warrior football machine -- namely runner Luvell Bivins -- just keeps on rolling along.

The smashing 46-27 homecoming win over Childersburg upped the Warriors to 6-1 on the year and 3-1 in area play -- keeping the Warriors' hopes of play-off action as much alive as possible.

As to the 'little man' Bivins, he accounted for 202 of the Warriors' total 275 yards rushing against the Tigers. He got that on just 13 carries at a clip of at least 15 yards per trip.

For the year Bivins has 795 yards on 69 rushes -- 11.2 yards per romp.

But Thompson is not a one dimensional team. Quarterback Gordon Kenney completed four of four passes against Childersburg for 69 yards by air.

"We played well," understated Thompson mentor Doug Wheeler.

The statistics don't reflect the whipping of Childersburg in all of its glory. Thompson may have only out-offended the Tigers 344 to 315 yards, but the Warriors were never in jeopardy. Thompson led by as much as 33-7 in the third quarter and 46-13 in the fourth.

"It was one of those games that got out of hand. We got ahead and it was hard to keep the kids up," Wheeler explained.

"Childersburg just went flat after we scored quickly," Wheeler added.

Scored quickly is right!

Bivins ripped a 50-yard TD run with 9:28 remaining in the first period and then added a two-point conversion.

Moments later Bivins ripped a 70-yard punt return. The PAT missed but no one cared. The Warriors led it 14-0.

The Warriors continued to pound the Tigers in the second quarter with a five-yard TD strike from Kenney to Tim Smith. Again the PAT missed but the Warriors were up 20-0.

Childersburg managed to light the scoreboard on a two-yard run and extra point but the Warriors were not done for the half.

With just 1:16 left in the second quarter, Kenney hit Scottie Hawkins with a 15-yard TD strike. Again the PAT was not good -- but at 26-7 fans were even less concerned than they were at 14-0.

The Tigers found no relief in the third stanza.

Stevie Hawkins scored on a nine-yard run and Scottie Hawkins added the PAT.

Childersburg tried to come back with the help of a 73-yard TD run. But the extra point failed and the Tigers trailed 33-13.

Adding to the woes of the visitors, Bivins ripped a 60-yard TD run and Hawkins hit the PAT to put the Warriors up 40-13.

The fourth period saw Childersburg make a stab at getting back into the game. But not until...

Todd Harris rushed five yards into the endzone to put Thompson on top 46-13.

Childersburg scored on a 43-yard run and a 58-yard run in the closing moments of the game. A successful two-point conversion pulled them to 27 points but their comeback was too short to do any good.

While homecoming was sweet for the Warriors, they had better not look too far ahead to Sylacauga tomorrow night. They'll travel up the road Friday to play a fired-up Panther squad that should have gotten a good dose of confidence from their 61-0 smashing of Moody last Friday night.

Bullback fullback

Thompson sophomore fullback Mark Hooten (40) bulls his way through a host of Childersburg defenders on the way to a big 3A area win. Behind Hooten are Sam Threatt (11), Todd Harris (42) and Jimmy Frazier (19). The Warriors whipped Childersburg 46-27 to the delight of a homecoming crowd. Next on the schedule is Pelham. (Photo by Jerome Bannister)

For second win

Panthers massacre Moody

The Pelham Panthers were winless until two weeks ago when they beat Fultondale 22-19. But their poor record would be hard to prove to folks who traveled from Moody last Friday night to watch their team get murdered at Pelham's homecoming.

The 3A Panthers, who have struggled all season, had little struggling to do on their way to a 61-0 slaughter of their 2A visitors.

"We needed a win like that," said Pelham Coach Billy Tohill. But again this might be hard to prove to Moody -- which is expected to take out a murder warrant on the entire Pelham squad.

Pulling it in

Pelham's Jim Gorman takes in a beautiful pass reception from quarterback Ricky Hayes in a 61-0 trouncing of Moody. This type of play made homecoming a fun time for Panther fans as Pelham breezed on to its second win of the season. (Photo by Jerome Bannister)

Tohill, however, pleaded innocent to any such murder charge in a post-game interview.

"I just think we played a good football game and blocked and tackled like you are supposed to," he said. (The words might be useful as an opening statement to a jury...)

"They had a lot of problems and didn't have a lot of good people. We even played our back-ups and they kept scoring," Tohill continued his defense.

The Pelham mentor made the mistake, however, of praising Ricky Hayes, whose outstanding first half of passing could be used as strong evidence for the prosecution.

The quarterback pulled the trigger on a dozen air attacks, six of which were caught for a mortally wounding 150 yards. (Hayes may have helped save the case by not firing in the air at all during the second half.)

But Tohill even further hurt the team's chances with a jury by crediting Brian Hughes and Jackie Johnson for their pass receptions. The coach also gave credit (blame) to the rest of the offense as well.

He praised the work of center Eddie Abraham, strong guard Mike Filkens, strong tackle Harper Whitman, weak side guard Lee Bates, weak side tackle Ronnie Tate, split ends Carl Lamb and and Jim Gorman, fullback Gary Howard and tailback Mark Brashier.

On the night, Hayes passed for two touchdowns to Johnson and ran two touchdowns himself.

Brashier rushed for one touchdown and returned a 61-yard punt for another.

Ricky Shiflett ran for two TD's while Bobby Gignilliat finished off the killing with a paydirt run of his own.

All of this could be construed to spell M-U-R-D-E-R since it all came down on a team that is still winless this season.

Still Tohill -- and no doubt many fans -- thought it was justifiable homicide. Pelham "needed a win like that."

But while the now 2-5 Panthers can mentally savor the win over Moody, they must turn their physical attention to the Thompson Warriors.

The 6-1 Warriors, with playoff on their minds, invade Pelham tomorrow night for an encounter of the area kind. Last week's murderers will have to be careful not to become victims.

Murder on the run

Pelham quarterback Ricky Hayes (18) takes 'murder' on the run during the Panthers' homecoming trouncing of Moody. Trailing Hayes are Gary Howard (31) and Ronnie Tate (75). The fact that they are behind Hayes doesn't matter because the three nearest Moody defenders are already out of the play. (Photo by Jerome Bannister)

Halfway Hornets pick up win

The Chelsea Hornets are still playing what Coach Gene Husley calls half a ballgame.

But that was good enough last Friday night for Chelsea to claim its second win of the season in a 21-3 area encounter with winless Winterboro.

The win lofted the Hornets to 2-4 on the year and to 1-2 in area play. It even allows Chelsea some dominance over the 16-game loser-team they whipped 7-0 last year.

"In the second half, we played well enough to win against anyone... like against Montevallo," said Husley. "But we had nothing in the first half."

"We made no mistakes in the second half but we made every kind of mistake you could make in the first."

However, the first year Chelsea coach is encouraged by (at least half of) what saw on the field Friday.

"We have played better ball in the last two games. All we need now is to put to halves together."

Winterboro stunned Chelsea first when it scored its only points of the night on an outstanding 40-yard field goal.

But the Hornets were hungry after losing their homecoming two weeks ago to Maplesville and the field goal just made them

Bulldogs de-sting Vincent in area title race

by Fred Guarino
The Vincent Yellow Jackets had a shot Friday night at scrambling things in their area's playoff race. But it was the first place Montevallo Bulldogs that did all the scrambling as they beat the 'Jackets 20-6 in Vincent.

'Jacket meets Bulldog

Vincent's Eddie Reynolds goes down in the arms of an unidentified Montevallo Bulldog in an important area encounter that put Montevallo in the driver's seat for the Region 4, Area 7, 2A title race. Montevallo went 3-0 in area play with a 20-6 win in the Yellow Jacket's back yard. (Photo by Fred Guarino)

The Bulldogs had too much riding on this one -- such as an undefeated area record -- to let Vincent (2-1 in area play) pull them into a three-way tie with Jemison as the third team.

Apparently none of this was lost on the Montevallo players, eager to surge to 3-0 in the area.

"It's either all or nothing," said Montevallo's tight end and defensive tackle Rick Dobson, prior to kick off. "This is for all the marbles."

"It lies between us and the state playoffs," said offensive tackle Lonnie Layton.

Rather than get lost in the scramble, or drop all the marbles, Montevallo put points on the board late in first quarter when Taylor Blackwell hit Dawyne Jackson with a 44-yard touchdown pass. The point after missed.

In the second quarter Montevallo reached up its sleeve and pulled out a 'trick play' to set up its second touchdown. The play was a pass from end Terry Rutledge to Ricky Gaddis.

The 'trick' moved Montevallo from its own 39 yard line to the Yellow Jacket six. Three plays and an offside against Vincent later, Anthony Prentice scored on a two-yard run.

Vincent held Prentice on an attempted two-point conversion, but the 'Dogs were up 12-0. Nothing changed until the third quarter. Then, after Montevallo drove down to the seven, Vincent held to a fourth and five situation.

Montevallo appeared to be going for a field goal, but a change of heart by Coach Richard Gilliam resulted in a run by Jeff Chism to the Vincent one yard line. From there Barry Northy reached paydirt.

Terry Rutledge took in a two-point conversion pass to put the 'Dogs on top 20-0.

Vincent finally lit the scoreboard early in the fourth quarter with an amazing fourth and 14 play from the Bulldog 14 yard line. Heath Reynolds hit Bruce Hamilton in the endzone with a wounded dove aerial that bounced off the finger tips of two Bulldog defenders.

But it was all too little, too late and the final score stood 20-6 in favor of Montevallo.

The loss dropped the 'Jackets to 2-2 in area competition and 2-5 over-all. It lifted the Bulldogs to 6-1 over-all.

"We are in the driver's seat," said a proud Gilliam after the game. "For us not to go to the state now, Comer would have to beat us and Jemison," he said.

In spite of the 14-point spread Gilliam would not call the game an outstanding one.

While he noted his team's defensive performance, he called the offense "sluggish" and gave credit for that to the Vincent defenders.

On the other side of the coin, Vincent's Coach Harold Garrett was disappointed.

He credited the loss to the lack of an emotional edge by Vincent and the trick play by Montevallo.

"Emotionally, we may have peaked too early," Garrett reflected. "Once you climb that mountain, it's hard to stay up. We didn't maintain an emotional edge and that's coaching," Garrett said.

But nothing can make the Yellow Jackets weep for long.

"We are a strong comeback team," commented running back Reginald Riggins. "Nobody can get us down."

If they don't fall into a mental lapse, the Bulldogs should have an easy time of it Friday night when they travel to face winless Winterboro. Vincent, on the other hand, must brace for a home stand against Pell City.

Calera Eagles fall to playoff minded Verbena Devils

by Mark C. Jones

"On top of the world one day, and at the bottom the next."

That's how Calera head coach Danny Alverson summed up the Eagles loss to Verbena last Friday, a loss that came just two weeks after they shocked then state-ranked Jemison.

The defeat by a 7-0 margin was the first to Verbena since 1975 and the first 1A regular season loss by Calera in five years. The win by Verbena puts the Devils first in area competition and the Eagles in a "wait and see" situation regarding a possible third straight return to the playoffs.

It was evident from the opening gun that the Eagles lacked the intensity and fire present in the previous games. While Calera sported a physically superior team, Verbena made up the difference with rabid enthusiasm.

Calera marched at will on Verbena until it crossed the Devil 30 yard line. From there the normally potent attack stalled. Fourth down situations at the Devil 27 and 18 yard lines did not produce in the first quarter.

On the other side of the field, Verbena found the Calera defense unaccommodating. do Smith, the Devils' star running back, who came into the contest averaging over 100 yards per game, could get no more than one yard per carry. But eventually it didn't matter since the Devil defense would produce winning points.

Raymond Bulger intercepted a Mark Jones pass at the Eagle 25 yard line and coasted into the endzone with 9:20 left in the first half to give the Devils a score -- THE score. The PAT was good.

A hip injury to starting running back-defensive back Mike West made matters worse for Calera, forcing changes that disrupted the normal routine.

Calera made a stab at scoring after Todd Killingsworth blocked a Verbena punt at midfield. With just over two minutes left in the half the Eagles moved to the Devil 32. That drive came to an end with 31 seconds left when a Jones pass to Scotty Wells was intercepted.

The second half was just as ugly as the first.

All-State hopeful Killingsworth fell victim to a rib injury late in the third quarter creating yet more problems.

In the meantime Verbena seemed content with its 7-0 lead, threatening only with a 35-yard field goal that sailed wide to the right in the third quarter.

Calera had two golden scoring opportunities in the fourth quarter with possessions inside the 10. Again, the offense sputtered short on both counts.

The Eagles' last gasp came with less than a minute left in the game when an interference call put them at midfield. With 13 seconds left Jones completed a 38-yard pass to Eddie Smith at Verbena's 14. But the clock kept clicking and the Eagles -- with all timeouts spent -- could only watch as the Verbena contingent erupted into the sort of bedlam associated with upsets.

"We took a step backwards," said Alverson. "But, I'm not giving up on this team. We still have a chance to have a good year."

The loss put the Eagles in the same situation that the 1975 team faced. Calera, which lost to Verbena then, had to depend on Maplesville to beat the Devils for a chance to reach the playoffs. Maplesville came through but the Eagles finally lost in the quarter-finals to Clio in overtime.

Calera, now 3-3, must regroup to face area enemy Billingsley, which prior to Friday night, had been the last 1A team to beat the Eagles in the regular season.

Even with last week's loss the Eagles should be a favorite to win at Ricky M. Cairns field -- where they've gone 42-9-1 since 1973.

Wildcats whip Pell City 35-21

The Shelby County Wildcats are back on the winning side of season records with what may have been their best effort of the year.

By virtue of a 35-21 win over 4A Pell City, the 3A Wildcats now boast a 4-3 season tally.

"I thought we played our best ball game of the year, especially offensively," said coach Ricky Seale.

Seale has seen his team see-saw up and down this year, winning against Vincent, Pelham and St. Clair County, losing to Montevallo, Chilton County and Thompson.

Given the see-saw season, Seale was greatly encouraged by much of what he saw in the Pell City game -- most notably the running of Kenneth Jones. The Wildcat quarterback rushed for 134 yards and passed for 11 more.

Another bright spot was Ambrose Wood who gained a whopping 225 yards and scored three touchdowns.

He rushed 105 yards on 13 carries; returned two kick offs for 117 yards and one touchdown; and took in a two-point pass reception.

The coach also sang the praises of his offensive line, Grant Cole, Leroy Martin, Jasper Carden, Bob Olson and Kevin Jones.

"Those five up front blocked real well," said Seale.

The coach also had good words for Billy Seale (no relation) who played his first game as a center. But the win was not easy.

The Wildcats scored in the first quarter on a one-yard Kenneth Jones run. The PAT missed.

The Wildcats scored in the second quarter on a 20-yard Jones run and a two-point conversion by Wood, making it 14-0 at the half.

But Pell City flashed back in the third quarter by returning the kick off for a touchdown and making the PAT to stay in the game.

After a Wildcat fumble, Pell City threatened to ruin the fun with a touchdown and PAT to make it 14-all.

With only three minutes gone in the second half, things didn't look good for Shelby County.

But Wood swung the momentum and saved the day when he returned the following kick off 97 yards for a score. The PAT by Jeff Denny made it 21-14.

The Wildcats upped their lead to 28-14 in the fourth quarter on a 15-yard option to Wood. The PAT was perfect.

Pell City got back into the game again with the help of face mask and late hit penalties against SCHS. The resulting touchdown made it 28-21.

But this time the Wildcats would not allow Pell City to tie the score. Instead Wood took the ball and scored on a 15-yard sweep. Denny booted the PAT and SCHS went on to win 35-21.

Defensively coach Seale had good words for Jasper Carden, Curtis Sherman, Pat Wallace and Jasper English.

But while Shelby County may be enjoying its revenge of last season's 20-16 loss to Pell City, the 'Cats can't forget who's up next. Sylacauga will be invading Columbiana tomorrow night.

BIR moves ahead in spite of change

John P. Ward has resigned as Vice President and General Manager of Birmingham International Raceway.

After a two-year association with the track, Ward is leaving to pursue other interests.

Clayton Reuse, president of BIR, stated that "plans for the 1984 racing season are well under way in spite of the change in management. We expect to continue regular Friday evening programs of quality racing, and there will also be several major shows during the year."

Good Company

Shelby County Sheriff Buddy Glasgow found himself in some very good company Saturday morning. Participating in the Barbara Mandrell Benefit Golf Tournament at Green Valley Country Club, the sheriff hobknobbed with Mandrell, former Auburn greats quarterback Pat Sullivan and Terry Beasley, tv's Tom York, and deputy Sonny Davenport. The tournament was held to raise funds for the Alabama Sheriffs Boys and Girls Ranches. (Photo by Fred Guarino)

Bessemer blanks SA Raiders

"There's really not much to say."

Those were the words of Shelby Academy Coach Dewayne Kervin after his team lost its sixth game of the year last Friday night.

The Raiders were blanked 35-0 by Bessemer Faith, the most consistently strong team on their schedule. The same school beat the Raiders 33-14 last year.

"It was the same old story... five turnovers," Kervin said of his team's performance. "That's kept us from scoring and it helps the other team."

About the only positive thing Kervin could come up with was the fact that Bessemer did not kill the Raiders with big plays. Instead they did it with little plays.

"They worked for everything they got," Kervin said. "There were no 50-yard TD runs or passes."

Of all of the negative aspects of the game, the brightest spot was that the Raiders played Bessemer Faith to within 14 points in the first half.

As has been the case all season, things aren't looking any brighter down the road for the now 1-6 Raiders. Tomorrow they play host to Autauga, an undefeated squad.

Hornets win

mean. Jason Wiggins started the Hornet swarm when he passed 45 yards to Johnny Sands. That set up a one-yard Wiggins TD run midway through the second period. Mike Gragg's PAT failed but at 6-3 Chelsea took the lead for keeps.

The Hornets would score again on their first two possessions in the second half.

A 60-yard Chelsea drive was capped by a one-yard Wiggins plunge. Gragg's PAT made the score 13-3.

An eight-yard pass from Wiggins to Sandi capped a 55-yard drive to up the Hornet lead. Wiggins ran the two-point conversion to perfection and Chelsea led it 21-3.

The Hornets refused to give any ground to Winterboro and the game came to a close with no changes on the scorebook.

Chelsea travels to St. Clair County tomorrow to face a future area opponent. While the contest will have no bearing on area play this year, St. Clair will come into the Chelsea area next season.

Hulsey is hoping that tomorrow night the Hornets will play 60 full minutes of football.

Marching band festival continues growth at THS

The Central Alabama Marching Band Festival at Thompson High School has taken a giant step this year in the number of entries.

Now in its fifth year, the October 15 event sponsored by the THS Band Boosters and Marching Southern Sounds has attracted 21 bands.

That's an increase of nine bands from last year.

The units participating this year are also larger in size, says THS Band Director Elson Hood.

He noted that one of the competing bands is 200 members strong while another unit that will take the field Saturday, has 160 members.

The contest is also beginning to draw bands from a larger area. Hood said that musicians will travel from as far away as Arab and Dothan to compete in this year's event.

Calera will be the first band to take the field when the competition gets underway at 1 p.m. After all the bands have performed, an awards ceremony will be held at 7:45 p.m.

Local bands competing are: Chelsea, Shelby County High School, Montevallo, Thompson and Shelby Academy.

As they listen and observe each unit on the field, judges will consider music, overall sound and performance. Awards will also be given to majorettes, colorguard units, drum majors and drum lines.

Proceeds from the event will be used to help with expenses for the Southern Sounds to travel to Knoxville in the spring for the Dogwood Arts Festival. Sherril McClure, assistant band director at THS, reports that the band will be competing against 80 bands in the areas of street parade, concert band and jazz band.

Rebels lose number six

If time goes quickly when you're having fun, then 1983 is probably turning into a long season for the Coosa Valley Rebels. Last Friday night's 23-18 losing effort against Cahawba didn't help the calendar much either.

Not only did the road loss drop CVA to 0-6 on the year, but it came against a team the Rebels managed to tie 7-7 the last time they met.

Rebel Coach Bruce Breland is still looking at the positive side of things, however.

"We played more to our capabilities," Breland said of the five point game.

On the positive side was the fact that CVA actually scored 18 points and it had a drive going which could have won the game. On the negative end of things, however, a 15-yard holding penalty killed the would-be game saving effort.

"We are still making mistakes that end up hurting us," Breland said. "But we have come a long way since the beginning of the year."

He looked optimistically at the fact that younger Rebel players are beginning to realize what it takes to win.

Quarterback Ricky Sprouse, fullback Jerry Spates and left tackle Tony Strickland also got good marks in Breland's book.

The Rebels scored first on a 75-yard drive that ended with Bret Strickland going into the endzone on a three-yard push.

Coosa Valley failed to make the PAT and it didn't take long for that to tell on the Rebels.

Cahawba scored on the next possession and made its extra point to take a 7-6 lead.

A punt exchange and a fumble late, Cahawba added six more points to its tally for a 13-6 lead.

The Rebels fought back just before the half and Strickland reached paydirt to pull the score within one point 13-12.

But that's as close as things would get. Cahawba came back with a third period touchdown to up its lead 20-12.

A fourth quarter field goal added more pain to the Rebels previous woes.

CVA mounted one last scoring drive that covered 70 yards and ended with Spouse going into the endzone on a quarterback sneak.

It wasn't enough as Cahawba held on to win 23-18.

The Rebels are open this week and will return to action October 22 against Minor Christian in an away game.

Lions' homecoming spoiled

Homecoming was not a time of celebration for the Briarwood Christian Lions last Friday night. Briarwood fell 16-7 to McIntosh, and fell to 2-4 in what has been a tough season.

According to reports, the McIntosh Demons were exactly what their name implies... They jumped out to an early eight-point lead on a 17-yard pass and never trailed.

Although Briarwood did comeback in the first quarter on a 38-yard pass from Bobby Welch to Kevin Kynerd, with Brad Blam adding the extra point -- it wasn't enough.

The Lions saw their one point deficit grow to a fatal nine point spread when McIntosh scored on a one-yard run in the third quarter.

The Reporter was unable to catch coach Gary Fleming for comment.

The Lions travel to face Marion Institute tomorrow night.

Lion downed

It was one of those plays. Briarwood's blocking fell apart for running back Craig Collier (22) and the McIntosh defense closed in for the tackle -- face mask and all. (Photo by Bert Seaman)

PHS field house open; supporters given tour

Fundraisers for the new athletic field house at Pelham High School believe it's the finest in the state.

But the facility which is valued at $175,000, was built for less than $72,000 because most of the work was done by members of the Athletic Booster Club and Campus Improvement Committee.

A ribbon cutting Sunday marked the official opening of the building. However, Pelham's coaching staff and football team have been in the 40x140 facility prior to the season opener on August 25.

According to Robert Gardner, chairman of the Campus Improvement Committee, the project took only 11 weeks to complete. (Wives present at Sunday's event, however, complained that their husbands spent vacation time and weekends hammering, sawing, painting and laying tile...)

No one knew how to lay tile, Gardner said. "But if there was something we couldn't do -- we learned how and did it."

In order to build the facility, the fundraisers had to come up with $56,000. Gardner reported that contributions from 22 individuals who gave $1,000 or more totalled $43,000, and businesses donated both money and materials.

The club absorbed the remainder of the cost by taking out a bank loan.

Serving as ramrod on the construction, Bill Brasher and others put in thousands of hours during the summer in order to have the field house ready for football season.

Thompson academics given boost Thompson High School parents have organizations to support athletics and the band at the school.

Now a group of parents are organizing in an effort to encourage excellence in academics.

Susan Coyne, who is coordinating the effort, reported that a first step in that direction was a recent coke and cookie party for students making A's and B+'s on their report cards.

Members of the group also assisted in giving the graduation exit exams which students took Tuesday.

Coyne said that an election of officers is expected in the near future.

Stressing that the organization is not just for the parents of gifted students, Coyne said anyone interested in becoming a member can call her at 664-0430.

The 5,300 square foot building contains a weight room, a classroom for viewing films, a players' shower room-bathroom area, a tape room with special lighting to reveal bruises, and offices for the head coach and assistants, complete with a bathroom and shower.

When the athletic staff and equipment were moved from the high school, Gardner said the school gained three classrooms.

Efforts to improve the athletic facilities on the PHS campus include construction of a practice field adjacent to the field house.

That work, plus the grading for a parking lot and an area where six tennis courts will be built would normally cost $200,000 to $300,000.

However, it won't cost a red cent, Gardner said. He explained that the Union of Operating Engineers, through a training program, are donating the labor and equipment.

Field house workers

Patrons of Pelham High School had a tour of the school's new athletic field house following a ribbon cutting Sunday. On hand for the occasion were fund raisers and school officials which in-

MRS. MICHAEL ELLISON
...the former Miss Killingsworth

Killingsworth weds Ellison

Miss Cynthia Lou Killingsworth and Michael Stanley Ellison were united in marriage October 8 at 7:30 p.m. at the Church of God of Prophecy in Calera. Rev. Gene Douglas, pastor of the church, officiated at the ceremony. A reception followed.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Buster H. Killingsworth and Mr. and Mrs. John David Ellison Sr. of Calera.

Gina Crawford of Calera, served as matron of honor. Other attendants were Sandi Lovejoy, Lisa Ellison and Robin Ellison, all of Calera. Flower girls were Connie Pardue and Janet Alverson, both of Calera.

The bride wore a white gown of sheer polyester with lace of rayon and acetate lining with a stand-up neckline and an illusion net front and back trimmed with simulated pearls. Schiffli embroidered lace at the hem extended to a Chapel length train.

Best man for the groom was Ricky Winterbottom. Other groomsmen were John Killingsworth, Dusty Ellison and Jeff Stewart, all of Calera. Todd Killingsworth and Steve Ellison were the candlelighters, and Chris Pardue served as ring bearer.

Paula Yoe was the soloist, and was accompanied by Donna Barnett on the organ.

After a wedding trip to the mountains, the couple will reside in Calera.

STATE OF ALABAMA PROCLAMATION
BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at the Regular Session of 1983 ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama on certain proposed amendments to the Constitution of Alabama, one of which is set out here as Act No. 83-683, and further ordered in Act No. 83-683 that said election on said amendments be held at the next special or general election held not less than three months after the final adjournment of the 1983 Regular Session of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the date of the next special or general election held not less than three months after the final adjournment of the 1983 Regular Session of the Legislature will be on or after November 8, 1983; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with this proposed amendment, is required by law and by the provisions of the Constitution of Alabama to be given by a Proclamation of the Governor, to be published in each county in the State of Alabama for four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for the election;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, George C. Wallace, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 8th day of November, 1983, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama in the manner and form provided by law upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of 1901 of the State of Alabama:

PROPOSED AMENDMENT

The State of Alabama, through the Alabama State Docks Department, is authorized to convey, without consideration, title to its real property, including docks, piers, wharves, and other facilities located in Lauderdale County, Alabama, and known as the Alabama State Docks to the Alabama State Docks Department, a public corporation, subject to existing leases and other contractual agreements now in effect. Any laws or parts of laws or any provisions of the Constitution of 1901, as amended, which are in conflict with this amendment are hereby revised, superseded and repealed to the extent they are in conflict with this amendment.

Notice of Publication of Bill

Filed and Proceeding in Rem to the Office of the Real Estate

Southern Haulers, Inc., Plaintiff, vs. Certain Land and Charley C. Jefferies, et al., Defendants.

In the Circuit Court of Shelby County, Alabama

Case No. CV-83-246(E)

To: The following described land situated in Shelby County, Alabama: The Northeast Quarter of the Northeast Quarter of Section Four, Township 22, Range 3 West which lies South and West of Shelby County, Alabama; and all heirs at law, next of kin, and devisees of Charley C. Jefferies, Charles Jefferies, Abe Brown, Katie Jefferies, and Charlie Jefferies, who are parties to said lawsuit, Plaintiff, against a diligent search and any and all other persons firms or corporations who may claim an interest in and to the above described property.

Take notice that Southern Haulers, Inc., has this day filed their verified complaint in said Court against the above named Defendants and against any and all persons claiming any title to, interest in, encumbrance upon the above described real estate or any part thereof or interest therein, and against all other persons, and against said lands for the purpose of establishing the title of said land in the said Southern Haulers, Inc., and to clear up all doubts and disputes concerning the same and that said suit is not pending in said Court.

Plaintiff alleges in said complaint that the title to said land stands in the name of the Plaintiff on the records in the Office of the Judge of Probate of Shelby County, Alabama, and said complaint further alleges that Plaintiff claims title to said land through virtue of a deed recorded in Deed Book 85, Page 512 in the Probate Office of Shelby County, Alabama, that during the time of Plaintiff's ownership, it had been in actual, peaceful, adverse possession, and that title to said lands has stood in Plaintiff's name on the records in the Office of the Judge of Probate of Shelby County, Alabama, for more than ten years prior to this date. The Plaintiff and their predecessors in title have assessed said real estate for said period of time except the Plaintiff and their predecessors in title and that no one has been in possession of said land or any part thereof since 1927, except the Plaintiff and their predecessors in title.

The Plaintiff after most reasonable and diligent search and inquiry were unable to determine whether or not they are living or dead, and if living, what their ages and addresses are at the present time, and if deceased, the names, age and addresses of their heirs or devisees, and if deceased, the names and addresses of any other parties who, unknown to Plaintiff, may claim an interest in or to the above described property, are unknown.

By the undersigned Clerk that publication of this notice be made in the Shelby County Reporter, a newspaper published and having a general circulation in Shelby County, Alabama, once a week for four consecutive weeks, and that all those to whom this notice is addressed and any and all persons claiming any title to, interest in, or lien or encumbrance upon, the above described real estate, or any part thereof, or any interest therein, be and they are hereby required to plead, answer or otherwise defend this cause within the time required by law, and not later than November 14, 1983.

It is further ordered that a copy of this notice, certified by the undersigned Clerk, as being correct, shall also be recorded as a lien pendens in the Office of the Judge of Probate of Shelby County, Alabama.

Done at office this 14th day of September, 1983.

Advertisement for Bids

Sealed proposals in duplicate for construction of entrance addition, Parnell Memorial Library, Montevallo, Alabama, will be received by the Owner at the Library, 180 Valley Street, Montevallo, Alabama, until two o'clock p.m. CDT on Tuesday, October 25, 1983 and then thereupon opened in the presence of the Owner and the Board of Trustees.

Only bids submitted by contractors licensed as required by applicable state and local laws will be considered.

Plans and specifications may be inspected at the Birmingham-Builders Exchange, F.W. Dodge Plan Room in Birmingham, Parnell Memorial Library, and at the office of the architect named below; or may be obtained from the architects by general contractors on deposit of $20.00 per set, which deposit will be refunded to bona-fide bidders in full on return of the plans and specifications in good order. The documents may also be obtained from the architect by persons other than general contractors on deposit of $20.00 per set, from which the actual cost of duplication of documents will be deducted and the balance refunded on return of the plans and specifications in good order.

Proposals shall state an estimated length of time required for completion of work, and the contract will be awarded to the bidder who proposes approximately that length of time.

Bid security in the form of a certified check, cashier's check or acceptable bid bond, payable to the Owner, in the amount of 5% of the bid (but not less than $10,000), must accompany each proposal.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish performance and labor-and-material payment bond in the amount of 100% of the contract price.

The right is reserved to reject any or all proposals and to waive technicalities. No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of 30 days after the date of opening of bids.

Weather, PIK take toll on 'King Cotton'

First to gin

Harpersville's Walter McCranie examines a sample of the cotton his fields have produced this season after a cold, wet spring and a hot dry summer. If it's any consolation, McCranie at least was the first farmer to go to the gins this year in Shelby County -- only two days later than last year. (Photos by Fred Guarino)

from staff reports

Something is askew in the Shelby County cotton industry. At blame is a late, cold and wet spring, and a 102° dry summer.

Nonetheless, the first Shelby County bale of cotton ginned this year was only two days later than last year.

Turned in September 27 at the Harpersville Co-op Gin by Walter McCranie, the first cotton was actually expected to be later.

"We always figured this summer that we'd be two weeks late," says gin owner Clyde Wyatt.

Even so... the bolls of cotton are generally smaller than normal, and the amount ginned each season is continuing to drop. That is much the picture across the state as well.

"Some places probably won't get a bale per acre," Wyatt says.

Joe Dawson, who runs the Harpersville gin pointed out that he used to gin about 4,500 bales per year. Last year he said only 2,300 bales were ginned. He expects this season's total to be about 1,000 bales.

Apart from the weather, Wyatt said the federal PIK program (Payment In Kind) has considerably lowered cotton crop expectations for 1983. In that program, the government pays farmers in surplus government cotton for acreage not planted.

Yet with three Shelby County gins already competing for the dwindling business -- the one at Harpersville, the Coosa Valley Gin at Vincent and the Bolton Gin near Wilsonville -- a new ginning operation is expected to come into the area.

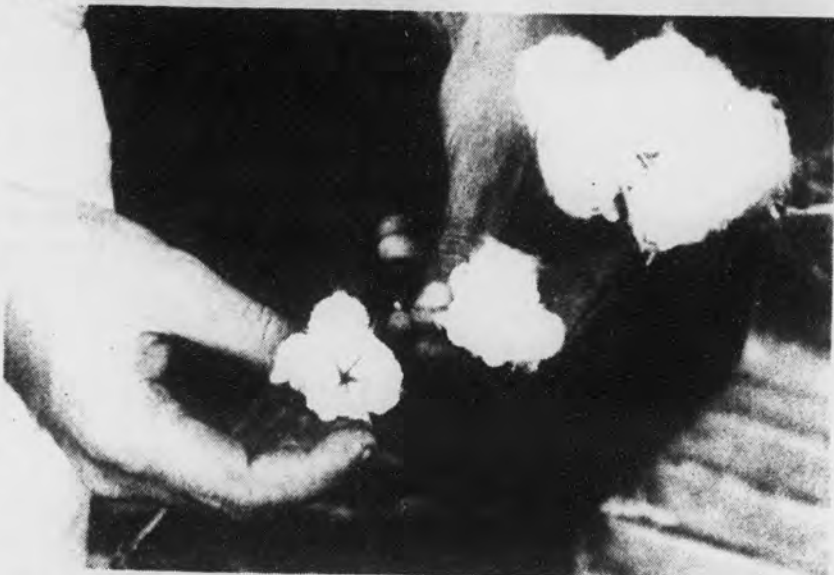

Dawson told the Reporter that a half million dollar gin will go in on the Chancellorville Dairy Road by the middle of July.

"There is not enough cotton to support the three gins we have," Dawson adds, "I can't find out who owns it (the new gin) but evidently that guy's got something up his sleeve or he wouldn't spend a half million dollars."

Gins process and bale cotton for growers, and haul it to where it is sold. Harpersville ginned cotton goes to Montgomery where it is sold to the Weil Brothers.

At the going rate -- "Which changes about every 15 minutes," Wyatt says -- cotton is bringing 70 cents per pound for lint and 8 cents per pound for seed.

In his first load on the year, McCranie brought in five bales of cotton (480-560 pounds each) which contained about 2,500 pounds of lint and 3,750 pounds of seed.

Lock boll nightmare

The small lock boll cotton on the left is a nightmare for Alabama cotton farmers. The result of poor weather conditions, the bad bolls mean less lint per acre for Harpersville farmer Walter McCranie. The cotton boll at the right is the way cotton should look but most Alabama farmers are finding bolls of that type few and far between.

And so how does your garden grow?

It's not too late to plant seeds for turnips and lettuce, but it will be by October 20.

You can also still put out onion sets.

This is the word from John E. Jones, agent with the county Extension service. Jones said in an interview with the Reporter that there is still time to raise cabbage, cauliflower and broccoli, if you have good plants to set out.

For those who do not go in for fall gardening, but look forward to next spring, Jones said that now is the time to clean up all the old vines and plants in the garden. "It's best to disc them into the soil to add organic material. That also eliminates the bugs and diseases," he says.

But if you don't have a disc, cut up the old vegetation and haul it off.

To keep your garden soil rich, and to reduce the need for expensive fertilizer, Jones advises planting a winter legume now. He says any of the clovers or vetches, kelley peas, or austin winter peas are good legumes that will add nitrogen to the soil.

One drawback is that you won't be able to start your garden until next April. The legumes must bloom before you can turn them over with a disc, to get the desired effect.

If you are expecting to plant any trees, wait until there is plenty of water in the ground. Another piece of advice from Jones is that you order trees early from nurseries. Orders are usually filled in the order received, and those who order first get the best quality plants. He also advised buying only varieties that are proven for this area.

The Extension office in Columbiana has a vegetable garden handbook free for the asking, as well as booklets on hundreds of other subjects.

New UM alumni chapter gets together with dinner

The newly-formed Shelby County Chapter of the University of Montevallo Alumni Association will hold a dinner meeting Thursday, Oct. 29, at 7 p.m. in the Montevallo Room in the University cafeteria. President Jim Vickrey will serve as keynote speaker.

While a few business matters will be discussed, the meeting is designed primarily to allow Shelby County alumni to become acquainted with one another and to develop a solid foundation on which to build the new alumni chapter, said Doug Trotter of Alabaster. Trotter is chapter president and assistant principal of Thompson Elementary School.

Cost of the meal is $7, and checks should be made payable to the University of Montevallo. To confirm reservations, checks should be mailed to the University of Montevallo, Station 300, Montevallo, AL 35115 by Oct. 18.

UM celebrates founding

The University of Montevallo is celebrating its founding with a focus on "Resource Requirements in a Changing World."

The University was founded in 1896 as Alabama Girls Industrial School, a statewide training institute for young women. It became Alabama College, the state college for women, in 1923 before becoming co-educational in 1956.

In 1969, the Alabama Legislature renamed the institute the University of Montevallo.

Activities for Founders Day, Oct. 13, include a prayer breakfast, academic convocation, annual fund kick-off luncheon and a Board of Trustees meeting.

Rev. Michael J. White, pastor of Our Lady of the Valley Church in North Shelby and formerly of Montevallo, will address the prayer breakfast which highlights the "spiritual" resource requirements.

The breakfast begins at 8:30 a.m. in the Anna Irvin Dining Hall.

Dr. Jerry G. Gaff, dean of the College of Liberal Arts at Hamline University in St. Paul, Minn., will address the academic convocation which highlights the "intellectual" resource requirements.

The convocation begins at 11 a.m. in Palmer Hall. Also during the convocation, seniors will be robed and Omicron Delta Kappa leadership honor society will hold tapping ceremonies.

On hand to kick-off the annual fund campaign will be Dr. Bonnie R. Strickland, a 1958 Montevallo graduate and national chairperson for the 1983-84 fund drive. She will address the alumni luncheon which begins at 12:30 p.m. in the Anna Irvin Dining Hall. The luncheon will highlight the "social/psychological" resource requirements.

Also at the alumni luncheon, "Outstanding Commitment to Teaching" awards will be presented for the first time. Sponsored by the alumni association, these awards will recognize two teachers with $1,000 and a plaque.

Health "Play Day" Activities, which emphasize the "physical" resource requirements, will be held at 2 p.m. in the Main Quadrangle. The Board of Trustees will meet at 3:30 p.m. in the Calkins Hall board room, and an all-campus picnic will conclude the day's festivities at 4 p.m. in the Main Quadrangle.

For meal ticket reservations and more information, call 665-2521, ext. 259.

Alabaster 'nanners

Billy Phillips doesn't live in Central or South America, but his hobby has its roots there -- so to speak. The Alabaster scout leader grows bananas in his Navajo Hills yard. The 'nanner hobby may be in for trouble, however, since the plants got too big during the summer to make their annual winter trip to basement. (Photo by Jerome Bannister)

Color yourself winter, spring or fall; Riverchase students learn how Keith Young is a summer. Renee Fowler is a winter. Lisa Catrett is a spring.

The season that the three Riverchase Middle School 8th graders represent was determined after a color analysis made during their home arts class.

Pat Baker presented a program Wednesday to help students determine which colors they look best in.

Mrs. Baker works for a company which puts on demonstrations to help women determine their best clothing and make-up colors, and how to choose accessories.

Since Andrea Thomas' home arts class is now examining their outward appearance during a self study, the color analysis fit right into the unit.

The following day, a local department store representative spoke to the students and put on a fashion show of the latest fall styles.

Thomas explained that home arts is an elective subject which is open to both girls and boys.

She said that the one semester course begins with a study of self, which covers what goes on inside the person -- such as feelings, emotions, dealing with other people, and outward appearance.

The course also covers subjects such as foods, cooking, consumerism and sewing.

Want to go to Greece?

Want to go to Greece? The English Department of the University of Montevallo is sponsoring a trip to Greece March 9-17 as its 11th annual AEA European tour.

Package cost for the trip includes round-trip airfare from Birmingham to Athens, seven nights in an Athens hotel (double occupancy with private bath), continental breakfast, half-day tour of Athens, all transfers to and from the Athens airport and all service charges and taxes.

An optional package of four sidetrips also is being offered. The four trips are a one-day Aegean cruise, with visits to Aegina, Hydra and Poros; a one-day tour to Delphi, site of the Temple of Apollo; and a half-day drive along the Aegean to Cape Sounion, site of the Temple of Poseidon.

In our country's armed services

Spec. 4 Michael J. Rice, has arrived for duty in Garlstedt, West Germany.

Rice was previously assigned at Fort Lewis, WA.

Rice is the son of Robert and Elizabeth Rice of Calera.

Army National Guard Pvt. Gerald W. Pate, has completed a wheeled-vehicle mechanic course at the U.S. Army Training Center in Ft. Jackson, SC.

He is a 1982 graduate of Shelby County High School, and the son of Doris and George W. Pate of Shelby.

Cadet Matthew Mace of Pelham has been officially accepted into the U.S. Air Force Academy's Cadet Wing as a member of the class of 1987 during the annual acceptance parade.

The academy is a four-year educational institution graduating men and women to serve as career Air Force officers. Mace is the son of Mr. & Mrs. Richard L. Mace of Pelham.

Airman Howard L. Gaddis, Jr. has been assigned to Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas after completing basic training.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the dental field.

Howard is the son of Howard and Doris Gaddis of Montevallo.

Spec 4 David E. Sims is home on leave from Ft. Hood, Texas prior to going overseas.

Sims will be visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alton E. Sims of Columbiana until Oct. 17 when he will leave for Germany for a 14-month tour of duty.

The Army specialist is a 1981 graduate of Shelby County High School.

Pvt. John D. Burt has completed basic training at Fort Dix, NJ.

John is the son of Betty Burt of Alabaster, and is a 1983 graduate of Thompson High School.

Staff Sgt. Shawn L. Browning has been promoted to his present rank after reenlisting in the U.S. Air Force.

He is a fuels specialist with the 91st Supply Squadron stationed at Minot Air Force Base ND and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Browning of Columbiana.

Four Shelby County residents were among the Alabama Army National Guard members attending a Noncommissioned Officer Course at Ft. McClellan in September.

The men and their units of assignment are: Staff Sgt. Albert L. Jackson, Jr. Alabaster, 167th Data Processing Unit, Montgomery; Staff Sgt. David L. Horton, Calera, HHD (-Det) Alabama Army National Guard, Pelham; Staff Sgt. Donald W. Penhale, Montevallo, Company C, 2nd Battalion, 152nd Armor, Calera; and Sgt. James L. Burnette Calera, a member of Co. C, 2nd Battalion, 152nd Armor, Calera.

Broken into basic, advanced and senior courses, the program of instruction is designed to upgrade knowledge and skills exercised by the NCO in leadership roles in the Army command structure.

RSVP director resigns

The RSVP advisory board met Tuesday at Shelby Medical Center to consider how better to reach the public.

Debate over whether to use unspent county contributions to purchase a slide projector for civic club talks was suspended when it was suggested that a projector may be contributed to the group. In other business, Mrs. Sue Pauli, executive director of the Birmingham-based allied group Positive Maturity, announced that she was resigning that position as of November 1 to relocate to Vermont.

Her successor has not yet been chosen.

Time of the Season

The time of the season may be fall, but for Renee Fowler (seated) it's spring -- at least according to the color analysis Pat Baker made of her at a recent demonstration at Riverchase Middle School. The demonstration was done in conjunction with Andrea Thomas' home arts class. (Photo by Bert Seaman)

Pledge told

Denise D. Hedrick of Alabaster has recently pledged the Chi-Omega sorority at Huntingdon College in Montgomery.

Pot, cocaine land three people in jail

by Fred Guarino

A Pelham husband and wife are both out of Shelby County Jail on bonds totaling $100,000 following their arrest last Friday for drug trafficking.

A Riverchase man, however, charged with intent to sell cocaine, is still being held in an Arkansas jail in lieu of a $500,000 cash bond.

Out on bonds of $50,000 each, according to the Shelby County Sheriff's Department, are husband and wife Jack Claude Townley, Jr. age 25 and Mary Campbell Townley, age 32 both of Deer Springs near Pelham.

The couple's arrest came two days after police searched their trailer on Kelly Drive, and turned up what is alleged to be $12,000 (street value) of illegal drugs.

Conducted Wednesday, October 12, the search of the Townley residence produced 15 pounds of South American quality marijuana and 80 tablets believed to be amphetamines.

A warrant was obtained, according to Pelham Police Captain Allan Wade, and the search was carried out by Pelham Police Investigators along with Shelby County Sheriff's Investigators, district attorney's personnel, and the Alabama Bureau of Investigation.

Wade said that the couple was not home at the time of the search but that they turned themselves in on Friday.

The couple made bond after being booked at the Pelham Police Station and transferred to the Shelby County Jail on the same day.

"These people had been under investigation for several months," Wade said.

According to the sheriff's department, preliminary hearings for both suspects have been set for November 3.

Jack Frederick Hoback of 1218 Lake Forest Circle, Riverchase, was arrested last Thursday in Arkansas in connection with an alleged two pounds of cocaine.

Hoback has been charged with possession with intent to distribute cocaine and is being investigated by Arkansas Police, the Arkansas FBI and the Birmingham FBI, but so far that's all local FBI spokesman Tom Moore will confirm.

Moore would only add that a plane was seized in connection with the arrest and that if convicted for his first offense the 47 year-old Hoback could get five years and a $15,000 fine. A second offense would carry a double sentence.

Councilman's home

Helena and Pelham firemen race to extinguish a fire at the home of Helena city councilman Billy Harris late Monday afternoon, as smoke billows from under the eaves. Alabaster hikes fine for DUI

Drunk driving in the City of Alabaster has always been $50 more expensive than most places in Alabama. But now it is even more expensive.

Monday night the city's council voted to raise its DUI fine from $300 to $450. The minimum fine allowed by law is $250.

The higher fine was requested by Alabaster Police Chief C.E. "Bull" Carter and municipal judge Joel C. Watson. It was unanimously passed by the council.

"The judge and I decided we'd go a little further than the state and make them stay off the road," Alabaster Police Chief C.E. "Bull" Carter told the Reporter. "There are definitely too many DUI's."

Carter said Alabaster statistics show that the city has been averaging 23 DUI arrests per month, and all reportedly registered higher than the .10 alcohol reading which is considered legally drunk.

"They are pretty well intoxicated when we arrest them. Some run .16 to .18 -- which is really dangerous," Carter said. "Thirty-three is fatal, yet we've had some go that high and still walk around. One posted a .22 -- that's twice drunk plus two."

"Their coordination is so bad that they'll think they're on one side of the road and be on another," Carter said, illustrating the need for the higher fines.

"I think it will be a big help," he said. "The word will get around that 'they you better not get caught in Alabaster,' and that will suit us just fine. We'd rather not arrest anyone."

But drunk drivers are not the only ones who will have to grab their wallets if caught in Alabaster. The city also raised the fine for driving with a revoked or suspended driver's license from $100 to $250.

"That because they (the courts) suspend their licenses and they still drive," said Carter.

One other Alabaster council action will also prove expensive. The city has raised the sales tax paid by automobile dealers to two percent of their yearly gross sales.

City Clerk Dot F. Ed that the city sales tax and raise back in 1976 to help man Holland Ford

"We felt like it was time to get it (the automobiles) back in said.

On the penny pinched coin, the city pointed a three-man to study a funding from the Youth Service Home.

Appointed to that were Jack Reagin, Calvin McCune and L. O. Farris. Henry said that the city's budget has been so tight that no donations were made to anyone last year.

She explained that once taxes start coming in and once it is certain that the Attention Home will continue its operation, the three man committee will study donation possibilities.

Wreck kills Calera man

Martin J. Reed, a manager-trainee at Jack's in Columbiana, was headed home early last Thursday when his car went off the shoulder of State 25.

As the 29-year old Calera man struggled to regain control on the rain slick road, he hit an oncoming car driven by 34-year old Joyce Pope of Columbiana.

Reed was killed in the crash which took place at 12:10 a.m. Thursday.

According to a spokesperson for Central Shelby Ambulance Service, Mrs. Pope suffered a broken wrist and complained of neck pain.

Her husband, Robert, a passenger in the car, reportedly received minor injuries.

Both were treated at Shelby Medical Center.

County and cities' budget plans leave Attention Home groping for money

by Bert Seaman

The Shelby County Commission slammed the door on the Attention Home's request for an increase in funding.

However, the Alabaster facility and Shelby Youth Services received federal funding Tuesday and a pat on the back for their outstanding work with the young people they serve.

The award for having the highest success rate in the entire state came from the State Supervisory Board of the Criminal Justice Council.

It was given to A-Home director Brenda Lee Rice when she went to Montgomery Tuesday to find out about funding.

Although she didn't get the $39,513 she was after, the Department of Economic and Community Affairs did award Rice $33,834.

This year's operating budget for the home and Shelby Youth Services, however, is $90,340.

With the $25,000 appropriation from the commission -- the same amount as last year, Rice noted -- and the promise of funding from seven cities, the budget will be short by $27,706.

Of the 13 Attention Homes operating in the state, Rice reported that Shelby and Lauderdale are the only two counties that have not increased their appropriations.

She had requested $10,000 more from the commission than it gave last year.

Jefferson and Autauga Counties have taken over the complete funding of the facilities in their counties, Rice said, adding that the other nine counties provide 50% funding for their programs. Shelby County, however, picks up only about 28% of the A-Home's budget.

Furthermore, Alabaster, Helena and Wilton have not agreed to provide any funding.

Without the federal funding, the home and Shelby Youth Services would have been out of business. As it is now, Rice said the home can probably operate only nine or ten months.

Despite the deficit budget prospects, Rice said she feels good about the home's future.

"We always have to raise about $27,000 to meet our budget every year, and somehow," she said with a laugh, "we always get it raised."

In addition to soliciting donations from the private sector, Rice and her staff will also keep on with their fund raising events like the annual golf tournament.

During the past year, the A-Home and SYS have served 299 young people.

Sheriff's budget questioned

by Fred Guarino

Something -- to the tune of $300,000 -- doesn't add up in the new $2.1 million budget for the Shelby County Sheriff's Department.

According to Sheriff Buddy Glasgow, Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden told him the sheriff's department received the same funding this year as last year. Glasgow also said he did not over-run his old budget.

But last Friday Snowden disagreed on both counts. He said the sheriff's budget was increased by $300,000 -- because of an over-run last year.

Snowden asked that the Reporter confirm the increase with his staff, which was done. Even accounting for changes in the way the county now figures its budget, there appears to be a serious difference of opinions and dollars between Snowden and Glasgow.

Explaining the budget procedure changes, Snowden said that expenses carried over from last year are not shown in this year's sheriff's budget. "They Candidates talk issues

by Fred Guarino

Which issues do the voters of north Shelby County consider important for the state elections to be held Tuesday, November 8?

According to remarks last week by members of the Indian Springs Civic Club's Womens Auxiliary, the topics are: education funds, money to help children with special needs, use of county taxes, and the proposed state constitution.

On November 8, Shelby Countians will elect a representative to the newly formed House Districts 40 and 41, and a senator to new Senate District 14.

To allow candidates an opportunity to address the issues, the women hosted a political forum at the Riverchase Family Medical Center.

Answering questions from the floor were Independent Ed Gentry, Republican Al Knight and Democrat John Tanner who seek the district 40 house seat, and senate seekers Republican Don Murphy and Democrat Frank "Butch" Ellis.

Asked Eunice Huntress: "What do you feel about HUD grants for a new County Attention Home?" She also asked Murphy why he did not support a previous grant for the same purpose.

Jan Phillips, who reported the sale of candy by Inverness Elementary children to raise funds for required items such as phones, garbage, sewerage and nurse services, asked: "If you could increase taxes (to meet these needs) how would you handle the break down?"

Asked Shirley Lee: "How many of you would support tuition tax credits for parents who must pay tuition to private schools because public schools have failed?"

Kathryn Coleman asked, "Should the County Commission or the County Law Enforcement Personnel Board have authority over the pay of sheriff's deputies?"

An unidentified person asked about the new constitution.

The county pay question erupted into a debate between Ellis and Murphy which was reported in last week's Reporter.

Concerning the Attention Home, Murphy, who served as a state representative in the past session of the legislature, responded:

"I did support that bill. I wasn't informed about it or asked to support it... The grant was not turned down because of no local support." He added that he would support grant seeking bills in the future.

Ellis said "absolutely" that he would support the Attention Home, then contradicted Murphy's earlier remarks. "I am not qualified to know what caused the last bill to fail. It was reported that it had no local support."

Tanner stated that he had supported the Attention Home all along, and that he would continue to do so.

"Most definitely," answered Gentry. "We are all in an income status where federal grants are hard to come by. Anytime west Shelby County has an opportunity to get a grant I will jump on it."

Knight provided levity by quipping, "I wonder what would happen if one of (us) said no? (to an Attention Home grant) I would support (the Attention Home). That goes without saying."

Knight led in the response to a question as to tax increases to support Inverness School.

"We've got five mills we can add. Why are our school systems waiting around? Why hasn't the state superintendent come down and assessed things?" he asked.

"I can't give you a direct answer," he said of any tax break down. "But we have got to get a balance between state and local help. There is no question we need a tax increase."

Gentry credited the absence of necessities at Inverness to poor planning. He added that no one from the community had been willing to step forward and take the heat.

Ellis said lack of priority setting was one of the schools' continuing problems. He also criticized the idea of band-aid fixes without learning the causes of breakdowns. "But if 51 percent of us decide we want something, nothing short of military intervention by Russia will stop us," he said.

Murphy suggested that the people of north Shelby County establish their own school district if the rest of the county did not want higher taxes. "If you want a school district of your own, take it and vote on it," he said.

The question of tax credits for parents who must pay private school tuitions brought negative responses from all five candidates.

"I don't believe in running away from problems," said Murphy. "If you (give a tax break) you would create a lot larger problem... people taking money out from public education."

"I sympathize with the problem but unless some compromise could be made that would not destroy public education, I could not live with (such credits)," said Tanner.

"We must elect representatives that understand education," said Gentry. He said that the problem with public education is that not enough money is spent.

I am opposed to a tuition tax credit," said Knight.

Ellis stated that as much as he would like to disagree with Republican Knight, he could not on the tax credit issue.

Four of the five candidates responded negatively to the new constitution.

Knight said that it was designed in committee and he was offended that it was not drawn by constitutional convention. Ellis said he felt even worse about the lack of a constitutional convention.

Gentry called it a document drawn by special interests, and "too questionable to vote yes on."

Candidate Murphy did not have an opportunity to comment on the Constitution, because another questioner intervened and the debate moved on.

$200 reward

On October 8 a masked gunman ambushed Terry Gabert at the window of his pickup as Gabert was about to make a night bank deposit for Southeastern Meats. On October 10 Lee Phelps found the bag in a creek and turned in the checks and food stamps (but an undisclosed amount of cash is still missing). For his honesty, Gabert and the store owners rewarded Phelps with $200. "I shouldn't have any trouble spending it," the Thompson Middle School student said. (Photo by David F. Moore)

Did you see man in pickup?

Where were you the evening of Saturday, October 8?

If you were at the Pelham Food World between seven and 7:10, you may be able to help police solve the armed robbery of a store manager that was making a night deposit at a nearby bank.

A hefty white male about 40-45 years old took a blue bank bag from Terry Gabert about 7:05 and drove south on Lee Street in Gabert's pickup.

Apparently the suspect pulled into the rear of Food World where he abandoned the black, 1978 Chevrolet Silverado near the southwest corner of the building.

"It's unknown if he ever got into another vehicle," said Pelham investigator Donnie Guyer, "but it can be assumed he did."

Anyone who recalls seeing someone around the back side of the store that evening is urged to call Guyer at 663-6304.

Developer sues Pelham

by Bert Seaman

The prediction that a lawsuit would be filed after the Pelham City Council turned down Steve Russo's rezoning request has come true.

Joe Dean, who lives on State 261 (Helena Road) near where Russo wanted to build townhouses or apartments, said he anticipated a suit being filed after the August 15 meeting in which the zoning was denied.

The council voted against the rezoning after a crowd of homeowners, whose land adjoined Russo's 26 acres on Helena road, objected to his intent to build townhouses or apartments there.

In the suit the Vestavia resident has filed in Shelby County Circuit Court, he asks for a reversal of the council's decision.

The suit also asks for $250,000 in damages.

Russo's suit claims that the construction of multi-family dwellings is the best use of the property. He also contends that his development of the property will improve it and the surrounding area.

However, those living nearby disagree.

They pointed out at the time that drainage problems would become worse, traffic would increase on the two-lane highway, and property values would be lowered.

In trying to win his case, Russo is using a letter written by the late Paul Yeager, former Mayor of Pelham. It promised that Russo's 26 acres would be rezoned for multi-family dwellings if Russo would agree to annex it into the city.

He had thought the zoning designation had been changed from R-1 (single family), Russo told the council when he appeared before them.

When he found out that was not the case, he said he had tried unsuccessfully several years ago, to get the council to make the change.

The city's attorney, Frank Ellis, is defending the case for the city.

280 group worries about signs

by David F. Moore

Eating establishments are sorely needed to feed the growing business communities along the US 280 corridor. Nonetheless, some members of the Horizon 280 Association have reservations

UM gets two grants

Three UM dorms will soon be renovated at a cost of $3.3 million, and $205,913 will be spent on an energy management system at the University.

The College Housing program of the U.S. Department of Education will pay for the renovations, according to an announcement from U.S. Senator Jeremiah Denton.

The central control energy management system will be funded by the Alabama Department of Energy, according to an announcement from Governor George C. Wallace.

The system will govern 10 buildings and is expected to save 8.4 billion BTU's and $81,947 per year.

about apparent plans for two fast food restaurant there -- and those reservations aren't for dinner.

According to association president Leo Karpeles, Wendy's Hamburgers will be building soon on Colonial Properties' development across from Inverness, and Jack's Hamburgers will be building next to a liquor store at the Cahaba River on land owned by Sam Fiorella.

Karpeles -- who made the point at a recent association meeting -- is concerned that the chains will erect big, bright metal signs that will clash with the association's attempts to "maintain the integrity" of the 280 corridor.

"But," he said to the Reporter, noting the signs at several quick-stop stations on 280 "when the planning commission doesn't enforce the sign ordinances it already has, what difference does it make?"

"All we can do is hope they (the restaurants) comply with our requests."

"We've written both of them," said association officer Elton Stephens, Jr., "and asked that they tone down their signs. The big, tremendous, ugly sign isn't necessary to get the business."

Stephens pointed out several fast food restaurants that were doing good business without, say, the traditional big bright arches. He noted that all the major developers along the corridor were working to maintain an uncluttered look through smaller signs and attractive landscaping.

"We're hopeful that it'll catch on and we'll have a nice looking highway," Stephens said. "But it could get screwed up over night."

Voter deadline set

Friday, October 28 is the voter registration deadline for residents who want a say in the upcoming general elections. At stake for Shelby County in the November 8 election are two state representative seats and one state senate seat, as well as a new, proposed state constitution. According to Shelby County Board of Registrars Chairman Vestula Thompson, residents in north Shelby who want to save a trip to Columbiana can register or re-identify at Pelham City Hall from 4 p.m. - 8 p.m. on Monday, October 24. Registrars will be working on Tuesday, October 25, at Christ Church United Methodist on Caldwell Mill Road from 4 p.m. - 8 p.m. The registrars are in room 301 of the courthouse from 8-4, weekdays. People wishing to register or re-identify are asked to bring their social security number, Thompson said. For more information call 669-3197 or 669-3198.

Board hears grievance

by Bert Seaman
Jerry Adams told members of the Pelham City Council Monday that he thought they had acted unwisely in changing the method of making appointments to the personnel board. When the council appointed all three members to board, rather than let employees name one member, a feeling of team spirit was lost, Adams said. The reason for the change, Councilman Ken Maynard explained, was because the council sensed that an "adversary relationship" was developing. "We were trying to head off a potentially serious problem," Maynard said. He went on to say that employees seemed to be under the impression they were appointing someone to represent them. But it was the council's intent, he explained, to have three impartial individuals on the board. The way it was originally set up the city would have named one member to the board, employees another member, and both groups would have agreed on a third party. Adams said he was the employees' choice for the third board member. He told council members he had been waiting to be interviewed by them when he heard from a city employee that the appointments had already been made. "They held their elections as fairly as anyone could," he insisted, adding that each candidate had been interviewed separately. Adams claimed the incentive had been taken out of the program for employees when their right to choose a member was taken away. "I think you're going to get the feeling from them," he said, "that you're operating with a dictator-like hand." Maynard countered the remark by pointing out the idea behind the personnel board "is to protect our people -- not set up a bureaucracy." Councilman Bob Cleveland reminded Adams that after the board heard an employee's grievance and made its recommendation, it was the council that had the final say. "We probably gave the board the wrong name," Mayor Burk Dunaway remarked. "It should have been called the grievance board since that's what it's for." The board, he noted, does not have anything to do with hiring or setting salaries. When the council made their appointments, they named Bobby Hayes, Lewis Leverett and Joe Littlefield to the board. John Tanner was the only councilman who voted against changing the method of making appointments so that the city made them all.

Calera adds to park, fights for Hwy 25

The Calera Park and Recreation Board now has the go ahead to develop 46 additional acres of Oliver Park. Mayor Carl Prichard requested Monday night that the board begin construction of a new high school baseball field and adult softball field. The development will be funded by revenue sharing money already earmarked for park use.

The time table, said Prichard, is "as soon as possible." In what proved to be a brief session of the city council, Mayor Prichard had other requests as well. He asked that city council members accompany him to Birmingham Thursday to petition for a "long over due and neglected" upgrade of State Highway 25.

At a special meeting with state highway planning officials, the mayor hopes to display Reporter news articles on the dangers of the rough, two-lane thoroughfare as part of his effort to have something done. The meeting will be held at 4 p.m. at the State Highway Department building. Friday, the mayor has also requested council members to accompany him to Montgomery.

This time he hopes to receive full plan approval for a new sewerage treatment plant in Calera. The mayor said the city has been disappointed that the plan presently approved by the Alabama Department of Environmental Management (ADEM) deletes many necessary items.

Planners pass 280 zoning, subdivisions

by David F. Moore
The Shelby County planners gave go-aheads Monday to the Motel for Pets and three north Shelby subdivision expansions.

During the two and a half hour meeting at Valley Elementary, the Shelby County Planning and Zoning Board approved a change in zoning from O&I (office and institutional), to B-2 (general business) for the Motel for Pets on US 280.

According to board chairman Paul Owens, the request was made by owner David Charlton on behalf of veterinarian Randy Britt. Owen said Britt is buying the kennel and wants to expand the office building.

The business pre-dates Beat 12 zoning, and was "grandfathered" into its O&I neighborhood, Owens said. The B-2 change was necessary for expanding the business.

In other action: Without any further incident, the board approved a 40-lot addition to Old Mill Trace which had previously stirred protest and legal action.

Owens said that following a previous zoning change for the new sector from R-1 to R-2, area residents brought up a law suit against the board. With the arrangement to include a new access road to Old Mill Trace off

Mc Guire Road, the suit has been dropped and the new sector was approved last Monday for the Sorrell Development Company. A final plat for a small Meadow Brook addition was also approved. With the filing of the papers in the courthouse, Owens said an eight-lot sector on Meadow Brook Drive will be ready to sell soon. A 27-lot final plat off State 119 in a second phase of Broken Bow was also approved by the board.

Arrests made at drop off bin

Two Clanton women were arrested Thursday night in Pelham for allegedly stealing clothes from a Salvation Army drop off bin. According to police reports, Sgt. Mike Brasher spotted the women about 9 p.m. at the bin at the Shelby Mart, loading a white plastic bag into a 1976 white Ford pickup. Brasher apprehended the women as they drove off. According to Lt. Tommy Thomas, both confessed that night to taking the bag. The bag contained discarded shoes and clothes valued by a Salvation Army spokesman at about $90. Charged with third degree theft are Mary Nell Blankenship, 50, and Mary Darlene Baker, 57. The two women are sisters. They were released on $300 cash bond each. Police and area businessmen say that one man in particular has been periodically stealing articles from the Salvation Army and Goodwill bins at Pelham Mart, but so far no arrests have been made.

Editorial

A thief is a thief is a ...

A rose is a rose is a rose -- right? So a thief is a thief is a thief?

Somehow, we don't think so.

Take Robin Hood for instance. A folk hero, but a thief nonetheless. He robbed people -- and even if they were rich, that doesn't make it right. Stealing is wrong. Society can't condone it. It hurts us physically, hurts us morally. Give us a break. We've got enough to put up without people stealing from one another.

But somehow this old Hood fellow doesn't quite bother us too badly. At least he didn't appear to have only self-centered interests in mind. After all, he did give the booty he took to the poor, the needy, the downcast.

The fact that Hood was stealing from the evil Sheriff of Nottingham -- actually more of a 'hood' than merry Robin -- maybe that makes us want to think a little more kindly about this seemingly exceptional thief of yore from Sherwood Forest.

Sure Robin was wrong. He was a thief. But...

No court or judge has yet found guilty two women arrested last week for allegedly taking some $90 worth of clothes from the Salvation Army drop-off bin in Pelham. We'd like to hope that just maybe there was some mistake there. Maybe the clothes were theirs to start with and they realized they'd left something important in one of the pockets. Some food stamps or something. Maybe.

And maybe there's some mistake about the reports we've received from some generally reliable folks who tell us about a certain man they've watched (allegedly, again) taking furniture from a Goodwill bin on US 31.

(He has apparently quit, or moved this alleged operation. But he might as well know that we've had a photographer stake out the bin and if we get a picture of him taking something we will slap it on the front page of the newspaper, as well as offer it to the wire services.)

It could be this fellow's very well meaning and is repairing the Goodwill donations himself before passing them on to the poor. Maybe he's just trying to save the middle man the trouble and gas of driving to Pelham. Maybe.

Thanksgiving and Christmas are just around the corner. With this in mind, we remind ourselves that we should try to keep warm places in our hearts and thoughts for all people. But at the same time we can't quite forget that Halloween is just around the corner, too...

I may not have much, but I don't steal from the donation bins that provide a twinkling of help to the needy in our area. Take my sofa if you're that hard up to furnish your house or flea market. Leave my wife and cats, but take my old tennis shoes, sweaters and trousers if you are cold. Take my wallet if you want to buy bread.

But don't stoop so low as to steal from those who are already poor, or to steal from the Salvation Army or the Goodwill. That's going too far. Too low.

A thief is a thief is a thief? Even an alleged thief?

No. Some apparently stoop even lower than others.

Letters to the editor

SMC staff rates top marks

Letter to the Editor:

On August 24, 1983 I was taken to Shelby Medical Centers emergency room. The prompt attention I received was unbelievable. Dr. Boone immediately called Dr. Brackin, who had me admitted to SMC for surgery the following day.

I spent eight days following my surgery. In this time I met and was cared for by many dedicated people. I would like to thank Dr. Boone, Dr. Brackin, Dr. Jones, and Dr. Abernathy. Also nurses and aides on the 3rd floor. Especially Mrs. Whitfield, and Mrs. Waldrop.

With dedicated people like those at SMC my stay there was made less difficult. I would also like to comment on the housekeeping personnel. My room was clean and well kept.

The bright spot of the day was a housekeeper named Sally, who always had something funny to say. She is a great person, as well as a housekeeper.

I wish to thank the people from therapy, especially Vivian, for her patience with me, and Larry from Dr. Brackin's office.

I think the people of Shelby County are very fortunate to have a hospital like SMC to take care of their health needs.

Do preachers sell Sunday?

Letter to the Editor:

I am wondering why the store managers that the preachers have gotten warrants for, have not gotten warrants for the preachers.

Preachers preach on Sunday, get a monthly salary, take up collections, so they are selling on Sunday. Why don't they preach on Saturday and rest on Sunday?

People are not forced to buy on Sunday, and I don't think any more people will go to church because the stores are closed on Sunday.

I just wanted to give my view and I believe some others will view this as I have.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Arlene Warbington

Teacher talk

Editor's note -- 'Teacher Talk' is a series of articles written for the Reporter by members of the Shelby County Education Association. Ellis is a kindergarten teacher at Helena Elementary School, and has taught five years in Shelby County.

by Diane Ellis

That magical age called five is a time of wonder and questions, a time of curiosity and getting into things. It is energy beyond belief and a time of quick sorrows and much laughter.

Today we try to teach the whole child; that means we provide activities that develop the mind, body, and spirit.

We know that until people feel good about themselves, they cannot feel good about others and cannot learn and develop to their potential. Most early childhood teachers believe their primary task is to help each child feel good about who he/she is.

We now know that a child has to become involved to learn. He/she has to see and feel, taste and smell. Becoming involved almost always means getting messy, dirty, wet or rumped. Becoming involved often means noise and much activity. A clean, quiet child may not be a learning child.

Problems are most likely to be solved if they are perceived as needed by the child, and are meaningful to the immediate situations. When a child can talk about a problem, this tells you that he/she is mature enough to help solve it. If you can motivate the child to want to solve his/her own problems, behavior will be sustained until a solution is found.

In addition to food, shelter, and clothing, people need fun, success, and love...

Every day... laugh with your child, praise your child, and tell your child that you love him/her.

The goal in kindergarten is the same as that for any grade level of instruction. It is to know each child's level and abilities and go from there at the child's own rate. It is to build into the child a feeling of worth and importance.

Tips for a happy kindergartner:

1. Send your child to school in clothes-for-learning; wash-and-wear items are best. Please do not send your child dressed so that you must say, "Don't get dirty."

Print names on all clothing that your child might take off at school (sweaters, coats, caps, mittens, boots, raincoats). Use a felt tip pen that won't come off in the wash.

3. Mothers and fathers are wanted and welcome to help in class. Please see the teacher and sign up for a weekly hour of fun. If you cannot help regularly, come when you can. At least plan to visit the classroom twice during the year.

These are things your child will study and learn in kindergarten:

- School helpers and safety rules
- Home and family life
- Pets and animals in the zoo; the circus
- Neighbors at home, in the community, in other countries
- Calendar, weather, and seasonal facts
- Holidays; transportation; communication around the world
- Good nutrition habits; where our food comes from, etc.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member of the FDIC.

You never know what a day will bring. Like today. The sun came up, flirting with the verberna bed, before it settled on the rose vine. Two jaybirds hunted acorns in a wateroak, and a mockingbird flapped his wings up and down trying to scare up a bug. There was a little wind. It hardly moved the leaves on the dogwoods and ran off after a little behind the okra patch.

After breakfast I had gone out to Vera Strickland's house and filled my basket with dead ripe scuppernongs. They hung like grapes on the vine, most of them half-hidden under the brown leaves.

On the way home I stopped by Elbert and Hazel Gibson's place and pulled up peanut vines and picked the peanuts off, sitting in an old rocking chair Elbert had brought out the day before. Before I left, I grazed in his okra patch, and made arrangements to haul some grass the next day.

In a hickory tree on the edge of the garden a grey squirrel had found a nut. He sat in a fork and nibbled on it, and fussed a little because I was so close to his tree. A hawk sailed over and made a shrieking noise and the squirrel slipped out of sight.

I came back to town and stopped at Hap and Dorothy Hatchett's house and got another sack of okra. And further on, a mile out of town, I got turnip greens and mustard and rape out of Willard and Lois Cross's garden.

Suddenly, without our knowing it, the clouds had gathered. A drop of rain splattered on the grass, and before I got home we were getting a light shower.

The week before Leslie Seale had hauled me five loads of dirt from Buddy Stonecypher's lake bed and Roland Foster had spread it out with his machine.

When I got home, Amy said: "Maybe you'd better take the car to Birmingham and leave it and bring the truck back. We need to get the grass from Elbert and get it out before the rain set in."

And that's why, at 12:30 I pulled into our driveway in Woodlawn. But I might as well have stayed at home. In my hurry to get away and get back before too late, I had gone off and left my truck keys in Shelby.

Today, having just heard about it, a nice lady said: "Skillet, you must be getting old."

"No way," I answered. "I'm just aging."

Scrambled Eggs

by Bert Seaman

It seemed that I was no sooner out of bed Wednesday, than I was on the road heading for my first assignment.

Even though the night before had been a late one putting last week's paper to bed, I actually managed to arrive on time.

Assignment number two also went off without and I found myself on the way to my third stop of the morning.

It was one stop too many!

Because we usually work so late on Tuesday nights, we generally claim Wednesday as a slow day so we can catch our breaths. But this Wednesday was definitely not slow.

I arrived at stop number three with no real idea of why I was there. Fortunately, when I asked a lady if she knew what the requested assignment might be she turned out to be the one who had called me to start with.

Maybe all these late nights and frantic dashings about have finally gotten to me, I thought.

With this in mind, I decided it might be a good idea -- just in case I was about to go off my rocker -- to have a friendly legal-type attorney draw up a document giving someone my power of attorney. Then, if had to be put in a nut house, there would be someone to pay my bills and keep my affairs in order.

You think I'm kidding, but there are so many things that can push a person over the edge -- especially in this business.

I mean, look at my editor. He's always harping at me for not writing things soon enough. Sometimes I think he wants me to write 'em before they happen. (Editor's note: You're catching on, Bert...)

What else could make me go nuts?

Let me count the ways -- I could lose my car keys; lock myself out of the office; call somebody by the wrong name; not recognize a person who works in the next building when I see her someplace else, or I could even have two more granddaughters.

There're hundreds of other things which I don't have room to list.

Anyhow, in the event I slip over the edge of sanity, I wondered who would be a good person to put in charge of my worldly goods, and who would be responsible for my well being.

It would have to be someone dependable and trustworthy.

When I took the matter up with my friendly attorney, he scratched his head a minute and then made a suggestion.

"Of course," I exclaimed. "There's no better choice."

Now I can go off the deep end at any time -- secure in the knowledge that President Ronald Reagan is looking after my welfare.

You think I'm kidding, but I actually have a document to that effect.

I wonder what Ronnie will say when he finds out?

The Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

The proposed new State Constitution which will be on the ballot Nov. 8 (unless the Supreme Court takes it off at the last minute) is running into ever-mounting opposition. The more the experts look at it, the less they like it.

The initial blow was dealt by a blue-ribbon panel of constitutional lawyers appointed by the State Bar Association to look at the document. This group of legal heavyweights overwhelmingly (the vote was 14-to-1) said the document should not be ratified.

Later came similar calls for rejection by the Association of County Commissions, the Alabama League of Municipalities and the Alabama Chamber of Commerce.

It is becoming increasingly apparent that the proposed constitution which was forced through the Legislature largely through the efforts of Lt. Gov. Bill Baxley, is seriously flawed, at least in the eyes of constitutional authorities.

What is it that the much-publicized coalition of the AEA/ADC/AFL - CIO/ Alabama Trial Lawyers is looking for from the 1984 Legislature?

It has been learned that the Democratic legislative candidates handpicked by the State Democratic Executive Committee -- which is largely controlled by the coalition -- were asked to give their support to six proposed measures.

The AEA is seeking collective bargaining for teachers and a pay raise; the AFL-CIO wants the lawmakers to pass the Agency Shop and Prevailing Wage bills; the Trial Lawyers want the same two measures they didn't get in 1983 -- Comparative Negligence and the measure increasing the minimum liability insurance from $10,000 to $25,000. The ADC asked for no specific legislation since its interests are largely the same as the AEA.

Odds and Ends -- The Montgomery mayor's race, which attracted interest far beyond the police jurisdiction of the city, boiled down largely to a white vs. black contest. Incumbent Mayor Emory Folmar overwhelmed challenger Franklin James in the predominantly white precincts; James in turn overwhelmed Folmar in the predominantly black precincts. Since whites outnumber blacks by a 60-40 margin in Montgomery, Folmar won reelection by a comfortable margin...

While several Republicans are gearing up to take on U.S. Sen. Howell Heflin next year when he runs for reelection, there is still no sign that any Democrat has any inclination to take on the incumbent...

While most of the incumbent Democrats kicked out the Legislature by the State Committee screamed in protest, not so Sen. Lister Hill Proctor. Why was he so gracious when the committee bypassed him and picked Sen. John Teague as the nominee? Rumors have it that Proctor has his eyes on running for Congress if and when Congressman Bill Nichols steps down, and Proctor understandably wants to run as a Democrat.

Sheriff's budget

(the carried over expenses) were still given to him, but they were shown under a different account."

Courthouse personnel reported that even if the the carried over expenses are deducted on paper, they reduce the sheriff's $300,000 increase by only $19,487.50.

Snowden added that while the sheriff's budget includes no pay increases or new personnel, it does allow the purchase of four new cars.

"Tommy (Snowden) told me that the commission approved the same thing as last year," Glasgow told the Reporter. "I don't know what could have gone over (the budget from last year)."

Snowden, however, would not confirm the sheriff's statement. He said he was certain that he told Glasgow that his budget was being increased by $300,000.

Even with the carry-over removed from the sheriff's old and new budgets, figures showed he still received a $280,512.50 increase.

All totaled, the new budget figures show the sheriff's budget was raised from $1,825,061.56 to $2,125,061.56.

Sheriff Glasgow refused further comment.

Wrong name

In the Reporter's listing of the new county budget last week, the 'Department of Pensions and Security' was inadvertently transcribed from notes as 'Prison Security.'

DPS is being budgeted $3,900. There is no separate breakdown for 'Prison Security.'

John Murphy (l) of Alabaster and Paul Craft of Pelham were two of the amateur radio operators who participated in a weekend training drill which called for a tornado touchdown in two areas of the county. Their base of operations was the Red Cross building in Alabaster.

Radio Hams stay ready

by Bert Seaman

Although not many people were aware of it, two major disasters struck Shelby County over the weekend.

Tornadoes touched down in an Alabaster subdivision and in downtown Columbiana, causing injuries, several deaths and over $1 million in damages.

No -- you didn't sleep through it, because it didn't really happen. But it could have.

That's why amateur radio operators stage simulated events like this one -- to keep themselves prepared for times of emergency.

The drill was part of the nationwide SETS -- or Simulated Emergency Tests -- done in conjunction with Amateur Radio Emergency Service (ARES) groups across the country.

During Saturday's simulated disaster, 20 members of SCARES -- the Shelby County group of volunteer hams -- set up communication links with agencies such as Civil Defense and Red Cross.

Paul Creed, who made up the local emergency scenario and served as coordinator, reported that 50 or more ham radio operators in Jefferson County were also involved in the exercise.

Since the Alabaster subdivision of Southwind was one of the designated disaster sites in the simulation, the plan called for homeless residents to be transported to Thompson High School. Communications would have been set up there had it been an actual emergency.

For the purpose of the exercise however, the radio operators used the Red Cross building on Main Street in Alabaster, and communications were set up in Columbiana in the Civil Defense building.

Explaining the importance of the training, Creed pointed out that the radio operators have to be prepared to cope with all types of problems.

For example, during the weekend exercise radio operators in Alabaster found someone talking on their frequency.

However, the person responsible for creating the "traffic" had done so on Creed's instructions "so they can learn to work through interference."

Calling the exercise a success, Creed said it showed that every part of the county could be reached by radio.

The Shelby County group will be engaged in another exercise next month which involves search and rescue. Creed reported that this will be held November 4 at Oak Mt. State Park.

SCARES officers for the upcoming year are President Jerry Caudill of the Meadow Brook community, vice president Bill Fleet of Pelham, and secretary/treasurer Sue Pritchard, also of Pelham.

The club meets the second and fourth Fridays of the month at 7 p.m. at the Civil Defense building.

recipients to report monthly, and required step parents to assume some financial responsibility for the children, Mrs. Lucas said.

Car seat arrests made

Only two arrests have been made in Shelby County since the law requiring young children to be strapped into safety-approved car seats was passed in July.

suffer serious injury in a collision if they are not securely fastened in a car seat.

Free car seats are available to those who cannot afford them in Shelby County. Various civic groups have donated funds for car seats. Shelby Medical Center can provide further information on the subject.

According to the circuit clerk's office, state troopers made the arrests in both the cases, and stated they had stopped the automobiles for other reasons, and then discovered the car seat violation.

Car seats are considered vital to protecting young children, who can be thrown about and Except for homecoming...

Young Warriors keep winning

Except for homecoming, Thompson Youth Footballers have enjoyed the sweet taste of victory recently.

The only sour spots for this season were losses by the 70, 80, 95 and 105-pound Warriors against Huffman, Saturday, October 15.

But even homecoming was not a total wipe out as the 120-pound Warriors came through for a 48-18 win and Courtney Thames and Natalie Moore were crowned homecoming queens.

In other recent Thompson action:

The same 120-pound Thompson Warriors whipped Gardendale 40-0 in what Coach Bob Thames called their best playing of the year.

Scoring was by Dwayne Payton, John Woody, Andy Lackey and Brian Bunn.

Defensive standouts were Wes Gilbert, Mike Metrock, Joe Filyaw, Barry Duke, Payton, Bunn, Woody, Bret Boutwell, Jimmy Fortenberry, Greg Thorson, Bobby Knight, Chad Ingram, Mike Barefoot and Brady Thames.

The 105-pound Warriors defeated Pleasant Grove 35-7.

Scoring in that game was handled by Lee Weeks, Chad Horrell and Jeremy Perkins with Jake Bishop and Chris Bunn responsible for safeties.

Defensive standouts were Scott Queen, Dana Lazeby, Shun Buckner, Paul Sallis, and Mike Friedman.

The 95-pound Warriors also defeated Huffman 39-6 with eight different players reaching pay dirt.

Scoring points were Kevin Flynn, Kevin Hale, Chris Smith, Brian Boyington, Brandon Dockery, Greg Martin, Dolan Miles, and Jason Edmonson.

Pelham routs Adamsville

"Come on all you Panther fans, get on up and clap your hands!"

That is the chant heard each week from a group of energetic young cheerleaders who avidly support their team - the 65-lb. Pelham Panthers. The young football team ran its record to 5-1 this past Saturday with a rousing 36-0 homecoming victory over the Adamsville Lions.

These young boys practice four days every week to improve their skills under the leadership of Head Coach Rick Buffkin and Assistant Coaches Chris DeHaven, Dick Johnson and Weston Sisson.

The 65-lb. team displayed its wide range of scoring talent with Preston Hill running for one touchdown and receiving a perfect pass from Kurt Weselius for a second TD. Bryan, Dial, Colin Glenn and quarterback Kyle Buffkin also ran for touchdowns with Weselius, Glenn and Jason Young contributing two-point conversions to the score. Shane Buffkin also had several fine runs for the Pelham offense.

Kyle Buffkin led the defense in an outstanding effort which allowed no first downs and no score.

Players of note include Kyle Buffkin, Shane Buffkin, Drew DeHaven, Bryan Dial, Jason Downs, Kevin Evans, Colin Glenn, Daryl Glaze, Preston Hill, Aaron Johnson, Timmy Lawson, Chris Lee, Cory McKern, Brandon McNeely, Eric Reardon, Wes Sisson, Kurt Weselius, and Jason Young.

UM takes second golf tourney

The University of Montevallo golf team has captured its second consecutive tournament title, in less than a week.

Winning the Nashboro Village

Collegiate Classic in Nashville, the Falcons put together rounds of 292 and 296 for a 588 total.

For the third tournament in a row a Montevallo golfer took medalist honors when sophomore Don Hancock carded rounds of 68-73-141. Joining Hancock on the All-Tournament team were sophomore Mike Craw and senior Brian Jorgensen.

Panther youths roll to victory

The 95 pound Pelham Panthers, undefeated in regular season play since October 1980, were shocked when Fultondale returned the opening kickoff to take an early 6-0 lead.

However...that was the only time Fultondale would lead as the Panthers took the ensuing kickoff and drove for the score to lead 8-6. The Panthers took a 20-6 lead into halftime and added 24 more the second half to win their homecoming 44-12.

George Golliday lead Pelham scorers on the day with 82 yards rushing and three touchdowns. Jimmy Hicks quarterbacked the Panther win hitting on five of six passes for 98 yards and two touchdowns, one of 12 yards to Golliday and one of 38 yards to Brian Chambers.

Chambers also added another touchdown on a 21 yard run. David Sanders, Jimmy Hicks, Scott Busby and Robbie McCary added the extra points as the Panthers finished the day with 290 total yards.

The turning point of the game was the opening of the second half. After an 11 yard jaunt by Hicks, Golliday broke for a hard earned 34 yard touchdown run.

On the kickoff, the Panther defense got even for the opening play of the game and scored their own touchdown.

After Chris Caldwell and John Paul Church jarred the ball loose on a crushing tackle, Scott Busby picked up the fumble and returned it 35 yards for the TD.

Coach Gant praised the blocking of his offensive line - Sean Lee, Jimbo Doyle, Chris Caldwell, Wade Evans, Domonic Baldone, and Deric Shroyer - as a contributing factor to his teams 44 points.

Defensively the Panthers remained tough, platooning a host of players. J.D. Charlton, Brandon Callahan, Jeff Sciascia, Mike Jeffers and Todd Miller put on a good pass rush which lead to 1 interception by Golladay. Coach Fant also mentioned the continued hard play and big defensive plays by Chris Caldwell, Robbie McCary, Scott Busby, Brian Chambers, Wade Evans, Deric Shroyer, Domonic Baldone, Eric Horton, David Sanders, Slade Holladay and John Fant as reasons for the Panthers successful season.

The Panthers still not fully healthy were without the services of Nathan Ingram this game. Pelham travels to Sumiton next weekend.

The Panthers demonstrated why they were defending Super Bowl champions two weeks ago by spoiling Adamsville's homecoming 28-0.

Bulldogs down Winterboro Bears 40-12

darker in more ways than one. The opposition let the ball get away at its own 35. Four plays later Blackwell scored on a one-yard plunge. The PAT was good and Montevallo led 28-0.

Montevallo continued to dominate in the second quarter, even with substitute quarterback Ricky Gaddis at the helm.

Prentice set up a TD push by sacking the Winterboro quarterback at his own 44 yard line. Four plays later Worthy scored on a 25-yard run.

Gilliam called the run the best of the night, partly because of the fact that Worthy -- who was met head-up at the line -- broke five tackles to reach the endzone.

Even with the PAT by Paul Bush going wide, the 'Dogs led 34-0.

Winterboro pushed to the Montevallo ten yard line in the closing moments of the half. But Bulldog Dwayne Jackson stopped any would-be threat with a sack good for an 18-yard loss.

Playing reserves is not unusual for Gilliam and he was delighted when he got to put his "Jet-X" squad in the game.

The Jet-X squad drove 56 yards in four plays with Ricky Gaddis at quarterback. Antonio Devold got eight yards and Rodney Tolbert ripped for 14, then nine. Devold finally scored from five yards out to make it 40-0.

Winterboro scored twice on substitute defenders in the fourth period to make it a 40-12 final. Jeff Merritt broke an 89-yard option for one score and Chris Gaddis scored from two yards out.

If B.B. Comer is looking for any mental let down on the part of Montevallo, it might have to look real hard. Friday night not only marks the final area game for the Bulldogs but it's their homecoming to boot...

For the record, last year Montevallo beat Winterboro 28-7.

Three county schools rate 'superior' at THS marching band festival

by Bert Seaman

Weather conditions were perfect Saturday for the Fifth Annual Central Alabama Marching Band Festival at Thompson High School.

That and the increase in the number of bands participating probably accounted for the record turn-out of spectators.

Consequently, the festival raised more money than ever before. THS band director Elson Hood told the Reporter that the event grossed $11,000.

Although the Marching Southern Sounds performed for the crowd Saturday -- along with 19 other high school bands from throughout the state -- they were not judged on their performance.

Three of the Shelby County bands participating in the event were awarded superior ratings. They were: Montevallo High School, Shelby County High School and Chelsea.

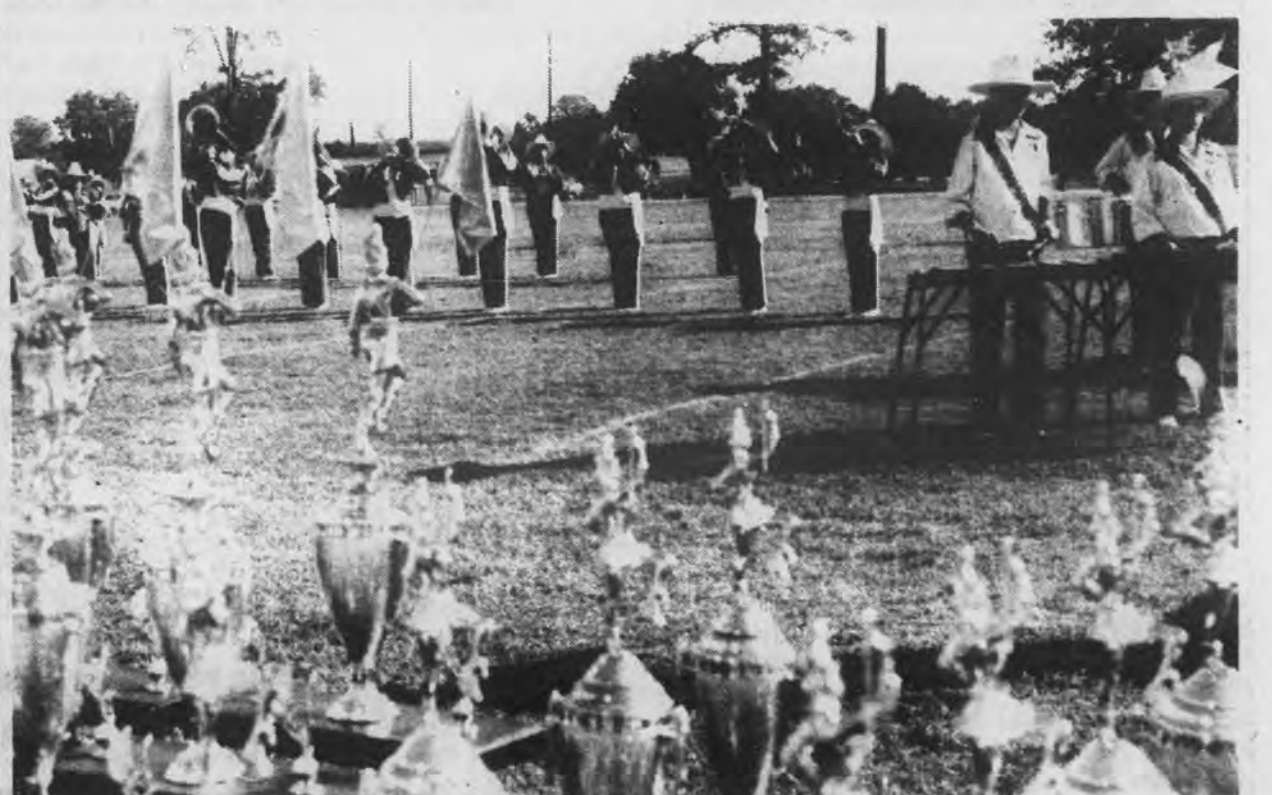

The Calera High School band and Shelby Academy's band both received excellent ratings.

In the class A division (schools with enrollments of 900 and above) Minor was rated as the top band.

In class B (600-899) judges awarded Midfield the trophy; in class C (300-599) it was Pell City; in D (up to 299) Oak Grove was the winner.

Monster run coming

If you think you've got it in you to run with the wind -- or at least with a "gorilla" -- be at the Inverness Center, Saturday, October 29.

Two events -- a 10K race and a one-mile 'Monster Run' will be held as part of the United Way fund raising campaign. (More on the monsters in a moment...)

This year's Shelby County campaign is being chaired by Jerry DesRoche, vice president of Combustion Engineering, Inc.'s environmental division.

The 10K-race will begin at 8 a.m. and will follow a course through Inverness Center off US 280. Mile splits will be called and traffic control will be provided by the Shelby County Sheriff's Department.

Trophies will be awarded to the top three male and females in age groups 14 and under, 15-19, 20-24, 25-29, 30-34, 35-39, 40-44, 45-49, 50-54, 55-59 and 60 and over.

Aid stations will be provided at the start/finish area and the 5K-mark if you need them.

Prizes and trophies will also be awarded to the top three male and female runners over-all. The first 50 finishers will receive visors.

A corporate team division will also be allowed for businesses, school groups, youth organizations or churches which run five to six racers of which at least one is female.

The 'Monster Mile' begins at 10 a.m. and parents are encouraged to bring their toddlers, pre-schoolers and older children in costume to walk, run, jog, skip or skate the one mile course.

All finishers will receive ribbons, and a special yellow tee shirt with the Monster Gorilla on front will be provided for all participants.

Leading the races will be a costume gorilla and following will be a slow-poke Halloween horse.

To make the event even more fun, drawings will be held for donated prizes. In addition, following the 10K-event will be awards for the best costumes in several categories.

Anyone interested in participating in these events should fill out an entry form and mail to TopOff Run, C/O Combustion Engineering, Inc., P.O. Box 43030, Birmingham, AL 35243. For additional information call 967-9100.

Aggies survive Wildcats' fight

by Fred Guarino

With 8:17 left in the third quarter the Sylacauga Aggies pulled ahead of Shelby County 26-18. But, a little freshman by the name of Ambrose Wood was determined to make things different for SCHS.

At 5'9" and 140 pounds, #22 awaited the ensuing Aggie kick while anxious Wildcat fans looked on.

The little man, who outweighed his smallest teammate by only five pounds, was known for game breaking runs. In fact, Wood returned two kick offs for 117 yards and one touchdown against Pell City the week before.

The Aggie kicker booted the ball. Wood took it in at his five and started to run.

He ran past the Aggie defense. He didn't stop... not until he'd flown into the endzone to score.

After ripping 95 yards, SCHS was within two points of powerhouse Sylacauga. Moments later quarterback Kenneth Jones hit Kevin Jones with a game tying two-point conversion pass.

Aggie fans were stunned. Was this really the same 4-3 SCHS club which lost to Montevallo, Chilton County and Thompson? It was... and the Wildcats were playing one heck of a game. They had actually led 18-0 in the second quarter.

Shelby County went on to lose this one by a single TD -- 33-26 -- but Ricky Seale, the team, and Shelby County fans alike shouldn't be crying.

"We've not got a thing to lose and all in the world to gain," quarterback Jones said of his team's approach to the game. And that's exactly the way they played, too: wide open.

Shelby County took the opening kick and for 12 plays and 69 yards, pounded the Aggies on runs by Wood, Curtis Sherman, Pat Wallace, and Johnny Garrett. Wood completed things by scoring from one yard out. The PAT missed, but SCHS led 6-0.

The Wildcat defense also played heads up ball and Gerry Lewis stopped an early Aggie push with an outstanding interception.

With first down at the Sylacauga 46, Wood ripped 21 yards. Quarterback Jones kept for two yards and then passed 15 yards to Gerald Lawson at the Aggie eight yard line.

Sherman and Wood moved to the Aggie five before holding and ineligible receiver penalties set Shelby County back to second and 32.

Undaunted, the Wildcats reached for their bag of tricks. Quarterback Jones hit Jeff Denny who then lobbed an aerial beauty to Lawson for a 33-yard Wildcat TD strike. A two-point try failed but SCHS led 12-0 in the second period.

But that didn't satisfy Shelby County. An Aggie fumble was picked up by Sherman for a 39-yard defensive score. Again the two-point try failed but Shelby County led 18-0.

However, unbeknownst to SCHS, the tide was about to turn quickly in favor of Sylacauga. The Aggies struck on a 24-yard pass to Jason Mann which made it an 18-6 ballgame.

A penalty play gave the Wildcats a break on a would-be 57-yard Aggie TD late in the second quarter, but Sylacauga sucked it up and came back a few minutes later to score on a 16-yard pass to Mann and PAT.

The tide would continue to turn on a Wildcat fumble which took Sylacauga's Earnest Gaddis only two plays to convert into six-yard scoring lunge. All too quickly it was a 19-18 Aggie game. Shelby County was content to run out the clock and take the one point half-time deficit.

A third quarter Shelby County fumble put Sylacauga in real command for the first time of the night. Working from the Wildcat 16-yard line it took the Aggies six plays before scoring from the six.

Trailing 26-18, it was time for Shelby County's Wood to do his famous 95-yard thing, time for Kevin Jones to tie the game with the two-point conversion.

But Sylacauga would not be denied... the Aggies followed the Wildcat TD with a ten-play, 51-yard scoring march. Sam Wright went over for the winning points and the PAT added that much salt to the 33-26 loss.

While the win upped Sylacauga to 5-2 on the year and 3-1 in 3A area play, it dropped SCHS to 4-4 over-all and 1-3 in area competition.

Still... "I think we had the best effort we have had all year," said a not too displeased SCHS Coach Seale. "I feel like things are turning around. I thought we had a good effort out of everyone."

The coach noted Jasper Carden with having "a heck of a game" at inside linebacker. He also praised the work of nose guard Jasper English and quarterback Jones.

"I thought Jones showed a lot of poise sitting in the pocket and finding the receivers," Seale said. Jones went six for seven in passing for 57 yards.

For the record, Ambrose Wood rushed for 65 yards and had two kick off returns for 106 yards, for an outstanding total production of 171 yards.

As close as the Wildcats came to avenging last year's 34-7 loss to the Aggies, they must forget Sylacauga and brace for a home stand against Warrior whipping Bibb County this Friday.

Briarwood lets down

Despite generating 133 yards more on offense than Marion Institute did, Briarwood Christian lost its fifth game of the season last Friday night.

As is normally the case when statistics don't reflect the score, big plays and miscues had a telling part in Briarwood's heart-breaking 13-12 loss.

"We had them going back... We let up and let their quarterback run 34 yards," said coach Gary Fleming of a Marion Institute TD which tied the game in the first quarter.

"Their second TD was just one of those things... We let them get outside our ends," he lamented.

Too, the Lions got inside the Marion five twice in the third quarter for what could have been winning drives. But fumbles and a sputtering offense stopped their threats.

The Lions drove 64 yards on their opening possession to take a 6-0 lead. Kenneth Preston hit Jimmy Collier with a two-yard pass for the TD, but the PAT was blocked.

Marion came back on a 60-yard drive of its own, only to see its PAT blocked as well. But even a follow-up 44-yard TD sweep by Craig Collier was not enough for the Lions. Marion returned the favor -- only this time they added a game stealing PAT.

In spite of all this, Fleming was not depressed.

"Craig Collier played a great game offensively, Tommy Stoves ran well and Jim Collier did well as a sophomore replacement for starting quarterback Bobby Welch," he said. "Pat Mercer, our offensive tackle, also did a good job blocking on end sweeps."

Stoves carried 19 times for 96 yards; Craig Collier carried 15 times for 77 yards; and Jimmy Collier went 6-12-1 on the passing game. Welch did not see action because of a sore hip.

The Lions -- who actually outrushed Marion 198 to 114 yards and out passed them 50 yards to one -- must now travel to Reeltown in search of their third win. Last Friday's effort put them at 2-5 on the year.

Cheerleading clinic comes to Columbiana

The Shelby County welterweight football league cheerleading competition will be held in Columbiana this Saturday.

The event will be held at the Shelby County High School football stadium, beginning at 9 a.m. The Birmingham Stallion Fillies will serve as judges.

Cats cheered on

The Shelby County football team might be having a rough time of it on the field but SCHS fans are having a great time in the stands. They enjoy being cheered by the Wildcats Varsity cheerleading squad. Leading the crowd are, center from ground up, Pam Burquez, Kellie Hulsey and Charlotte Ennis. At left center, from ground up, are Tammy Lucas and Duann Vanderslice. At far left is Patti Smiley. At right center, from the ground up, are Diane Washington and Charlon McCombs. At far right is Jennifer Joiner.

Cats' homecoming has it all

Homecoming for the Columbiana Youth Footballers was one to write home about. Not only did the Bobcats (75), Leopards (85) and Cougars (105) win, but homecoming queens were crowned and a parade was held.

Bobcat queen was Carrie Carden, with alternates Kim Nolan and Angela Lyles. Tina Gable was named sweetheart. The Bobcats also won the float competition.

Sha Price was crowned queen and named sweetheart for the Leopards, while Denna Walton and Jennifer Martin were alternates. Cougar queen was Sharon Dupree. Alternates were Tiffany Beane, Janie Loyd, and sweetheart was Beth Dupree.

In football action the Bobcats had to fight from behind to take a 14-6 win over Chelsea.

With backup QB Michael Perkins at the helm, both Chris Gable and Shane Hawkins scored in the last four minutes to steal the thriller. Shannon Jones and Timothy Vanderslice led the defense.

Roger Vanderslice, Kevin Walker, David Stricklin and

Lane Lowery led the Leopard defense in a 16-6 win over Calera. Lowery and Walker scored TD's with Derrick Kelly adding extra points.

The Cougars had a 44-0 field day with Chelsea. In on the scoring spree were Warren Wilson, Perry Perkins, Shawn Gannon, Jeff Windham, Pat Greene and Tommy Harrison. Adding extra points were Brad Rowland, Derek Bryars, Chris Greene and Darryle Lowery.

Derek Williams and Perkins led the defense.

Chelsea finds light in loss never really let up. Maybe a little more confidence...

The first St. Clair TD came when Chelsea saw a punt snap go wild to its own one-yard line. One play later the Hornets were down 6-0. Confidence on the snap might have prevented that...

The second St. Clair TD came when four Hornet tacklers let a St. Clair man get through them for a 45-yard, 12-0 TD romp. Again, if those hits had been more confident...

Taking away those possible mental, or confidence-lacking plays, it really could have been a 0-0 first half instead of a 12-0 ballgame.

The Hornets' continued effort was shown in the third quarter when they roared back an 85-yard kick off return by Mike Gragg, who added his own PAT. That made the score 12-7. There again was a good effort.

But the Hornets suffered a let down, allowing St. Clair to score on a 60-yard run of its own. The PAT put them down 19-7.

But Gragg wasn't finished either and he ran 70 yards on the Hornets' next possession to set up a TD sneak by quarterback Jason Wiggins. That was confidence and good effort that made it 19-13 game.

Until late in the fourth quarter, the Hornets only gave up a field goal that made the score 22-13. That hard-nosed defense, however, finally failed late in the game when St. Clair managed one last tally to take the 29-13 win.

If, like Hulsey thinks, Chelsea did find confidence and good effort against St. Clair, it will need it all at Calera tomorrow night.

That will be a game full of tradition and one which should have an added edge of confidence for the Hornets -- they beat Calera earlier this year in a spring Jamboree on the Eagles' homefield.

Kervin sees good things for Raiders

by Fred Guarino

Ring... "How are you doing coach?" "Fine..." "And the game against Autauga?"

"We lost 32-3." Dewayne Kervin's voice was peppy but I could tell it was going to be one of those hard stories to get. His Shelby Academy Raiders had now dropped their seventh game of the season against only one win.

But was I ever in for a surprise! Kervin wasn't down at all, even considering his team had lost to one it had beaten last year 8-0. Kervin seemed somehow pleased! He noted that his team had played an undefeated squad ranked number one in the state in 2A football this year.

He related how Autauga scored first but that his team came back on a Vince Pickett 30-yard field goal to make it a 7-3 game. He went on to relate how Autauga was only able to take a 14-3 half-time advantage.

Even more to my surprise the coach told me that Autauga never really broke the game open until the Raiders' defensive secondary broke down. Instead of the sob story I had expected, Kervin was almost jubilant.

"I thought we played very well defensively... except for the secondary. We played hard aggressive football for the third game now in a row, and that's a beginning."

But what really took the cake was a prediction of victory from Kevin by the Raiders over next up Warrior Academy at home.

"I think we have a good chance, and I think we are going to win," Kervin said flatly. "We have played well lately and we've had a bunch of young boys gaining confidence at the same time we have been hurt with injury."

He noted that the Raiders had hosted Autauga without two-way end Dennis Attaway and linebackers David Ingram and Rod Weis.

If Kervin is right about his squad, not only Warrior but Southern and Coosa Valley Academy had better look out.

A Roman family reunion was held at Oak Mountain State Park on Oct. 15 with 97 descendants of Luther Roman Sr., Arthur Roman, and Lillian Roman Houston attending.

Family members came from as far away as Miami, Alapaha, Georgia and Meridian, Mississippi.

Eighty-year old Helen Honeycutt, daughter of Luther Roman, was the oldest family member attending; and eighteen-month old Keith Furline was the youngest member there. He is the great-grandson of Otto Roman.

Dot Beasons, director of District IV, was the guest of honor.

Recognition and awards were presented to ten members for their outstanding reading during the year by reading chairman Marguerite Williams.

June Storey, progress club, was elected the Outstanding Club woman and the Pelham Club was elected as the outstanding club of the year.

The group was entertained by a fashion show, displaying the new styles and colors for the coming fall and winter by members in conjunction with a local department store.

Debbie Blackwelder of Pelham entertained those attending with a musical interlude.

New officers were installed. Nina Kent, Siluria Club, conducted.

Officers for the next two years are June Storey, president; Frances Shaw, president elect; and Dot Lucas, secretary and treasurer.

WEATHER THE WORST.

Summer or winter, Gulf keeps your transmission running smooth.

Gulf Automatic Transmission Fluid, Dexron® II, protects and cools during those long hard days on the farm. It also gets the power going fast when you're off to an early start on a frosty morning. Some torque converters and hydraulic systems can use Dexron II as well. We recommend it for the automatic transmissions of all vehicles built by General Motors, Chrysler, American Motors and some late model Ford

Vandiver makes plans for Halloween

Calling all turkeys and goblins to the Vandiver Community Center!

Saturday, Oct. 22 a turkey shoot will be there to benefit the Vandiver Volunteer Fire Department. The blasting starts at 9 a.m. and Thanksgiving birds, hams and bacon will be awarded to those who can hit a little more than the side of a barn.

The following Saturday, Oct. 29, after the smoke from the shoot has cleared, the community center will turn into a haunted house. According to reports it will be full of "ghostly, gruesome, goosebump jitters, goblin goodies, and great fun for everyone..."

The spooks come out at 8 p.m. and last until the last screech is buried.

Family marks grave

Descendants of Revolutionary War soldier James Butler came from several states to see the tombstone recently put at his grave and to participate in a service honoring his memory. Butler is buried in the Jones-Bailey Cemetery on Hwy. 25 south of Alabaster.

Butlers pay homage to ancestor

There were Bakers, Johnsons, Ozleys and Garretts.

And Sunday's gathering at the Camp Branch Community Center and the Jones-Bailey Cemetery also included Butlers, Jones, Rays and Rapes.

The man whose memory the group was commemorating was a common ancestor to all of them — Revolutionary War veteran James Butler, who died in 1841 at the age of 83.

In addition to the descendants who live in Alabama, members of the Butler clan came from Mississippi, Tennessee, Florida, Georgia and Texas to attend the family gathering.

At past reunions, Butler's descendants had decided a marker should be placed at his grave. So they went about raising money, and the granite tombstone that was purchased was unveiled Sunday during a ceremony conducted by Sons of the American Revolution.

Neil Shepherd, state president of the organization, said as far as he knows, this was the first ceremony that has ever been held in the state to commemorate the unveiling of a marker for a Revolutionary War soldier.

"At any rate, this is the first time it has ever been done in Shelby County," he noted.

Among the oldest descendants at the gathering was Dewey Garrett, 79, of Saginaw. He has four lines going back to James Butler. His wife, Ruby Ozley, can trace two lines back to their common ancestor.

At the other end of the age spectrum was three year old L.C. Rape, the youngest Butler descendant at the reunion.

According to a relative, who was trying to keep up with the active youngster, his Butler heritage also comes down through both sides of his family.

A genealogy Madine Butler Evans is working on has so far turned up 5,000 descendants that can be traced back to the Revolutionary War soldier.

When the family decided to honor their forebear at the tombstone unveiling, Dr. Tom Caldwell contacted the SAR and assisted them in planning Sunday's ceremony. Caldwell is on the board of directors of the Shelby County Historical Society and is married to a Butler descendant.

Other SAR officials participating in the ceremony were: Dr. Charles Baker, state chaplain; Gayden Latture, registrar; Commander Richard Wier, president of the Birmingham chapter.

News of activities in Shelby County area churches

A benefit singing for Noah Isbell will be sponsored on October 28, by Pleasant Ridge Baptist Church on Hwy 41.

Rumpelstiltskin comes to Montevallo

County students flock to see live play

by David F. Moore

It looked as if the queen would never guess Rumpelstiltskin's name and the unhappy wood elf would get to take her baby.

As far as guessing goes, no one really knew how the live, Birmingham Children's Theatre production would go over on the stage of a small town movie house, either.

But -- as is the case with most fairy tales -- everyone apparently will live happily ever after:

•The queen finally guessed Rumpel's full name.

•Although he didn't get the baby, Rumpel in turn did learn the secret of happiness.

•And more than 3,100 enthusiastic spectators saw the touring stage presentation during its successful five-day run at Montevallo's 48-year old Strand movie theatre.

The live production was a first of its kind for Shelby County, according to theatre owner Carl Love, but it probably won't be the last.

"The cast said that Shelby County has been the most responsive group on this tour," Love said. "And they had the best time they've ever had while on any tour."

Love noted that the group had just returned from a tour of major cities in Texas, and will soon take Rumpelstiltskin to five other states from New York to Illinois. Previous BCT production have met with wide national success as well.

Love said BCT approached him with the possibility of staging the show here, and he took them up on it.

"They needed a theatre, someplace to put it on, and someone to work with," said the man who provided both. "But no one knew for sure how it would come off in a small house."

Love's theatre seats only about 450 people. Eight shows were booked.

He said the obvious answer as to where to find audiences, was to go to the schools -- which helps explain the enthusiastic audience.

Public and private student groups from Shelby, Bibb and Chilton Counties agreed to Love's matinee school package. A Tuesday night performance for the general public was also arranged.

"I think children and adults should be exposed to all kinds of cultural things -- ballet, theatre, concerts," Love told the Reporter. "These kids today are tomorrow's adults, and unless they know that there's more to it all than TV and movie screens, we lose."

"I think it's a great idea to have some sort of cultural thing like this in Shelby County. Man, I just thought it was great opportunity for all of us."

The children -- and adults -- who saw the show "have been excellent, enthusiastic," said Love.

"The Children's Theatre people felt real great about it," he said. "They will be back. Or we would hope they would, and if there's anyway possible, we'll get them back."

Love said the following schools and organizations sent groups to see the play: Calera Elementary, Elvin Hill Elementary, the Columbiana Center for Exceptional Children, Shelby Elementary (K-6), Shelby Academy, students from UM's Speech and Hearing Center, Thompson Middle, Vincent Elementary, Wilsonville (K-6); Montevallo Brownie Troop 13 and Girl Scout Troop 65, ABC Daycare, Alabaster Day Care, Alabaster Weekday Education, Calera Baptist Kindergarten, First United Methodist Kindergarten of Montevallo, Granny's Tender Loving Care, La Petite, Siluria Baptist Kindergarten, University Baptist Kindergarten, and a group from the Chilton-Shelby Mental Health Center in Calera.

Cast members are: Mark Tubbs, Ray Bist, Bruce Rainer, Susan Johnston, Jean Pierce, Jessie B. McElwain, and Robert Perry as the magical Rumpelstiltskin. The play was adapted for the BCT by Jean Pierce and Betty Pevitt, directed by David Wilborn, and stage manager/tour director was Ted Clark.

Meeting Rumpel and cast

"Show us some more magic!" cried some of the students from Elvin Hill Elementary when they got to meet 'Rumpel' and the cast of Rumpelstiltskin following Thursday morning's showing of the play in Montevallo. Robert Perry, who played the lead role of the elf (left) commented that it was the cast who really experienced the magic, and that the students who traveled from three counties to see the production made up some of the best audiences the touring Children's Theatre has played to. (Photo by David F. Moore)

Poster winners

If Halloween's just around the corner, then so is Helena Elementary's annual Fall Festival. Making the event known to the world (or at least the county) are poster winners Kristi Ammans, Eric Lovelady and Coleen Crotty. (Photo by Bert Seaman)

I ask for your vote on November 8. This is why-

It has been a long time since the general condition of our State has been so poor. It's hard to recall when so much needs to be done by our State Legislature, and yet, so little is being accomplished. Especially for the business climate and education system.

We must put handcuffs on three or four certain 'special interest' groups, and neutralize hand-picked candidates... the ones committed to more of the same.

I am FREE to represent you—the local voter. I am not hand-picked by incumbents for more of the same. I know that business and education must work in concert to improve both areas of concern. I am the candidate who has a choice of how to vote on each issue that comes before the Legislature.

I have studied and worked all of my life for the purpose of serving my family and community. I am experienced, ready, and free to work for you. The Legislature is where I will do the most good. With your support, I will be there... free to work effectively for us all.

I have much at stake, too!

Martha and I have our home in Shelby county with our two children. Michael attends Riverchase Middle School, and Shannon attends Inverness Elementary school. I have a B.S. degree in business from UAB; 20 years with the Bell System as a corporate & project manager; member of Christ Church United Methodist; Bd. of Managers YMCA; active in PTO; a Boy Scout leader; and member—Pelham Chamber of Commerce.

Al Knight deals with the reality of today's needs.

The Business Climate in Alabama needs more than a band-aid.

Our Legislature needs to bring private business into a partnership with State government and work as a "team" to solve mutual problems. Business must be returned to its rightful position of importance if we want to get our people back to work. Al Knight will work hard to accomplish this.

Our Education System needs new priorities.

There's no reason for Alabama to continue being last... unless we continue with more of the same. Al Knight's record stands strong and clear in support of public education. There is no job more important than improving Alabama's education system. Al Knight understands how 'the system' works, and pledges to make quality of education a MAJOR issue.

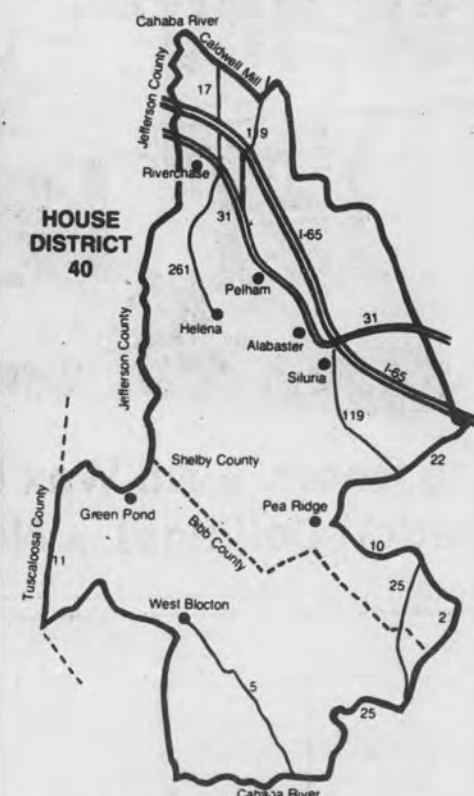

Alabama's Industrial Development Office must be given more freedom.

Although Alabama has the resources to attract industry, we are next to the bottom among Southern states in urban economic growth and rural per capita income. Al Knight will work to strengthen the Alabama Development Office, and promote providing the tools that ADO needs to be more effective.

Our Legislative leaders must insist on integrity prevailing.

Al Knight knows that we must remove the dominance of special interest groups. Al Knight is free to vote his convictions for our District 40, and not fall prey to cronyism and the buddy system in state government. Al Knight stands for integrity among our Legislative leaders—at all times.

Helena readies for Fall Festival

Students at Helena Elementary School put their artistic ability to good use recently making posters for the school's Fall Festival.

The posters were put in store windows to publicize the October 22 event -- the PTO's major fundraising event for the school.

The poster contest was apparently a good thing in more ways than one. Besides making the public aware of the upcoming festival, some of the students reaped some rewards for themselves.

Cash awards for the best posters went to: Coleen Crotty in the K-2 group; Kristi Ammans for grades 3-4 and Eric Lovelady, grade 5-6.

Other winners were: K-2 -- Josh Wood, 2nd place and Jason Maggs, 3rd; grades 3-4 -- Mark Dillahunty, 2nd place and Christi Wood, 3rd; 5-6 -- Sidney Walker, 2nd place and Jodie Stoltzner, 3rd.

Honorable mentions went to: Dion Billings, Eric Fulgham, Mimi Brumfield and Vickie Brooks.

According to Donna Weselius, who is co-chairing the event with Annette Holmes, plenty of good food will be available all during at the Fall Festival, which will take place from 4-8 p.m.

The Fall Festival will also have a story teller to thrill visitors with tales of ghosts and goblins. There will be pony rides, a cake walk, bingo and other games, a sweet shop and a shop with wooden plaques for sale.

Balloons away!

School Lunch: America's Number 1 Energy Source.

Those were the words printed on the 700 balloons that rose from the Montevallo High School football field Friday.

It was an excited group of elementary school students who gathered on the field that afternoon to release the balloons - each one containing the name of a student, teacher or staff person, and the school's name and address.

According to MES Lunchroom Manager Una Boothe, who spearheaded the project, the idea is for whoever finds the balloon to write the person whose name is inside.

The massive balloon release was designed to add emphasis to National School Lunch Week, Boothe explained.

Names were inserted in the balloons by the lunchroom staff over the weekend. On Friday morning they were filled with helium by Mrs. Boothe's husband and the school's maintenance technician, Charles Jones.

Sometime during the week, every school student in the nation is supposed to be served the menu chosen for the nationwide observance, Boothe reported. The menu featured this year has a computer aged angle to it -- Power Source Burgers made from 100% pure beef, Printout Potatoes, Veggie Chips, Apple Bytes and Basic Milk.

For an extra treat, the MES lunchroom staff added a cookie to the meal.

Why is Ed Gentry Running as an Independent?

A lot of people ask me that question. Here are the answers.

In the past, I have supported the Democratic Party and its candidates. I've always felt the people should have a say in deciding who the Democratic candidate will be. I believe a State Representative should represent the people who elect him, not the party who nominates him.

We now have a situation in Alabama where there was no Democratic Primary. The voters of District 40 did not have a chance to choose their Democratic nominee for State Representative. The Democratic candidates were hand picked by the State Democratic Executive Committee, meeting in Birmingham.

I am not abandoning the Democratic Party. The Democratic Party is abandoning me. I am opposed to machine politics where a few political bosses from all over Alabama decide who will represent the people of District 40 as your State Representative. That is why I am running as an independent candidate in the November 8th general election. The voters of District 40 should have a chance to vote for an energetic, hard working, and very much informed State Representative.

In the few weeks ahead, I hope to visit with you to get your views and opinions on all the issues facing our district and state. I want to explain where I stand and why I want to represent the people of District 40 in the House of Representatives.

If you agree the voters should pick their State Representative, then I urge you to join us and vote for Ed Gentry, independent candidate as your State Representative in District 40.

UAB Honors

A dozen area students have been named to the UAB Dean's List for the 1983 summer term.

The honor students are: Stella M. Seagle, Alabaster; David A. Alexander, Byron M. Lane, and Roger A. Simmons, all of Helena; Doris L. Driver, Hazel K. Farmer, and Juanita B. Glaze, all of Leeds; Allen L. Leverett, and Sarah L. Griffin, both of Pelham; Judy A. McConnell, Columbiana; Raymond W. Michels, Montevallo; and Roy E. Grantham, Sterrett.

Dinner time

Don't be late for dinner.

The newly formed Shelby County chapter of the University of Montevallo Alumni Association is holding a dinner meeting tonight (October 20) at 7 p.m., in the Montevallo Room of the UM cafeteria.

The date was inadvertently listed as October 29 in last week's newspaper.

SHS majorettes

The Shelby County High School Majorettes recently received superior ratings at the Mid-South Marching Band Festival in Gadsden. Majorette choreographer is Vickie Dixon. The majorettes are

Miss Westover named by FD

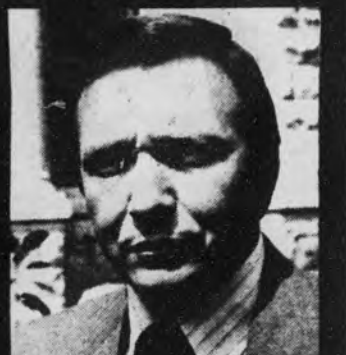

A good time was had by all who attended the Saturday festival at the Westover Fire Department.

Furthermore, the volunteer firefighters collected some much needed cash for operating capital and equipment.

Musical entertainment, clogging and a beauty contest were all part of the day's activities.

Gina Kratz was crowned Miss Westover; Allison McFarline, was named Young Miss Westover; Kristy Sherrall received the judges vote for the title Little Miss Westover and Jessica Robinson was chosen Pee Wee Miss Westover.

Audit charges registrars, Snowden with payments

by David F. Moore

The State of Alabama is charging two current and two former Shelby County officials with overcharging the county $8,330. The charges stem from an audit of the Shelby County Commission's accounting books for the fiscal years of 1979-80 and 1980-81.

The state's examiners of public accounts made the audit public Friday, October 21.

According to state examiner S. J. Harris, III, former Chairman of the Board of Registrars Doris Turner, former registrar S. M. Mahan, and current registrar J. T. Spates accepted over the two year period a total of $8,330 in expense allowances which were paid to them without legal authority, for either undocumented work days, or days they did not work.

The audit also names Shelby County Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden as being jointly liable for $6,945 of the total.

"I didn't get any money," Snowden told the Reporter, saying he is involved only as head of the commission who "more or less signed the checks. Mrs. Turner would turn in stuff (payroll time sheets) and we'd just pay it. They're supposed to know the law."

Turner, Mahan and Spates all declined to make public statements to the Reporter.

"It's not too important, anyway," one of the three went on to say after declining comment. "It's just a matter of ignorance on everybody's part. Just let it go and we'll see what we decide about it."

District Attorney Billy Hill, whose office was given the duty of collecting the overcharges, said Monday that he and attorneys for Snowden, Turner, Mahan and Spates were scheduled to meet informally on Wednesday, October 26, to discuss the matter.

"At that time, if we can't come to some arrangement, we'll file suit accordingly (to collect the over payments)," Hill said. "Nobody's made any allegations as to intentional acts to defraud. It seems to be a case of mistaken overpayment."

According to a 1979 Alabama law -- which was pointed out by Spates -- the state pays registrars $20 per day, and "if a legal holiday falls on a day the board is to be in session... the board shall be compensated for such holidays."

The audit deals solely with overpayments by the county, however, and county laws apparently don't carry the clause about holidays.

Local legislation passed in 1971 called for the county to pay registrars an additional $15 per day for expenses. A 1980 local bill, however, set the additional allowance at $10, noting that "...it being the intent and purpose of this act that registrars shall be entitled to receive only one per diem allowance for one day's service."

Snowden said that whatever the reason behind the over payments, "they've probably been going on even prior to some of their (the named registrars') time on the board."

He noted that office workers had much earlier brought to his attention that the registrars were being paid for session days during Christmas when the courthouse office was closed, and that Turner was apparently paid for days she had been in the hospital. Snowden said he brought the matter to

Probation office gets no more funds

County offers money deal to Attention Home

by Fred Guarino

The Shelby County Commission started out on the right foot Monday with the County Youth Attention Home.

But when it came to the Juvenile Probation Office, the commission ended up in a sparring match with probation officers John Miller and Linda Dupree.

Commissioner John Ames said he had been reading reports of the financial plight of the home and wanted to offer them some consideration to show the county's good will.

"I know we did not give them the $10,000 increase requested. In our final county budget we have $67,000 (left to spend). I ask that we place $10,000 of that money up as matching funds."

"Let the municipalities know we are genuinely interested. If the municipalities give zero, we give none. If they give $10,000 we give $10,000."

Commissioner Harold Davenport said he felt the county had the money to do this, and if the action is legal he would support it.

Ames stressed that the $10,000 was not an actual promise of funding, but would only come in the event $10,000 cash was donated by the cities. With that understanding, Leon Archer seconded the motion and it was approved.

John Miller said he appreciated the offer, but... the appreciation was only momentary.

"Speaking for our entire office, we were disappointed that our budget would remain the same," Miller said. "I question your understanding of what goes on in our office."

Miller went on to explain how for four years the probation office stayed within its budget. He reported the use of rubber bands until they rotted, and tearing up of little pieces of paper for scratch pads.

He also hit at the expenses incurred in defense of the requested budget increase as well the necessity of an updated phone system.

"When the Attention Home is full, that should bring out our (probation office) needs," Miller said. "Each time we go outside the county it costs us more. In Jefferson County, detention of a youth costs us $50 a day."

"If you could see the running and hollering you would see the need for an updated phone system," he added.

To boot, Miller reported that he is unpaid for 15 days overtime, and that he cannot afford to take away from his work with "the kids."

"The more we work with the kids, the less trouble they are likely to be as adults, but you can't drain blood out of a turnip. It is a great feeling for us to see a child come into the court system and then turn his life around... please help us," he begged.

Commissioner John Ames was the first to respond and things got unfriendly.

"Dupree requested $125,000; we approved $114,000; she spent only $111,000 last year," he said.

"We saved the county that money and are not being paid back," Dupree retorted.

Davenport jumped in and things began to really boil.

"If you had rotten rubber bands, no one would have denied you. But what you are really hitting at are the raises," he accused. "If we had given you five percent, the state would have matched five percent. I understand that but other county employees are also not getting raises."

"I appreciate your speech but the bottom line is raises," Davenport insisted. "A lot of your budget is based on raises for employees and staff."

Miller objected.

"The point I was trying to make was that we go out of our way to conserve. If I sent requests for all our needs we would be over budget," he responded.

Davenport roared.

"We've got department after department which is very conservative, some are $40,000 under but some are over," he said. "Do you reward those and punish others?"

Davenport pointed out that other em not get raises. He asked how they would if the county had granted raises for probation office.

"The question is do you give some not others?" he finished.

As the probation officers rose to leave, Davenport pointed out, "That didn't happen last

Lane Aero pays $4,100 tab on airport despite foul up with lease agreement

by Fred Guarino

Over the objections of company president Larry Chapman, Lane Aero Company has paid the Shelby County Commission $4,100 for its assumed lease of the county airport.

"I was against it," Chapman told the Reporter because his company has not received the signed lease from the county which was promised in June.

Chapman said that in March his company agreed to a 30-day extension of its old lease so a county airport authority could be set up. He said he approved of the airport authority idea. But by June, he said his company met with the commission because it needed something better than 30 day extensions.

"They said they would consummate the lease and transfer it to the airport authority," Chapman recalled. "As of this time, we have never received a lease."

They why pay?

"Unfortunately, publications (other than the Reporter) came out saying how we were not paying... But they did not cover both sides of the story, that we never received a signed lease promised four months ago," Chapman replied.

"The money was in escrow. We just wanted to make sure we received what we were promised. I was against payment but I was outvoted by my corporation because the matter had gotten out of hand," he said.

Chapman said he had copies of letters sent to Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden saying, "We would play when we got a lease in full."

He pointed out amount "owed" was not $4,100 as reported in another area newspaper, but $4,100.

The money was reluctantly paid last Thursday.

United Way struggles along as campaign reaches last weeks

by Bert Seaman

With six weeks down and two weeks to go in the United Way campaign, Shelby County still has not reached 50% of a $275,000 goal.

However, the picture is expected to take a dramatic turn for the better this week after corporate donations are reported.

Jerry DesRoche, who heads up the Shelby County Division of the campaign, says that in the overall campaign most businesses have made substantial increases in their giving.

He also pointed out that in-house campaigns are being put on this year in businesses where employees have not made contributions in the past.

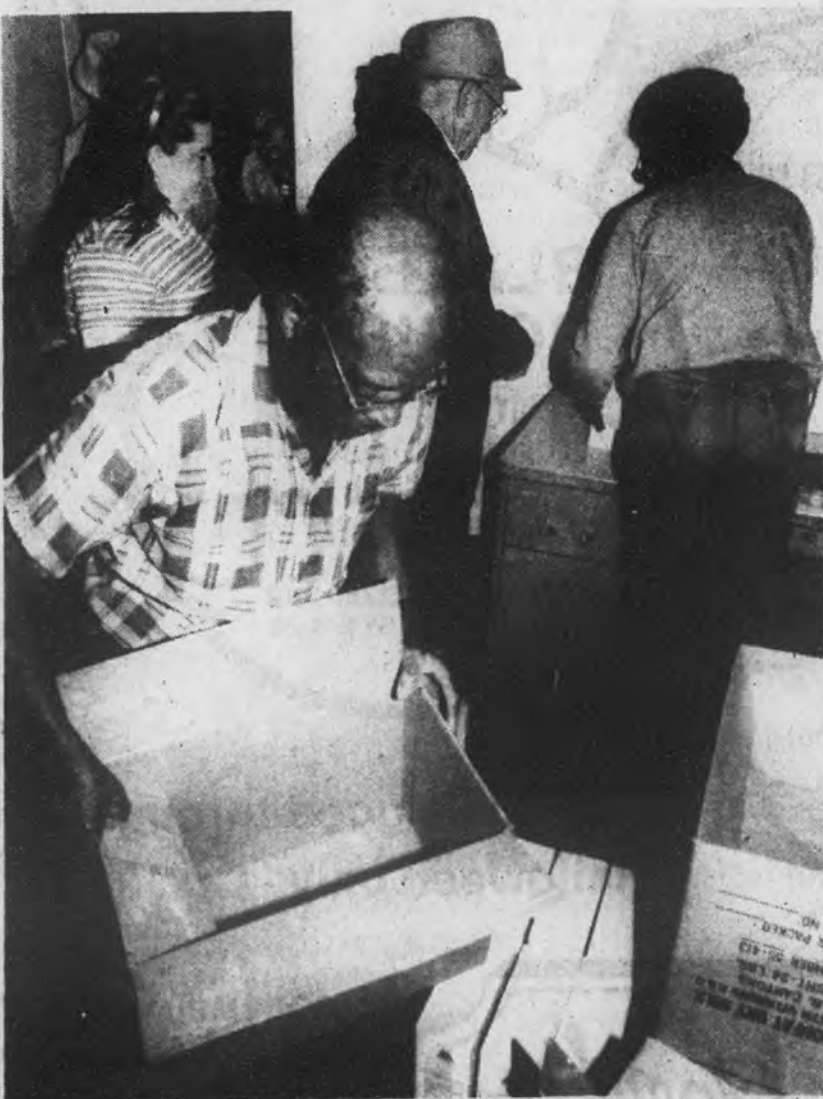

The amount collected in Shelby County through last week was $96,288.

Employee giving increased over last year in the following businesses and institutions in Shelby County: Combustion Engineering Environmental Service, Inverness, 104%; Combustion Engineering, 15.8%; Beck Sales & Mfg., Helena, 43.1%; Specification Rubber, Alabaster, 24.2%.

MMI, Pelham, 49%; Alabama Power Company's Gaston Steam Plant, Wilsonville, 34.7%; Board of Education (giving through schools), 30%.

Employees of K-Mart in Pelham, a new business in the county, gave $4,845 to the campaign, DesRoche said.

Commission acts on slate of issues

No action will be taken by the Shelby County Commission concerning its new airport authority until Monday, November 14.

The commission promised Bill Frank Knowles of Harpersville, who opposes airport expansion, 30 days notice before any authority for such an action is given.

Commissioners restated that promise at their meeting Monday, in the presence of airport authority member Larry Miller.

On a motion by Harold Davenport, the commission has reversed its earlier approval of Burroughs as the low bid for three new computer terminals.

Davenport stated that he had understood that Omega Delta did not have local maintenance when bids were first accepted.

However, since Omega Delta does have local service, they were the low bid instead of Burroughs, he said.

The county commission has a final budget for 1983-84. But that budget is still subject to a $250,000 decision to be made by the Shelby Medical Center hospital board.

If the hospital does not turn over tax money for operation of county health services, the entire budget will have to be revised.

No action was expected by the hospital board during its Tuesday night meeting.

Commission chairman Tommy Snowden said after the meeting that he would set up a meeting between commissioners and a committee of the SMC board which was appointed to consider the matter.

The new humane society building in Columbiana will be officially known as the "Anne Speakman Building."

Upon a motion by Commissioner John Ames, the county commission voted to concur with the recommendation by the society's board of directors.

After a motion by Commissioner Jake Morris, Doris Spires was approved to work until November 3 in the tax collector's office.

The request was made by Tax Collector Annette Skinner who claimed she needs Spires during tax collection time. Spires will be laid off after that date in a cut-back of courthouse personnel.

A request from Tax Assessor Bobbie Reynolds to change the county's gas mileage rate from 20 cents per mile to 22 cents per mile was approved.

The action was taken to keep the rate in line with that paid by the state.

According to the county attorney, however, the new rate does not apply to commissioners in county. They are subject to an old law which limits them to ten cents per mile.

A request from Sheriff Buddy Glasgow to step up the pay of Richard Fox to sergeant level has been thrown back.

Commissioners agreed to inform Glasgow that he can grant the increase only if he will cut his department expenses by an equal amount.

According to administrative assistant Myra Davis, the higher pay step was not included in the county's budget.

Commissioners took no action on a request from Lauderdale County to support passage of the state's new constitution.

The county has completed blasting rock at the old Calera landfill, according to County Engineer Gary Ray.

He also reported that:

•Eleven miles of road on the east side of the county are now ready for new paving work funded by oil windfall money

•The county is now ready to do grading work at Chelsea School

•Signs are in place at Inverness School, road striping has been completed on County 17, and parking lot paving is being completed.

In other highway department related matters, the county commission agreed to accept bids at its next meeting for pipe to be used on County 41, and a resolution was passed commending Billy Eugene Farmer who has retired after 31 years of service.

A representative of Burroughs informed commissioners that a new line adapter will solve problems with probate office computer terminals.

Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden was upset when he was told that there were too many terminals on one line. He pointed out that the county had three lines to link the terminals to.

However, Snowden was informed that only one line was in use because there was no additional adapter. A new adapter reportedly arrived Monday.

Commissioner John Ames wanted it made clear that the county building permit bill, which did not pass the legislature, would not have involved incorporated areas of the county or farms.

"I am fed up with the lies told on this commission," Ames said in reference to statements he said he and Davenport had been hearing.

Ames said that the commission had agreed to a compromise to exempt farms, following a public hearing on the issue. The permits, he said, would have been only for commercial building in unincorporated areas.

The bill was blocked by former commissioner, representative Don Murphy.

Columbiana draws closer to sewers

by Bert Seaman

The city of Columbiana is one step closer to getting started on a sewer improvement project.

A contract to administer a $240,000 grant for renovation and expansion of the city's present system, was signed with the Birmingham Regional Planning Commission at Wednesday night's council meeting.

The BRPC will receive $24,000 for their services and that will come out of the grant.

Since there was some disagreement about which engineer to employ for the project, the council decided to send out bids to six companies. Those bids will be opened November 3.

After years of struggling to get funds for improvements to the sewer system, the city was finally awarded a grant this year through the Community Development Block Grant program.

The total amount of the matching grant is $300,000, which means Columbiana's share is $60,000. The city's share can be in the form of funding or in-kind services such as labor and equipment use.

Although the low bidder will get the city's business on the engineering job, the situation is exactly reversed as far as getting a house removed from city property goes.

The house is on land adjacent to city hall, and the individual submitting the highest bid will get the job. Bids will be opened November 17.

Another sign request was turned down by the council Wednesday. Since it was the second meeting in a row where a decision had to be made about signs, Councilwoman Jessie Jones once again made the point that a policy is needed.

A request for putting up a billboard type sign was refused at the previous meeting. The most recent request was made by two Main Street businesses who wanted to put a portable flashing sign between their stores.

In other business, the council agreed that John Beane, who had asked to hold street services, should be given permission.

The stipulation, however, was made that the preaching be done on Saturday, and only in the parking lot of the courthouse.

Food stamp rules changing this month

Food Stamps distributed in Shelby County in August cost the taxpayers $245,883. But they helped 6,231 people who live in 2,145 of the county's households — representing almost 10 percent of the households in the county.

The rules are changing this month, however, and about 16 percent of Food Stamp recipients will find themselves filling out a report form every month.

According to Gerie Kelley, supervisor of the county program, those with jobs and five people in the household will be required to fill out the monthly reports to remain eligible for the stamps.

Another group will have to recertify every six months. This includes cases where a person in the household has registered for work or applied for unemployment compensation and has fewer than four persons in the household.

The elderly and those with stable incomes will be certified

House seized in Riverchase cocaine case

A Riverchase house and four lots have been seized by US Marshal Thomas Greene in connection with the arrest of a Shelby County man on drug charges.

The house and property were reportedly owned by Jack F. Hoback, who allegedly attempted to convey them to Pamela H. Hoback after his drug arrest.

The seizure took place at 1218 Lake Forest Circle, Friday, October 21. The property was allegedly purchased with money "traceable to unlawful exchanges for controlled substances," U.S. Attorney Frank Donaldson said.

Hoback, 47, was arrested in Arkansas Friday, October 14, after he reportedly landed a plane and delivered a quantity of cocaine to undercover drug agents.

The house property and furnishings will be held under further orders by the court pursuant to a civil forfeiture complaint filed in Birmingham by Donaldson.

Hoback, a Riverchase Country Club board member who was at one time considered for a Shelby County Airport Authority appointment, is being held in jail on a bond of $500,000.

Richard Smith added to the Pioneer Day festivities at Homestead House when he provided a mule drawn wagon in which he gave rides. Smith and local musicians provided entertainment for guests at the annual event which Fay and Richard Porter host each year at their Shelby home.

County books faulted

The just released state audit of the Shelby County Commission -- which covered the 1979-80 and 1980-81 fiscal years -- pointed out several weaknesses in internal accounting controls.

According to the audit:

- The county did not maintain a complete inventory of fixed assets
- Landfill tickets sold to users were not prenumbered
- Payable control accounts were not reconciled at frequent intervals with subsidiary records
- Adequate procedures did not exist for the disposition of old outstanding checks
- Cash receipts were not deposited daily
- There was no policy to indicate which expenditures were to be included in general fixed assets
- Identifying marks were not promptly placed on new equipment
- Adequate records were not maintained for compensatory days earned by county employees.

"The overall effect of the internal control deficiencies listed above constitutes a significant weakness in the county's system of internal control," wrote examiner S.J. Harris, III in his audit cover letter to the Department of Examiners of Public Accounts.

"The Commission's failure to maintain a complete and accurate fixed asset inventory adversely affects its ability to safeguard those assets," he concluded.

Other findings included:

- Transfers between funds were not always reflected in a uniform manner between the funds involved
- Some revenue was posted to the incorrect fiscal year
- Numerous posting errors were found in the general ledger and revenue and appropriation journals
- In some funds the detailed balances of the revenue and appropriation journals did not equal the control balances in the general ledger
- Some funds were not budgeted
- County expense allowances paid to members of the Board of Registrars for session attendances were many times paid in advance
- The registrars consistently scheduled the days they were to meet to coincide with legal holidays when the courthouse was closed.

"We've already corrected most of it when I put Myra (Davis) in charge," said commission chairman Tommy Snowden when questioned Monday about the problems with the county's accounting procedures.

He called the listings "in house bookkeeping problems," and said, "It had already been brought to our attention."

Will lawsuit alter Pelham's zoning?

The city of Pelham reversed a zoning decision in 1982 after a group of developers filed suit.

Now residents who live along Helena Road are afraid history may repeat itself.

A lawsuit was filed earlier this month by a Vestavia man who wants to put townhouses or apartments on 26 acres of land he owns.

The city had voted against the zoning change which would have allowed Steve Russo to develop the land on Helena Road for that purpose.

One property owner whose home is near the proposed development, and who asked not to be named, told the Reporter residents are worried the present suit will have the same effect as the one filed in '81.

At that time, homeowners had objected to land west of old Hwy. 31 being zoned for business.

But after the council voted down the request to rezone several parcels of land, the owners filed suit against the city.

"The next thing we knew," one Helena Road resident reported, "there was a for sale sign up on land owned by Gregory Horn advertising it as commercial property."

That was the first notice area residents who objected to the zoning had that the zoning had been changed.

Court records show that before the case came to court, an agreement was reached between the plaintiffs and the city.

Property owners who filed the suit contended that there was no suitable use for their land under the A-1 zoning.

A similar argument was made by Russo in his suit in which he states that apartments or townhouses would be the best use of his land.

However, homeowners living in the vicinity say that drainage problems would worsen, it would put more traffic on the two lane road, and it would lower the value of their property.

When the Reporter contacted Pelham Mayor Burk Dunaway, he said that it was his opinion the present case would go to court.

Residents who opposed the rezoning say they plan to be in the courtroom when the case is heard.

SMC names new staff chief

Dr. Stacy J. Childs, a member of the Shelby Medical Center staff since 1977, has been elected president and chief of staff of the Alabaster hospital.

An associate of Alabama Urologists, Childs has written and presented several papers on his specialty both in the United States and abroad.

His most recent paper was given at the Third Mediterranean Congress of Chemotherapy in Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia in September. The subject was "Intravenous Comparison of Aztreonam and Cefamandol in the Treatment of Serious Urinary Tract Infections."

Childs also traveled to Florence, Italy in July to present a paper at the Twelfth International Congress on Chemotherapy.

A native Texan, Childs received his bachelor's degree from Tulane University and his doctor of medicine degree from Louisiana State University Medical Center in New Orleans. He completed his internship in surgery at Caraway Methodist Medical Center as well as his residency in surgery and urology.

Among his professional affiliations are the Shelby County Medical Society, AMA, American Urological Assoc. and American Fertility Society.

Childs is also a Fellow of both the American and International College of Surgeons, and is a member of the American Society for Microbiology and the Royal Society of Medicine.

Other medical staff officers at SMC are Dr. Thomas Nolen, who is serving a second term as vice president, and Dr. William Wilcox, newly elected secretary-treasurer.

Registrars, Snowden charged attention of the state auditors.

The audit shows that the commission, through Snowden, overpaid $6,945 in "expense allowance paid without legal authority" to Turner, Spates, and Mahan.

It shows Snowden and Turner are jointly liable for $2,115 in improper payments; Snowden and Spates jointly liable for $2,550; and Snowden and Mahan jointly liable for $2,280.

Snowden's total liability is $6,945.

In addition to joint liability, the registrars are being held directly responsible for further charges.

Turner is listed as receiving $410 in expenses for days not worked, and $405 in expenses "for which documentation does not indicate that days were worked," and is charged with $815.

Spates and Mahan are charged with receiving payments, without documented justification, of $270 and $300, respectively.

The direct and joint charges add up to $8,330, and were all improperly charged to and paid from the county's general fund.

All four parties appeared in Montgomery on August 10 before chief examiner Ronald L. Jones. After the hearing Jones wrote that he "is of the opinion that the officials have failed to show just cause why the charges should not be paid."

Earlier this month Turner and Mahan were replaced in the registrars' office by the present registrar chairman Vestula Thompson, and registrar Marti Dillard.

Editorial comment

No big deal?

It worries us whenever the public's business is not handled properly. Such is the case revealed by the state audit showing that the Board of Registrars overcharged county taxpayers $8,330.

What makes it even worse is that one of the registrars -- elaborating on a "no comment" without asking to go off the record -- said that entire matter, in effect, is no big deal.

Was it no big deal that an unauthorized voter voted in the recent Beat 13 zoning election?

Was it no big deal about the mix up in the Calera beat last year over who should vote in which box?

Was it no big deal two years ago when a number of voters who had already reidentified were purged from the voters list?

No big deal? We disagree. We think voting is of the utmost importance, and everybody connected with it -- as well as handling our tax money -- has a serious responsibility.

With this in mind we hope to see Vestula Thompson and Marti Dillard make some needed improvements in the Board of Registrars.

Letters to the editor

Registrars, candidates should know

Letter to the Editor:

In connection with the coming election, two problems exist in Beat 12 which one hopes will be correctly handled by the responsible parties.

Particularly in Box 1, there will be two legislative Districts involved, namely 40 and 41. It is essential that the registrars have some means of determining in advance which voters reside in which

District. In the recent zoning election in Beat 13, failure on the part of the registrars to deal with a similar problem came close to creating a major problem.

The other matter deals with signs. Beat 12, outside of the Pelham City limits, is subject to zoning regulations. Article XIX of the regulations specifies the limited instances in which signs can be erected in the affected areas of the Beat. Signs on telephone poles are prohibited. There does not appear to be any permission to erect wooden billboards advocating candidacy on any individual.

Already, there are signs on telephone poles and billboards. These signs sponsor officials who are already endowed, or candidates that hope to be endowed with a responsibility for knowing our laws and regulations. This writer hopes that they will take steps to correct the efforts by overzealous campaign workers and remove their signs and make sure the proper authorities see to it that other political aspirants also follow the current regulations adopted for the District. It is disturbing to feel that legislative candidates are unfamiliar with the law, but it would be more disturbing to feel that they knowingly flaunt it.

Very truly yours,

Lebanon: win or leave

Open letter to Honorable Richard Shelby,
House of Representatives

Never has the United States won a defensive war. We lost the defensive battle in the Pacific and the European theatre in the early 1940's. We lost the defensive struggle in Korea in the early 1950's. Only when the U.S. went on the offensive were those struggles won. In Viet Nam, the U.S. never went on the offensive and subsequently the war was lost. Now we are in Lebanon and according to President Reagan, fighting another defensive battle in another quote strategic area. What are we doing there? That area is no more strategic than an ant hill in Southern Argentina.

If we must fight, let's fight to win. IF NOT, BRING OUR TROOPS HOME.

Yours in Protest,

Thompson thanked for donation

Open letter to
Thompson High School:

Shelby Youth Services and Attention Home would like to extend our thanks and appreciation for your kindness and generosity toward these children and these programs. The collection of food for "Can the Tigers" week has helped these programs more than you will ever know. We have estimated that this donation will save these programs over $500 this year. This is one of the largest donations we have ever received. Your support and dedication to these children and these programs will long be remembered and we thank you from each of us here.

It is seldom that others take on the initiative to help these programs and your donation and your desire to help is appreciated more than you will ever know. Thompson High School is very close to us and we feel very fortunate to be able to send the children of the Attention Home to such a fine and outstanding school. Through the years we have seen many of our children graduate from Thompson and go on to lead very productive lives and we feel that Thompson's atmosphere and high degree of expertise in the area of children contributed greatly to these children's success in life. We thank you for your love and kindness and for thinking of us.

Congratulations on your win!!! It looks like the possibility for 3 A Champs may be in the cards for you again this year.

Sincerely,

Helena thanked by CF

Letter to the Editor:

The Alabama Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation would like to express its deep appreciation to Grover Jackson and the citizens and children of Helena for their participation in the bike-a-thon held on October 1st which raised $546.59.

Geneticists estimate that one in twenty Americans is an unknowing and symptomless carrier of the CF gene. Cystic Fibrosis, the number one genetic killer of children and young adults in the United States, is a disease that attacks the lungs and digestive system.

At present, there is no cure or control for this tragic disease, but a tremendous amount of research is being done in Alabama and across the nation in search of the cause and eventual cure of CF.

It is with deep appreciation that we extend our thanks to the citizens of your community for helping to buy time for the many children and young adults who suffer from CF.

With deepest appreciation,
D.V. Williams
Alabama Chapter President

Sunday openings are convenient

Letter to the Editor:

I have watched with increasing anger as some preachers try to close all stores on Sunday. I notice no women are asking for these closings, and if any do, they will not likely be women who have to work outside the home. So many women go outside the home to work these days, and they must shop either at night, which can be dangerous for them, or weekends.

These preachers seem to have no idea, or sympathy for, what it is like to work all day, come home and cook, clean, wash clothes, get kids ready for bed and for school the next day. Somehow, time must be found for shopping for groceries, clothing, gifts, etc., (are they trying to close grocery stores?). In there somewhere must fit in dental and doctor appointments, school meetings and, hopefully, some recreation as well as church. Do they possibly think shopping is FUN? Therefore should not be allowed on Sunday.

One preacher said on TV (I have listened to him on Sunday TV and concluded he is a chauvinist and out to make a NAME for himself) he said: "These stores are just open on Sunday 'in pursuit of the Almighty dollar.'" Of course they are. Competition is keen for that dollar, many firms fold and even more people are out of work. But, the Sunday openings are certainly a help to thousands of pushed-for-time shoppers.

Besides, don't those same preachers get paid in "Almighty dollars" for their Sunday "work", and aren't we asked to spend money there? So call it donations, he wants to get paid--his family wants to eat and shop (during weekdays). Besides, think of all the good it does for those people who, despite oftentimes dull and boring preachers, feel that showing up in church and donating some Almighty dollars assures them of the Promised Land.

Most women will agree that the male is the sex that has been able to NOT work on Sunday. Even that has changed and many men now have lawns to mow, things to fix around the house, and, yes, need to do a bit of shopping on Sunday. Times are long gone when we could afford to hire someone to do many chores for us during the week. If we, the ordinary working people, want stores closed, we will speak up, meanwhile, preachers should stick to THEIR Sunday "business".

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member of the FDIC.

She had said there would be the Busbys and the Alexanders and the Milsteads and the Burnetts and the Fausts and the Stonesyphers -- a family reunion. And it was. Maybe as fine a family reunion as I have been to. And I have been to quite a few.

The food was something to write home about and the laughter was almost knee deep and if you were there and didn't have a good time -- then you just shouldn't have been there.

We went all the way back to 1926, remembering. Boy! How we did remember. I could have stayed all day, swapping memories, but I had other places to go, and time, anyway you figure it, is always like a bird flying.

We decided to recall some of the things about Calera and surrounding territory of fifty years ago. And this is what we came up with:

Howard Alexander: "The graveled main street."

Florence Milstead: "A good place to live."

Louila Denham: "Newala school days."

Don Milstead: "Rance Pilgreen."

Odell Milstead: "Selling sandwiches at Rail Road."

Delores Alexander: "The pipes froze in November."

Theresa Melson: "It snowed the day we moved here."

Isloe Faust: "Hitching Post back of Holcombe's store."

Lloyd Busby: "Bulkey's Bakery across R.R. from Hotel."

John Burnett: "July 4th barbecue at old cement plant."

Mary T. Milstead: Honeymoon on Cheaha Mountain."

Gordon Busby: "Carl Edward's store on corner."

Billy Alexander: "Old L&N Station."

Lucy Burnett: "I like it so much just bury me here."

Cecil Killingsworth: "People's Hotel and drug store."

Peggy Sagan: "Rode train from Mobile to visit Alexanders."

Julia Marcus: "P. Baer's Store."

J. L. Burnett: "The McGibboney Sisters."

Louise Alexander: "Went around world in Air Force and came back here to live."

It was a lovely day and we had a lovely time and when the time comes again I hope they'll remember to invite me.

Scrambled Eggs

by Bert Seaman

When you keep everything it takes to operate on a daily basis in one slightly bulging bag, you're in tough shape if someone steals it.

Well I do keep everything -- from camera to wallet to cosmetics -- in one bag.

Make that did keep. As you've guessed by now, it was stolen. And I am in tough shape!

This could be turned into some kind of dramatic story I guess, since it was a dark rainy night when the dastardly deed was committed.

And who could the villain have been, I wonder, who would be abroad on such a night in a nice neighborhood, with nothing better to do than pick on a poor hapless reporter?

Did I hear someone say careless?

I don't think I've mentioned it, but my "carry-all" was lifted from my car which was parked in a driveway on a dead end street.

Would someone have been watching as I leapt out of the car, trying to get a raincoat out of the back seat and over my head before I got drenched?

And did they think that a person in such a hurry might have left their car unlocked?

Could be. Or maybe someone just saw a bunch of cars parked at this house -- since a number of us were attending a meeting there -- and they thought they'd just come look.

It's so frustrating to think that I almost always lock my car. But being late, and trying not to get wet, I guess I slipped up.

And another thing that irritates the stew out of me -- I always take my glasses and my wallet with me when I go to this particular meeting. But as fate would have it, not this time.

Although it's bad enough to have to borrow a camera and flash until I can replace mine, that can be taken care of. But I can't borrow a pair of glasses or a driver's license or credit cards.

But those things too can eventually be replaced.

What can't be replaced however are the pictures of my children and grandchildren that were in that bag. If only that old thief could have left those behind... But obviously, thieves don't think about their victims' feelings or they wouldn't be thieves.

The new bag I now carry -- which is really an old one I dug out of a closet -- has only the bare essentials in it!

I have really learned my lesson. From now on my mottoes are 'Less is Best' and 'LOCK THAT DOOR -- come rain, sleet or snow!'

The Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

State Rep. Alvin Holmes of Montgomery has been called a lot of different names by a lot of different people, some complimentary, some not so. But all sides agree on one thing -- he is predictable.

No sooner had Congress given final approval a few days ago of a resolution proclaiming the third Monday in January a national holiday honoring Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., was the Montgomery lawmaker demanding that Alabama adopt that holiday as well.

But he didn't stop there. By a strange coincidence the state of Alabama already observes a holiday on the third Monday in January -- Robert E. Lee's Birthday.

The thought of Alabamians jointly observing the birthdays of the Confederate general and the civil rights leader was more than Holmes could stand.

He has proposed in a measure he has pre-filed for legislative consideration next year the establishment of a "Holiday for the Confederacy" to be observed in June, which would combine three existing such holidays -- Lee's birthday, Jefferson Davis' birthday, and Confederate Memorial Day.

In announcing his plan to combine three Confederate holidays into one and add the King holiday, Rep. Holmes didn't miss the opportunity to put Gov. Wallace on the spot.

"I have asked the governor to support this bill," Holmes said. "For him not to will be a betrayal of the blacks in this state."

Holmes also reminded the governor that without the black vote in 1982 he might well have lost the election. "When the governor needed the black people, they supported him," he added. "and now the black people need him to support them."

When Wallace has been quizzed by newsmen on the issue, he has bobbed and weaved like the old boxer he once was, and has "no comment" himself as far from the fray as he could. You sort of get the idea Wallace wishes he had remained in the Far East a couple of more weeks.

Odds and ends -- The law passed by the Legislature on drunk driving made it pretty clear, but Atty. Gen. Charles Graddick has underscored it. In an advisory opinion, Graddick has emphasized that the new drunk driving law is retroactive. What this means is that if a driver has had a previous conviction from drunk driving during the past five years, if convicted a second time the first conviction will be taken into consideration. Punishment is substantially harsher for the second and subsequent convictions....

What a difference a few months makes. During the 1983 regular session of the Legislature, Lt. Gov. Bill Baxley used all the muscle he had to force a proposed new State Constitution through the Legislature. But with opposition to that document increasing daily...with more mistakes being found in the proposal...Baxley has suddenly gone into a shell. In fact, it is difficult to find anyone who is supporting the constitution that is expected to be on the ballot November 8.

How big?

People find it a bit hard to believe. But if Mark Tombrello tells you he has 14-foot tall tomato plants, the Alabaster man is telling you truth. Even people at the extension office got a charge out these. How did he do it? He dug three-foot holes, placed three foot plants in them, dumped in about 20 fish heads per plant, then stood back. The earth started trembling... (Photo by David F. Moore)

Cash gifts make life normal

by Bert Seaman

Every graduating senior wants a high school ring. But rings cost $180 at the time Tim Tracy (not his real name) finished school. Since he was living in a foster home, the cost presented a real problem.

In that instance, the fund set up at the Department of Pensions and Security in Columbiana saved the day.

However, the donations which make up this fund don't come in often enough to take care of all the needs of the elderly, families on low income, and children in foster care.

Around Christmas time, people are generous, points out DPS worker Rene Williams. But for the rest of the year, she says, money is hard to come by.

Speaking about the youngsters in foster care, Williams explained that "we want to make life as normal for them as possible."

In order to do that, money is needed to enable them to participate in such activities as Scouts and band, if they want to. And then there are birthday and Christmas gifts for the foster parents to buy too.

For these reasons, DPS is seeking donations in the form of cash so it can purchase exactly what is needed.

If anyone has an item they would like to contribute, Williams said that it would be welcome. She explained, however, that DPS does not have the storage space to keep large appliances such as washing machines, refrigerators or stoves.

She also made the point that any appliance must be in working condition since there is no money for repairs.

One of the things many elderly women like to have, according to Williams, is scraps of material to use for quilting.

Other items she mentioned that low income families could use are: cooking utensils, dishes, silverware, sheets, towels, disposable diapers, paper products such as toilet tissue, kleenex and paper towels.

Other items she listed are: store bought canned goods, soap, shampoo (especially those for lice, such as pharmacists would recommend), toothpaste and deodorant.

The department is also called upon from time to time to supply such items as sheepskins and adult diapers.

All gifts are tax deductible.

Anyone wishing to make a donation or who wants further information may call 669-3111 and ask for Rene Williams or Jeanette Niven.

The mailing address at DPS is Post Office Box 1096, Columbiana, AL, 35051.

Fleas bug county

Fleas and ants have accounted for the majority of telephone calls this summer to the county Extension office.

Agent John E. Jones says people all over Shelby county have been bothered by fleas in their homes, and the problem has been bad for the past two years. Even people without indoor pets are finding fleas infiltrating their homes, he said. Jones says he believes, but cannot prove, that fleas may be building up resistance to the sprays and poisons that have been used against them.

Ants of all kinds, not only the hated fire ants, compete with fleas in the number of requests the Extension office receives for help in eradication.

The office routinely dispenses advice and booklets on a wide variety of subjects.

With 24-0 homecoming rout

Montevallo makes clean sweep of area

The Montevallo Bulldogs could have afforded a loss to B.B. Comer last Friday night and still won their 2A area title.

But lose an area game? Especially on homecoming night? No Bulldog football player would have been caught dead harboring the thought.

"What's the use (in going to the state) if we can't even beat a regular team," said big tackle Lonnie Layton.

Layton said his comments probably reflected the thoughts of his teammates and he must have been right. The 'Dogs shut out B.B. Comer 24-0 to complete a sweep of area competitors.

Their other victims were Chelsea, Jemison, Vincent and Winterboro.

Not only did the Montevallo starters take the game with their now 1-7 opponents seriously, but so did the reserves. Coach Richard Gilliam played 46 players for the first time ever, in five separate combination teams.

The coach threw his Go-X team (first string), his Go-Y team (first alternates), his Jet team (first line reserves), his Ready team (mix of substitute and skill players) and, his White team (all fifth stringers) into the fight.

"One thing I like about this group is even when the competition is not that good, they still play sharp," Gilliam said.

'Sharp' is something of an understatement.

Jeff Chism rushed 18 times for 122 yards, Barry Worthy rushed four times for 48 yards and quarterback Taylor Blackwell rushed nine times for 44 yards. All of this came on the way to a total team rushing production of 287 yards by the five combination squads.

But the aforementioned guys are supposed to run well... They always do. However, for homecoming they got additional support from bulldozer Keith Moore who added 26 yards on four carries, Antonio Devould added 35 yards on four carries and Sean Roberts added 21 yards on two carries.

Montevallo even had a good night passing.

Bulldog air balls -- mostly from Blackwell -- went for a total of 89 yards. Yet one of the aeriels came from trickster Terry Rutledge's halfback surprise.

To prove there was no taking Comer lightly, all of Montevallo's scoring came in the first half of play with reserves keeping the shutout intact.

Montevallo wasted little time proving it was up for a game. MHS scored just five plays after taking the opening kick when Jeff Chism capped a 63-yard drive with a 20-yard TD romp.

While the 'Dogs let their PAT attempt go berserk, they took a 6-0 lead with 10:41 showing on the first period scoreboard clock.

B.B. Comer hardly caught its breath before the Bulldog option

Montevallo's Taylor Blackwell (10) runs the option against B. B. Comer, trailed by a very capable and willing Jeff Chism (30) who would like to take the ball off his hands. The play worked well as the Bulldogs went on to beat B. B. Comer 24-0. (Photo by Fred Guarino)

'Dogs scored again. Anthony Prentice recovered a Comer fumble at the visitors' 36. On the first play after the fumble, Rutledge hit Andy Chism with a halfback TD pass.

Old reliable Jeff Chism came through for the two-point conversion and Montevallo led 14-0 -- and this just 30 seconds after their first touchdown.

The 'Dogs were relentless and scored again early in the second period. This time Montevallo drove 62 yards in ten plays, capped by a Jeff Chism 21-yard run.

The touchdown was set up with the help of Jeff Gentry, Worthy and Blackwell sharing running duties. Paul Bush added the PAT and Montevallo led 21-0.

The Bulldogs completed the scoring spree with 4:28 left in the second quarter. This time it was a nine-play, 72-yard drive, capped by the first Montevallo field goal since 1978.

Blackwell ran and passed to Andy Chism to keep the Comer defense confused. Jeff Chism also ran. Then it was Paul Bush's turn to kick the 26-yard field goal.

What was possibly the icing on the cake was a blocked punt later in the game by big Rick Dobson. The crowd cheered and Dobson smiled as he came away with a beautiful black eye for his efforts.

"I don't know if it was the football or their guy's foot," Dobson later said of his newly gained black badge of courage.

Now 7-1 on the season, Montevallo will face 2A West Blocton on the road Friday night, but it's not an area encounter. Still, as always, Gilliam did not let the win over Comer get cold before he started getting his team "sharp" for their next meeting.

"West Blocton is the closest thing you'll find to state playoff competition," he warned.

Whether or not Montevallo can get its homecoming out of mind so quickly, only time will tell. But the boys appear to be on a strong roll.

Aggies boot Thompson from playoff scene

"We just didn't play well. We didn't seem ready. When we started, it was too late -- Sylacauga had something to do with that."

The disappointed words were those of Thompson football coach Douglas Wheeler, and they came after the Warriors lost their second game of the season -- and with it their outside chance to reach the state playoffs.

The villains were the now 6-2 Sylacauga Aggies who literally kicked the Warriors out of the race with the 16-13 loss. The game was played last Friday in hostile territory across the Coosa River.

"That puts us out of the area," Wheeler said. "It gives it (the area title) to Sylacauga, if they beat Pelham..."

With a defeat over Pelham, Sylacauga would apparently win the area because it has already whipped the only other area contender, Bibb County. Bibb County was the only other team to beat Thompson.

Sylacauga Coach Bruce Evans agrees with Wheeler's interpretation of the situation.

Sylacauga's only area loss came against Chilton County. If Pelham pulls an upset, the decision will still logically go to the Aggies because they beat Bibb in head to head competition. So much for future history...

But how did Sylacauga kick Thompson out of the race? With a telling 22-yard field goal by Ernest Gaddis, that's how. The kick gave Sylacauga an early three-point lead which would prove to be the game-winning margin.

Thompson bounced back to take the lead on an eight-yard Luvell Bivins' run and a Scottie Hawkins PAT.

But the Aggies fought back to score on a one-yard Gaddis run. The PAT failed and Sylacauga settled for a 9-7 lead.

The Aggies came back later to score on a pass from Sam Wright to Sid Tankersley to make it 16-7.

The best Thompson could manage after that was a four-yard Bivins' TD run and missed PAT to come up short 16-13.

Now 7-2 on the season Thompson will host Vincent this Friday night for what could be a very physical game of pride.

Panthers edge Yellow Jackets in wild double overtime game

The scoreboard twinkled 14-14 at the end of a four-quarter battle between the 2A Vincent Yellow Jackets and the 3A Pelham Panthers.

But with overtime decisions now mandatory in high school football, the tie was not good enough to salvage some sort of homecoming consolation for the Vincent crowd.

So the game went into overtime. After five periods of play, however, the scoreboard still signaled a tie -- this time at an undecisive 21-21.

Vincent chose to go on defense to start the second overtime -- the sixth period of football. Panther quarterback Ricky Hayes then proceeded to hit Jim Gorman with an eight-yard TD strike. Gary Howard added the PAT and it was Pelham 28, Vincent 21.

With Pelham on defense, Vincent quarterback Eddie Reynolds scored on a sneak. But then, rather than go for one, a tie and more overtime, Vincent played to win -- or, rather, gave it a go.

But Robert Pouge was stopped on a would-be winning two-point conversion at the Panther half-yard line. Pelham's defense held on to spoil Vincent's homecoming 28-27.

All's fair in love, war and sometimes football, and in 1982 Vincent spoiled Pelham's homecoming 7-0. Last Friday night Pelham returned the favor.

"It was a good ballgame. We played well," said Vincent Coach Harold Garrett. "Our only real area of concern was a lot of penalties. Major distance penalties."

Penalties -- 90 yards of them -- might well have spelled defeat for the Yellow Jackets, but there was no mistaking that 2-7 Vincent won the respect of now 3-6 Pelham.

"I had been telling them all week that Vincent had some fine athletes, and it would be a dogfight," said Pelham Coach Billy Tohill. "Coach Garrett and his staff did a fine job of coaching their people because they have improved tremendously..."

But while Tohill was willing to heap praise on the Yellow Jackets, he was still proud of his team for winning in overtime.

"We lost our second team tailback Ricky Shiflett. We got limited in what we could do and had to execute what we could do best... run the fullback and throw," Tohill said.

"Bryan Hughes, our flanker, got hurt and it got to be a scramble with personnel. I was just tickled we came back... and our kids just sucked it up and won."

One might say that what Pelham could do, even with the personnel scramble, was good enough. The Panthers stayed almost even with Vincent on rushing, 93 yards to 100 yards. The passing was more than enough, 122 yards to 54 yards.

Tohill went on to say that he knew his team was tired because injuries forced his players to go both ways, but that just made the win sweeter.

"I've been real pleased with our kids' effort. It's been good and as long as effort is kept at a high point, good things are going to happen," Tohill added.

Vincent struck first in what is the longest actual game played in Shelby County this year. (The only contest even close was one rain delayed and played on two separate days by Montevallo and Calera.)

Cedric Riggins intercepted a Hayes' pass and the Yellow Jackets drove 35 yards in the first period. Pouge scored on a nine-yard run and Eddie Reynolds added the PAT to make it 7-0.

But Pelham came back in the second period to score on a 14-yard pass from Hayes to Jackie Johnson. Gary Howard added the extra point and it was tied at 7-7.

As a sign of things to come, that's the way the first half ended, tied.

In the third quarter Vincent went ahead again on Reynolds' quarterback sneak and PAT to make it a 14-7 game.

Disastrous mistakes killed the Vincent defense on Pelham's next drive. Off-sides, roughing the kicker and pass interference calls put Pelham in shape for a Howard run and PAT to tie the game 14-14. Regulation plays ended without change.

In overtime, a coin is tossed to decide who will go on offense or defense. The offensive team is given the ball at the defensive team's ten-yard line. Pelham won the (first) flip and chose defense.

Pouge scored for the Yellow Jackets on a two-yard, third down play. Reynolds added the PAT and Vincent took a promising 21-14 lead.

Pelham followed with a Hayes quarterback sneak and Howard PAT, knotting things up again, this time at 21-21.

In the second overtime Vincent chose defense and Pelham scored on an eight-yard pass from Hayes to Gorman and a Howard PAT. That made it a 28-21 game.

Vincent did not want a third overtime period. Reynolds punched it over on a quarterback sneak and the Yellow Jackets went for two points to end the madness. But the Panthers left Pouge short and the game ended 28-27, Pelham.

Pelham goes to Sylacauga Friday night for an area encounter while Vincent goes to Alabaster to take on the now 7-2 Thompson Warriors.

Calera Eagles de-bug homecoming with swatting of Chelsea

by Mark C. Jones

The Calera Eagles put the finishing touches on a week of homecoming festivities by dismantling Chelsea 35-0 before the year's largest home crowd.

"Everything about this homecoming was just perfect," said Calera head coach Danny Alverson. "The whole community came together and made this a week to remember."

Alverson's team played a major part in the celebration, executing flawlessly on the field and totally dominating the Hornets from start to finish in the Eagles' fifth win of the season.

The Eagles set the tempo for the evening by marching the opening kickoff 76 yards in seven plays to post the game's first points. Mark Jones hooked up with Eddie Smith on a 34-yard pass for the touchdown and Steve Ellison kicked the first of five extra points.

The rout was on. With 3:17 to go in the same quarter Calera scored again on a one-yard plunge by Darryl Griffith. The score came four plays after the Eagles stopped the Hornets short of a first down on a fourth down run at the Chelsea 28. Ellison made it 14-0.

Chelsea received the ensuing kickoff and managed to gain its initial first down before disaster struck. A Jason Wiggins pitch-out to Walt Tatum bounced into the arms of Calera's Bobby Spence, who raced 39 yards for yet another first quarter touchdown.

The Hornets' deepest penetration into Calera territory came in the warning seconds of the first half. They marched from their own 20 to the Calera five, but that was as close as they would come to scoring. An aggressive Eagle defense pushed the Hornets back to the Calera 36 as time ran out in the half.

Alverson told his troops to continue to play aggressively in the second half executing his half-time address. The Eagles responded. Marching 55 yards in eight plays Calera added another touchdown on their first possession of the second half with Griffith again scoring from one yard out.

The TD was set up by a 24-yard run to the five by Mike West. Barry Pickett, Dan Campbell and Russell Crowe delivered the breaking blocks on the drive. Ellison split the uprights again and it was 28-0.

As if the Hornets didn't have enough problems, they fumbled the ensuing kick-off giving the Eagles possession at the Chelsea 29. Scotty Wells made the recovery--his second of the night. From there, Spence zig-zagged 29 yards for the last touchdown with 5:30 left in the third quarter. Ellison made his final appearance for the kick and the Eagles were coasting 35-0.

Interceptions by Edwin Milstead, Jeff Hyde and Scott McLendon halted Chelsea's attempts to score. The Calera reserves preserved the shutout in the fourth quarter.

"Give Calera credit for taking the game to us," said a dejected Gene Hulsey after the game. "We sure didn't take the game to them, this just wasn't one of our better efforts."

This is one of the games you just have to win," said senior Ken LeSueur.

"We want to win them all at home," continued another senior, Edwin Milstead.

"I'm proud we won," remarked a happy Spence who had his best night as an Eagle. "We've improved and we're showing our pride." As for his two touchdown runs, "I had good blocking on both of them and if the guys had not come through like they did, I wouldn't have scored."

The win ups Calera to a 5-3 record and drops Chelsea to 2 and 6.

The Eagles travel to Maplesville Friday and close out the year at home versus Isabella Nov. 4.

The playoffs have, in all likelihood, passed the Eagles by with Verbena's 27-24 victory over Maplesville. The Devils would have to lose two games to let the Eagles back in, and that is unlikely since Verbena's upcoming opponents have a combined record of 2-16.

"I think everybody is dedicated to us finishing out 7-3," said Alverson. "I'm extremely happy to be associated with these boys and I feel very good about our next two games."

Should Calera finish 7-3 it could enjoy some consolation knowing all three losses came at the hands of playoff-bound teams in three different classifications: Bibb County (3A), Montevallo (2A), and Verbena (1A).

Shelby Academy wins

Raiders make Kervin's prediction true

Shelby Academy Coach Dewayne Kervin really knows his Raider football squad.

"I think we have a good chance, and I think we are going to win," the coach predicted in last week's Reporter about his team's upcoming game with Warrior Academy.

Considering that the Raiders had just dropped a 32-3 contest with Autauga for a 1-7 record, it was perhaps a bold prediction. And since the game with winless Warrior last Friday was played before a home crowd, if Kervin had been wrong, whew...

But Kervin wasn't wrong. He was right and the Raiders did beat their visitors 7-6. Doug Barrett rushed seven yards to cap a 65-yard scoring drive. Vince Pickett added the point after and the Raiders relieved Kervin of any crowd eating ordeal.

To be sure, the Raiders did not let Kervin forget his pre-game prediction. In fact they read between the lines of the Reporter and pulled a three win prediction from his comments. Actually, the coach did not predict the outcome for three games -- including one on the road with Southern this Friday night. But he wasn't splitting hairs.

"Anyway you get it, it's a win. We can't be picky about our situation," Kervin laughed. "But I will say this (about the upcoming game), Southern beat Warrior 21-6. If we play well we've got a chance but, we have got to play better than last week."

While Kervin was relieved that Raiders responded to his motiva-tional prognostication, he viewed the Warrior game with somewhat mixed emotions.

"I was hoping we would win by two or three touchdowns," he reflected. "The statistics indicate we could have done that. We gave up only 57 yards and four first downs.... The offense got 200 yards..."

However, Kervin said his team saw one good drive after another fall short on mistakes. One push deep into Warrior territory ended on a fumble. Another was stopped by a holding penalty, another by illegal motion, one by interception and one by a quarterback sack.

"We'd drive and something would happen. We stopped ourselves. We could have scored three times in the first half," he lamented.

In spite of holding Warrior to 57 yards, Kervin was not especially pleased with his defense. Of 20 passes Warrior threw, three hit Raiders in the hands but weren't intercepted, and twice Shelby Academy was called for pass interference.

Two defensive interference penalties set Warrior up for their only score of the night.

Offensively, the coach had good words for Barrett who rushed 13 times for 61 yards and one touchdown. Defensively he noted Pickett's nine tackles which made him a Raider standout for the second straight week.

Shelby Academy is now 2-7 on the year with two games left to play. Last year they beat their 7-6 victim 28-13.

CVA wins at last

It might have been the worst game of the year for Coosa Valley Academy, but that took no joy from Rebels. Last Friday's contest was their first win of the season, too.

"We executed poorly, we blocked and tackled poorly and we played without much intensity," explained head coach Bruce Breland.

He had called the 7-0 home game with Minor Christian, the worst. "But we played good several times and lost. I'd rather play badly and win," he was quick to add.

The victory came in the fourth quarter, squarely on the shoulders of Bret Strickland. The young man scored on a one-yard dive and booted the PAT for the only points the Rebels would need.

Coosa Valley Academy lifted itself to 1-6 on the season by downing a Minor Christian team that had won two games and tied one.

Even though Breland was not especially pleased with his offense or his defense, he still found it easy to pick standouts.

He noted the efforts of sophomore tightend Jeff Martin; junior quarterback Ricky Sprouse, who played hurt; and Jerry Spates, a senior fullback.

The Rebels will end their season on the road with away games at Springwood Friday and Shelby Academy the following week.

Miscues and mishaps curse Wildcat night

Ever had one of those days when nothing goes right?

Shelby County High School had about three hours of football like that last Friday night.

Not only did the Wildcats throw three interceptions and let the football get loose on the ground twice... but their chain gang was even penalized 15 yards!

It all added up to a 32-6 loss before a home crowd, and a dip to the losing side of things with a now 4-5 record.

"It was the darndest thing," said Head Coach Ricky Seale of the chain gang incident. "They accused our chain crew of sending in signals. I wish I'd known. We were behind 26-6 at the time with only four minutes to go in the game."

"I could have understood it if they had been warned or if the other coach had complained," Seale forced a laugh. "But he (the opposing coach) didn't know what was going on..."

The penalty forced Shelby County to find another chain crew when the question of victory had long been settled.

However, penalties and turnovers were not the only problems Shelby County had.

"There were a lot of mistakes," Seale continued. "We seemed confused at times and I thought we lost a lot of poise. We had missed blocking assignments and missed assignments on defense."

But that still wasn't the end of the problems. There was confusion on play calls too. Seale would send in one play and a different play would run.

Added to all of this grief, the Wildcats lost their starting guard Leroy Martin for the remainder of the season. He is thought to have a broken ankle.

The only glory Shelby County would enjoy on the night was a 6-0 lead in the first quarter. Kenneth Jones was cause for the happy moment with a TD pass to Stacy Mitchell. As an indication of the way things would go, however, the PAT was wide.

Bibb County came back to tie the game on its next drive and missed its extra point. But talk about bad luck... Shelby County's next punt was blocked for yet another Bibb County score.

Still, the Wildcats were in the fight through the first half. They trailed only 12-6 with the night still young.

But it didn't stay young long enough. The third quarter brought a pass interception at the Wildcat 20 which set up another Bibb County TD. A two-point conversion made it 20-6.

Then there were two more Bibb County scores and the chain gang thing. It all added up to one royal mess of a football game with the Columbiana boys going down 32-6.

"I hope we can win our next two games," Seale said of his team's future. "It would give us a winning season and it would sure mean a lot."

There is no question a winning season would mean something to Shelby County but the Wildcats face Childersburg on the road Friday night. They will conclude the season with a road trip to Jewson.

For the record, Childersburg is a 3-6 team with potential to put things together any time, according to Seale.

Lions find Reeltown relentless

The Briarwood Christian Lions got a taste of "Reel-ality" last Friday night.

That is they found out what happens when a 2-5 team takes on a 5-2 squad on the road... a 40-7 whipping.

The contest dropped the struggling Lions to 2-6 on the year and lofted Reeltown to 6-2.

"I thought we played a strong first quarter. It was 0-0," said

Briarwood Coach Gary Fleming. "But we went to sleep in the second quarter and they had us 21-0 before we knew it."

Briarwood's lone points came on a Wade Hughes touchdown plunge of three yards and an extra point boot by Brad Blain.

However Coach Fleming is optimistic that his team will go out in style on the road Friday night. The Lions will play their last season contest against Isabella. "We are going to go out and give it a fight," he said.

The Lions will be trying to overcome the fact that they were rushed for 367 yards and passed on for 90 yards by Reeltown for a whopping 457 yards.

Too, the Lions will have to muster more than their 163 yard effort last Friday night.

Young Panthers fight through storm

A driving rainstorm and an 8-6 lead by Sumiton was not enough to deny the 95-pound Pelham Panthers a win last Saturday.

Pelham came back to win 12-8 in a contest fought in the trenches.

Early Panther drives stalled and Sumiton was stopped only through the efforts of Chris Caldwell, Eric Horton, Derick Shroyer, Wade Evans and Robbie McCarty on defense.

Late in the second quarter, Pelham mounted a drive for the only first half touchdown. George Golliday followed the block of Scott Busby for a 6-0 lead. The PAT failed.

Sumiton came back in the fourth quarter to take an 8-6 advantage with six minutes left in the game.

But Pelham enjoyed a bit of luck. On the ensuing kickoff, Brian Chambers found the lane and returned the football 55 yards for a touchdown. Again the PAT failed and Pelham led 12-8. Players of note were David Sanders, John Fant, Slade Holladay, Jimbo Doyle and Domonic Baldone for defense. Offensively proving a winner was Scott Busby.

Also crucial to the win were Sean Lee, Jeff Sciascia, J.D. Charlton, Brandon Callahan, Nathan Ingram, Tod Miller and Mike Jeffers.

The only undefeated team in the AYFL, Pelham will host Central Park next.

Six class system breaks up that old gang of ours

Arch rival football games against Childersburg and Sylacauga High Schools may be important to Shelby County students in the 1984-85 school year....

But, those contests won't carry the same weight as in past seasons when it comes to football championships.

Member schools of the Alabama High School Athletic Association voted 278-94 this year to approve a new six-class size alignment system, replacing the old 4A system.

Thompson, Pelham, Childersburg and Sylacauga all jumped from 3A status in the old four class system, to 5A in the new system, but Thompson and Pelham both moved from Area 6 to Area 9 competition.

That means that area contests which used to include Childersburg and Sylacauga for the Warriors and the Panthers, will now be replaced by Homewood and McAdory.

Childersburg and Sylacauga will find themselves playing Bibb and Chilton Counties for area honors.

Also under the new classification system:

•Calera, Chelsea and Indian Springs (a non football school) will play in Class 2A Area 10.

•Montevallo and Vincent will play in Class 3A, but the Bulldogs will play in Area 5 while the Yellow Jackets will play in Area 7.

•Shelby County High School will play in Class 4A in Area 9.
•Pelham and Thompson will play in Class 5A area 9.

What this means is that there could be as many as five area championship teams in Shelby County in 1984 and 1985 (the only two years the reclassification system has been approved for, so far).

Furthermore, there could actually be four AHSAA state championship teams in the county...

Not listed as Alabama High School Athletic Association Schools are Coosa Valley Academy, Shelby Academy or Briarwood Christian School.

County YFL cheerleaders compete

Chelsea was the only Shelby County youth football cheerleading squad to bring home the gold in a competition held at SCHS Saturday.

The Chelsea cheerleaders took first place in the 105-pound category. Childersburg finished first in the 75-pound and the 85-pound division.

Rounding things out in the 75-pound division were Chelsea, which finished second, and Columbiana which finished third.

Columbiana took second in the 85-pound category, while Columbiana and Childersburg tied for second in the 105-pound division.

Lady Falcons will look for Montevallo support

Two Shelby Countians will have a lot to do with Bud Childers' chances of turning around a losing UM womens basketball program.

The new women's coach will try to reverse a 7-38 record for the past two seasons with the help of Ruth Perkins and Leslie Gaddis, both of Montevallo.

At 6' Perkins will add flexibility in the Lady Falcons' forward position. The guard spot will be headed by 5'6" NAIA All-District 27 performer Gaddis. She averages 8.3 points per game and 5.6 rebounds.

"I feel a .500 season is very attainable," said Childers of his turnaround chances.

Eagle royalty

While the Calera Eagles were routing cross county rival Chelsea, football fans were cheering the crowning of their 1983 homecoming court, last Friday night. The court includes varsity Homecoming Queen Tracy Arrington, Kim Beasley, Renae Matthews, Middle School Homecoming Queen Joy Hayes, Christy Vacaula, Wanda Thornton and Sharon Killingsworth.

Columbiana youths sweep

Columbiana Youth Football players made a clean sweep of things with Calera Saturday.

Columbiana's 75-pounders won 36-14 with Chris Gable scoring three touchdowns and Shawn Harkins and Shawn Goodwin scoring one touchdown each.

Extra points were scored by Hawkins and Goodwin as well.

Having a good defensive night were Shawn Bailey and Adam Lowery.

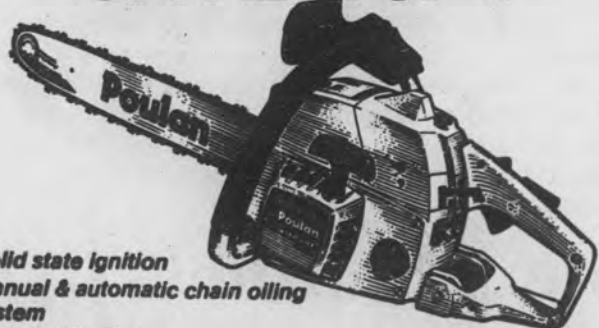

The 85-pounders won 22-0 with the help of TD makers Kevin Walker, Lane Lowery and David Strickland. Derrick Kelly added the extra points.

Mike Curl and Roger Vanderslice made some good defensive plays.

It was the Columbiana 105-pounders winning 16-0 -- after a bad start -- with Derick Bryant and Tommy Harrison scoring the touchdowns. Pot Green added the extra points.

EMS selects new officers

When a new procedure is developed for treating accident victims, an organization known as EMS (Emergency Medical Service) gets the word out to rescue service units.

The group is also responsible for the continuing education of EMT's -- of which there are now 150 in Shelby County.

According to Danny Endress, chairman of the county's EMS group, objectives of the organization also include encouraging communities to establish emergency units, and passing on information on new laws and medical advancements to those units.

"We're also responsible for informing the public about EMS services," Endress continued, "In addition we participate in county, regional, state and national promotion of EMS."

Endress explained that there are two types of memberships in EMS. Any EMT who lives or works in the county may be a member of the advisory council, he said. There is also an executive committee composed of individuals appointed by unit chiefs or ambulance service owners.

The recently elected officers of the Shelby County EMS group include Endress, who is with Pelham Fire Department, vice-chairman Lacey Lowrey of the Montevallo Rescue unit, vice-chairman, and secretary-treasurer Mike Ellis of the Alabaster FD.

Dr. Marshall Boone, emergency medical director at Shelby Medical Center, was elected medical director of the organization.

The EMS group meets at SMC the second Tuesday of the month at 4:30 p.m.

Courthouse quilt exhibit

The Old County Courthouse will be the scene of a special exhibit of quilts, tablecloths, lacework, and other handmade items Nov. 6 from 1 to 4 p.m.

The exhibit is sponsored by the Shelby County Extension Homemakers, and Historical Society, and the Extension Service, and admission is free.

Montevallo majorettes

Head majorette Susan Hardin (2nd from left), leads this year's high stepping twirlers from Montevallo High School as they perform with the band at halftime during Bulldog football games.

Other talent on the majorette squad includes Paula Kimbrell, Rebecca Hicks, Michele Kelly, Michele Creel, and Paula Phillips.

Warrior youths come back

It all started wrong for the youth football Thompson Warriors...

"Speedy" Payton did not make the weigh-in and Thompson couldn't get in the endzone. When the Warriors did score, the PAT was elusive. At the end of the first period, Midfield led 7-6.

But Thompson didn't die. They came back to win 27-7.

Behind the blocking of B. Boutwell, Mike Barefoot, Chad Ingram and Bill Walker, "Big" John Woody ripped through to score.

With the same blocking power, Andy Lackey was able to bull up the middle for needed first downs.

Defensively Bobby Knight, Jason Stonicker and Barry Duke helped keep things going right, finally, for the Warriors.

Thompson is now 5-1 on the year with an eye still looking at a JeffCo Conference Championship.

Exit exam keeps educators anxious

Out of a potential 772 students who were eligible to take the graduation exit examination, only 38 students were absent on one of the three days the exam was given.

Superintendent of Education Ellie Glasscox compared the anxiety of waiting for the scores, to "waiting for your first child."

The examination mandated for the first time this year by the State Board of Education was given to high school juniors Oct. 11, 12, 13.

It tested their ability in reading, math and language.

Scoring will be done by the University of Alabama with the results being reported at the end of November, Glasscox said.

Although everyone is anxious to find out how county students fare, the superintendent said he was confident a high percentage will pass.

"The test results will be a reflection of how well we've been teaching," he observed.

Leader wanted

Two Brownie troops can't meet this year. Neither can a Junior Scout troop.

The girls -- who belonged to the Columbiana, Chelsea and Shelby troops -- can't participate in Scouting this year because they don't have a leader.

Anyone in these communities willing to take a troop is asked to contact Sandy Binkerd, 669-7201 or Cathy Storch at the Girl Scout office, 323-4541.

Chelsea daddies vie for beauty title

One shouldn't expect your basic, everyday beauty pageant when the 'beauties' are a bunch of Chelsea fathers.

Daddies' Beauty Queen Pageant will be part of the fun this Saturday when the Chelsea Youth Club staged a Halloween Carnival at Hargis Retreat on Old 280.

"They're just going to walk out on the stage, try and make a few turns, and that's all," said club worker Shelia Jones. "They wouldn't agree to dress up and do this if they had to answer any questions..."

Ten Chelsea fathers, including several coaches, will be strutting their stuff before the crowd.

A minimal admission to the carnival gets you in the 'beauty' walk for free.

Dads won't be the only ones dressed up, because there will be a Halloween costume contest open to all children. Quacker Jack is also expected to make an appearance.

Carnival fun will also include games such as ring toss and bingo, and a spook house will open for touring. Refreshment will be available.

The carnival and Daddy walk is headed by Treasea Willingham and Denise Alexander. The Chelsea Youth Club helps fund youth football and baseball programs in the community.

...to wed Stephen Shoemaker

Janice Durrett plans to wed

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Durrett of Alabaster announce the engagement of their daughter, Janice, to Stephen M. Shoemaker, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Shoemaker of Birmingham.

The bride-to-be is the granddaughter of Mrs. Annie L. Durrett and the late Charles Durrett of Alabaster, and Mrs. Mabel Thompson and the late Howard Thompson of Siluria.

She is a graduate of the University of Montevallo.

The prospective groom is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Shoemaker, Mrs. Stella Bacon and the late C. C. Bacon, all of Childersburg.

He served four years in the U.S. Navy.

Both are locally employed.

A Dec. 9 wedding is planned.

Fine arts meet in Wilsontonville

The Wilsontonville Fine Arts Club met recently at the home of Kathryn Carey, with eleven members and four visitors present.

The group made a $25 donation to the Shelby County Historical Society to help restore the old courthouse, and two new members were welcomed into the club. They are Martha Cameron and Eunice Wood.

Members enjoyed a craft-making program with each one making a key ring.

The November meeting will be a family dinner at the Wilsontonville City Hall. Each member is asked to bring a canned food item, which will be donated to the Attention Home in Alabaster.

Families participating were Robert & Barbara Huie, George and Jackie Morrison, Larry and Betty Hobert, Hunter and Joanne Lindsay, Ray and Gloria Davis, Herman and Joanne Yarborough, Don and July Morris, and Tom and Mary Ann Park.

The chapter recently held their semi-annual birthday celebration dinner this month at a Birmingham restaurant.

Those celebrating birthdays from the months of July to December in the club were: Joanne Yarborough, Gloria Davis, Ann Rutledge, Gail Bailey, Celeste Cisco and Margaret Jackson.

Epsilon Rho Chapter of Alabaster will be painting faces this Saturday from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. for Saturday night trick-or-treating or party-goers.

The event is a 6-year project of the chapter and they'll be doing their thing again this year on the sidewalk at Alabaster's Wal-Mart Store this Saturday.

A brief note from overseas... I was talking to the sister of Denise Wallace (formerly of Chelsea) last week.

Denise and her husband, Steve, are in Germany doing missionary work at one of the US' military stations.

It seems that Denise has gone to work part-time, but in a recent letter she told loved ones that as soon as she gets off from work she goes home, gets her Bible and her Shelby County Reporter, and goes to the park to read.

Now, I'm not saying there's any comparison whatsoever, BUT... I guess it just goes to show, 'There's no place like home!' Right?

Congratulations to Anthony and Debbie Wolfe of Pea Ridge who are the parents of a new daughter Leslie Ann.

She was born Oct. 18 at Shelby

Medical Center and weighed 10 lbs. 3 oz.

Her brother, Brian, welcomed her home.

Grandparents are Herbert and Sue Wolfe of Pea Ridge and Doyle and Reeve Payne of Montevallo.

Indian Springs Civic Club Ladies Auxiliary will hold their regular monthly meeting on Nov.

1 at 10 a.m. at the home of Linda Forstman.

A brief business meeting will be held, followed by a craft workshop. Tickets will be distributed to members for the annual Christmas House Tour, which is scheduled for Dec. 9, 10 and 11.

A light luncheon will be served also.

For information call 988-0067 or 988-0334.

Halloween remembered

by Iris F. Smitherman

Well it's Halloween again already isn't it?

Moms are trying to satisfy kids by getting the best costume that they can for them, and then reminding them of all the safety rules of trick or treating.

I remember the last time I went trick-or-treating on Halloween. I guess I must have been about 12 or 13 year old, and a girlfriend of mine, Mary Jane Wyatt Emfinger, went with me.

My costume? I was a witch.

(Those of you who know me will probably ask why I've never taken off my costume, right?)

Anyway, Mary and I must have walked all over Pea Ridge that October night in search of the ultimate 'treaters'. We had a great time as I remember, up until the moment I stepped into a sewage line that someone had dug up.

That was my last year for wandering through the dark for candy. I knew there had to be a better way...

Dogwood VFD

raises funds

Hear ye! Hear ye! All ye ghosts and goblins and bargain hunters...

There will be a Halloween Carnival at the Dogwood Community Center this Saturday night beginning at 5:30 p.m.

Scheduled events include a cake walk, fish pond, dart balloons, a spook house, and a Country Store. An Alabama and an Auburn quilt, quilted by the ladies of the community will be given away that night also.

All proceeds will benefit the Dogwood Volunteer Fire Department and will be used to buy equipment and for work on the Community Center, where the firefighters are housed.

MELISSA COST

ADAM COBB

First birthdays

Melissa Cost, daughter of Keny and Debbie Cost of Calera, celebrated her first birthday on October 26 with family and friends.

Grandparents are James and Opal Alverson of Calera, and Mutt and Gladys Cost of Calera.

Great-grandparents are Leo Smitherman of Calera and Minnie Alverson of Calera.

Adam Cobb will celebrate his first birthday on Sunday, October 30.

He is the son of Mark and Lucy Cobb of Calera.

Grandparents of the birthday boy are Rascoe and Mary Cobb, and C.T. and Rene Childers, all of Calera.

Great-grandmother Roberta Ruddy will also be there to help celebrate.

SELECT YOUR SERVICE.

Gulf has the motor oil for the way you work.

Regardless of the service for which your engine was designed, the selection of the right motor oil can keep it working harder longer. That's why Gulf makes three different commercial motor oils to handle the service levels you need most.

Gulf Super Duty Plus is highly recommended for use in mixed fleets and equipment operating under the most demanding conditions. But, for gasoline and diesel-powered engines working under all but the most severe requirements, Gulf Super Duty is an excellent choice. And, for gasoline engines in all situations, or diesel engines in light to moderate-duty service, Gulf XHD Motor Oil offers the right combination of protection and economy.

Calera helps CF

"Cystic Fibrosis is the number one genetic killer of the children and adults of the United States," according to CF chairman Tommy Lawrence of Calera.

"Everyday, every five hours, a child is born with CF, and everyday, every 8 hours, someone dies from CF."

CF is a disease involving the lungs and digestive system, and is often mis-diagnosed, delaying treatment, which can prolong life.

This Saturday, Oct. 29, there will be a fundraising event for Cystic Fibrosis at the Calera Dairy Queen. The Backwood Band will be performing from 2-5 p.m.

Lawrence urges everyone to please give your support.

Suzanne Carder weds William DeVault

Suzanne Carder and William Keith DeVault were married in a 4 p.m. ceremony on Saturday, Oct. 15 at the Wilsonville Baptist Church. Rev. Walt Gaston of Starkville, Miss. officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A.B. Carder of Wilsonville, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William S. DeVault of Clarksdale, Mississippi.

Soloists for the ceremony were Mark Ward and Charles Johnston. Mrs. Samuel McEwen was the organist, and Mr. Johnston also played the piano and the guitar.

The bride wore a gown of white silk organza designed with an embroidered yoke and a high scalloped neckline. The leg-of-mutton sleeves trimmed with lace cuffs featured a tailored bodice, and the skirt was finished at the hemline with lace and extended to form a train. She wore a veil in layers of escalloped illusion cascading from her headpiece.

She carried a silk cascade of white roses accented with yellow baby roses and lilac forget-me-nots, with white lace and ribbon.

Mrs. Georganne Rowe of Chelsea was the matron of honor. Other attendants were Mrs. David Michael Carder (sister-in-law of the bride), and Lela Darlene Crabtree, both of Birmingham, and Mrs. Stephen M. Gior of Corpus Christi, Texas. Katie Liveoak was the flower girl.

The groom's father served as best man. Other Groomsmen were Byron James DeVault (brother of the groom) of Clarksdale, Miss., David Michael Carder (brother of the bride) of Birmingham, and George Johnston Jr. of Atlanta. Kurt Rowe was the ring bearer.

An outdoor reception followed at the home of the bride's parents.

The couple then travelled to south Florida for a honeymoon trip.

Pre-nuptial parties honoring the couple include a luncheon in September hosted by Mrs. George Johnston Sr. and Mrs. A. D. DeVault Jr., aunts of the groom at the Clarksdale Country Club.

The bride was feted with a tea shower on Sept. 18 at the home.

MRS. WILLIAM K. DEVAULT
...the former Suzanne Carder of Mrs. John Ratliff in Clarksdale with Mrs. Charles Davis as co-hostess. Another tea was given for the couple on Sept. 25 at the home of Mrs. Gene Duffey.

On Oct. 1, the bride was honored with a lingerie shower, by Mrs. Georganne Rowe and Mrs. George Brown. Then on the 20th of that month, a bridesmaid dinner was given by Mrs. Don Beavers and Mrs. Samuel McEwen.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at the fellowship hall of the Wilsonville Baptist Church.

Shelby County business news

A piano tuner of world fame and Bert Cutler of Alabaster have teamed up to open a new business in Pelham.

After working for two years rebuilding pianos in the basement of his Alabaster home, Cutler and Graham Anderson of England, are opening Graham Anderson Piano Sales on October 28.

Located just north of the Alabaster City Limits at 3449 Highway 31 South, the new business sells reconditioned pianos as well as new and used guitars.

Anderson worked as a technician and piano tuner for Steinway of England for 20 years before coming to the United States. He was responsible for tuning the pianos of all the celebrities who performed in England, including Elton John, the Beatles and more.

He was brought to the United States by the University of Montevallo, where he is now the piano tuner. He also recently helped UM select a new concert grand that has been called "one of the best piano's in the country."

In addition to the University of Montevallo, Anderson works for the Birmingham Civic Center, Judson College and Huntingdon College.

Cutler says that his only experience has been his work with Anderson in his former basement rebuilding operation. "But it just got so big," he said that the two decided to go into piano sales.

Cutler said that of 13 pianos he and Anderson have coming in for their grand opening, five have already been sold.

With a facility overlooking I-65 on one side and Oak Mountain Drive on the other, Liberty Log Homes of Centreville is creating a new Pelham-based national marketing division.

According to sales manager Tom Zingle, the new marketing division will be called Log Homes of America. It is expected to be in operation within five weeks, with model homes completed by the first of next year.

Zingle explained that Liberty Log Homes is not moving its production facility from Centreville, but is creating the new division because it has become the largest manufacturer of log homes in the south. The company is also eyeing the possibilities of a national marketing headquarters.

Zingle pointed out that the new division will house administrative and sales offices as well as model homes for show.

"Looking at the traffic pattern on I-65, we feel we could not have picked a better place," he said.

The location was chosen as the result of a survey, further explained job superintendent John Foshee.

He reported that the Pelham division will be a 9,000 square foot building which will actually house three model log homes inside. The ground floor will be used for engineering and sales offices with the model homes on top.

"Each will be a separate model combined inside one big house," Foshee said. Two of the model homes will be two stories tall and one will be of single story construction.

The facility will also feature a sewerage disposal system developed in Israel for ground that won't perk (absorb water).

Foshee explained that the system will include field lines with cherry laurel trees planted in the field. The trees will suck up the moisture and transfer it into the air through their leaves. The method, called transpiration, is reportedly the only one of its kind in Alabama.

Joe N. Mosley is president of the company and Dave Crowson is general manager.

"I believe most litter is caused by simple thoughtlessness."

That's what Gulf State Paper Corporation vice president Jon Warner thinks, and to help combat this thoughtlessness, the company has launched an anti-litter campaign in parts of the eight states where it has land holdings and offices.

The company has a district forestry office as well as its Westervelt Land Co. office in Columbiana.

"DON'T LITTER: Pitch it in the pouch," is the campaign slogan, and will be publicized through bumper stickers, posters, litter bags and barrels. These articles will feature a baby kangaroo pitching litter into its mother's pouch, and will be distributed to all Gulf State employees, suppliers, contractors and customers, Warner says.

"The basic focus of our anti-litter program is on our company lands and facilities but we hope the enthusiasm of our employees will carry over into the community as well," Warner said.

Everyone who would like to have some Halloween fun is invited to dress up and join students at La Petite Academy October 28.

The party will be held from 7-9 p.m. at the school, located on Valleydale Road next to Inverness Apartments.

Kirby clan

In addition to having a five-generation family, the Kirbys also have the distinction of each generation being a first son. Eighty-seven year old B.B. Kirby is from Calera; Charlie B. Kirby, 65, and Charles R. Kirby, 42, are from Stockbridge, Ga.; Nicholas C. Kirby, 23, and month-old Nicholas C. Kirby Jr. are Pelham residents.

Horse Club elects leaders

Members of Shelby County 4-H Horse Club are starting the year with a bang!

A trail ride will be held next Saturday at Triple E Farms and anyone interested in joining the club is urged to attend.

A new slate of officers, elected at the Oct. 24 meeting, will be headed by Jessica Ann Eisenberg.

Fellow officers will be Pam Warren, vice-president; Stann Mahan, secretary.

Max Eisenberg, Mary Bowman and Kelly Booth will be junior representatives for the club and Beth Sides and John Smith will act as senior representatives.

For more information on the trail ride and club membership, call Martha Ann Eisenberg, 668-0029 or Grace Page, 663-5538.

for a year and will not have to make the reports.

Another feature of the new rules requires Food Stamp workers to figure stamp allotments retrospectively. This means that the stamps a person receives in December will be based on his needs and income of October.

Kelley said that the new regulations are the result of legislation sponsored by Senator Jesse Helms of North Carolina. It has already gone into effect in Michigan where everyone makes out monthly reports.

Course opens job market door

by Bert Seaman

Sherry Fisher use to work for a construction company shooting dynamite.

When that job played out she found work as a waitress. But the Westover mother discovered that she was unsuited for that type of employment.

Then she heard about a federally funded truck driver training program conducted at the University of Montevallo. The friend who told her about the program had found employment after completing the course.

So Fisher applied.

She is now one of the eight trainees taking the six week course. Funding for the driver classes and other skill training programs is being provided under the Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA).

Although the truck driver program has been going on at the University of Montevallo for four years, it was previously funded through the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) which has been discontinued.

Features of JTPA which distinguish it from the CETA program are:

- Greater authority vested in state governments to run their own programs.

Children warned about goody bags

by Bert Seaman

Ghosts and goblins will be roaming Shelby County neighborhoods in just a few days, looking for Halloween treats. In recent years however, parents have become wary of what those treats may contain.

After hearing about the scare some areas had last Halloween over poisoned candy and apples containing razor blades and needles, one parent brought her child's trick or treat candy to Shelby Medical Center to have it inspected.

However, the parent's fears about the treats proved to be unfounded, reported Head Emergency Room Nurse Charlie Ivey.

But parents are still advised to exercise caution with regard to looking over their children's treats, and also in planning a costume that won't put the child in danger.

SMC will have a 24-hour Medi Alert Hotline again this year which a parent can call if they suspect their child has been poisoned.

The number is 663-8133.

Dr. Phillip K. Bobo, Medical Director of the Alabama Poison Center, says it's a good idea to feed children before they trick or treat. That will make them less likely to snack on what they get in "goody" bags, he explains.

In examining children's treats, the doctor gives the following advice:

- Not to eat candy unless it is in its original wrapper

- Look for holes through which a foreign substance might have been inserted

- Cut fruit in half to make sure it does not contain razor blades or needles

- Bobo also thinks it's a good idea for parents to:

- Limit trick or treating to their own neighborhoods

- Accompany the child

- Leave before dark

- Make sure the child's costume is light colored or has something reflective on it

- See that the costume and masks, beards, and wigs have flame resistant labels.

Other tips for a safe Halloween include reminding children not to run between parked cars, and to go only to homes where outside lights are on indicating that they are welcome.

In order to avoid the dangers involved with trick or treating, some churches, schools and other organizations in Shelby County are holding carnivals and parties featuring refreshments, games and prizes.

- Emphasis on training rather than income support.

- A focus on meeting performance standards.

The program at UM is administered by the University through the Department of Continuing Education, and the Birmingham Area Skills Center.

Displaced workers who want to enroll can apply at the Assessment and Development Center in Pelham where Sylvia Miller is the supervisor.

Miller's office is responsible for selections and referrals. After that, applications are certified by the Employment Service office in Alabaster where Paul Porter is the director.

Porter reported that the demand for truck drivers is high at the present time, adding that he expects the placement rate from the program to be 95% this year.

Several trucking firms have been hiring those who complete the training, Porter said, adding that one firm in particular had hired 90% of the last class.

Criteria for accepting trainees to the truck program include income -- they must be economically disadvantaged; age -- at least 25; and a good driving record. A person is eligible to take the training even if they have only been out of work for only a week.

Although preference is given to Shelby County residents, applicants may live anywhere in the state. If a trainee has to drive more than 50 miles, he or she may live on campus at Ramsey Conference Center at no cost, except for meals.

While they're taking the course, trainees are paid $2 an hour.

During the 7 hours they spend each day at UM, the trainees have both classroom instruction and "hands on" driving experience.

Dr. Ray Mayfield, who heads the University's Continuing Education division, said that three 18-wheeler tractor trailer rigs are leased for use in the program.

He explained that trainees learn how to drive both loaded and unloaded rigs, and are shown how to perform simple maintenance tasks. The classroom work, Mayfield said, involves learning how to keep log books and map reading.

Miller related that 64 people were served by the program during this past fiscal year. She noted with pride that her office had an 87% placement rate from those served last year.

Anyone wishing further information about the program may call Miller at the Assessment Center in Pelham. The number is 664-1471.

CAN WE AFFORD ANOTHER HANDPICKED SPECIAL INTEREST LAWYER LIKE FRANK ELLIS IN THE SENATE?

Frank Ellis is a high ranking official in the already powerful Trial Lawyers Association. Why is it that the Legislature attracts so many lawyers? Perhaps because they will benefit the most from more laws and broader grounds for law suits.

Shelby County Reporter

Before voting

Know thy candidate

by David F. Moore

With general elections less than two weeks away, the average voter seems to yet know little about the candidates and issues.

Therefore, the Shelby County Reporter and two civic groups are offering voters a last couple of opportunities to better prepare themselves when it comes time to pull levers in the voting booths.

On Tuesday, November 1, the North Shelby Jaycees will hold a panel-type forum at 7 p.m. at Pelham City Hall. Candidates from House District 40 and Senate District 14 will be on hand to field questions from a panel of media representatives, as well as questions from the floor.

"We feel like the people of Shelby County need to know as much as possible about these guys," said Jaycee organizer Hoyt Filyaw.

On November 3, in the main news section, the Reporter will publish exclusive, one-on-one interviews with senatorial candidates Frank 'Butch' Ellis and Don Murphy, House District 40 candidates Ed Gentry, Al Knight and John Tanner, and House District 41 hopefuls Jim Entekin and Sonny Moore.

The in-depth interviews will be based on the tape recorded answers given to a list of some 20 questions designed to better inform readers on how these candidates plan to represent the State of Alabama, Shelby County, and you, during the next three important years.

Look for the interviews at news stands across the county, or better yet, in your mailbox if you're a paid subscriber.

Sunday, November 6, a group of "interested voters of Shelby County" will hold a forum for all seven candidates, starting at 2 p.m. at Valley Elementary in

Free food program beefed up; giveaway set for this week

by Bert Seaman

There's good news for individuals who have been receiving commodities through the food distribution program.

Gladys Ross from the Community Affairs office in Columbiana advises those who come to pick up the food this week to "bring a bag."

In addition to the usual cheese, the shipment also includes honey, flour, butter and milk powder.

Part of the commodities distribution was held Monday, and it will continue on Wednesday and Thursday, starting at 8 p.m. both days.

Due to late notification (Wednesday, October 19) about when the shipment would arrive, Ross explained she was not able to get the Monday date in last week's Reporter.

Ross reports that recent changes in USDA guidelines give more leeway as to who's eligible to receive the food.

Eligibility now includes:

• Foodstamp households

• Those currently receiving or applying for unemployment benefits where household income falls below 130% of poverty level income

• Anyone 60 and over and where household income falls below 130% of poverty level.

The 130% of poverty level would mean a monthly income of $527 for a single member household, plus $182 monthly income for each additional household member. For example, the allowable monthly income for a family of five would be $1,255.

Proof of eligibility includes:

• Social security card
• Food stamp authorization slip
• Unemployment record or copy of unemployment check

• Driver's license, medicaid or medicare card.
No one who received food on Monday, will be allowed to receive more on Wednesday or Thursday, she said, but adds that there should be enough to go around.

Honk if you love clowns

Nine-year old Trevor Foskey, apparently a natural born entertainer, decided last week that it would be fun to dress up like a clown, sit out in front of his home on US 31 in Saginaw, and hold up a sign reading 'HONK' to passing motorists. Crystal, his sister, did the make-up job. His parents, Ron and Carol -- not knowing the potential for success -- agreed to pay him a penny per honk. At last count Trevor was a 132 pennies richer, and at least that many motorists were richer for having found something -- though no bigger than a small clown -- to smile about as they hurried down the road. (Photo by David F. Moore)

TMS home art's students earn reputation

Students in the home arts classes at Thompson Middle School are getting a reputation as prize winners. Their most recent triumph came at the Alabama State Fair when the exhibit entered by the school's new FHA chapter won a $400 first prize.

The theme of the exhibit, which took two days to set up, was "Spice of a Diet -- Ethnic Foods."

The idea evolved from the competition earlier in the year which earned a national first place award for TMS student Mandi Weiser.

Co-Ed magazine was the sponsor of that contest based on a blending of the cultures which make up the population of this country and their native dishes.

Before the school year ended in May, a home arts class made up of TMS boys copped a first place $100 award in a contest sponsored by Fleishchman's Yeast.

Their entry was a project they had done working with senior citizens on nutrition.

Students in the TMS home arts classes also won first place awards for exhibits in the county fairs last year and this year.

Home arts teacher Phyllis Horrell said the school was one of five in the Birmingham area asked to submit an exhibit in the state fair.

She explained that the exhibits were judged on educational value, technical detail and ability to attract attention.

Three members of the FHA set up the exhibit at the fair which included a table arrangement and foods representing Italy, Mexico, the Orient and "Soul" food.

Educational values listed for studying the cuisine of another culture were: a way to learn about another culture, including their health and nutrition practices; a way for students to have new tasting experiences; a way for students to try new appliances that make food preparation easier.

There are 116 students taking home arts at TMS this semester.

Something new for her classes this year, Horrell reported, is working with students in physical education classes on a unit on nutrition.

Shelby Elementary School holds Halloween Carnival

The annual Halloween Carnival will be held at Shelby Elementary School Oct. 27 at 7 p.m.

After each grade puts on a program, the crowd will be invited to

FRANK "BUTCH" ELLIS
DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE
STATE SENATE
DISTRICT 14
THIS TIME
IT'S THE PEOPLES TURN

Paid for by Ellis Senate Committee, 2700 Hwy 31 So., Pelham, AL 36124

I ask for your vote on November 8. This is why-

It has been a long time since the general condition of our State has been so poor. It's hard to recall when so much needs to be done by our State Legislature, and yet, so little is being accomplished. Especially for the business climate and education system.

We must put handcuffs on three or four certain 'special interest' groups, and neutralize hand-picked candidates... the ones committed to more of the same.

I am FREE to represent you—the local voter. I am not hand-picked by incumbents for more of the same. I know that business and education must work in concert to improve both areas of concern. I am the candidate who has a choice of how to vote on each issue that comes before the Legislature.

I have studied and worked all of my life for the purpose of serving my family and community. I am experienced, ready, and free to work for you. The Legislature is where I will do the most good. With your support, I will be there... free to work effectively for us all.

I have much at stake, too!

Martha and I have our home in Shelby county with our two children. Michael attends Riverchase Middle School, and Shannon attends Inverness Elementary school.

I have a B.S. degree in business from UAB; 20 years with the Bell System as a corporate & project manager; member of Christ Church United Methodist; Bd. of Managers YMCA; active in PTO; a Boy Scout leader; and member—Pelham Chamber of Commerce.

Al Knight deals with the reality of today's needs.

The Business Climate in Alabama needs more than a band-aid.

Our Legislature needs to bring private business into a partnership with State government and work as a "team" to solve mutual problems. Business must be returned to its rightful position of importance if we want to get our people back to work. Al Knight will work hard to accomplish this.

Our Education System needs new priorities.

There's no reason for Alabama to continue being last... unless we continue with more of the same. Al Knight's record stands strong and clear in support of public education. There is no job more important than improving Alabama's education system. Al Knight understands how the system works, and pledges to make quality of education a MAJOR issue.

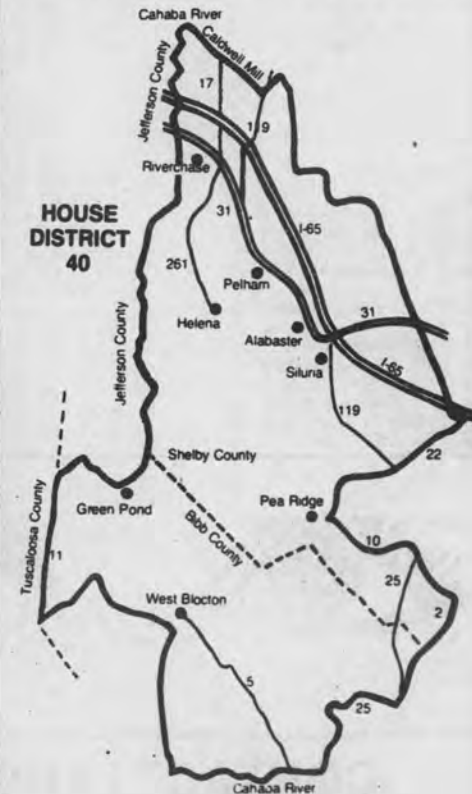

Alabama's Industrial Development Office must be given more freedom.

Although Alabama has the resources to attract industry, we are next to the bottom among Southern states in urban economic growth and rural per capita income. Al Knight will work to strengthen the Alabama Development Office, and promote providing the tools that ADD needs to be more effective.

Our Legislative leaders must insist on integrity prevailing.

Al Knight knows that we must remove the dominance of special interest groups. Al Knight is free to vote his convictions for our District 40, and not fall prey to cronyism and the buddy system in state government. Al Knight stands for integrity among our Legislative leaders—at all times.

We would like for you to know a little about us. First of all, we are a family-owned business which has been serving the Birmingham area for 37 years. Thus, you need not worry about another "temporary" furniture store in this area. We'll be here when you need us. And, we sell quality, name brand furniture at prices you can afford.

We also are quite proud of our flexible credit plans which are available to fit any budget. Add to all of this our courteous service, free delivery, and our desire to assure your complete satisfaction, and we think you'll find Spencer Furniture Company to be the greatest store to come to Shelby County in quite some time.

Please accept this special invitation to visit our new Pelham location. We'll be announcing our Grand Opening Sale soon, but you can come in right now and take advantage of our grand opening prices while our selection is best.

We look forward to seeing you today.

Sincerely,

We look forward to Sincerely,

Steve Spencer
